A past president of St. John's Holy Name Society, a member of the catering committee and chairman of many of its social events, Connell is a member also of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, head usher at St. John's masses, and a member of Archbishop Williams Men's Club. He has been married 28 years to the former Dorothy Donaher, and they have two children, James and Gail.

At the season's first District meeting held at St. John's Rectory Hall, Connell was presented with a plaque by William J. Rizzo, district president, and Rev. Leo Dwyer, South Shore District Chaplain. Commending Connell for his work in the parish were Msgr. Frederick M. Driscoll, pastor, and Mayor James R. McIntyre, representing the City of Quincy.

Right Rev. Robert T. Kickham, spiritual director for the Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies, discussed "The New Image of the Holy Name", and reported on the National Convention in Chicago.

President Rizzo announced a more vigorous campaign in the months ahead in displaying the Holy Name Society emblem to the public.

"We are to become more interested in the welfare of our neighbors with increased love of our neighbors," he said.

He thanked Joseph F. Ciccolo, St. John's Holy Name president, and Msgr. Driscoll, hosts for the meeting.

Trinity Lutheran Church Women To Hear SCORE Students Oct. 13

Trinity Lutheran Church Women will have a program on pollution and ecology presented by SCORE students at their Oct. 13 meeting at the church.

Mrs. Harry Maki will preside at the 7:30 p.m. business meeting.

The program at 8 p.m. is open to the public. Among students speaking and showing slides will be Michael Doukas and Mark Petracca, accompanied by Vincent Moscardelli, assistant principal at Central Junior High School who is in charge of the SCORE program. A discussion will follow.

Recently elected officers of the Women's group headed by Mrs. Maki, president, are Mrs. Harry Majuri, vice president; Mrs. Evelyn Randall, treasurer; and Miss Katherine Leppala, secretary. Mrs. Donald Robinson is program chairman.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Susan Johnson, Mrs. Lynn Maki and Mrs. Ann Ferrissi.

Billy Graham Preacher To Speak At Glad Tidings Church Sunday

Rev. Don Evans of Cardiff, Wales, will conduct special services at Glad Tidings Church, 158 Washington St., Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

A preacher and relay Evangelist for Billy Graham in Wales, he is known as a singer. He will relate a "Dramatic Story of Conversion from Gangsterism", and will paint an oil picture at each service.

On Monday Evangelist Evans will speak at fellowship meetings at 3 and 7:30 p.m. There will be special music, and an evening fellowship dinner at 5 p.m.

At departmental meetings at 6:30 p.m., speakers will be Miss Ruth MacDonald, missionary to Congo; and Rev. David Flower, whose topic will be "How About Your Public Image?"

Rev. Lawrence Pratt Takes Part In Archbishop's Installation

Rev. Lawrence E. Pratt, assistant at St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy, took part yesterday in rites at Holy Cross Cathedral, Boston, at which Archbishop Humberto Sousa Medeiros was installed seventh Ordinary and fourth Archbishop of Boston.

Rev. Pratt was among 13 members of the clergy serving as mitre bearers for the Bishop Concelebrants.

'The Collecting Of Hurts'

Many people are collectors...they collect stamps... coins...old watches...coffee cups...antiques. My wife has antiques in every room in our home and every one has a story behind it. You should see the portraits of "Uncle Dudley" and "Aunt Nel". Many of these collections become more valuable with the passing of time.

Of course there is a kind of collecting of articles which is under the category of neurotic behavior...collecting of kleenex...hair...string... junk in the garage. These are of no value...only show an unrealistic obsession, though perhaps harmless in themselves.

There's a harmful kind of collecting with which I am presently concerned...the collection of hurts...letting discourtesies...critical words...grievances accumulate until they form a ball of hurts so great that you are unable to bear them. When this happens the result can be destructive to a person...and to any relationship.

Now I'm not suggesting that if a man continues to beat his wife a couple of times a week...or if a wife continues to emasculate her husband with no honest effort at correction of this destructive behavior that one should go on and on ignoring and forgetting. Some conditions will not be dealt with until the marriage partner blows the whistle...frankly says..."I'll not live with this any longer."

What I'm talking about is the harbouring of unintentional miscellaneous hurts...rejections...slights...offenses...big and little...which turn into grudges...which come out in hostility or resistance...even after the partner has ceased to do any hurting. I've seen men who just seem to be waiting in expectancy for the wife to hurt them...and wives who seem to have memorized the past hurts so they can recite them fluently. I remember some years ago a young man came to see me with his brief case...he opened his loose leaf notebook and showed me how carefully he had recorded and filed the hurts his wife had given him over the year. His "collection" was so ridiculous that it became apparent that he was even enjoying his "martyrdom"...that he was the really "sick one". But in lesser ways...some people may not be aware that they are recording and filing in their minds and feelings the hurts of the past.

"He didn't come to my mother's funeral"..."He wasn't home when I started labor and a neighbor had to take me to the hospital"...[that's a frequent collected hurt]..."She insulted my best friend"..."She didn't tell me who the calls were from"...all types of hurts...some real...some unreal...but collected through the years like rolling a snowball in wet snow until it gets too big to roll any longer. Then the relationship bogs down...and the counselor hears..."I just don't love him/her any longer."

Learn how to handle hurts. That's part of maturity. Immaturity collects hurts...some never intended to hurt and would have rolled off other people. Try to understand what lies behind what hurt you. It might be your own weakness. You're not a fragile lily...you're an adult man/woman. Distinguish between honest...unintentional blundering of a partner...and chronic and deliberate intent to hurt...but don't collect and store either one.

Talk about it...with the one who hurt you...clear the air..."Your comment at the cocktail party hurt me...I thought it was uncalled for." Don't let the sun go down on a hurt before you try to clear it up. Otherwise...you'll likely let it turn into a grudge which hurts you all the more...and can destroy your relationship. Retaliatory hurts only increase your hurt collection...getting even with a partner in the presence of friends is dirty pool. Talk it out...don't collect hurts.

Most important...learn to forgive. If you don't, your snowball of hurts will become unmanageable. Forgiveness means holding nothing against the other person...the total removal of all resentment. As one couple told me..."We wash our relationship clean of all hurt before we go to sleep every night." That's living in a state of forgiveness...it's really living in a state of love...because love doesn't collect hurts.

Educational Leadership Assembly Proposed By Dr. Creedon

An Educational Leadership Assembly is the first of three recommendations made by Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon as a "next step" for the Quincy public school system.

Dr. Creedon made his suggestions at a recent report meeting of some 90 to 100 members of the school system's Administrative Council held at St. Ann's Youth Center.

The meeting was held there, Dr. Creedon noted, because "due to the over-crowded situation of the Quincy public schools there is no space within our 30 schools wherein a meeting of this size can be held."

The Educational Leadership Assembly proposed by Dr. Creedon would be "extended to all persons within the school system who are in positions of leadership."

In addition to professionals, key leaders in para-professional, custodial, clerical and service groups would be included, plus student, parent and community representation, in the assembly which could number 150 persons.

Purpose of the Assembly would be to provide pertinent information to key people in the "educational community" of Quincy. It would meet three or four times a year, to hear reports on continuing school programs or new programs to be developed.

A second recommendation was the establishment of a Forum on Curriculum Relevance. Here, again, students, teachers and community with top school personnel would be involved. The Forum's purpose will be to hear proposals for curriculum development and make recommendations.

Dr. Creedon's third recommendation was directed to school principals. He asked that each devote "up to one week in personal reflection away from the day-to-day operational demands" to evaluate his role in the light of his five-year goals.

Reports on summer activities were made by Wilfred A Nolan, and Arthur S. Woodward, directors; Reporting on other programs were William L. Phinney, assistant superintendent; Stewart S. Sargent, ES '70 Federal Aid Coordinator; Maurice J. Daly, assistant superintendent in charge of vocational-technical education.

Robert Hamilton, principal of Wollaston School; John W. Walsh, North Quincy High School; Miss Merle C. Sawyer, Massachusetts Fields School; Ellis Swartz, Quincy High School foreign language head; Leon Gould, Montclair School; Charles Bernazzani, Beechwood Knoll School; Daniel Malvesta, Snug Harbor School; Carl Deyeso, coordinator of language arts and social studies.

Kenneth B. Rickson, coordinator of physical education and health; Ivar O. Nelson, director of music education; Thomas F. White, coordinator of mathematics; Walter E. Lunsman, director of arts and humanities; Vincent P. Sullivan, Jr., coordinator of science; Edward M. Smith, supervisor of para-professionals; and Wilfred A. Nolan, coordinator of elementary schools.

Eng Endorsed For State Legion Commander

Department Vice Commander Robert Leo Eng, Quincy native and Past Commander of Quincy Legion Post 95 has been unanimously endorsed by the Norfolk County Council, as a candidate for State Commander for 1971-1972.

The convention will be held at Hotel Statler Hilton, Boston, July 8-10, 1971.

Eng, a 21-year member of the Legion, is Past Norfolk County Commander 1966-67. He is currently serving his third term as a Department Vice Commander, having previously held this office in 1967-68 and 1968-69.

He was unsuccessful in his previous bid for State Commander in 1969, at the Springfield Convention. He then ran for re-election as a State Vice Commander at Hyannis, last June, topping a field of 11 candidates. He finished 52 votes ahead of the runner-up candidate.

Eng has been active for 16 years on the Department Community Service Program and was reappointed state chairman for 1970-71. He has been state chairman each of his terms as a Department Vice Commander and has served nine terms as a vice chairman.

John J. McNally, a past commander of Houghs Neck Post and James D. Flynn of the Robert I. Nickerson Post have been appointed campaign co-ordinators. Many Legionnaires across the state are expected to be serving on Engs' campaign committee.

'Car Of Future' Here Oct. 14

The "car of the future" will be on display in Quincy Square Oct. 14 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The battery-powered electric car called Transit II was co-sponsored by Anderson Products Company and Avis Rent-A-Car as an entry in the 1970 Transcontinental Clean Air Car Race. Concorde Rubber Company of Boston provided the tires, which moved Transit II into third place in the coast-to-coast race.

Norman Forde of Wollaston, vice president of sales for Concorde, considers the car a transportation innovation that maximizes and extends today's race for cleaner, healthier environment.

121 Points In Two Games

Powerhouse Quincy Hosts Everett

Quincy's high-powered football team could be the highest scoring team in the state this fall.

In two games Hank Conroy's Presidents have exploded for 121 points and should add to their total Saturday when they host Everett in their home opener, a 1:30 clash at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Everett was walloped, 20-0, by Newton in a non-league game and topped Somerville, 14-0, last week in its Greater Boston League opener.

Quincy, following a 66-14 parade over Weymouth South, trampled Revere, 55-15, last week as it opened defense of its GBL co-championship. It was the fourth time in the past five games that Quincy went over 50 points. The Presidents whomped North Quincy, 53-0, last Thanksgiving and two games before that romped over Chelsea, 52-22.

"The boys did another terrific job both on offense and defense," Conroy said. "Revere gave us trouble for a while and had an 8-6 lead midway in the first period. We had only a 14-8 lead at the end of the quarter.

"Then we intercepted three passes and recovered two of three Revere fumbles. I used most of my reserves again and they did well. The backs ran well. Steve Sullivan had another fine day at quarterback, the line blocked well and the defense came up with big plays. Again, we didn't try to run up the score but you can't tell the kids not to score when they get the ball."

For the second week in a row Steve McCarthy scored twice, Wayne Richards had two touchdowns, Sullivan passed for two scores and Bobby Sylva, who did the kicking off, kicked three extra points in five tries.

Quincy, which gained more than 400 yards two weeks ago, ground out 432 yards on the ground and added 116 on passes as Sullivan hit on six of nine, for a total of 548 yards gained.

John Provost, outstanding back, injured his leg and missed more than half the game but Conroy hopes he will be back for the Everett game.

On defense Dennis Waters and Sylva were standouts in the line. Bobby Malvesti, Jim Walker and Richards intercepted passes, Walker running his back for a touchdown.

Joe Russo and Charlie McKay recovered Revere fumbles.

McCarthy, who gained 156 yards, gave Quincy an early lead with a 12-yard scoring run. A blocked punt set the stage for the touchdown.

Revere came back on Mike Sokolowski's 18-yard run and a conversion pass from Mario Carnavale to Doug Hittinger for a short-lived 8-6 lead.

Later in the opening period Sullivan scored from the two and passed to end Billy Maver for the points. From that point on it was all Quincy.

In the second period McCarthy raced for 16 yards and his fourth touchdown of the year and also rushed the extra points.

Sullivan passed to standout end Rich Menchi for 25 yards and a touchdown and Sylva kicked the point to make the score 29-8.

A few minutes later Sullivan hit Maver with a 15-yard scoring pass and Sylva's kick made it 36-8 before Revere scored its final touchdown just before the half on a 28-yard pass from Carnavale to Hittinger. Malvesti ran 21 yards to set up Maver's touchdown. At halftime it was Quincy, 36-15.

In the third period Richards broke away for a spectacular 80-yard touchdown run. He, incidentally, picked up 120 yards on seven carries.

In the final quarter Richards went over from the one and Walker made his 30-yard pass interception return for the final touchdown. Sylva's kick finished off the scoring for the afternoon.

Raiders Seek Third Win At Malden

North Quincy's football team, unbeaten after three games, hopes to move the ball better within scoring distance when it plays Malden's defending Greater Boston League co-champions Saturday in a 1:30 game at Malden.

In the Raiders' first three games [two non-league wins and a league tie], they have had little trouble moving the ball but have bogged down deep in opposition territory.

It was the same story last week when Ralph Frazier's team clicked off 17 first downs and controlled the ball most of the game but just pulled out a 14-6 win over Weymouth North.

"We just have to get that ball into the end zone more," Frazier said. "We have moved the ball well all season long but just can't seem to score when we have the chance. We have to score more if we hope to have a winning season."

Frazier expects a busy day Saturday, despite the fact Malden doesn't look as strong as last year and has not impressed in its first two games. The Golden Tornado dropped a 20-6 non-league decision to Waltham, then had to rally to pull out a 13-12 squeaker over Haverhill, also a non-league game.

"All our backs ran well and we held them a couple of times in clutch situations," the Raider coach said. "Tony Kelly, Lee Davis and John Panarelli ran well, Paul Lippens played a fine game at quarterback and Panarelli saved us late in the game when he fell on a Weymouth fumble on our three-yard line.

"Panarelli and Jimmy Sarruda were especially outstanding on defense and Panarelli, a complete ball player, also blocked well".

In the second period Lippens climaxed a long drive by sneaking over from the one and Panarelli rushed for the two points.

North made it 14-0 in the third period when Kelly took a pitchout and score around end from the seven for his third touchdown of the season.

Weymouth North cut the lead to 14-6 in the third quarter on Glenn Carver's two-yard rush and, after recovering a North fumble, drove all the way to the Raiders' three when Panarelli came up with his big fumble recovery.

PRETTY CHEERING section helps North Quincy on to 14-6 win over Weymouth North at Veterans Memorial Stadium Saturday. Undefeated Raiders now have two victories and a tie.

Kings College Continues Soccer Jinx Over ENC

The Eastern Nazarene soccer team, off to its best start, suffered its first loss Saturday after four wins and a tie as Kings College continued its mastery over the Wollaston school, 5-3. ENC has never defeated Kings in soccer.

Steve Shoff scored twice and Rick Meldor one for ENC.

In their previous game the Crusaders had defeated Otis Air Force Base, 5-2, with Shoff, having an outstanding season, again scoring twice.

Meldor, Herb Newell and Doug Sorenson had the other Nazarene scores.

Ladies Tourney Winners

In the Ladies Weekly Tournament at Furnace Brook Golf Club, top scorers for selected holes are announced by Mrs. Anthony Spinello, chairman.

Mrs. Michael Fallon had low gross; Mrs. Patrick Baillie, low net; Mrs. Richard Hoag, second net. Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. Felix O'Connor tied for third net.

Quincy, North Harriers Seek Third Wins

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams will seek their third wins in four Greater Boston League meets today [Thursday] at Medford.

The Presidents' Bobby Ciano, who recently broke the league record, won his third race in a row followed by his sophomore brother Pet.. Quincy's other scorers were Jim Dubois, Paul Wahlberg and Mike Gilcoine.

Bob Gentry's North team suffered its first loss, 21-36, to Revere despite Kevin Henry's 12th successive victory covering two years. Richie Yee placed sixth, Jeff Strungis seventh, Matt Clancy eighth and Dick Malloy 11th.

North Wins, Quincy Loses

The Quincy and North Quincy soccer teams were scored upon for the first time Tuesday but the results were different.

While Quincy dropped a two-overtime 2-1 decision to defending South Shore Association champion Duxbury, North toppled Scituate, 6-1, to remain in a top tie with Duxbury with a 5-0 league record and 6-0 overall.

Today North is home to Plymouth-Carver and Quincy plays at Avon. Tuesday North goes to Norwell and Quincy is home to Hingham. Next Thursday, it will be Quincy at Scituate and North at Sharon.

A year ago Quincy, winner of the league's Division One title, went six overtime periods before losing to Duxbury, the Division Two winner, in the playoff for the league title.

Tuesday Duxbury scored in the third period but Quincy tied it late in the fourth period on Al Lavoie's goal. In the second five-minute overtime period Duxbury scored the winner on a corner kick.

"This was another tremendous game," Quincy Coach Ron Martin said. "Dave D'Olympio was sensational in goal for us with 21 saves, while the Duxbury goalie had 16 saves. There has been very little to choose between our teams in the last two games."

North's unscored-upon record was spoiled by a Scituate penalty kick but the Raiders had little trouble with the Sailors as George Bourikas, having another brilliant season, scored twice as did Tim Flynn, and Tom O'Malley and Vin Cameron scored one each.

Last week Quincy blanked Franklin in a makeup game, 7-0, as Lavoie scored three goals, Harry Meidinas two, Mike Orlando and Bob Wardle one apiece.

Monday North blanked Franklin, 5-0, in a makeup game with Bourikas scoring three, Cameron and Bill Chaggaris one each.

Last week North walloped B. C. High, 6-0, in a non-league game with Cameron scoring three times, Bourikas twice and Flynn once.

Sterling Leads Junior Soccer

Following the first week of competition, Sterling leads the Quincy Junior High Soccer League with a 2-0 record.

On opening day Sterling defeated Broad Meadows, 2-0, as its excellent passing and ball control enabled it to dominate play for most of the game. Tom Laughlin was outstanding in the Broad Meadows goal.

Point controlled play for most of the second half and Stephen Lawler tied the score but in the waning seconds Jim Mulvaney scored to give Atlantic a hard-fought win.

So What Else Is New?

Under the heading of what else is new, Dave Burke's Quincy sophomore football team edged Rockland, 12-6, Monday. Burke's soph teams have lost only once in five years.

"This was the first time we ever played Rockland and they have a good, big team," Burke said.

Bud Bouchard ran back the opening kickoff 70 yards to put Quincy ahead and John Whitney scored the other touchdown from the three.

McKay scored on a roll-out from the 20 and also rushed the points and John Linnehan scored from the two after setting up the score with a long run. The winning touchdown came with only three minutes to play.

Experts On Senior Citizens Needs To Speak At Quincy Forum

George Malloy, Assistant Regional Commissioner on Aging, will be a speaker at the Quincy White House Forum for Senior Citizens Oct. 12 at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Malloy will attend at the request of Elliott Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. He will speak at 1:30 p.m., following a lunch served by the Nutrition Aides of the Community Action Program and the Norfolk County Extension Service.

Frank Manning, chairman of the Legislative Council for Older Americans and Deputy Chairman of the Governor's Special Commission for Elderly Affairs will be the keynote speaker for the morning session at 10:30 a.m.

He will be followed by a panel comprising Dr. Alfred Mahoney, acting Quincy Health Commissioner, Community Service Center Director Keith Rawlins and Social Security Manager Frank Culkins. Questions submitted by the audience will be discussed.

The afternoon panel will be Quincy Housing Authority Director Clement O'Brien, Recreation Director William Ryan and Employment Security Manager Kenneth Vining.

Charles Edgerly, president of the North Quincy Senior Club, will serve as moderator for the discussion periods which will continure until 3 p.m.

The group will prepare recommendations for the 1971 White House Conference on Aging. Door prizes will be awarded and free bus transportation will be provided throughout the city. Advance lunch reservations must be made by calling 471-1730.

Don Knotts May Be First Casualty Of New TV Season

JERRY LEWIS makes his Broadway debut next summer in DAVID BLACK produced musical... BLACK is the same producer who is staging the soon-to-be Broadway premiered "W.C.", which stars MICKEY ROONEY... JACK NICHOLSON's latest effort "FIVE EASY PIECES", is being hailed by reviewers on both sides of the Atlantic as a superlative, cinematic triumph. The film was directed by newcomer BOB RAFELSON, and co-stars KAREN BLACK and SUSAN ANSPACH.. Whatever became of the famed PICKENS SISTERS singing trio?... CHARLOTTE FORD NIARCHOS of the FORD automobile family, is being considered for a big role in a forthcoming 1971 DAVID MERRICK Broadway play... The DON KNOTTS SHOW could be the first casualty of the new television season. It's much too corny for todays more sophisticated audiences... "THE LADY OF MONZA" is fading away into a box-office bust... "JULIUS CAESAR" is scheduled for an Oct. 14th New England premiere at Bostons' ABBEY CINEMA. The production boasts an all-star cast which includes CHARLTON HESTON, SIR JOHN GIELGUD, JASON ROBARDS and RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN amongst others.

LIBERACE lets go with all his culinary secrets in his new book "LIBERACE COOKS". The DOUBLEDAY edition will be on the market sometime before Thanksgiving... Bostons' JERRY VALE recently performed before S.R.O. crowds at the Sands in Las Vegas... HARRY M. MILLER's Australian production of "BOYS IN THE BAND" was given the green light by that countrys' strict censor prone, bluenose Board of Reviewers... CBS-TV has called a production hiatus on its' new series "THE STOREFRONT LAWYERS". The reason? Ratings, what else... The men behind the scenes feel that the first 13 completed episodes delve too strongly with current social issues, rather than just plain criminal cases... The way this column sees it, the executive bigwigs of CBS-TV should let the vehicle function as it presently is without going in for the cops and robbers thing. What television has is all too many violent-prone productions, and not nearly enough series devoted to the present social issues...

With all the publicity "PERFORMANCE" co-star MICK JAGGER is receiving, one is apt to forget that JAMES FOX is also one of this motion pictures' principle actors... Not only that but his "performance" is a great deal better. ALAIN DELON and JEAN-PAUL BELMONDO outdo "BONNIE AND CLYDE" in "BORSALINO"... VANESSA HOWARD is totally wasted in "GIRLY". As a movie it is sheer nonsense. The 1956 Best Supporting Actress of the Year, DOROTHY MALONE, has abandoned acting, and is now devoting all her energies selling real estate in Dallas, Tex... Is MAXIMILIAN SCHELL still making pictures? The versatile German thespian hasn't appeared before the cameras in over two years... SCHELL's last big success was in 1961 when he walked away with the Best Actor Award for his brilliant performance in "JUDGMENT AT NUREMBERG"... Critic REX REED is back reviewing films after being critically roasted for his acting debut in the RAQUEL WELCH starred, "MYRA BRECKINRIDGE"... Columbia's "THE LIBERATION OF L.B. JONES" and "GETTING STRAIGHT" were the only American motion pictures chosen as entrants at the prestige-conscious SORRENTO FILM FESTIVAL in Italy... Could the Italians be trying to tell us something?...

HENRY HATHAWAY directs GREGORY PECK in the latters next outing, "SHOOTOUT". The western is slated to go into production Oct. 12 in the Sante Fe-Los Alamos region... Producer HAL WALLIS is putting the finishing touches on his "RED SKY IN MORNING"... The movie is scheduled for an April, 1971 release. The cigarette commercial ban goes into effect on your local telewaves Jan. 1, 1971... The only disappointing aspect of this "cancellation" is that the commercials themselves were generally far more entertaining than the programs they were sponsoring. Producer VITTORIO DeSICA has a potential smash hit with his latest "SUNFLOWER" now running at the PARIS CINEMA.

Harold To Attend DAV Meeting

State Adjutant Joseph R. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, will be among those at Saturday's meeting of Massachusetts Disabled American Veterans at the State House, Boston.

One of the DAV objectives this year is to encourage display of the American flag on holidays especially on Columbus Day, Monday which in 1971 becomes a National Holiday observed in all 50 states.

SHIPYARD MECHANICS

How Come You're Not With Your Background, At QUINCY?

Because if you've got what it takes to build a space-age ship, we've got what it takes in wages and benefits. We're paying new, top rates -- part of our 5-year "best ever" contract.

And there's more. Benefits like fully paid medical insurance. Benefits like building the ships of the future where you don't have the same, dull, day-in, day-out boredom. Where new problems come up every day...and you'll be expected to help solve them. Improving. Using your head. Making suggestions. [And those suggestions pay off big when they're adopted. Our people cashed in thousands last year!]

You'll be working with the most modern equipment, too. Automatic welding equipment. Modular construction techniques for shipfitting. You'll be at the top of your trade.

Montclair Men's Club Urges MDC Take Golf Course

The Montclair Men's Club voted to reaffirm its stand on maintaining Wollaston Golf Club as open space area at its meeting today.

Under the new zoning proposal, the Planning Department changed the zoning from Residence A to Residence B, which means that apartments could be built on the golf course, said Joseph N. Gildea, Civic Committee Chairman.

The Montclair Men's Club is recommending that the land be taken over as a Metropolitan District Commission Golf Course, he said.

"This would protect the residential aspects of Montclair, and maintain the golf course, which is invaluable," Gildea said. "The people of Montclair are now hemmed in by State Street Bank and Trust Company which has taken over the Montclair marshes, and they are also locked in from Norfolk Downs by the MBTA rapid transit line."

Gildea said he feels that since Commissioner John Sears is looking for a new MDC golf course on the North Shore, the Wollaston Golf Club already in existence could become another MDC course, on the South Shore.

45,889 Eligible To Vote Nov. 3

Some 45,889 Quincy residents will be eligible to vote in the Nov. 3 state election, reports City Clerk John M. Gillis.

This is an increase of 1,978 new voters since the Sept. 15 primary.

A little more than 1,000 of them registered at Saturday's deadline when an all-day registration session was held at City Hall.

The exact breakdown on party registration could not be immediately determined. Those figures may be known later this week, Gillis said.

But at the Sept. 15 primary Quincy's then 43,911 eligible voters included 21,089 Democrats, 13,042 Independents and 9,780 Republicans.

McIntyre Concerned Over Safety At Neponset Bridge

Mayor James R. McIntyre has "great concern" for the safety of motorists crossing the new Neponset Bridge now under construction.

In a communication to MDC Commissioner John W. Sears, McIntyre declared:

"This is to express to you my very great concern relative to the safety of the motoring public crossing the Neponset River Bridge which is presently under construction.

The railings on the bridge are very low, and I have recently read about motor vehicles skidding and going off various bridges around the country. It would appear to me in the interest of the public safety that the MDC, before the ice season starts, would take necessary steps to increase the height and strength of the railings along the bridge in the final stages of construction and during construction.

"I am sure you will agree with me and take immediate action in order that safety could be achieved."

Brett Seeks Handrails For N.Q. Pedestrian Crossover

Handrails and a roof for the recently opened pedestrian crossover at Billings Rd-Holbrook Rd, Norfolk Downs, is being requested by Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

Brett, in a letter to Director Forrest I. Neal of the MBTA, noted that the crossover is the cause of several complaints he has received.

He said handrails should be installed on the overpass and a roof placed over them for the protection of citizens, many of whom are elderly and partially incapacitated.

School Opening 'Excellent'

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has thanked personnel responsible for planning and preparation for the 1970 opening of school.

He commended, by letter, each for the "excellent" opening, particularly for the computer scheduling program which went off without a major problem.

Commendations went to Laurence H. Babin, director-principal of Quincy Voc-Tech; Lloyd M. Creighton, Quincy High School principal; John W. Walsh, North Quincy High School principal; Robert D. Brennan, director of data processing; Richard H. Haines, Peter N. Fitch and Donald G. Fowke, head counselors at the three schools.

•Revaluation, Voting Age 19, Vietnam

Ballot Questions To Be Aired At Oct. 22 Forum

Six state election referenda questions–including revaluation and reducing the voting age–will be aired at an open meeting Oct. 22 sponsored by the Quincy League of Women Voters.

Informed residents are being invited to discuss pro and con views at the 8 p.m. forum to be held at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Four of the questions are proposed Constitutional amendments which seek to:

- Permit classification of property for tax purposes.
- Reduce the residence requirement for voting in a state election from one year to six months.
- Lower the minimum voting age for a state election from 21 to 19.
- Create 240 single House of Representatives districts and a 40-member Senate.

Question No. 5 is to determine the "thinking" of Massachusetts voters on U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Question No. 6 is the traditional liquor question.

Mrs. David Coletti, League president, will introduce the speakers. The program is being coordinated by Mrs. John Toland, League Voter Service Chairman.

A brief summary of the referenda and the League's Comment follows:

Question 1. A proposed constitutional amendment to permit the classification of property for purposes of taxation.

A classified property tax system would group property into different classes according to use. Classes could then be assessed or taxed at different rates.

Under present constitutional law the legislature is authorized to tax all property at a uniform rate.

This amendment would allow the state to adopt a classified property tax, but it would require action by the legislature for it to be established.

A YES vote is to allow property classification

A NO vote is to retain the present uniform rate.

League Comment: Question 1 should attract a great deal of interest from Quincy citizens since this referendum was initiated by Quincy legislators following disagreement with property revaluation.

Question 2. A proposed constitutional amendment to change residence requirements for voting in a state election.

The amendment would allow a voter to be eligible to vote in a state election after living in a Massachusetts town or district for six months, instead of the present contitutional provision of one year. If passed, the residence requirements would then be in conformity with the federal law which requires only 6 months residence. The federal law is effective as of January, 1971.

A YES vote would shorten the residence requirements to six months

A NO vote would retain the present state constitutional one year residence requirement

Background information:

A recent federal court ruling declared our present one-year residence requirements unconstitutional. This decision is being appealed by Massachusetts in the courts. In the interim, the legislature has passed emergency legislation to allow six month residents to vote in the congressional elections. Special registration lists have been established. The court does not rule on the appeal before the election, the special registration ballots will be impounded. They will not be counted until the Supreme Court rules on the constitutionality of our present one year residence requirements. If the Court should uphold the lower court decision then the impounded ballots would be counted. It is possible that these ballots could alter the results of one or more election contests.

[No League Comment]

School Enrollment 16,949, A Net Gain Of One Student

Quincy's official school enrollment this year is 16,949 for kindergarten through Grade 14, according to figures compiled by Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator of secondary schools.

This is a net gain of one student over last year's enrollment of 16,948.

However, in kindergarten through Grade 6 the 1970 figure is 8,950, compared to last year's 9,199, a loss of 249.

Junior high [Grades 7-9] showed an enrollment of 3,891 in 1970–3,817 in 1969. At senior high level [Grades 10-12] there are in 1970 a total of 3,877 students, compared to 3,732 in 1969.

Post graduates in Grades 13 and 14 at Quincy Vocational-Technical School number 231 this season, up 31 from last year. Thus, there is a total gain of 250 students from grades 7-14 over last year.

At Quincy Junior College, there are 832 full time students compared to 780 in 1969. Full service, including night school, shows an enrollment of 2,040 in 1970. The 1969 figures are not available.

"These figures may level off," Woodward commented, "but we are leveling at an over-enrollment in terms of facilities. Enrollment is very high in terms of the physical plant."

So, Don't Mess It Up Again !

An Adams School youngster called the Quincy Sun Office the other day to say:

"We're going to clean up Faxon Park and we want everyone to know so people won't mess it up again!"

And then, 24 students of Miss Mary Morris' fifth grade class spent an hour and a half combing the park, picking up tin cans and bottles and other debris which they piled in the middle of the parking lot for collection by city trucks.

So, please don't mess it up again!

2.6 Million Voter Info Pamphlets Being Mailed

Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren has presented George K. Walker, Officer in Charge of the Boston Postal District, with a check for $110,000 to mail 2.6 million "Information to Voter" pamphlets to Massachusetts voters.

The pamphlets offer Bay State voters an explanation of questions to be voted on Nov. 3 in all precincts of the Commonwealth.

Names and addresses of voters were sent to Davoren by city and town clerks and election registrars.

Walker, whose title replaces that of "Postmaster of Boston", said the mailing would be the largest single mailing in the Boston postal district and one of the biggest in the history of Uncle Sam's "letter carriers."

Bradford Library Hours Extended At Voc-Tech

Bradford Library at Quincy Vocational Technical School, serving both Quincy High and Voc-Tech students, will be open four days a week [Monday through Thursday] from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., announces Arthur C. Gillis, director of library services.

The extended hours were suggested by Miss Lynne Birlem, head librarian, who worked out with her staff of four a schedule of hours so that a professional librarian will be in attendance at all times.

"We think we can give better service to students and also serve those in continuing education programs," Gillis commented.

"A little more service for the taxpayer's money. Most important, professional people will be on hand to help and guidance in using the library."

Gillis pointed out that adults in educational programs both in high school and those studying under the Man Power Development Act will be able to obtain library cards and use them. Student identification will be required, of course.

"We believe we have one of the finest libraries especially in vocational-technical education which now is probably into 20,000 or 30,000 volumes, plus a number of periodicals in the vocational-technical field," Gillis added.

Educators To Visit PLAN

Three Quincy Schools where Project PLAN is in operation will be visited Oct. 22 by educators from several Greater Boston communities.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, representing the Quincy Public Schools, and Lloyd Ferguson, Eastern Coast representative for PLAN, will be hosts for the day-long session sponsored by Westinghouse Learning Corporation.

PLAN [Program for Learning in Accordance with Needs] has been under development for the past four years, with Quincy Public Schools the only New England school system involved in the developmental plan.

Adams Elementary School, Reay E. Sterling Junior High School and Quincy High School are the three schools where Teaching-Learning Units have been especially developed so that individual students or groups of students can move ahead at their own rate or speed of learning.

The American Institutes for Research, Palo Alto, Calif., received an $8 million contract from Westinghouse Learning Corporation to develop Project PLAN learning materials in grades one through 12 and to pilot the program in a network of 14 selected school systems across the nation.

PLAN is an individualized computer-managed instructional program, where a computer is used as a monitoring and record keeping device, storing up in its memory information on how well each student is doing and what he is learning at any given time.

Among school superintendents expected to attend are John Glenn of Bedford, Dr. John J. O'Neill of Sudbury, Dr. Herman J. Dunseith of Burlington, Dr. Rudolph J. Fobert of Lexington, Dr. Robert I. Sperber of Brookline.

Dr. Anthony J. Damplo of Natick, Dr. Julian Demeo, Jr., of Braintree, Dr. George P. King of Framingham, Dr. Walter P. Gleason on Winchester and Frederick Lawton, Jr., of Acton.

The Acceptable Addictions

In recent months, we have heard little else but drugs, drugs and more drugs. We have heard so much about the large number of addicts, the "drug culture", the crime associated with it and the problems involved in setting up treatment programs, that the first impulse is to go bury one's head in the sand and play ostrich. Probably a good many of us are doing this, and we are wrong.

To those who would sound the clarion call to our generation, in hopes of "bridging the gaps" in our community and bringing healing to our sick society [you might not like to think it is sick, but even a dunce can see the signs of ill health], I can only say "right on"!

We need to get to the roots of the problems that beset us, and not just put up glossy facades of concern, and then settle back into the typical complacency that seems so evident all around us.

But I'm fed up to "you know where" by a society that points a finger at a group of sick youths, and uses the term, almost derisively, "addicts", and then accepts other addiction, and passes it off as part of normal behavior.

Smoking, especially the smoking of cigarettes, is an addiction, and as much as we joke about how many times it is "given up", and "choosing my own way to die", on and on - ad nauseum, it is still an addiction. Perhaps we need to reserve some of our derision for the cigarette smoker.

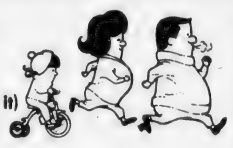
Many of our "law and order" champions are totally against the use of marijuana, "because drug addiction starts there". But, I would challenge you to show me one marijuana user in a thousand who didn't begin first on cigarettes. Hmmmmmmm ..... strangely silent out there.

And then, how about our "addiction" to alcohol? I'm not just talking about the skid-row bum, or the family man who succumbs to the alcohol problem and loses his job, etc.

This addiction to alcohol also includes many "normal", "average" people in our community, who cannot attend a social occasion, or eat a meal without an ethanol hors-d'oeuvre. I'm speaking about the businessman who can't even kiss his wife, when home from work, until he has first mixed his drink. This, too, is an addiction, whether psychological [in some cases] or physiological [in the rest, but fewer cases]. It is not unlike the marijuana addiction, which is basically psychological.

Do you know the facts about alcohol use in our society? Do you realize that twice as many Americans died last year in automobile wrecks in which alcohol was involved as were murdered? [30,000 deaths in 800,000 accidents]. Even if you assume that three out of four drinking drivers kill only themselves [probably a high estimate], twice as many innocent bystanders were killed by drinking drivers as were killed by robbers, rapists, arsonists and thieves combined.

The value of the property destroyed in accidents attributable to drinking drivers was six times that of the property stolen in all the robberies, larcenies and burglaries in the country. More adults were convicted of drinking and driving than of murder, rape, robbery, assault and burglary combined.



So, when you feel that there is so much "bad" being done by the drug user, try to keep it in perspective. I don't want to minimize the problem of drugs and drug users, but do want us to realize that maybe we are where we are because of problems of our peers, not just the "commie, pinko, hippies", and the ungrateful, "radical student". Maybe some of the problem lies not in the long-haired kid, but in the old man who brings the paycheck home, stopping at the package store on the way.

Maybe some of the kids are only copying behavior they see in the adults. So before we point our fingers, let's look first in the mirror. No addiction should be "acceptable".

Be Sure Aluminum Siding Is Grounded !

If you have or are having aluminum siding installed on your home be sure it is properly "grounded", urges City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts.

"This is extremely important in that it prevents the siding from becoming energized or alive," Pitts said.

"It conducts lightning charges to ground or any other accidental discharge of current to ground and therefore affords protection to life and, or property."

Pitts noted that in many instances his office is not being notified when installations have been completed.

"In general," he said, "the responsibility of proper grounding is up to the contractor installing the metal siding and the cost should be included in his overall price for the work."

He suggested that home owners contact his office at 773-1380 to be sure the siding has been properly grounded.

Quincy United Fund Progress Reports Today

First reports on Quincy's progress in the Massachusetts Bay United Fund campaign are being made today.

Richard P. Garvey, community chairman for Quincy, stressed the need for active participation by all volunteers until the close of the drive on Nov. 19.

Quincy's goal has been increased by 20% this year as new agencies have been added to the fund.

The general campaign goal for all 227 agencies is $17,000,000.

Progress reports were made by David Houston, heading the municipal division which includes all city employees; Edward Percy, Quincy center local business; Frank J. Hackett, clubs and organizations; Edward Baccari, schools; William O'Malley, special gifts; and Joseph A. Donahue, professional.

Argentina Youth Attending Quincy High As AFS Student

Luis Raul Niveiro from Corrientes, Argentina, an American Field Service student attending Quincy High School for his senior year, was honored at a meeting of the Quincy Chapter AFS recently at Bethany Congregational Church.

He was welcomed by Mrs. John Kelley, Quincy Chapter president, who outlined AFS activities.

Luis will be a member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Normand Goyette of 96 Garfield St. for his year in Quincy. Miss Norma Jeanne Goyette, their daughter, attended school in Austria this year on the AFS summer program.

Other guests at the meeting were Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Quincy High School principal Lloyd Creighton, and George E. Ramsden, Jr., executive director of the YMCA.

The American Field Service is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization endeavoring through its international scholarship programs for secondary schools, to bring about understanding among people of many nations.

Under one AFS program, some 3,000 students from 61 countries are brought annually to the U.S. In another, the Americans Abroad Program, 1,400 American teenagers are sent yearly to 44 countries overseas.

In the past 22 years, a total of more than 47,000 students from 79 countries have participated in AFS scholarship programs.

Burke Seeks Release Of 15 Navy Oil Tankers

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] has sent a request to the White House asking for the immediate release of 15 Navy Oil Tankers presently in the "Moth-Ball" Fleet.

The Nixon Administration has cited as one reason for the shortage of fuel oil, the shortage of oil tankers which are serviceable, he noted.

Burke said that in view of the oil shortage and the tanker shortage it is "not justifiable that these tankers should be held in the Moth Ball Fleet.

"I understand that it would take less than 60 days to get these tankers ready for service and that it is possible that at least 15 tankers can be in service on the East or West Coast by Dec. 15 of this year."

City Gets CD Equipment At Bargain

Quincy's Civil Defense organization has received federal surplus property stock valued at $40,891 -- at a cost to the community of only $2,274.

The city is among 189 organizations throughout the state sharing in a bonanza of equipment originally valued at $1,968,786, at an expenditure of $64,950, State Civil Defense Director Allan R. Zenowitz reports.

"The availability of federal surplus property enables many Civil Defense units to add equipment which otherwise would not be possible to include in their organization because of limited budgets," he notes.

Automotive and electronic equipment, generators and a large variety of tools were predominant in the surplus property secured during the past fiscal year.

Quincy To Receive $112,184 Rebate

Quincy is to receive a $112,184.43 rebate, its share in a windfall for 40 Greater Boston communities comprising the Metropolitan District Sewer Commission.

This results from a recent decision by Judge August C. Taveira of Suffolk Superior Court on a case initiated by Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn.

Judge Taveira ruled the City of Boston is "connected" to the MDC sewage system and no longer entitled to the 52 percent exemption which it has received for 10 years. As a result, MDC assessments will be evenly divided among the 41 communities in the MDC district.

14 Fire Department Members Studying At Community Colleges

Fourteen members of the Quincy Fire Department are attending fire science courses at two Massachusetts Community Colleges.

Studying "Introduction to Fire Protection", at Massasoit Community College, West Bridgewater, are:

Lt. Walter Clare; Firefighters Anthony DiNardo, Patrick McAuley, John Summering, Thomas Gorman, Jr., William Charland, Thomas Connors and Robert Batson.

Studying "Introduction to Fire Prevention" at the Massachusetts Bay Community College, Watertown, are:

Firefighters Edward O'Toole, James Donovan, Roy Rizzi, Paul Johnson, John Lydon and Frank O'Hare.

QUINCY SUN Special Features

Poet's Corner

Busy Hours

By Margaret DeAngelo

Happy noises in the morning
When the sun has touched the sky.
Weary noises in the evening
When you've kissed them "beddie bye".

In between hours mass confusion,
Toys all over, lost and found.
Books and papers on the table,
Party leftovers - all around.

Watch them play out in the sunshine,
Kiss their bruises, dry their tears,
And pray to God every minute
To keep them safe throughout the years.

After dinner, time for bed,
Sleepy eyes aren't open long.
Tiptoe out and look around you,
And wonder where the time has gone.

Fall Time

By Priscilla Laveaga
91 Cross St., Belmont

God grants to his beloved humanity
The radiant beauty that blazons each Fall
To raise man's eyes in wondrous ecstasy
That he might search the meaning of it all...

So each small leaf that Heeds the Master's voice
And dons her gayest, brightest dancing dress
Proclaims anew His message to rejoice
And celebrate His loving tenderness.

My Love Has Flown

My love has flown, where is he now?
He pledged his love, he took the vow.

But now he's gone and my heart is broken
For he used my love as a fun-time token.

I'll wait forever if that I must
I gave to him my loving trust
I forgive him now, wherever he be
In this mighty land, or if on sea.

Good-night my love, I'm right here still
In our little nest beside the hill.

Snappy Knits Fashion Look For Fall

What's the news in switched-on fashions for Fall? "The fashion look for Fall is snappy knits", according to Mrs. Helen Wolf, Fashion Coordinator of Popular Club Plan, a major club plan organization serving more than one million families in the northeastern U. S.

Knit pants, tunics, skirts and vests are separates you can team with knit accessories to liven up your Fall wardrobe. Indian-style knits and other folk-art patterns are also knit favorites this season.

"But the real news is the knit jumpsuit", Mrs. Wolf says. One-piece figure flatterers, smoothly ribbed, are turning up in deep, rich colors for Fall. Jumpsuits are great for day...and come alive after-five. They turn-on with proper accessories like chunky-heel shoes, delicate chain necklaces.

How important are graceful knits to today's fashion pacesetter? "Knits are being seen everywhere", Mrs. Wolf reports. Students marvel at the versatility of knit separates, as knits are worn head-to-toe in knee socks, berets, and long scarves...for the newest look in campus clothing. Knitted turtleneck tops and coordinating knickers come on strong, too, in brightly colored space age yarns.

But don't be fooled! Knitwear is not only campus gear...it's sensible and serviceable for every way of life. The country girl will want several knit separates to round-out her Fall wardrobe. City dwellers find knits are just right for afternoon shopping and evening cocktails.

As the temperature continues to drop, look at the fashions surrounding you. You'll see more and more knits coming on the scene...whatever the time or place.

A CLASSIC KNIT takes a ribbing. Knits make the fashion scene for Fall... and this crew neck sweater and softly-pleated skirt go everywhere you go. It's a casual, versatile look that takes to a walk in the country...or dinner in town.

Mini-Drumsticks, New Party Pleaser

Looking for a new party food idea? Try mini-drumsticks or drumettes—the handy, meaty morsel of chicken which looks like a minature drumstick but is actually a part of the chicken wing.

As an hors d'oeuvre or buffet food, mini-drumsticks are a conversation piece (and incidentally a bonus to the budget-minded). But a party food has to have more than eye appeal—it has to qualify as something special in flavor.

These do because they are first marinated in a sweet and tangy beer sauce which gives the chicken morsels a tantalizing flavor all their own. It's a perfect buffet offering at any party where the popular beverage is cool, convivial beer.

Beer-Flavored Mini-Drumsticks

36 chicken wings or "drumettes"
½ cup soy sauce
1 cup pineapple juice
1 clove garlic, mashed
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon ground ginger
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup beer
¼ cup butter or oil

If using whole chicken wings, cut off the tip and end joint, leaving only the meaty first joint—or ask the butcher for the trimmed wings, often called drumettes. Combine soy sauce, pineapple juice, garlic, onion, ginger, brown sugar and beer, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Pour marinade over chicken. Cover and let marinate at least one hour at room temperature, or longer in refrigerator. When ready to cook, drain off marinade and reserve. In a large skilled heat butter or oil. Add chicken and brown on all sides over medium heat. Add about ¼ cup of reserved marinade to pan; cover; reduce heat and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes, or until done. Stir occasionally during cooking and add more marinade if necessary to keep chicken moist. Serve hot. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Oct. 16 - Oct. 23

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Control of the action is out of your hands for the present. People in general are touchy, so take it easy in conversations.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - If you missed a chance this past month to sign agreements, you will be given a second chance by next January - so don't fret.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - This is the time to put any creative ideas you have into action, while the people in authority are still willing to listen.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - You may not feel like listening to others' problems now but it may do you good to have your sympathies aroused.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - An emotional week for you but don't allow situations to get out of hand. It can be your own mental outlook getting you in trouble.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - It seems you are initiating an organization activity - if you can get it off the ground within a month, benefits result.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - People who are confined will not be so demanding of your energies after this week and you can turn to personal matters.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Your emotions can become confused this week as a new love interest appears on the scene. Prospects are becoming brighter.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - The planet of separations is activated now and it may concern your career. You can turn it into a step forward.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Uranus, the planet of surprises, is in excellent aspect to your Sun and will soon be activated by Mars - so be ready.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Organizational or Governmental matters that have been plagueing you lately are easing off after one last bout this weekend.

It's In To Be Thin

By Lois L. Lindauer
Director, The Diet Workshop

These are ever-changing times...

Not a novel or original thought to be sure. But times changing notwithstanding there are some values which must remain as unchangings and staunch standards for us to hold on to as the breezes of arguments flow back and forth between the generations, between the hawks and doves, and between the many warring factions of the world. There must be values so that we can identify ourselves with them and to know who we are.

I think we always have to be re-examining our values to make sure they still hold. What is true today may not have been true for yesterday, and we really can't tell in advance which are the ones which will remain as the "real" us. I feel we must constantly examine what we believe in, so that we can maintain good communications with the world around us.

On the weight control level I can only say that this is one value that I do not question. Since I have lost weight, I have become a person who feels good, a person who knows she looks good and I know that the door to these good "vibes" is opened by the key of self-discipline.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Onion Dip

6 Ounces Cottage Cheese
1/3 Cup Buttermilk
1/4 Teaspoon Garlic Powder
1/2 Teaspoon Salt
2 Tablespoons Dried Onion Flakes

In blender, mix cottage cheese, buttermilk, garlic powder, and salt until texture resembles sour cream. Add onion flakes and stir. For added flavor try adding seasoned salt. Use cucumber, zucchini, or celery sticks or califlower as dippers. Recipe contains 4 ounces of protein and 1/3 cup milk.

South Shore Chapter Of Twins Host State Convention Oct. 24

Drug abuse, discussed by Peter Carr from the office of Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, and family living, the subject of Rev. James Haddad of St. John's Seminary, will be the program Oct. 24 at the annual state convention of the Massachusetts Organization of Mothers of Twins.

The South Shore Chapter will be hosts at the White Cliffs in Plymouth for the day-long event attended by 14 clubs throughout the state. Mrs. Roy DeLong of Weymouth is chairman, assisted by Mrs. William Cicchese.

There will be workshop programs, including parliamentary procedure, program coordination, publicity, ways and means.

Reservations for the day, including lunch, may be made through local chapters, or through Mrs. Alfred Varraso of 35 Spruce St., Braintree.

Honor Priscilla Marston Stewart Saturday

Priscilla Marston Stewart will be honored at an Appreciation Night at First Baptist Church of Wollaston Saturday evening.

A program in the sanctuary at 7:30 p.m. will be followed by an informal reception and refreshments in the parish hall.

Mrs. Stewart, church organist for the past 10 years and a church member for more than 45 years, and her husband William, have moved to Gloucester.

Mrs. Stewart sang in the church choir since the early 1930's, before she became its organist and choir director. She has organized church choirs which include the Primary Choir for 5-8 year old children; Junior Choir, 8 years through elementary school; Youth Choir for junior and senior high school students; and a hand bell choir, in addition to the Senior Choir.

Members of Mrs. Stewart's family, her neighbors at 145 Grand View Ave., Wollaston, and friends have been invited to attend.

Bruce D. Randall is chairman of the event. Assisting are Mrs. C. Everett Lister, Miss Elva Hirtle, Mrs. Lawrence Coles, Wendell Coburn and Mrs. Fabian Wells of the Board of Music; Mrs. Bruce Randall, Mrs. Charles F. Smith, Miss Ruth Hiltz, Miss Ethel Hiltz, Miss Nancy Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan, Mrs. J. Henry Johnson, Lorimer Pratt and Fabian Wells, representing various groups in the church.

Society Of St. James Fashion Show Monday

The annual fashion show of the South Shore Chapter of the Society of St. James the Apostle will be held Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd.

Fall and winter fashions will be shown by the Ideal Dress Shop, Beale St., Wollaston, where tickets may be obtained.

Mrs. George Fandel is chairman and Mrs. James Ducey will be commentator.

Clothes will be modeled by club members.

'You Are What You Eat'

The second in a series of lectures on food and nutrition, "You Are What You Eat", will take place in the Activity Room of Senior Citizens Center, 1000 Southern Artery, Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Terry McGrath, consultant dietitian, will lead the discussion. Pamphlets and other materials will be available.

The first program in the series was attended by 124 persons.

Wollaston Club Juniors Seeking Servicemen's Addresses

The Public Affairs Committee of the Wollaston Woman's Club Juniors is planning to send letters and also Christmas packages to local servicemen in Vietnam.

Residents who would like to have their son or loved one remembered, are asked to call Mrs. Joyce Del Rosso at 335-2726 as soon as possible as packages must be mailed soon for the holidays.

South-West Council Dinner Oct. 20

The South-West Quincy Community Council will hold a public pot luck dinner Oct. 20 at 6 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, 65 Roberts St.

Those attending are asked to bring enough of a favorite salad, casserole or dessert to feed their family. Mrs. Marion Rooney has charge of arrangements.

The supper is held to stimulate renewal of council memberships and to encourage new members to join.

'New Morality' Sermon, Dialogue Subjects Sunday At First Parish

The "New Morality" will be the subject of sermon and dialogue Sunday at United First Parish Church [Unitarian], Quincy Square.

"Is Group Marriage an Alternative to Monogamy?" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Alfred J. H. Henriksen, guest speaker at the 10:45 a.m. worship at which Dr. Bradford E. Gale, minister, will officiate.

Following the service in the parish hall, Rev. Henriksen and Quincy author Robert H. Rimmer of 92 Narragansett Rd., Merrymount, will discuss Rimmer's book, "Proposition 31".

Rev. Henriksen and Mr. Rimmer will discuss the "New Morality, Challenge or Mistake", relating their discussion to the disruption of old patterns and experimentation with new ones.

"Communal living," states Dr. Gale, "which is as old as the American Way of Life is reappearing in modern times in every increasing evidence as a new life style among the young in the search for more satisfying and meaningful human relationships."

Rev. Henriksen, a graduate of Tufts University and Crane Theological School, is the son of Mrs. Anna Henriksen of 35 Sagamore Ave., North Quincy. The pastor of Pacific Unitarian Church at Palos Verdes Peninsula, Calif.

Rev. Henriksen is secretary of the Greater Peninsula Ministers Association, a director of the Pacific Southwest District Unitarian Universalist Association and of the Los Angeles black ghetto project of the denominational Service Committee, and a member of the Program Committee for the National Assembly of the Unitarian Universalist churches of the United States and Canada.

Laity Sunday To Be Observed At Bethany Church Worship Service

Laity Sunday will be observed Oct. 18 at the 10 a.m. Bethany Congregational Church worship service.

Miss Linda Lew-Hansen, a teacher of special classes in the Quincy Public Schools and a member of the church Missionary Committee, will read the Scriptures.

Russell D. Hodgkins, insurance agent and member of the church Finance Committee, will give the offertory sentences and prayer of dedication.

Mrs. Alexander B. Smart, church clerk and a Quincy High School teacher, will lead the prayer.

Two short sermons will be delivered, one by Paul H. Miller, Jr., chairman of the Christian Education Committee and a supervisor at Proctor & Gamble; and the other by Miss Mary Lou Glaman of the Christian Education Committee, a kindergarten teacher at Snug Harbor School.

Rev. John D. Banks, minister, will have a "day off".

First Baptist Church In Tokyo Telemission Oct. 23

A 20-minute telephone call to Rev. L. Stanley Manierre, a missionary at Tokyo, Japan, on Oct. 23 will highlight the opening of Mission Weekend at First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

Through "Telemission", Rev. Manierre's replies to questions from Quincy will be amplified so that those attending will hear both questions and answers, in the first program of its kind at the church.

Equipment is to be installed through cooperation of the Pennsylvania Bell Telephone Company. It is financed by the Baptist Field Activities Department at Valley Forge with the idea of strengthening contacts with missionaries, and with "personalizing" the missionary budget.

Rev. Manierre, whose home church is First Baptist Church at Hanson, is well known in the Quincy area. He learned the Japanese language during World War II when serving with the Air Force, he was held a prisoner in Tokyo for 15 months. He has now been stationed there as a missionary since 1954.

Rev. Manierre is a graduate of Western State College of Colorado, Andover-Newton Theological School, and Harvard Divinity School. He is married to the former Evelyn Cowan, a former Wave who works with him, and they have four children, two at college and two at school in Tokyo.

Rev. Manierre, associate general secretary of the National Christian Council of Japan, has asked that questions directed to him focus on the Christian Pavilian at Expo, Christianity and its relation to urban industrial areas, particularly children; the general situation in Japan, and the Christian Church in Japan.

Persons with questions they would like raised during the telephone conversation are asked to call Mrs. Florence MacDougall, Chairman of the Board of Missions. It is expected that Rev. Charles McEachern, minister, will conduct the conversation from Wollaston.

Preceding the program at 6:30 p.m. there will be a Family Night "Chock-ful-O-Chicken Pie" supper. A free will offering will be taken to cover expenses. Reservations should be made in advance with the Church Office.

Sunday morning at the 11 a.m. worship, Rev. Frank Knight, American Baptist missionary at Hong Kong, will be the guest speaker. Rev. Knight, a chaplain who formerly met all U.S. servicemen assigned to pass through Hong Kong at Fenwick Pier, will discuss his tours in the foreign mission field. A World Fellowship Offering will be received.

The Board of Missions assisting Mrs. MacDougall in planning the weekend program includes Mrs. Clayton Rice, Mrs. Mark Adair, Brian Dunfield, Earle Bentley, Mrs. Alan Hopkinson, Mrs. Frank Deininger and Miss Ruth Hiltz.

Music 'To Turn On With' Sunday At Bethany

Music to "turn on with" will feature a Happening Sunday at 7 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church in a program for youth sponsored by the South Shore Council of Churches with the help of Bethany Senior High Fellowship.

The two-hour presentation will include contemporary church music and rock music with a message. Performers will be "The Present Tense" with folk music; a rhythm choir from Weymouth; and "Ball", a rock group with music of social protest and songs of celebration.

Young people of all churches in the South Shore Council have been invited. There will be no charge, but an offering will be accepted for The Way, a young people's church in North Quincy.

John Lawson Atlantic Fellowship President

Youth Fellowship officers at Atlantic United Methodist Church are announced.

Eastern Nazarene Dedicates $419,000 Religion Building

A new $419,000 religion building, in the center of the campus of Eastern Nazarene College, was dedicated last week and named E. E. Angell Hall.

The dedication took place during a college chapel service attended by the 850-member student body, faculty, and the 38-member Board of Trustees.

Dr. J. Glenn Gould, for 25 years a professor in the Department of Religion, delivered a dedicatory message which reviewed the contribution to Christian education by the late E. E. Angell.

Wesley G. Angell, son of the educator, and chairman of the building committee, presented a key to the building to Dr. Robert I. Goslaw, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and superintendent of the Pittsburgh District.

Dr. Goslaw, in turn, presented the key to President Leslie Parrott. Dr. Edward S. Mann, former president of ENC, returned for the service and led the congregation in the ritual of dedication.

The building, which preserves the outline of the original Quincy mansion, encloses four seminar rooms, four class rooms, a lecture hall seating 200 students, eight offices, a 60-seat chapel, and a library which houses a collection of books written by John Wesley.

There are seven members on the religion and philosophy faculty.

The building was funded by a three-year campaign on the Eastern Educational Zone which is comprised of 480 churches and 35,000 members.

Architect for the project was Kenneth L. Parry of Quincy.

'Mental Health And Religion'
Women's Society Subject

Dr. Cecil Paul, chairman of the Department of Psychology at Eastern Nazarene College, will discuss "Mental Health and Religion" at Wednesday's 8 p.m. Guest Night program of the Women's Society of World Service at Adams Shore United Methodist Church.

Dr. Paul, also an associate professor in his department, is a graduate of Canadian Nazarene College in Winnipeg, Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, and received his Ph.D. from Boston University in 1967 majoring in psychology and pastoral counselling.

Mrs. Edith Sylva will preside at the business meeting, with Mrs. C. W. Black leading devotions.

An auction of vacation mystery packages will be directed by Mrs. Lawrence McMullin.

Montclair Men's Club Endorses Four Members For Election

The Montclair Men's Club has gone on record as endorsing four club members seeking reelection to public office, announces Joseph N. Gildea, chairman of the civic committee.

Receiving endorsement are Sen. James R. McIntyre, Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, Rep. Joseph E. Brett and City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, seeking Third Norfolk District State representative seats.

The Montclair Men's Club has a policy of endorsing its members seeking public office, Gildea says.

Parents Info Night At N.Q. Oct. 20

"Parents' Information Evening" will be held at North Quincy High School Oct. 20 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Some of the planned curriculum changes will be explained, and there will be opportunity for an exchange of views. All parents are invited.

League Of Women Voters Referenda Discussion Oct. 22

constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to nineteen for state elections

This constitutional amendment would lower the voting age to 19 for state elections beginning in 1971. The intent of this amendment is superseded by the Federal Voting Rights Act. However the constitutionality of that section of the law which deals with lowering the voting age to eighteen is undergoing a court challenge. If the law is not upheld, Massachusetts voting age will be determined by this referendum.

A YES vote would lower the voting age to nineteen

A NO vote would retain the present minimum voting age of 21

League Comment: Regardless of what happens to the Federal Voting Rights bill, this amendment, if passed, would lower the voting age to 19 beginning in 1971. The League of Women Voters of Massachusetts is supporting Question 3 and is now campaigning for a "YES" vote.

Question 4. A proposed constitutional amendment to create 240 single member representative districts, apportioned by the legislature.

The main points of this proposed amendment are:

a. It would maintain a 240 member House and a 40 member Senate.

b. It would establish single member districts, thus eliminating double and triple districts.

c. The legislature would become the sole apportioning body. At present, the legislature apportions a number of legislative seats to the counties, and a county commission draws the district lines within their own counties.

d. The present provision prohibiting the division of wards in creating legislative districts would be nullified. Under this proposal, wards could be divided down to precinct lines for purposes of apportionment.

e. The continued individual representation of Dukes and Nantucket Counties is specifically guaranteed, regardless of their population.

f. The basis of representation will be changed from "legal voter" to total population.

A YES vote would establish 240 single member districts to be apportioned by the legislature.

A NO vote would maintain the present 240 single and multi-member districts drawn by County Commissions.

League Comment: Basically, while the League still supports single member districts, other aspects of this referendum, particularly the methods of apportioning, preclude the League's taking a position on it.

Question 5. This question is a non-binding question of public policy. Its purpose is to determine the thinking of the voters of the Commonwealth on the question of U.S. foreign policy in Vietnam. It was put on the ballot by the Massachusetts legislature.

Multiple Choice Question: Which one of the following do you prefer with reference to the future course of action by the U.S. in Vietnam?

A. Win a military victory.

B. Withdraw our armed forces in accordance with a planned schedule.

C. Withdraw all our armed forces immediately.

Although the meaning of these choices is subject to individual interpretation, generally it may be assumed that those who choose a military victory [A] would like to see a stepped up military offensive. Those who choose withdrawal in accordance with a planned schedule [B] will be supporting the present Administration policy. Those who select immediate withdrawal [C] indicate they favor a speedier conclusion to our military involvement in Vietnam.

League Comment: This is not an amendment. On the Vietnam question, speakers will defend each of the three positions on the ballot.

Richard Darr Re-Elected Taxpayers President

Other officers are Dr. Philip McCarthy, first vice president; Anthony Losordo, second vice president; Fred E. Bergfors, Jr., third vice president; Glen R. Woodbury, secretary; Dr. B. Lawrence Shalit, treasurer; Nicholas A. Pepe, assistant treasurer.

Members-at-large on the executive committee are Mrs. Evelyn A. Kilbourn, Arthur W. Gillis and Russell E. Scammell.

The board of directors includes, in addition, Loretto J. Bersani, Putnam Borden, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, Edward F. Connor, Paul Chappell, M. T. Curtis, Remo DeNicola, John N. Dwyer.

Robert R. Jellison, James S. Drain, Carl B. Herrmann, Richard T. Lawler, Walter A. Martinson, E. Bruce McLeod, Russell Scammell, Clayton Sheppard, James Stern, Fritz Streiferd, Alfred W. Sweenie, Jr., and Robert L. Williams.

The Association will meet next on Nov. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at Ship's Haven Restaurant with a business meeting following dinner. The speaker will be announced.

McCormick Thanks Three Councillors For School Tour

Three city councillors have received the thanks of School Committee vice-chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., for taking an entire Saturday from their schedule to tour newly renovated Quincy schools with the School Committee and other officials.

They are City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Councillors Clifford H. Marshall and Albert R. Barilaro.

In his letter, McCormick wrote: The School Committee plans to continue its program of renovating and updating several school plants each year.

"It is only through a program of continued and planned modernization that we can keep our older school buildings from deteriorating to a state of disrepair and absolescence."

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'When You're Really Down'

The phone rings..."Dr. Knox, I just need to talk for a minute...I'm so despondent...everything seems to have caved in...what do you think is wrong with me?...Am I mentally sick? or what?" A professional man slumps into the easy chair in the counselor's pleasant office..."Well...here we are...I thought I wouldn't make it this week...I felt I was losing my grip...felt "really down"...just had to drag myself through some days."

Day after day the expressions of despair...despondency..unhappiness come over the telephone wire...and from the clients who have sought the help of the counselor. Many try to prevent the feeling of depression which comes sweeping over them...often to no avail. If you feel this way...be assured that you're in a big group.

What are the causes of the "really down" feeling? They are many. One is that many never learned as children to face the rough realities of life. This is what permissive homes do to people...children who grow up evading the difficult situation...avoiding tough decisions...so that as adults when the going gets rough they go down in a heap. From babyhood there are things we don't like...if a little cry brings what baby wants he quickly learns to use that technique...and if mother and father always seek to please and prevent the child from any discomfiture, before many years the child will have learned ways of manipulating people...and ways of evading anything that disturbs him. We need to learn how to deal with tough situations early...how to handle frustrations...being deprived...discomfort...because throughout our lives we'll meet these.

Secondly...loneliness. Nothing is more devastating to a human spirit than loneliness. Especially when one is looking for companionship from a particular person...has "put all his eggs in one basket" in a human relationship...as many husbands and wives do. Then comes separation...death...rejection or unresolved conflict and a person feels lonely...and no one else can satisfy the loneliness. The "cries for love" by both men and women are pathetic...born of utter loneliness.

The sense of loss...or failure...will depress many people. Thousands are right now "really down" because they've lost their job...with families to care for and responsibilities to meet. Student failures often lead to depression as will the loss of one's physical appearance through accident...obesity...disfigurement. Even a disabling illness...loss of health...can depress a person.

Then marital conflict leading to resentment depresses one. If you are harbouring a grudge against your husband/wife, you're getting the worst end of the deal. It will take its toll in your spirit...your life buoyancy as well as spoiling the relationship. The only good answer to a grudge is forgiveness.

If one has learned early in life that everything is not going to go smoothly...that he/she will not always have just what he/she wants...that everyone is not going to like you...that some decisions are hard to make...that you can't "have your cake and eat it too"...then when adult reversals strike they may be less overwhelming.

Healthy attitudes enable one to cope with their "down periods". One way is by trying to learn and attack the cause of the depression. Another is to "talk it out" with someone you trust...just sharing often siphons off the inner frustration. Some people have learned to be firm with themselves in such times...knowing that self pity will avail nothing. Above all be kind and patient with your self.

The truth is that your "really down" feeling will pass...probably with little change in the outward circumstances. The change will come within you...either in your body chemistry or what is more likely, in your mind. Don't hinder its coming.

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, or 545-5947, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026

28 North Quincy High Students Teacher Aides At Montclair

Again this season Montclair School and North Quincy High School are engaged in a teacher aide program designed to help the learning processes of the elementary school students.

Twenty-eight North Quincy High School volunteers are spending their study periods from two to five days a week as aides to the 22 Montclair teachers, in a program which began last week.

The volunteers, many from the Future Teachers Club, under guidance of the classroom teacher are drilling children on number facts, listening to their reading, reviewing spelling words and assisting individual children with visual aids.

The program originated last season when Leon L. Gould, Montclair principal, discussed his problem of teacher assistance with Wilfred A. Nolan, elementary school consultant. Arrangements were made through John Murphy, guidance counselor at North Quincy High School, to set up a trial program.

The North Quincy High School students were enthusiastic about the plan. However, if it becomes burdensome or they find they are dropping behind in their studies, they are free to leave the program.

Taking part this year as aides are:

Sheila McGillicuddy, Barbara Keches, Cynthia Graham, Susan Graham, Melissa Anastasia, Patricia Malloy, Carol McAvoy, David Nankin, Barbara Rhillinger, Patricia McNeice, Ann Shea, Elaine Strungis, Ann Flaherty, Kevin Vey, Michael O'Connell.

Mothers Sponsoring Fair Saturday

The Lincoln School Mothers Club will sponsor a fair Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Lincoln School grounds. Proceeds will be used toward educational facilities for students.

There will be games with prizes for all, and carnival type refreshments will be available.

Mrs. Helen Kelly, chairman of the Mothers Club, will have as assistants Mrs. Lois Constantino, secretary; Mrs. Joan Prezioso, Mrs. Joanne Prezioso, Mrs. Mary Spargo, Mrs. Marion Ciccone, Mrs. Ann Belmonte, Mrs. Evelyn Lose, Mrs. Edith Ruta, along with other mothers and several teachers.

In case of rain, the fair will be held Oct. 24.

Madeline Hobbs To Speak At 1000 Southern Artery

Mrs. Madeline Hobbs of Hobbs Studio in Weymouth will speak and show slides of picture composition Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Activity Room of the Senior Citizens Center, 1000 Southern Artery.

After Heartache At Malden

Raiders Hope To Rebound At Medford

North Quincy's football team, following a heartbreaking last minute loss to defending Greater Boston League champion Malden, its first loss in four games, hopes to rebound at Medford Saturday in a 1:30 game and Coach Ralph Frazier has put the emphasis on offense this week.

The Raiders, with two wins, a tie and last week's loss, faces a Medford team which last week defeated Somerville, 20-7, after losing to Chelsea, 14-6, and Boston Latin, 27-0.

"We just couldn't move the ball at Malden and our offense was supplied by a defensive back," Frazier said. "The defense did a pretty fair job but we must improve on offense considerably with some tough teams coming up."

Greg King, an unheralded reserve back, just missed being the hero last week with long kickoff and punt returns giving North a 20-14 lead with just over a minute to play. A Malden pass then clicked for the winning touchdown in a 21-20 Golden Tornado victory.

"There isn't much you can say after a game like that," the second year Raider coach said. "King's two returns were tremendous and he will be a key man for us the rest of the year in this department. But when your attack is stopped as ours was, it is hard to win."

As an example, Tony Kelly, who had gained well over 100 yards in each of the first three games, was held to 40 yards as North was contained to a net gain of 78 yards on the ground. Malden's big team gained a net of 136, had 13 first downs to North's five and gained 98 yards through the air to just 10 as North's passers could hit on only two of 11 attempts.

King took the game's opening kickoff and raced 87 yards for a touchdown. Brian McLeary kicked the point.

Malden came right back as they drove to a touchdown with Perry Verge going over from the one. A kick for the tying point failed.

Malden went into the lead in the second period on a 22-yard scoring pass from Verge to John Ahearn and Tony Matewsky caught a pass for the two points.

Later in the half Kelly scored on a five-yard pass from Paul Lippens but a pass for the points failed and Malden led, 14-13, at the half.

King came through with his second spectacular run in the final period when he returned a punt 95 yards and McLeary kicked the point to put North ahead, 20-14.

Mike Byrne, spelling Verge at quarterback, then hit on three of five passes with a 16-yarder to Tim Mirley with a minute left tying the game. Bruce MacDonald then calmly kicked the game-winning point.

Mirley put an end to North's hopes seconds later when he intercepted a Lippens pass.

Sterling Junior 'Zero Kids'

Sterling's soccer team continues unbeaten, untied and unscored upon following a 2-0 win over Atlantic, its third straight Quincy Junior High win.

While the Sterling defense turned in another solid game, winger John Sweeney continually set up scoring chances with his passing. Scott DeMarco and Mike Ranalli posted the goals. Tony Michaelangelo, tall Sterling halfback, played an excellent game at midfield.

Earlier in the week Central and Point played to a 1-1 tie with Phil Spring scoring for Central and Mike Cullen for Point.

Fred Condeloro's pass set up Spring's goal. Central controlled play in the first period but Point came back strong and kept pressure on the Central defense. It paid off when Cullen scored.

Atlantic and Broad Meadows played to a scoreless tie. Jim Mulvaney played an outstanding game for Atlantic and came close to winning the game several times. Tasney and Ken Donovan were standouts for Broad Meadows.

After two weeks of competition Sterling leads the league with a 3-0-0 record, followed by Broad Meadows and Central, each 1-1-1; Atlantic, 1-2-1, and Point, 0-2-1.

Quincy Set For Malden Test Saturday

Quincy's high-powered football team faces what should be its sternest test of the season Saturday when it hosts big Malden, which shared the Greater Boston League championship with the Presidents a year ago. Game time at Veterans Memorial Stadium is 1:30.

Hank Conroy's unbeaten Quincy club goes after its fourth win in a row this year and its sixth in a row going back to last fall fresh from a 29-6 decision last week over Everett in its first home contest. Quincy has lost only once in its last 15 games.

Malden opened defense of its co-championship a week ago with a thrilling 21-20 decision over North Quincy. Previously the Golden Tornado had nipped Haverhill after losing to Waltham in non-leage games.

Conroy found a number of things to smile about in last week's victory. Several players who hadn't had a chance to shine in the previous two walkaways, did excellent jobs against Everett.

Although Steve McCarthy, one of the finest running backs in the GBL, failed to score a touchdown for the first time, he was again outstanding and acted as a decoy many times, giving other backs a chance to pick up yardage. He kicked three extra points.

"We had several standouts on offense and I was especially pleased with the performances of Joe Goguen who, along with Wayne Richards, did most of the ball carrying, and Kevin Shea at quarterback," Conroy said. "Goguen and Richards ran very well and gained most of our yardage.

"John Provost, still hampered by an injury, played only a short time but ran well and had a 65-yard touchdown run. Richards had another good day both ways, had a touchdown and had another called back. And Steve Sullivan ran the team well at quarterback. He had only four completions in 18 passes but they were good for 110 yards and two touchdowns."

Spelling Sullivan at quarterback were Shea, who hit on five of seven passes, and Jimmy Walker, who completed three out of four.

Another offensive standout was Billy Maver, sure-fisted end, who caught two scoring passes from Sullivan.

The defense also had many standouts, especially Rich Menchi, one of the finest ends in the league, who was all over the field stopping Everett's end sweeps, its main weapon.

With Menchi stopping the end runs, the Crimson Tide tried to run inside and was stopped cold by Bob Conti, Dennis Waters and Joe Russo among others.

Bobby McDermott had two pass interceptions and was brilliant all day on defense and Richards also had another banner day defensively. The Presidents intercepted four passes and recovered two fumbles.

Quincy opened the scoring on Provost's 65-yard run.

The next two touchdowns were passes covering 40 and 25 yards to Maver and McCarthy kicked the conversions after both.

The final TD came on a short run by Richards after McDermott had intercepted an Everett aerial and another Sullivan to Maver pass brought the ball to the five.

Quincy added two points via a safety when an Everett back stumbled, lost the ball and, in trying to scoop it up, inadvertently knocked it out of the end zone.

PRETTY QUINCY rooters had a lot to cheer about Saturday as Presidents won third straight game of season against Everett. And with backing like this, no wonder Quincy is running wild this year.

ENC Soccer Team At N.H. Saturday

The Eastern Nazarene College soccer team, which suffered its second defeat in eight games last week, will travel to Henniker, N.H., Saturday to face New England College in a Colonial Intercollegiate Conference game.

The Crusaders were blanked by Barrington College, 4-0, last week. Barrington is unbeaten in six contests.

Earlier in the week Eastern Nazarene shut out Mass. Maritime, 5-0, as Ed Garner, with Steve Schoff assisting, scored three goals in the fourth period. Schoff also had a goal and Doug Seronsen has the other.

ENC goalie Bill Mauger had 13 saves and the Crusaders peppered the Maritime goalie with 42 shots.

Q-N Harriers Seek Fourth Victories

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams go for their fourth Greater Boston League wins in five starts today at Medford when Quincy faces Chelsea and North meets Medford.

Each local team made its record 3-1 with wins a week ago. The Presidents, off to their finest start in many years under new coach Tom Hall, won their third in a row after an opening day loss to speedy Malden, taking Everett, 21-38.

Bob Gentry's North Quincy harriers, bounced back from their lone loss to Revere to romp over Chelsea, 16-29.

North's Kevin Henry won again to remain undefeated, Matt Clancy was second, Richie Yee third, Jeff Strungis fourth and Dick Malloy missed fifth place by four inches.

When Quincy and North meet next Thursday in the final meet of the season, the race between Bobby Ciano and Henry should be one of the year's best.

Alongi Attends Recreation Convention In Philadelphia

Charles L. Alongi, Jr., Quincy Assistant Director of Recreation, joined over 6,000 delegates last week at the National Recreation and Park Association's annual convention in Philadelphia's Civic Center.

The NRPA'S "Congress for Recreation and Parks", yearly attracts the nation's professional park and recreation directors, conservationists, ecologists and concerned laymen. This year's four-day program was tailored around the 1970 congress theme, "The Challenge – National Issues!" with educational sessions, research reporting sessions, student seminars and delegate participation discussions emphasizing lay citizen involvement.

Congress general session speakers included, Russell E. Train, environmental quality council chairman, Arthur A. Fletcher, assistant secretary of labor, Victor J. Yannacone, environmental defense fund lawyer, Dr. Sal J. Presioso, NRPA president and Willard W. Brown, NRPA chairman of the board.

The National Recreation and Park Association is the nation's largest non-profit service, research and education organization in the Park, Recreation and Conservation field. Its 30,000 professional and lay members are "dedicated to improving the quality of life through effective use of natural and human resources."

Emidio DiDonatis Honored As 50-Year Brickmason Member

Emidio DiDonatis of 34 Lowe St., Quincy Point, noting his 50th year as a member of Brickmasons and Plasterers Union No. 52, was honored by more than 200 friends at a testimonial dinner Saturday at Montello's.

In addition to his 50-year gold membership card, a three-tier concrete fountain made by union member Alfred Frantello was presented as a gift.

Among those at the dinner were Mr. DiDonatis' wife, Mary, and their children, Louis DiDonatis of Quincy; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mariani of Randolph; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boyson, Jr., of New York City; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarke of Quincy [Mr. Clarke is also a member of the Brickmason's Union]. There are nine grandchildren.

Representing the International Brickmason's Union was Thomas McIntyre, 10th vice president; while Mayor James R. McIntyre represented the City of Quincy, and Carmen D'Olimpio, business agent, Local 52.

Mr. DiDonatis, who retired in 1965 from active work, was employed as a foreman by contruction companies of John Andre of Quincy and George Macomber of Boston, and Harry Stein. An active member of Local 52, DiDonatis was its treasurer for a number of years.

The former brickmason now devotes his energies to gardening and canning his produce.

DiCesare Asks Political Figures To 'Rise' And Aid Survival, Inc.

Francis DiCesare this week called on political figures to "lay aside petty and personal differences" and help the Survival, Inc. program.

DiCesare who lives at 90 Arnold St., Quincy Point, and is an Independent candidate running for state representative in the Second Norfolk District [Wards 2, 3] declared:

"The biggest problem facing Survival [Inc.] is that it may not survive. Our local politicians have done little beyond an initial appropriation to help the program. Without their help, there will be no hope for addicts who wish to rehabilitate themselves.

"If only in the interest of humanity, these public servants should lay aside petty and personal differences and rise to the occasion of the problem.

"I'm sure if it were their son or daughter in need of treatment, there would be no such delay."

DiCesare said the Survival, Inc. program is patterned after those which have shown a 70 per cent cure of those treated for drugs addiction.

Asking the question, "Can we cope with a problem as difficult as the drug situation?", he went on to say:

"The fact is there is no cure-all available and not likely to be in the foreseeable future. However, we cannot turn our backs to the problem. The drug conditions in this country may not be 100% solvable but with diligence we can solve a great portion of the difficulties.

"Survival, Inc. is a program designed after such drug rehabilitation centers as Synanon of Los Angeles and Day Top of New York. These Centers are helping to salvage a drug ravaged generation.

"The program which Survival has planned is a three pronged attack. The first part of the program is the establishment of a rehabilitation center called Marathon House. Here an already detoxified addict would be involved in individual and group dynamics sessions. These periods would help the patient to determine those aspects of his personality which originally fostered and nourished his addiction. This portion of the program would help the patient to adjust to his problem and to readjust to society.

"The second phase includes a walk-in center where an addict could come in off the street and seek immediate medical and psychological help.

"The final phase of the program is perhaps the most important. This is the establishment of a Regenesis center that would serve initially as a detoxification facility. The patient would go through three weeks of treatment. Following this the director of Regenesis after careful consultation with resident physicians and workers would prescribe whatever additional treatment he considered necessary to aid in the patient's rehabilitation. These referrals could range from out-patient treatment to a convalescence at Marathon House.

"Survival also includes a program of evaluation on the elementary school level and the establishment of neighborhood centers. The latter would help to educate and discourage our youth from experimenting with drugs.

"The plans after which Survival is patterned have demonstrated a remarkable degree of success. Over 70% of the addicts that have been treated under these programs have been cured of their habit.

Pavan Attends Law Conference

City Solicitor Harry Pavan was one of more than 500 municipal attorneys from all parts of the U. S. and Canada attending this week's 35th Annual Conference of the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers in Boston.

During the four-day meeting, workshops were held on Civil Disorders; Municipal Labor Relations; Student Disorders; Solid Waste Disposal; Noise Pollution; Parade Permits; Sanitation Strikes; Disorderly Conduct Ordinances; Bond Issues; the Legality of the 1970 Census; Regulation of CATV; and other municipal subjects.

NIMLO Conferences provide a forum where city attorneys compare experiences and results of their advice to City governments which can do only what their legal powers specify in charters or state statutes.

The National Institute of Municipal Law Officers is owned by municipalities and operated by attorneys of member municipalities. Its headquarters is in Washington, D. C., where there are maintained files on municipal legal experience and a library for handling the editing of publications and replying to requests for assistance from member municipalities.

Constables Assn. Offers Help To Survival, Inc.

An offer to assist Survival, Inc. in finding a drug treatment center has been made by the South Shore Constables Association through Ronald N. Halter, President.

Halter, in a letter to Dr. Charles Djerf, Survival Inc., president, said, "After hearing of the plight of "Survival Inc." in trying to locate a marathon house drug treatment center in Germantown, our association has decided to help."

Jordan S. Zisk, chief legal counsel, and Constable David J. Maloney, vice president and a liaison officer, have been appointed to represent the South Shore Constables Association in efforts to assist Survival, Inc.

LOSE AN AUTOMATIC TEN POUNDS

Want to lose an automatic ten pounds during the next year? The way is to walk one extra mile every day. A walk of just one extra mile per day for 36 days is a simple, pleasant device for shedding one extra pound of fat. The extra mile [eight to twelve city blocks] means just that - a mile of walking in addition to the customary walking you now do each day.

Exercise helps expend calories; within the usual range of activity, it need not stimulate appetite excessively. The energy output required to offset a pound of fat is about 3,500 calories.

Weight gain is a relatively slow process, and the extra mile will help keep your weight down to a reasonable figure. But to be effective, exercise must be a regular part of your way of life, and not something done spasmodically.

Schools Receive $441 Reimbursement

The Quincy public schools have received a $441.35 reimbursement for the secondary guidance program and the city-wide testing program under provisions of Title V-A of the National Defense Education Act, announces Stewart S. Sargent, Es '70 Federal Aid Coordinator.

The federal funding provides partial assistance for a guidance staff in each secondary school, where each counselor is responsible for educational, vocational and personal counseling for approximately 400 students. The staff will also meet with parents.

One phase of the guidance program is the administration of city-wide achievement and intelligence tests.

This fall all students in grades 6 and 8 will receive the California Achievement Test [CAT] and the California Test of Mental Maturity [CTMM].

Grade 10 at North Quincy High School also will be given both tests, while 10th grade at Quincy High and Quincy Voc-Tech Schools will receive only the CTMM because they will take the Iowa Test of Educational Development [ITED] later in the year.

Grades 2 and 4, usually tested annually with CAT and CTMM, will not be included this year. Grade 4 will be tested with the Differential Aptitude Test [DAT] this fall.

The guidance staff uses all data, including test results, to assist students in determining educational and vocational goals.

Sullivan Promoted By Shawmut Bank

Joseph P. Sullivan of 18 Buckingham Rd., Wollaston, has been elected an operations officer in the Administrative Division of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, announces Lawrence H. Martin, chairman.

A 1969 graduate of Bentley College of Accounting and Finance, he joined Shawmut in 1954 as a bookkeeper, and has served as assistant manager in the money transfer department, supervisor and assistant manager in the stock transfer department, and manager in the Plan Accounts Dept.

From 1958-64, he served in the Signal Corps of the Massachusetts National Guard.

Brett Thanks Candidates

Rep. Joseph E. Brett this week issued a "thank you" to all candidates who refrained from posting political signs during the primary election campaign.

In July Brett announced he would not post such signs throughout his district which comprises West Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy and he hoped that other candidates would follow the same course in the interest of maintaining a more attractive community.

"I'm sure the citizens of our fair city appreciate the thoughtfulness of all the candidates for public office who have restrained from cluttering and littering the community with political posters along every highway and by-way", Brett said.

After two decades in the business, thespian CHARLES BRONSON attains super star status with his most recent, "RIDER ON THE RAIN"... "TORA, TORA, TORA" opened to rave reviews and landslide business in theaters in Osaka and Tokyo, Japan... The reaction over here was just as enthusiatic as "TORA" did capacity business in the premiered, first-run cities of Honolulu, Los Angeles, and New York...

ROBERT DOWNEY of "PUTNEY SWOPE" fame goes from the ridiculous to the absurd in his latest "POUND"... It is the type of film they should pay customers to see... ROBERT REDFORD and MICHAEL J. POLLARD are splendid anti-heroes in "LITTLE FAUSS AND BIG HALSY"... POLLARD, you may recall, first hit it big as the bungling driver in "BONNIE AND CLYDE"... CARRIE SNODGRASS establishes herself as a star on the move with her excellent performance in the RICHARD BENJAMIN [GOOD-BYE COLUMBUS] co-starred, "DIARY OF A MAD HOUSEWIFE"... "EUGENIE" is one of the most disgusting, filthy motion pictures ever pre-screened by this reviewer. The film, if you can term it that, is a bizarre trip-out in DeSade sadism... Unfortunately "EUGENIE" is running at a first class Boston Theater, namely the WEST END CINEMA, and that itself is enough to lure the customers through the turnstiles... Probably after seeing this horror-fest, customers will think twice before spending inflation deflated dollars at the theater in question... The management showed no sense, and vulgar poor taste in having this film showcased at an otherwise respectable house... MARIE LILJEDAHL who hopped to fame in "INGA", has the star perverting role... More than likely Miss LILJEDHAHL will look back at "EUGENIE" as one of those darker moments in an otherwise successful career...

The re-release of "IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD" is a welcome breath of fresh air amongst the pollution of trash gracing contemporary screens... If you want a continuous belly-laugh, and a respite from the social problems of today, "WORLD" has to be your cup of tea. It is a definite pick-me-up, sporting an all star comedy cast... GEORGE PEPPARD flounders along in his quest for super star identity with his newest, "CANNON CORDOBA"... Will he ever find it?... Isn't the INGMAR BERGMAN cult just slightly overrated?... BERGMAN's "THE NAKED NIGHT" does nothing to enhance the mythology of his "out of proportion" reputation... Have you seen "JOE" yet?... If not, what are you waiting for?... The JIMI HENDRIX-JANIS JOPLIN tragedies, may turn off those anticipating thinking about turning on!...

Stephen Keefe Piano Student

Stephen Keefe, 17, son of Atty. and Mrs. Stephen T. Keefe, Sr., of 175 Rock Island Rd. Quincy, has entered as a piano student in the Berklee Division of Private Study, Berklee College of Music.

200 Volunteers Sought For Neponset River Cleanup

Two hundred volunteers are being sought by Mrs. Frank Yeomans, Quincy Conservation Committee chairman, for a "fun time, day in the open" cleanup of Neponset River banks Oct. 24.

Mrs. Yeomans of 115 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston and Mrs. Paul T. Perito of 1417 Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount, have been named Quincy co-chairmen of the "massive citizens cleanup".

Mayor James R. McIntyre, MDC Commissioner John W. Sears and Arthur W. Brownell, Commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources, are co-sponsors of the cleanup which will extend along the Neponset River and its tributaries from Boston to Foxboro.

"We are planning to meet with all the volunteers we can get from the community at the front door of North Quincy High School at 8 a.m. on the 24th", Mrs. Yeomans said.

"From there we will fan out in two directions across the banks of the Neponset on both sides of the bridges. We will work on what is now Jordan Marsh land where the access road is to be to the seaward side of the MBTA bridge.

"Then from the Milton line, we will work on the river banks along by Wollaston Golf Course and the Montclair marshes, now State Street Bank property. Both banks of the river will be cleaned by whatever volunteers show up," she said.

The group will receive help from the Public Works Department under Commissioner John Browne who will provide trucks and men. A survey is to be made this week to determine the number needed.

In a preliminary survey made by the Conservation Commission, Mrs. Yeomans reported that in addition to weathered timbers and other debris washed up by the tides, at least one refrigerator, old gas stove and tires had been found in the marshes.

Also, to the surprise of the group, Mrs. Yeomans said, they ran into animal wildlife on the marshes as well as birds.

Others involved in the Oct. 24 Neponset River Cleanup are Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Capt. Edward F. Fahey of the MDC Blue Hills Division, and Robert W. Stanhope, Director of the Trailside Museum.

Scout groups, service organizations, students and Quincy citizens are invited to join the cleanup by contacting Mrs. Yeomans or Mrs. Perito.

Boston Massacre Trials Historical Society Subject

"The Boston Massacre Trials, Justice in Paradox" will be the subject of Hiller B. Zobel at the Oct. 22 open meeting at 7:30 p.m. of the Quincy Historical Society at United First Parish Church.

This is a special program honoring John Adams and Josiah Quincy on the 200th anniversary of the Boston Massacre Trials, in which they played an eminent part.

Mr. Zobel is professor of law at Boston College Law School, author of the recently published book "The Boston Massacre" and co-editor of the legal papers of John Adams.

Attending the meeting will be representatives of the Massachusetts Revolutionary War Bicentennial Commission, the Quincy Revolutionary War Bicentennial Committee, the Massachusetts Bar Association, as well as the Bar Associations of Norfolk County and Quincy, and the American Society for Legal History.

H. Hobart Holly will preside at the business meeting.

Bernice C. Brown Named To Boston Executive Secretaries

Miss Bernice C. Brown of Quincy has been named to the Boston Chapter of Executive Secretaries, Inc.

Miss Brown is secretary to C. F. Machen, president of Boston Gas.

Executive Secretaries, Inc., with chapters throughout the U. S. and Canada, limits membership in any one chapter to 101 top noncompetitive business or professional classified firms.

Named associate member of the Boston Chapter from Boston Gas was Miss Patricia A. Garrity of Hyde Park.

ENC Enrollment Up 8.7 Per Cent, Fiscal Year Completed 'In Black'

Dr. Leslie Parrott, president of Eastern Nazarene College, announces an 8.7 per cent increase in student enrollment and that the fiscal year, ending June 30, was completed in the black.

Dr. Parrott who succeeded Dr. Edward S. Mann, Aug. 1, as seventh president of Eastern Nazarene College, made the disclosures in his first report to the Board of Trustees.

Fall enrollment totaled 851, compared to 777 in 1969.

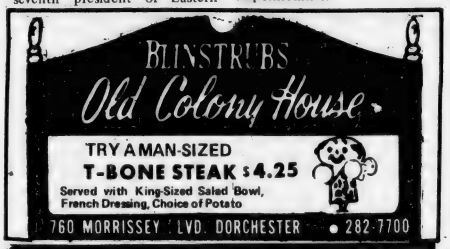
The new president said he viewed faculty welfare, student development and financial administration as his major responsibilities.

In line with this, he:

●Recommended establishment of a faculty relations committee to replace an ad hoc salaries committee which would consist of administrators, faculty members and trustees. The committee would make recommendations on faculty contracts, salary scales, tenure, sabbaticals and retirement.

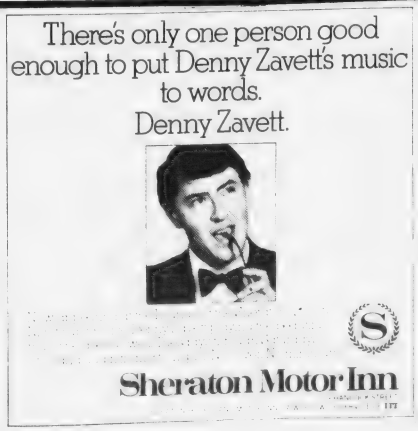
●Presented student leaders to the trustees who, in turn, explained a fund-raising plan for construction of a new gymnasium. Funds will come from student work days, and from foundations and grants solicited by student leaders.

●Recommended a formula for determining expenditures based on educational and general income [62 per cent]; auxiliary enterprises [28.1 per cent]; and student aid [9.9 per cent]. He also suggested the possibility of a tuition increase for 1971-72.

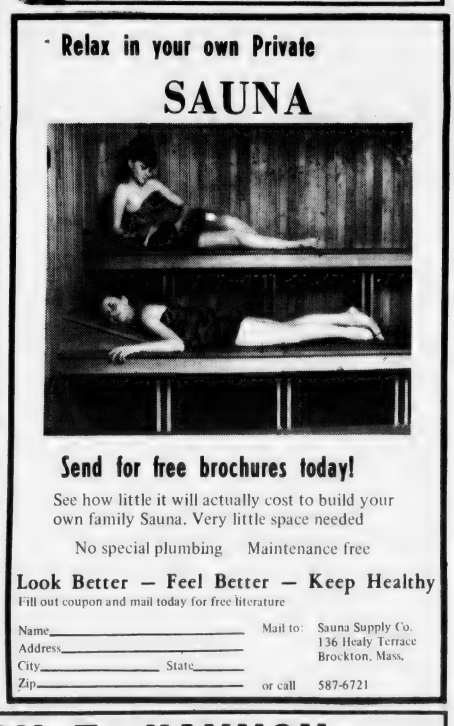


●One of six liberal arts colleges sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene, Eastern Nazarene College serves 480 churches and 35,000 members in the northeast.

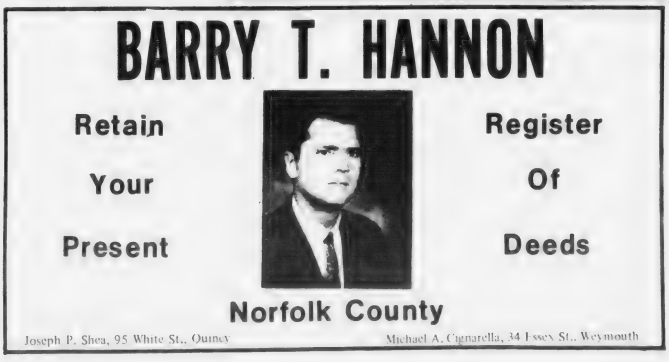
Eight new faculty members were introduced to the trustees. They are:



Dr. Floyd I. John, professor of mathematics; J. Gregory Larkin, associate professor of music; Miss Ruth Bullock, assistant professor of social work.



John U. Free, associate professor of physics; Jerold J. McCloy, assistant professor of mathematics; James Smith, assistant professor of physical education; Dr. J. J. Wheelbarger, assistant professor of education, and Merritt J. Nielsen, instructor in English.



Dr. Tardanico Re-Elected

Dr. Philip A. Tardanico of 792 Southern Artery, Quincy, has been re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern Massachusetts Chiropractic Society for 1970-71.

DEPT. OF PUBLIC WORKS

NOTICE OF HEARING ON STATE HIGHWAY LAYOUT
WAREHAM-PLYMOUTH-BOURNE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 5, Chapter 81 of the General Laws, Ter. Ed., as amended, the Department of public Works will give a public hearing in the Bourne Community Building on Main Street in Buzzards Bay on Thursday, November 19, 1970 at 7:30 PM to all persons interested in the construction of a section of Route 25 in Wareham, Plymouth and Bourne.

The project consists of the construction of a section of Route 25 from a point in Wareham just east of Cedar Pond extending northeasterly, north of Weeks Pond in Plymouth easterly passing east of Goat Pasture Pond in Bourne and thence southerly to the Bourne Bridge, a distance of approximately 5.3 miles.

This hearing is to be a design public hearing.

Plans showing the proposed project will be on display on Tuesday, November 17, 1970 from 2:00 PM to 8:00 PM at the Plymouth Town Office Building, on Wednesday, November 18, 1970 from 2:00 PM to 8:00 PM at the Wareham Town Hall, and on Thursday, November 19, 1970 from 2:00 PM to 7:30 PM at the Bourne Community Building. An Engineer will be in attendance during these displays to answer questions regarding the proposed project.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this Notice and up to five [5] days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the times and dates listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Daniel S. Horgan, Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date for receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten [10] days after this public hearing.

The Department's policy for 'Relocation Assistance' if required and tentative schedules for right of way acquisition and construction will be discussed at this hearing.

McIntyre Host

Donahue, White In Quincy Unity Get-Together Tonight

Senate President Maurice A. Donahue and Boston Mayor Kevin White--the man who wrested the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from him--tonight will share the spotlight at a Quincy unity get-together.

The affair, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Hall, Crescent St., West Quincy, is being hosted by Quincy Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre.

In letter invitations sent out to "Fellow Democrats", McIntyre referred to the event as "an appreciation buffet dinner" for their efforts in Donahue's behalf during the primary campaign.

In it, McIntyre, who was one of Donahue's top advisor's, noted he is also inviting White to the buffet and in effect endorses him without quite saying so.

McIntyre said "we need a Democratic Governor in Massachusetts" and "I hope we will be able to have a party unity to lead us to victory on Nov. 3."

The letters noted that the mailing of the invitations was paid for privately.

The letters read:

"Dear Fellow Democrat:

"On behalf of Maurice A. Donahue, might I kindly invite you to an appreciation buffet dinner for your efforts on his behalf to be held at St. Mary's Hall, Crescent Street, Quincy, on Thursday evening, October 15, 1970, 7:30 P.M. I personally wish to thank you for your efforts and time in the Donahue for Governor Campaign. I was proud to support this fine man and it is my sincere belief that he would have been one of the finest governors in the history of Massachusetts.

"However, this was not to be so, but now we wish to get everyone together and Maurice would like to thank each one personally who worked so hard throughout Norfolk County in his behalf - one of the Counties which he carried in the gubernatorial primary. I would also like to thank you, as the Senator from the Norfolk District, because many of you worked for Maurice upon my recommendation.

"There will be no charge for this affair and there will be dancing and entertainment. We feel it will be a good time for everyone. Please bring your spouse and any friends who have worked for Maurice who might not have received this invitation because of some omission.

"I am also inviting Kevin White, who was successful in the Democratic Primary and who is our nominee for governor of Massachusetts. In this critical time, it is my sincere belief that we need a Democratic Governor in Massachusetts if we are to solve the problems which plague the people of the Commonwealth. I know Kevin White will want to talk with you and meet you personally, and I hope we will be able to have a party unity to lead us to victory on November 3."

168 Permits For $79,496 Wiring In September

Some 168 permits representing wiring costing an estimated $79,496 were issued during September, reports City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts.

Fees for the permits amounted to $682.

Pitts said that 165 inspections were made during the month and 17 defects noted.

Major wiring projects during September, he reported, were:

-A new building for Norfolk County Trust Co., at 60 Quincy Shore Drive.

-A new addition to Retail Stores Delivery, 199 Commander Shea Boulevard.

Creedon Thanks Watson For Use Of N.Q. Library

Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has written Warren E. Watson, Director of Libraries, thanking him for permitting use of the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library by work-study students from North Quincy High School.

"I realize that the library does not normally open until 9 o'clock in the morning, and I appreciate that you and members of your department are willing to rearrange your schedules so as to accommodate the needs of our students and make the library available to them beginning at eight o'clock each morning," Creedon wrote.

He added that without use of the "excellent facilities" at the branch, the work-study program could not be maintained.

46 Local Legionnaires Attend Installation

Forty-six Legionnaires from Quincy on Saturday attended a joint installation of officers at Arnold Spencer Post in Bellingham, making the trip by bus.

Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon headed a delegation of 32 from Houghs Neck Legion Post; and Commander Arthur McIver, 12 from Robert Nickerson Post in Squantum. Norfolk County Executive Board member Eugene Young represented Morrisette Post and Sergeant-at-arms Arlan Rune, represented Quincy Post 95.

In the Norfolk County installing suite was Ernest T. Deveau of the Executive Committee, Finance Officer of the Houghs Neck Post.

The Houghs Neck Post's antique fire engine with crew will take part in Sunday's annual parade in Braintree for St. Coletta's School for exceptional children, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

$159,972 Raytheon Contracts

Government contracts totaling $159,972 for electronic supplies have been awarded the Raytheon Company, 465 Centre St., Quincy, by the Defense Supply Agency's Defense Electronics Supply Center in Dayton, Ohio.

The contracts call for 20,116 twin triode receiving electron tubes and 2,049 beam power amplifier electron tubes to be manufactured in accordance with military specifications at the plant in Quincy.

These are fixed-price supply type contracts awarded after competitive negotiations.

The Defense Electronics Supply Center procures, manages and supplies common electronic parts used by the armed services and various other government agencies.

'Tremendous Amount Of Heroin In City', Warns Burke

Drugs Problem 'Very Serious'

Quincy's drugs problem has now reached the "very serious" stage, according to Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke.

The county's chief law enforcement officer, last night told the Quincy Sun that:

- Drugs use by students at both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools is "sharply increasing."
- A "tremendous amount" of heroin is present in the city and it is being used by teen-agers.
- There is a growing--and dangerous--tendency here and elsewhere by people in general to "accept the drugs problem and try to learn to live with it."

"We have a very serious problem here in Quincy," Burke declared. "Our office has been receiving numerous reports from concerned mothers and fathers and from youths, too."

"Drugs use is definitely increasing here," Burke said. "We have confirmed there is a tremendous amount of heroin in Quincy and it is being used by teen-agers. But the use of all kinds of drugs is on the increase here."

"Drugs use by students at both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools is sharply increasing."

Burke, who has been waging a two-front war on drugs--enforcement and education--since taking office several years ago said there is still "too much apathy".

"A lot of people will acknowledge there is a drug problem but they won't do much about it," he said.

"They are beginning to accept drugs as a part of modern day life and are moving toward the philosophy that we might as well learn to live with it."

"But we can't live with something as terrible as drugs. We have got to fight it. We can't let drugs win."

Burke said that a drugs problem eats away like a cancer at a community, and eventually destroys it.

"This is a real danger," he said. "People should be up in arms about drugs--fighting it, not accepting it as a way of modern life."

Burke said he hoped that proponents of the Survival, Inc., program and critics will work together.

"I hope the differences are resolved and all work together to help solve the drugs problem in Quincy.

"We have all got to row together. Or we are going to sink together."

Launch Petition Drive To 'Save' Wollaston Golf Club

A city-wide petition drive is underway to have City Council amend the zoning ordinance to keep the Wollaston Golf Course as "open space".

The effort is spearheaded by the Montclair Men's Club and Quincy citizens who have proposed that the golf club be taken over by the Metropolitan District Commission as an MDC Golf Club in order to retain the "open space".

Persons interested in signing the petition, or in assisting in circulating it, may call Vincent Cook, petition chairman at 279 West Squantum St., or Joseph N. Gildea of 45 Division St., Civic Committee Chairman of the Montclair Men's Club, at 479-5515, who will deliver the petitions.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, active on the committee, has already filed a new bill in the legislature asking that the MDC take over the Golf Course.

The petition reads:

"Be it known to all that the undersigned citizens of Quincy, Massachusetts, do hereby respectfully petition his Honor the Mayor and City Council of said City to amend the zoning ordinance of the City to designate as "open space" or keep as residential zone "A" the land area lying within the boundaries of said city and known as the Wollaston Golf Course.

8-Member Panel To Air Referenda

A panel of eight persons will discuss ballot questions both pro and con at tonight's 8 p.m. meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Palmer and Sea Sts.

Represented on the panel will be city officials, knowledgeable citizens, and LWV members.

Mrs. John Toland, League Voter Service Chairman, is coordinating the program.

Ward 4 City Councillor Albert Barilaro will speak for the first referendum question, a "YES" vote on classification of property. John Dane, Jr., former State Tax Commissioner, will be the opposition speaker.

Change of residency requirements, the second ballot question, will be explained briefly by League member Mrs. Ralph Kolodny.

The third ballot question, allowing 19-year olds to vote, will be discussed by Stephen Druckenmiller, a Quincy Junior College student in favor of the amendment. The League supports question three and urges a "YES" vote.

Mrs. John Kane, immediate past president of the Quincy LWV, will outline the main points of question four, the Quinn amendment calling for

ENC Enrollment Up By 70

A total of 853 students enrolled at Eastern Nazarene College at fall registration - an increase of 70 over last year.

Twenty-seven states are represented, including 758 students from the Eastern Educational Zone and another 83 from states off the zone.

[Massachusetts has 306, Pennsylvania 141, New York 96, Maine 63, Vermont 10, New Hampshire 10, Connecticut 24, Rhode Island 12, New Jersey 38, Maryland 38 and Virginia 20.]

Freshman class enrollment is 292 in addition to 65 entering transfer students. The student body consists of 419 men and 434 women, which includes 15 graduate students.

DAV Adjutant Urges 'Write North Vietnam'

Disabled American Veterans State Adjutant Joseph R. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, is taking an active part in a campaign urging people to write the North Vietnam Embassy in Paris, regarding prisoners of war.

"We believe if we can flood the North Vietnam Embassy in Paris, with letters it not alone will help to have the names of POW's released, but could possibly speed up the peace talks," states Robert C. Hagopian, State DAV Commander.

GET A CHECKUP

Most people want to live longer but no body wants to grow old. Everyone, young and old, needs a regular periodic physical checkup, the Massachusetts Medical Society advises.

Sunbeams

Roy A. Lawson, chairman of the Quincy Republican City Committee for the past six years, has resigned effective the day after the Nov. 3 state election.

He gives "pressure of personal business" as his reason for stepping down.

THERE are three somewhat hoarse throats at the home of City Councillor-Rep. and Mrs. Clifford Marshall. But it has nothing to do with political campaigning.

Three of their youngsters, Clifford, III, 7, Michael, 5, and Paul, 3, underwent tonsillectomies at Doctor's Hospital in Roslindale.

QUINCY will soon lose Norfolk County Clerk of Courts John P. Concannon as a resident. A Milton boy, he's been living in an Independence Ave., South Quincy apartment with his wife, the former Janice Monahan.

But they now have a two months old son, Patrick, and want to settle in a home of their own. Their new address will be 71 Bower Rd., Braintree, effective Nov. 1.

Incidentally, did you know that Mrs. Concannon's father, Edward Monahan, was formerly town manager of Norwood?

WHICH REMINDS US: Former Quincy City Manager Edward [Red] Lewis, who later served as executive secretary to Mayors Amelio Della Chiesa and James R. McIntyre, will be 65 Saturday. Congratulations and many more, Red.

OLD FRIEND Hector Pelletier, secretary-treasurer, Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Assn., passes this along from the association's current news-letter: Good advice to juveniles who seem to know all these days. Listen to your parents. Sure you have to learn things for yourself. But they like to avoid replacing your front teeth and could do without having a policeman at your front door."

Honor VFW Commanding Officers

Norfolk County Veterans of Foreign Wars commanding officers were honored recently at a banquet held at the Dedham Post Home.

Norfolk County Commander Glen Perry, past commander of George F. Bryan VFW Post, Quincy, and Norfolk County Auxiliary President Mrs. Florence Piscitello, past president of the George F. Bryan VFW Auxiliary, were guests of honor.

Mrs. Piscitello was presented by her Auxiliary officers with a life membership to the National Home, among other gifts.

Among the 150 guests attending were Department Commander and Mrs. Richard Lawler from Quincy, and Department President Ethel Clement of Fairhaven, along with Past Department President Hazel Babbitt of Quincy.

Congressman Burke To Speak At UN Program Friday

Congressman James A. Burke will be principal speaker at the United Nations Day program in front of City Hall, Friday at noon.

Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, UN Day chairman, will introduce the program. There will be remarks by Mayor James R. McIntyre and the reading of the Mayor's Proclamation by Anthony Famigletti, co-chairman.

Opening and closing devotions will be led by Rev. Joseph Downey of St. Joseph's Church, and the Rev. Elden Zuern of Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Band selections will be by the Quincy High School Band. Color details from various veterans organizations have been invited to take part, and there will be Police and Fire Color Guards.

Mayor McIntyre in his official proclamation emphasized the 25th Anniversary of the United Nations and wrote, in part:

"I urge all citizens of Quincy to use that day for community programs which will serve to stimulate a realistic understanding of the purposes, achievements, and limitations of the United Nations and its family of agencies. I call upon all citizens to make known on UN Day and throughout this Anniversary Year, our dedication to the human values which we in this country hold to be self-evident, and to give our best efforts to the development of a United Nations capable of fulfilling its high purposes for all mankind."

How Quincy Legislators Voted On 13 Key Issues

The Quincy League of Women Voters has compiled the following Quincy delegation roll call on 13 selected issues during the 1970 legislature.

Mrs. David Coletti, president, notes that the League of Women Voters supported issues No. 1, 10, 13 but took no stand on the other 10.

The Quincy League will hold an informal meeting with state legislature candidates Oct. 29 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Nathan Paven, 40 Wollaston Ave., Wollaston.

The public is cordially invited to attend and talk to the legislators about their voting record.

The Quincy Beacon Hill delegation comprises Sen. James R. McIntyre, and Reps. Arthur H. Tobin, Clifford H. Marshall, Joseph E. Brett and Walter J. Hannon. All but Hannon are Democrats.

1. HOUSE CUT: The initiative amendment to reduce the size of the House to 160 members was defeated when less than one-fourth of the members [70] voted in the affirmative in joint session on Feb. 25. The vote was 69 Yeas, 191 Nays, with 16 absent or not voting and one answering "Present". Sen. McIntyre, Reps. Brett, Hannon, Marshall, Tobin voted Nay.

2. MASS TRANSPORTATION: The amendment to permit the expenditure of money from the Highway Fund [gas tax] for mass transportation purposes was advanced in joint session on May 13 by a vote of 135-120. [Another roll call will be taken later this year.] Sen. McIntyre, Reps. Marshall, Hannon and Tobin voted Yea. No vote is recorded for Rep. Brett.

3. LOCK-OUT BENEFITS: The Bill to provide for the payment of unemployment benefits to employees who are "locked out" during a labor dispute [S262] was enacted and then vetoed by the governor. [In Massachusetts, unemployment compensation is financed entirely by employers.] The Bill was advanced in the Senate on Jan. 27 by a vote of 21-17. A motion to defeat the Bill by referring it to "next annual session" failed to carry the House on a roll call of 102-110 on Feb. 10. [A Yea vote in the Senate is for lock-out benefits; a Yea vote in the House is against lock-out benefits.] Sen. McIntyre voted Yea. All representatives voted Nay - meaning all support lock-out benefits.

4. WITNESS IMMUNITY: The Bill to grant immunity to witnesses under certain conditions [H2891] was enacted and signed by the governor. The Bill was passed by the House by a vote of 188-22 on April 13. The Senate passed the Bill by a vote of 21-16 on June 1. Sen. McIntyre and Reps. Hannon, Marshall and Brett voted Yea. No vote is recorded for Rep. Tobin.

5. STATE LOTTERY: A Bill to establish a state lottery [S1318] was passed by the Senate by a vote of 20-19, but defeated in the House when a motion to refer it to "next annual session" carried by a vote of 128-97 on April 1. [A Yea vote in the Senate is for a state lottery; a Yea vote in the House is to defeat a state lottery.] Sen. McIntyre voted Yea. Reps. Hannon and Brett voted Yea to defeat bill. Reps. Tobin and Marshall voted Nay to pass bill.

6. VIETNAM: The Bill defining the rights of Massachusetts inhabitants inducted or serving in the military forces of the U.S. [H5165 - "Shea Bill"] was enacted and signed by the governor. The measure was passed in the House by a vote of 136-89 on March 16; and in the Senate by a vote of 33-6 on March 24. Sen. McIntyre, Reps. Hannon and Marshall voted Yea. Reps. Tobin and Brett voted Nay.

7. ABORTION LAWS: After the Bill [H1113] to abolish the crime of abortion was killed in the House, a subsequent motion to substitute a resolve to study the matter was rejected by a vote of 94-127 on March 23. [A Yea vote is for a study of abortion laws.] All four representatives voted Nay.

8. BIRTH CONTROL: The motion to substitute the bill [H520] to repeal the law regulating the use of contraceptives and family planning, rather than accept an unfavorable committee report, was defeated by a vote of 81-142 in the House on March 24. All four representatives voted Nay.

9. SEX EDUCATION: A motion to refer to "next annual session" [defeat] a bill [H5730] that would prohibit courses in sex education and family planning in public schools, failed by two votes on June 1, but on reconsideration, the motion carried by a vote of 113-105. A Yea vote is to defeat the bill; a Nay vote would keep the bill alive. All four representatives voted Nay to keep bill alive to prohibit sex education in schools.

10. DISCRIMINATION IN HOUSING: The Bill [H114] to make anti-discrimination laws applicable to two-family, owner-occupied houses was favorably reported in the House. The motion to refer it to "next annual session" carried by a vote of 130-85 on May 4. A Yea vote is against the bill. All four representatives voted Yea.

11. A Bill enabling cities and towns to control rents and evictions [S1327] was substituted for an unfavorable committee report by a roll call of 20-16 in the Senate on March 30. [The Bill was referred to Senate Ways & Means, awaiting further action.] Sen. McIntyre voted Yea

12 POLICE POWERS FOR REGISTRY PERSONNEL: The Bill authorizing additional Registry of Motor Vehicles personnel to exercise police powers [H1766] was passed by the legislature and vetoed by the governor. On July 13, two-thirds of the members of each branch voted to pass the bill over the objections of the governor. The vote was 126-63 in the House and 27-12 in the Senate. Sen. McIntyre and Reps. Marshall and Tobin voted Yea; Rep. Hannon, Nay; Rep. Brett, not recorded.

13. HOUSING: The Bill providing for additional housing programs [H5877] was passed in the House by a vote of 201-16 on June 29. All Quincy legislators voted Yea.

JUST A NOTE!

for those of you who like music - and who doesn't? - there will be a FREE MUSICALE at the Baldwin Studios, Rte. 18, South Weymouth on Friday, Oct. 23rd, at 7:30 p.m.

Nationally Famous Organs FRANK STITT will be playing. I heard him a few years ago and he was excellent. Many of you have already seen the new Baldwin Piano and Organ Studios on Rte. 18 opposite Stetson Shoe. You will have noticed that, charming as it already was, it is getting a facelift and promises to be quite a showplace when completed. The interior will also be remodeled - probably in the spring - and until then friends and customers are asked to turn a blind eye to a little wear in the rug or a chip in the paint work!

The quality of Baldwin instruments and the friendliness and helpfulness of their staff remains of the highest standard. Friday will be an informal evening. Come any time - Leave any time.

The coffee pot will be on and music lovers will be welcome. Try to stop by and enjoy an hour or so of good entertainment.

Sincerely,

Anne Bryant

Fall Coats Play The Fake Skin Game

VESTED INTEREST—Naman lets you play the fake skin game close to the chest in this dashing midi coat. It's done with a python-grained vinyl vest and matching coat buttons. The detachable vest is belted high on the water-repellent coat to highlight the long sweep of skirt.

Conservationists take note: coats take a hide-bound attitude for fall, 1970, but they go to great lengths to conserve wild life by playing a skin-game that's purely fake.

Winning skins in the fashion game are cottons that look like lizard, snake, crocodile, ocelot, leopard, tiger, calf, buck, and pony—you name it and you can find its equivalent in cotton.

The fake skins turn up in vinyl-coated cotton prints that are richly grained in reptile patterns or in soft cotton suedes, ribless corduroys, and velveteens with authentic-looking pelt markings.

Style-wise, the standard topper for fall is the reed-slim midi coat that offers practical protection against the cold. Most are belted for a long, slim look . . . some take over-vests for added interest.

It's a season when fashion offers options and hemlines, of course, are among the most obvious choices.

Besides the midi, coats show up in lengths that hover around the knee . . . a few inches above or below. Even minis are still in evidence for those who prefer to take the shorter view of fashion.

Other options include single vs. double-breasted stylings, and capes or ponchos instead of coats.

THE SKIN GAME—Coats take a hide-bound attitude for fall, as evidenced in this midi that looks like real snakeskin. Made from reptile-printed cotton covered with vinyl, the coat is water-proof and can be dry-cleaned. A wide black belt accents the Smart Maid of California design.

Poet's Corner

My Prayer

By
Margaret DeAngelo

God, give me strength to live each day,
With hope for all that's right.
Then give me the courage too;
To face the darkest night.

Slow down the sun in setting,
To lengthen every day,
And keep your light before me;
Lest I should lose my way.

Let righteousness impel me
To reach the goal I seek.
And let there be some wisdom
In words that I may speak.

God, grant me time that I may give
What thankfulness I can,
For love and inspiration -
And faith in my fellow-man.

Glory

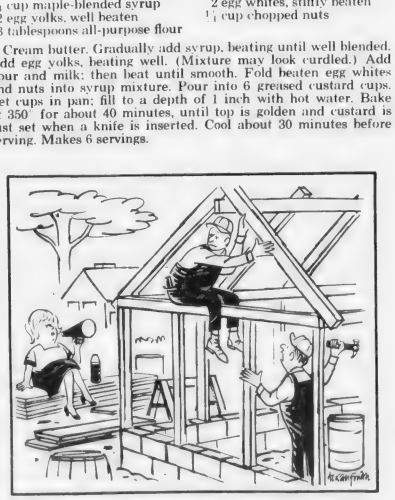
By
Priscilla Laveaga
91 Cross St., Belmont

The greatness of a nation springs
Not from the freedom it has won,
Not from its wars and reckonings,
Nor from the stockpiles it has wrung.

The grandeur of a people lies
Not in the structures they have built,
Not in the heights their towers rise,
Nor in the dreams they have fulfilled.

The glory of a nation stems
From the numbers therein disposed
To give homage and obedience
To the unenforceable laws.

A Twist On Puff Pudding



Whether your mother called it puff pudding or pudding cake, it was probably one of your dad's (and your) favorite desserts. Did you know that there's a Log Cabin Syrup version to go along with the ever popular chocolate and lemon? It has the same cake-like top and soft custard underneath that have pleased families for generations.

Maple-Flavored Puff Pudding

2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup maple-blended syrup
2 egg yolks, well beaten
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup cold milk
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
½ cup chopped nuts

Cream butter. Gradually add syrup, beating until well blended. Add egg yolks, beating well. (Mixture may look curdled.) Add flour and milk; then beat until smooth. Fold beaten egg whites and nuts into syrup mixture. Pour into 6 greased custard cups. Set cups in pan; fill to a depth of 1 inch with hot water. Bake at 350° for about 40 minutes, until top is golden and custard is just set when a knife is inserted. Cool about 30 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Week of Oct. 23 - Oct. 30

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - This can be an unsettled week as plans and ideas are changed. Mid-week meetings with key people solves petty problems.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Public affairs have your full attention but the people around you are not acting the way you think they should this week.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - There isn't much you can do about what is going on but throw in your suggestions anyway, a few of them may be used.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - A good week for you - as your ideas are discussed and then put to use. Seek solution to children's problems now.

LEO [July 23-Aug.22] - Family affairs keep you busy. Your social life is practically nil and what there is of it, you are not enjoying.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Spending money on lectures, meetings, reading material. Neighborhood activities have your full support and enthusiasm.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - You are feeling optimistic as you plan a busy month ahead - spending some of that extra money that has come in lately.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - If you head in the right direction this month, it can be an outstanding time in your life. But use some common sense.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Secret talks with the right man toward middle of the week, could put you one step ahead of everyone else.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Invitations are coming in the mail this week - accept what you can because you will have a ball. Talks are stimulating.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - You have a great many irons on the fire at this point - and now you are thinking of adding one more. Payoff is next year.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Now is the time to take the trip you have been planning - it may even open up a new opportunity for you so keep watch.

It's Trick or Treat Time Again...

This time of the year seems to have a way of coming around the corners faster and faster each time the course is run. Each year brings the new challenge of meeting this day and every day with fortitude and determination.

Every time I see the little kids trudging up to the door with chocolate-smeared mouths, they seem younger and cuter. Maybe that's because mine are growing older, and indeed, may even bypass this landmark holiday this year. Nostalgia aside, why not try coping with this holiday by banning candy as gifts this year. Three pennies wrapped in silver foil make a shiny and tinkly contribution to those bulging bags.

With this method you won't have to fight rewarding yourself each time the doorbell rings.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Ambrose C. Powers To Be Installed Morrisette Post Commander Oct. 24

Ambrose C. Powers, newly-elected commander of Morrisette American Legion Post and his new suite of officers will be installed in public ceremonies Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. He succeeds Florentino M. Campitelli.

Among the "new officers" is J. Henry Sullivan, who will be installed as chaplain for the 36th time.

Commander-elect Powers, employed by the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries, is a Coast Guard World War II veteran of North Atlantic and Arctic Ocean operations. He and his wife, Daphne, have three daughters, Carol, Lori and Kathy, and live at 29 Reardon St., West Quincy.

Others to be installed with Commander Powers are Loretto J. Bersani, first vice commander; Joseph F. Greene, second vice commander; Lawrence A. Carnali, third vice commander; Richard J. Beaton, finance officer; Francis E. Mullen, adjutant; George J. Moore, sergeant-at-arms; and Garry M. Haggerty, historian.

Nicholas M. Malvesti, Gino J. Giorgi, Robert Pettiti, Richard Lotterhand, Joseph V. Valorz, William F. Sawyer and Americo Giorgi will be installed as Post Executive Committee members. Atty. Paul A. M. Hunt has been appointed judge advocate for 1970-71.

Hunt will also be chairman and master of ceremonies for the installation. Past Department Commander Leo F. Malloy of Cambridge will be the featured speaker and installing officer. He is now American Legion National Executive Committeeman from Massachusetts.

Past Commanders of the Post are also expected to take part in the installation.

Marshall Plans 'Office Hours'

Rep. Clifford Marshall is again planning a series of "office hours" at which Quincy residents may visit and discuss civic problems with him.

This is open to all residents, and not limited to Wards 2 and 3, which he represents, he said.

He plans to drop into Thursday's 'coffee hour' for mothers on Oct. 22 at 10:30 a.m. at the South-West Community Council Center on Granite St., and will hold "office hours" there Oct. 23, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

On Nov. 6, he will be at the City Hall Council Chambers from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. to talk with interested citizens, and on Nov. 17, he will be at Fore River Clubhouse from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m.

DISEASES ARE TAXES

Diseases are the taxes on ill pleasures. Excessive use of tobacco, alcohol and harmful drugs can be injurious, the Massachusetts Medical Society says.

What would Halloween be without a jack-o'-lantern?

With the bright blue sky above and the red and gold leaves, crisp new apples, cider and a fat round pumpkin, all belong to the early fall season. Could you ever think of a fall party being complete without a pumpkin pie? -- when one pound of the fresh vegetable will yield about one cup of mashed pumpkin.

When shopping for pumpkins, be sure you choose them the same way you would winter squash, looking for a firm hard rind and a heavy weight in relation to size.

The jack-o'-lantern is an excellent face pumpkin that is seen everywhere at Halloween time which is excellent for carving. The skin is bright orange, smooth, firm and thick. Fruits are medium size and have round to elongated shapes.

The small sugar pumpkin is great for canning and pie making. Many are sold locally for decorative purposes and for face pumpkins. They are round slightly ribbed fruits about 7 inches in diameter with bright orange skin. Rice orange-yellow flesh is sweet and fine grained.

Just in case some one should ask where pumpkins were first seen, you can say they were cultivated by the Indians on the Island of Nantucket and seen by the earliest settlers; there was, however, but one kind, the small warted pumpkins. From this peculiar variety, the common field pumpkin is supposed to have originated. Halloween like many of our other holidays comes down to us from pagan times, modified by observances of the Christian church.

Cold weather has put an end to many of the tender vegetables coming from our local farms, from now on we will have to depend to the southern-states for our supplies.

Florida has started to ship eggplant and summer squash. Demand has been good for these vegetables. According to the wholesale market, prices have been lower for cabbage, carrots, grapefruit, grapes, pears, peppers and sweet potatoes.

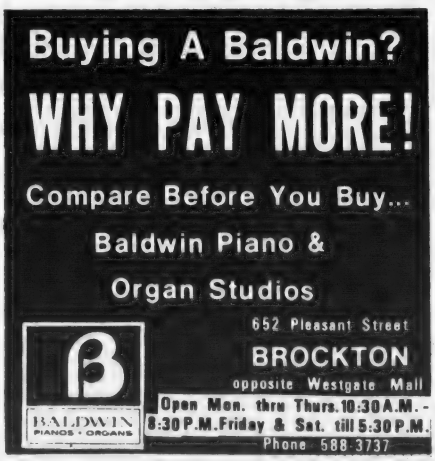
GOOD BUYS FROM LOCAL FARMS: Apples - McIntosh, Cortlands, Crab, Delicious; Broccoli, Cabbage, Carrots, Cauliflower, Dandelions, Boston Lettuce, Romaine Lettuce, Parsnips, Potatoes, Pumpkins; Squash - Acorn, Hubbard, Butternut, Turban.

MEAT & POULTRY: We hear so much about meat inspection these days and some times we wonder where it starts. Well, the U.S. Department of Agriculture must approve the lay-out of each federally inspected plant, as well as the equipment and facilities, to assure that they lend themselves to proper cleaning and to sanitary operation, and the Federal inspectors each day makes sure that the plant is kept sanitary. This holds true to our new wholesale meat market which is located on the Southeast Expressway. We can rest assured that inspection will continue and get better as the days go on, which will be to the advantage of all of us.

GOOD MEAT BUYS: Bottom Round, Boneless Rump, Porterhouse, Top-of-the Round, Boneless Chuck Steaks are all on sale, Chicken Parts, Roasting Chicken and Bottom of Round Roasts are also sale items. Its a great week for meat and potatoes.

"WEEKLY RECIPE"
GOBLIN SANDWICHES

Cut thinly-sliced dark bread into rounds with a biscuit cutter. Spread one-half of the sandwich with pimento and a cheese mixture that has been moistened with mayonnaise or boiled dressing. Place on top piece and decorate with rounds of olives or cherries for goblins eyes. Make nose and mouth with strips of pimento.



Charlie Chaplin Films At Adams Shore Library Oct. 28

A Charlie Chaplin film fest Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. will be the first in a series of programs for young adults at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Three films will be shown during the hour-long program which is under the direction of Miss Betty Santangelo, reference librarian. Admission is free by tickets which may be obtained at the circulation desk of the Adams Shore Branch.

The programs are planned for students from seventh grade age through high school and college.

'Married Yet Not Married'

The blending of two individuals into one unit which we call MARRIAGE is quite an achievement. A third of the people who try fail. A larger percent continue to live together...but in an unhappy state. A few...probably very few are really married.

Beautiful words are spoken at the marriage altar..."Wilt thou have this woman/man to be thy wedded wife/husband...to live together in the holy estate of matrimony?" Only in the western comedy movie does a bride or groom say "No." Standing there in white gown and tuxedo in front of the sacred altar...both are coached to say "I will."

But the wedding service is only the beginning of being united in marriage. Wedding rings and clergyman's words do not unite two people. They are the beginning of the process of uniting...so that there will be fulfillment and happiness.

There are many actions...changes...decisions that must take place before two are really married. Take material things. It's no longer "my money"..."my bills"..."my piano"..."my boat"...if we are really married these things become "our" possessions..."our" responsibilities ..."our" home..."our job"...not objects of competition or quarrels.

Take emotional matters. Some people are married yet not married because they have not cut the ties of childhood. Says the good book..."man/woman leaves mother and father and clings to wife/husband." Too many still cling to a parent...unable to go all the way into really being married. Some parents don't help much because they cling to their son/daughter.

Some people are married yet not married in that they cannot abandon themselves to their partner...in full trust...full sharing...full acceptance...full giving. This takes courage...it takes adulthood...it takes commitment...it calls for risk. But without these we can't go all the way in really being married.

The problem of really being married may be more acute in some second marriages because the partners are older...more set in their ways...and often children complicate the relationship. You second marriage men...don't punish your present wife for what your first wife did to you. You second marriage women...don't be suspicious of your present husband because your first husband was a rascal. All men are different and all women are different. Hopefully your second is better than your first. You do have an advantage in knowing what does and what doesn't work in a marriage. So turn your unfortunate first marriage into an asset...learn from the traumatic experiences...change in your life what didn't work...practice the things that did work...so that you now can really be married.

One of the master keys to really being married is communication...talking through to full understanding of the feelings and needs each has...differences...sharing fears...troubles...hurts ...weaknesses. Above all persevere until you resolve whatever matter is keeping you from really being married.

Of this I think we would all agree...you cannot be both single and married. But neither can you "have your cake and eat it too."

Health High-Lights

By Jack Silverstein

NEW YORK'S SAD EXAMPLE

Local communities concerned with the spread of drug addiction may be witnessing only the scratching of the surface of what this problem can balloon into. New York City's experience should be viewed as to its ugly potential.

Want some hard facts? Health officials have announced that drug abuse has become New York's main public health problem. Narcotics, chiefly heroin, now are the leading killer of all New Yorkers under the age of 35. Deaths from this epidemic are rising rapidly each year. Last year among persons 15-35 years of age, almost 800 died from narcotics, exceeding those from accidents [570], homicides [525], suicides [345] and cancer [420]. At least one fourth of last year's deaths caused directly by drugs occured among teenagers.

So, here you have a picture of what can happen in a drug epidemic if it's not thwarted early and by all possible means.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Harold Crowley To Attend Seminar

Harold S. Crowley, Jr. of 3 Flagg St., Wollaston, a sixth grade teacher at Snug Harbor School, is one of 14 United States educators who, in December, will attend a four-day United Kingdom Science Teachers Association Seminar in Sussex, England.

Crowley, making the trip at his own expense, says "We will exchange ideas from teachers all over the world, and those I pick up will be applicable in the classroom upon my return."

A member of the Quincy Education Association, Crowley also holds a part-time instructor's position at Eastern Nazarene College. He received both his bachelor's degree and master's degree in education from Northeastern University.

Crowley, discharged from the Army Signal Corps as a first lieutenant, has been active for the past 23 years in scouting, and for seven years has been Scoutmaster of Troop 20 at Massachusetts Fields School.

An-Ida Shop Partners Retiring After 22 Years

Ann Galpin and Ida M. Kimball, partners in An-Ida Corset Shop, Inc. for 22 years, are closing the doors Nov. 7.

The shop which started on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy near its present location, moved to Granite St. for a number of years, and now will close at 1516 Hancock St., less than a block from where the business first opened.

"We both have plenty of things to do," "An" said for the partnership. "There is church work, and social work, driving for the blind–I wait on tables one night a week at 1000 Southern Artery.

"Ida is a member of Central Baptist Church and sings in the choir. And we will travel. I have one daughter and three grandchildren–Ida has no children."

In the meantime, everything must go, and the partners are working hard looking forward not to a long rest, but to different activities.

Looking For Good Buys?

P.O. Auction Oct. 29

The Boston Post Office will hold its pre-Christmas auction sale of unclaimed merchandise Oct. 29, starting at 9 A.M. in the basement area of the South Postal Annex.

Public inspection of the merchandise can be viewed at the same location Oct. 28 between the hours of 10 A.M. and 2 P.M. A catalog listing the items on sale will be available to the public at that time.

Among the items listed are stereos, tape recorders, typewriters, clothing, books, household appliances of all types, jewelry of all types, and hundreds of other articles for home and business.

Officer-in-Charge, George K. Walker, in commenting on the large amount of items offered for sale at this auction, pointed out the need for customers to follow a few basic rules before mailing. Always include, he said, a duplicate address inside each package, a return address in case of non-delivery and to wrap securely.

Walker recommends to the public a pamphlet called "How to Pack And Wrap Parcels for Mailing", published by the Post Office Department and available to customers, at no cost.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

Let's talk about little matters today. Small, irritating habits and pathologies - disturbing to parents, annoying to children.

Nail biting - present since man first became a unit in the family - is practiced and enjoyed by probably a billion people. Yet, what a fuss is made of it. Traditionally, mothers start harping about it very early - with admonition that it is socially tabu. Having done it all my life - on occasion - I do not agree that it should be criticized.

Why do you suppose that we do bite our nails [onychophagia]. It is alleged that it is an emotional outlet. Constant reminding - restricting - criticizing - nagging - makes the child take it out on himself, rather than fight back. The nails are available, they belong to you alone - and gnawing is as effective as jawing. Hurt yourself - not your parent.

Nail biters are said to be aggressive and choose a passive way to avoid rebellion and battle with the ever constant, boring - such as: "do this! - do that! - How stupid can you be? - How many times do I have to tell you what or how to do things, Mary never did that - Jimmy never did it - why can't you be like them?" .. etc., ad nauseam!

If the parent is even worse and the finger nails have been bitten to the quick, there are always the toes - and the contortionist child readily assaults the lower digits. Versatile isn't he?

Nail biting usually means too much pressure from one or both parents - of course, if both parents chew their nails, why shouldn't the kid? He does! Outside help to gently encourage stopping the habit is necessary - parents can help by laying off the pressure. The only reason for stopping the habit is the commoness of infection. Nail biting is related to thumb sucking, a sort of post-graduate habit.

Next we go to nose picking - another delightful habit - not so pleasant to look at, but a nice pastime.

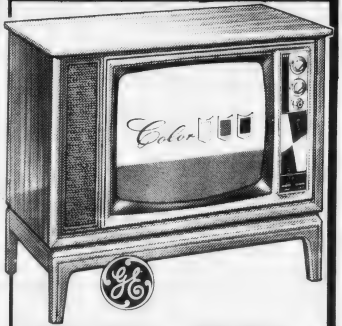
This passive and active experience is something we all do - admit it - what's so wrong with it? In our silent presence, we all practice it. Every driver waiting for a light to change while day-dreaming, does it. Wouldn't we have obstructed nose passages if we didn't clean them out? Remember, everywhere in the world humans do this, anything that universal can't be bad. In our decorum, we make it so - silly, isn't it. It too has a hazard - the boil in the nasal passage. Wow!

A pig-sty or hordeolum is a painful abscess at the base of an eyelash, it can be exquisitely sensitive. A single boil here isn't too significant, but multiple abscesses require lab tests to rule out diabetes. Also, some hair shampoos may contribute. I recommend the use of Phisohex or Ivory soap for hair washing. The local treatment consists of hot wet soaks and an antibiotic ointment such as neosporin or neopolycin. Antibiotics may be needed if the styes are multiple and recurring.

Blepharites, or dry lids at the margins, may precede pig-styes - this condition can also be related to hair shampoos. I also believe that sweets and carbonated drinks may contribute to styes.

Tics are little nervous mannerisms such as eye blinks, twitches reperformed frequently, snorting, clearing of the nose or recurring small coughs with no attendant respiratory infections. These persistent spasms gripe the heck out of parents and teachers. They are not evidence of disease and really don't need treatment or eye exam. They are involuntary actions intended, I am told, to attract attention. This response - it certainly gets!

The best advice if no pathology is found, and it rarely is, should be to ignore the spasms and fortunately, most clear up in time. A psychologist is the best therapist if the habit is disrupting family relations.



The little things in life do occasionally stir the biggest fuss. What would our existence be without annoyances?

McIntyre, Bellotti Help

Dukakis Whirls Through Quincy

Sixteen campaign stops is merely a "typical" day for Michael Dukakis, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor who visited the Quincy Sun office on Tuesday with City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

The pressure on him is no greater with his running mate, gubernatorial candidate Kevin White in the hospital, Dukakis says.

"Kevin's illness has consolidated the organization," Dukakis claims. "Kathryn, his wife, has been a tremendous inspiration.

Kathryn, Ted Kennedy and Frank Bellotti and others have taken up the slack beautifully, so that actually there has been no slack in the schedule. With only two weeks to go, there is no time to relax."

"I started this morning at 6 a.m. at General Dynamics, then Raytheon, and have been going ever since," Dukakis recounted. "A scheduled bedside visit with the Mayor [McIntyre], my headquarters, two Plymouth newspapers and radio station, Quincy police headquarters, 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy City Hall, Kennedy Health Center, to Boston City Hall to Brockton, tonight to Worcester."

"This is a typical day, whether or not White is campaigning. Originally we planned that we would be campaigning as intensively, except that he would come into greater Quincy and I would go into the adjoining communities," Dukakis explained.

McIntyre, who was also hospitalized earlier this week, has kept up his end of the activity, according to Dukakis and Tobin.

"Mayor McIntyre is asking all his friends and associates in elected government to back the Kennedy-White-Dukakis ticket 100%," Tobin added.

Peter Bizinkauskas Receives Doctor Of Education Degree

Peter A. Bizinkauskas, reading specialist at Broad Meadows Junior High School, has received his doctor of education degree from Boston University's School of Education.

Dr. Bizinkauskas has served as chairman of the English Department at the school. He is a Phi Delta Kappa, national honor society for men in education, is a member of the board of directors of the Boston Chapter of the International Reading Association as well as a member of the Quincy Education Association.

The father of five children, Dr. Bizinkauskas is active in CYO, and directed the production of two Gilbert and Sullivan operettas for the group. He has also taught guitar and piano in the Neighborhood School Center in Quincy, and several years ago received the Pro Deo et Juventute Award.

In addition to this he has coached two championship CYO basketball teams in Brockton, where he lives.

Council, Selectmen To Discuss Braintree Dam

Quincy city councillors and Braintree selectmen will sit down soon to discuss mutual problems relating to Braintree Dam.

Nov. 14 at 10 a.m. was selected at Monday's City Council meeting as an appropriate time. A letter will be sent to Selectman Chairman Donald J. Laing, to see if this is mutually agreeable. A date was set at the request of Laing in a communication to the Council.

Quincy Public Works Commissioner John Browne and Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson will be among those representing Quincy at the meeting.

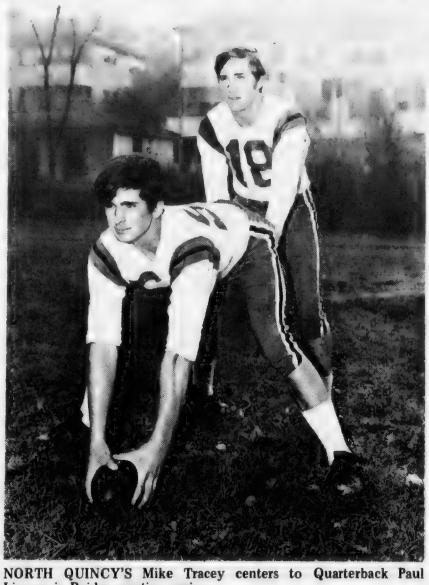
North Guns For No. 4

Raiders Host 'New Look' Red Devils

In the past few years Greater Boston League teams could look forward to an easy win at the expense of Chelsea's football team.



Things have changed this year, however, and North Quincy coach Ralph Frazier, whose team has a 3-1-1 record, is expecting plenty of trouble when the revived Red Devils invade Quincy Veterans' Memorial Stadium for a 1:30 p.m. league game.

Chelsea went three years in a row without a win, losing 27 straight games. This year it has bounced back with three wins and a tie, defeating Somerville last year for the first time in five years. Revere rallied in the waning minutes to pull out a 22-22 tie to spoil a perfect record.

North last week rebounded from a heartbreaking last minute 21-21 loss to Malden to pull out a 14-6 win at Medford, scoring both touchdowns in the final period.

"This was the same old story for us, we dominated play for most of the game but had trouble scoring again," Frazier said. "We gained over 330 yards but still had plenty of trouble scoring."

The Raiders have been hurting and six players who began the season as starters have been sidelined. Last week Frazier was forced into a new defense which he feels confused Medford.

"I think they had us well-scouted and were expecting our usual defense but we had to make changes and I think it fooled them quite a bit," Ralph said. "As usual, the defense was great, but our offense continues to sputter. Outside of the Malden game, we have allowed only 18 points."

North had one touchdown nullified by a penalty in the second period. After a 15-yard penalty the Raiders went to the one-yard line on a fake field goal play but time ran out.

On offense Tony Kelly played his usual outstanding game, averaging better than five yards a carry, and Jim deVarennes, starting for the first time in place of the injured Lee Davis, turned in an excellent performance. Frazier also praised quarterback Paul Lippens for his running, passing and play calling.

Defensively the Raider coach lauded Jimmy Sarruda for what he termed "an unbelievable game," deVarennes, Fran McIsaac, Ken Baker, John Panarelli and safety man Greg King.

Medford broke the scoring ice in the third period when Danny Cappelucci dove over from the one.

In the final period End Dave Mahoney made a circus catch of a Lippens pass to bring the ball to Medford's 30. "It was a fantastic catch," Frazier said. "Dave was knocked off his feet but got up on his knees and caught it. I thought a penalty should have been called."

Davis	1	0	6
Zink	1	0	6
McCleary	0	4	4
Panarelli	0	2	2

Lippens, on a keeper, went the final 10 yards to tie the score and Brian McCleary kicked the winning point.

A few minutes later, after North recovered a Medford fumble, Lippens hit End Dan Zink for 13 yards and an insurance touchdown. McCleary again kicked the point.

Little Loop Opens 17th Season Saturday

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop opens its 17th season Saturday morning at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, after two weeks of rolloffs to determine averages.

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, Dist. Atty. George G. Burke and Rep. Joseph E. Brett, among the team sponsors, have been invited to participate in the opening.

Sponsors or representatives of the other 11 teams have also been invited to attend along with parents of the youngsters, who range in age from 11 through 15. The League terminates its 25 weeks of competition with a prize awards banquet at Quincy Lodge of Elks Home, at which time all boys receive trophies.

Officials of the Little Loop are Joseph N. Gildea, president; James M. Carey, Treasurer; Stanley Kovalski, John Mullaney, John Gundel, Max Zides and Richard Morrissey, directors.

Pupil Succeeds Teacher

Ron Erikson New North Hockey Coach

North Quincy High school has a new hockey coach as pupil succeeds teacher.

Ron Erikson, who played for North and Merrimac College, replaces his former high school coach, Bob Laing, who recently retired after 18 years as Raider skipper.

Erikson, who lives in Holbrook, taught at Weymouth High and was assistant hockey coach. He started teaching at North only this fall.

"He didn't know he had the job until I called him," said Carl Leone, coordinator of athletics. "There were two other very capable applicants. Ron really wanted this job and he feels he can do a good job–and so do we.

"He'll have a rebuilding job to do at North and it will take some time, but he's got good kids there, the type who want to play hockey and Ron will do all right."

Laing was pleased with the appointment. "Ron was an outstanding player and I know he will be just as fine a coach. It was a good appointment and he should do an excellent job."

North Quincy and Quincy Junior High schools entered an organized league [Great Boston Freshman League] for the first time last winter and although North, under coach Ken Hayes, another former Raider standout, didn't have an impressive won-lost record, he did develop some excellent players who should help Erikson this winter and in future years.

Cobb Wins Ten Pin Tourney

Newcomer Greg Cobb of Quincy coasted to victory in the Boston Bowlers Association September Ten Pin Handicap Tournament at Boston Bowl in Dorchester.

Cobb, who has been bowling only one year and has an average of 148, eliminated all competition as he averaged 181 scratch and 220 with his handicap for the tournament which is based on 200. He qualified third and then won all three head-to-head matches in the finals, the last over Vin DeSantis, Jr. of Quincy.

This was his first championship and it came in the first tournament of the year.

The qualifying cutoff was 776. Hal Gallagher of North Quincy was high qualifier in both scratch and handicap series. Tony Tawa had the high scratch game of 233.

The next tournament will be Oct. 24-25.

McCarthy, Malvesti Sidelined

Injuries Hinder Quincy's Title Hopes

Quincy's football team survived its major test of the season last week but the 28-6 win over Malden, which tied the Presidents for the Greater Boston League title a year ago, proved mighty costly and Hank Conroy's charges will have to fight even harder in the remaining four weeks to prove their right to the league championship.

Steve McCarthy, one of the outstanding running backs in the league, left the game after only two plays and what at first was believed to be only a bruise turned out to be a broken bone in the lower leg, sidelining the speedster definitely for the next three games.

Conroy said "It's possible Steve might be ready to play in the fourth game but we dont know."

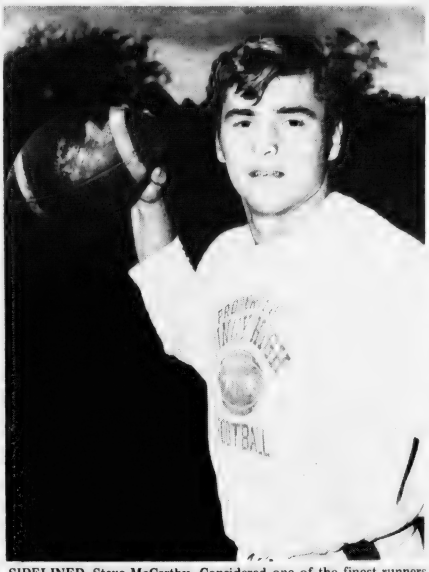
And Bobby Malvesti, a top reserve back who had been performing well in every game, suffered a broken ankle and will miss the rest of the season.

"This certainly will hurt us, but the other backs have been doing well and I think this will spur them on to perform even better," Conroy said. "This should give the other teams a lot more confidence but we'll still do all right."

Quincy, Saturday goes to Somerville to meet a sub-par Somerville team which has yet to win. Game time is 1:30 at Dilboy Stadium.

The Highlanders have lost four in a row including their first loss in five years to Chelsea last week. They are 0-3 in the league.

John Provost, rated by most coaches as an under-rated player, had another fine game last week and he and Wayne Richards supplied most of the running for the Presidents. Provost, who had two touchdowns called back, scored a touchdown and two extra points and picked up 103 yards while Richards, who has been outstanding all year, continued his fine running and gained 71 yards including a touchdown before being slightly injured.



Quincy's Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Maver	5	2	32
McCarthy	4	5	29
Richards	4	2	26
Provost	4	2	26
Sullivan	2	2	14
Menchi	2	0	12
Malvesti	1	2	8
Waters	1	2	8
McDermott	1	0	6
Hanlon	1	0	6
Walker	1	0	6
Sylva	0	3	3

Steve Sullivan, quarterback, came through on several key third down situations. He was six for 15 and had another touchdown pass, his seventh of the season.

On offense Jim Bucchinaeri gave Sullivan excellent pass protection and also blocked a punt which was run back by Rich Menchi for a touchdown. Billy Maver, a fine end, played his usual outstanding game.

There were numerous standouts on defense including Bobby Tarbox, Jim Davis, Bobby McDermott, Bob Sylva, Joe Goguen, Richards and Dennis Watters. The Presidents kept the pressure on Malden's fine passer, Perry Verge, throughout the game and he hit on only three of 11 passes, one for the touchdown.

SIDELINED--Steve McCarthy, Considered one of the finest runners in the Greater Boston League, and a passer, too, may be lost to Quincy for the remainder of the season after suffering a leg fracture in game with Malden.

"Our assistant coaches, Dave Burke, John Bogan, Gene Macomber and Bud Mosher, deserve credit for this win and all the others," Conroy said. "They have done a terrific job with the squad."

Rich Menchi made one of the outstanding catches of the season to set up a Quincy touchdown.

The first period was scoreless but in the second Sullivan passed to Maver for 40 yards and then clicked on a 16-yarder to the same receiver for the first touchdown.

Richards made it 12-0 with only 44 seconds left in the half when he drove over from the two to climax a 59-yard march. He set up the score by taking a screen pass from Sullivan for 33 yards.

In the third period Menchi picked up the ball after Bucchianeri's blocked punt and ran it back 14 yards and Provost rushed for the points to make it 20-0.

Malden averted a shutout later in the same period on a nine-yard pass from Verge to Jim Mirley, the same play which edged North Quincy by one point in the final minute the previous week.

In the final session Provost capped a 39-yard drive by scoring from the four and Waters rushed for the final points of the game.

Quincy had 16 first downs to 15 for Malden, out-rushed the Golden Tornado, 228 yards to 189 and had a big edge in passing yardage, 134 yards to just 24.

Quincy is 4-0 on the season [3-0 in the league], has won seven in a row going back to last year and has outscored the opposition 178 to 38.

Sophs Roll Along Jayvees Doing Well

While the Quincy sophomore football team keeps rolling along [only one loss in five years], the junior varsity is also doing well with two wins in a row.

In the win over Everett, quarterback Jim Walker had a hand in all four touchdowns. He ran back a punt 65 yards and scored on a sneak from the one, passed to Jim Hanlon for 30 yards and to Dave Coull for six yards for the other scores. George Sisti and Duke Whitney rushed for the four points. The second Walker TD was set up when Dan Spencer returned a short Everett punt 30 yards.

Dave Burke's Quincy Sophomores came within 20 seconds of suffering their second loss in five years but, with the team trailing, 8-6, Rich Sullivan, one of line coach Jack Raymer's prize pupils, blocked a punt and Gordon King ran it back for the winning touchdown.

Q-N Harriers Clash Today

The Greater Boston League cross country schedule ends today at Medford with Quincy and North Quincy facing each other and all eyes will be on the individual duel between Quincy's Bobby Ciano and North's Kevin Henry, both unbeaten this fall.

Ciano is co-holder of the league record but Henry has been bringing his times down in every meet and it should be the most interesting race of the league season.

North was defeated by Medford, 21-34, despite another impressive win by Henry. Medford took the next four places with North's Matt Clancy sixth, Richie Yee eighth, Jeff Strungis ninth and Paul Bonoli 10th.

North earlier in the season had edged Milton Academy, 26-29, and defeated Silver Lake, 22-33, in non-league meets with Henry winning both. North has a 3-2 league record a 5-2 overall mark.

D-Day For North Soccer Team

Thursday is D-Day for the unbeaten North Quincy soccer team.

The Raiders' chances of tying for the South Shore Soccer Association championship will be decided when they play defending champion and perennial league powerhouse Duxbury at the Duxbury Field.

Each team was 8-0 following last Thursday's games and each was favored to make it nine in a row Tuesday, although George Golding's North team faced a highly capable Foxboro team, one of three league newcomers this year. Foxboro had a respectable 5-2-1 record going into Tuesday's games.

North topped Sharon, 3-1 for its eighth win in a row, as George Bourikas scored his 17th and 18th goals and Steve Mullaney the other.

Earlier last week the Raiders blanked Scituate, 6-0, doing all their scoring in the first three periods. Bourikas had three goals, Mullaney two and Vin Cameron the other.

The Presidents made their record 6-2 last week with a 6-0 win over Scituate as Al Lavoie, their top scorer, added three goals, while Artie Boyle, Mike Orlando and Harry Meidinas scored one apiece.

Earlier in the week Quincy was edged by Hingham, 2-1, on a goal with just 20 seconds left in the game. Lavoie put Quincy ahead in the opening period but Hingham tied it up in the third period.

In earlier games North topped Plymouth-Carver, 6-1, on two goals by Cameron and Tim Flynn and one each by Bourikas and Mullaney, while Quincy blanked Avon, 3-0, with Boyle scoring twice and Lavoie once.

Sterling Rolls On Over Point

Sterling's soccer team continues to roll along unbeaten at the top of the Quincy Junior High school league and last week defeated Point, 4-0, for its fourth straight win without being scored upon.

Sterling unleashed an overpowering attack and John Sweeny scored three goals. He leads the league in scoring with four goals. He also had an assist. Marco DiCienzo scored the other goal.

It marked the 15th successive win for Sterling and the eighth straight game in which it has shut out the opposition. This covers three years and is one of the longest streaks in junior high history.

Joe McEachearn scored for Broad Meadows and Merrill Cohen for Central.

Central led with only 15 seconds left in the game when McEachearn picked up a loose ball and smashed a hard shot past the outstretched Central goalie.

McEachearn, goalie on the Germantown all-star team last year, is playing on the forward line for the first time and has turned in excellent performances in every game.

Sterling has a 4-0-0 record, followed by Central and Broad Meadows, each 1-1-2; Atlantic, 1-2-1, and Point, 0-3-1.

Meyer Lafayette Linebacker

Don Meyer, a North Quincy High School graduate, is making the grade this season as linebacker on defense for Lafayette College's football team at Easton, Pa.

Football coach Harry Gamble praised sophomore Meyer as a "bad cat" for overall aggressiveness in a game against the Blue Hens of Delaware.

"He played about half the game and managed to come up with nine tackles and six assists," Gamble said. "Now that he's getting some experience, I'm sure he'll help our defense."

Meyer, who is 5-11 and 200 pounds, was selected to play in the 1969 Harry Agannis All-Star game after his outstanding performances at North Quincy High School.

Quincy Quacks In Street Hockey Opener

The Quincy Quacks will open their inter-city street hockey season against Brookline at Furnace Brook School Sunday Oct. 25 at 2 p.m.

Quincy's team, organized this year, includes Peter Skoler, goalie; Mike Menconi and Brian Sullivan, defense. One line has Don Silverstein as left wing; Dave London at center; and Dave Stern on right wing. The other line includes Steven Golden, Ron Smith and Kevin Sullivan.

The season consists of a 20-game schedule starting in October and ending the weekend of April 4, 1971, followed by playoffs.

The inter-city league was organized last winter when Jim Marchione of the Brighton Bats, called WBZ's Sports Huddle concerning an inter-city street hockey league. He made his telephone number available, and was contacted by Dave Stern of the Quincy Quacks.

During the spring and fall of 1970, work was completed to form an official league. Six teams formed in the north were Haverhill, Wakefield, Saugus, Winchester, Salem and Lynn. Five teams in the south are Brighton, Brookline, Newton, Jamaica Plain and Quincy.

Playoffs in April will consist of the first and second teams of each division playing for the division title, and the victors playing for the championship.

Jackie Gleason Will Be Back

"PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT" will soon be made into a film under the Warner Bros. banner, the PHILIP ROTH best-seller was originally purchased by Twentieth Century-Fox, which had planned to make the motion picture... However, due to their new policy of keeping a tight rein on the budget, they sold the rights of "PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT" to Warners'... The high-budgeted production is being written, directed and produced by the veratilely talented ERNEST LEHMAN... The potentially X-rated flic is scheduled to go into production sometime by the first of next year, and will be released in a ballyhoo of publicity no later than October of 1971... D'ALDO ROMANO, a native of Colombia, and now working on the West Coast, is being hailed by many critics as "the greatest new singing find in a decade"... "M*A*S*H" vaulted over the $10 million mark a few weeks back... STEVE McQUEEN didn't renew his contract with the WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY. Instead, actor-racer McQUEEN inked a deal with CREATIVE MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATES, which will act as his agent after the completion of his latest picture now being shot on location in Paris...

ANDY WARHOL's newest release "TRASH" is not only doing capacity business at the Cinima 11 New York City box Office, but surprisingly enough, the film is pulling in rave review accolades as well... THE TIM CONWAY COMEDY HOUR looms as an early CBS casualty. The comedy hour, if you can call the CONWAY hijinks comedy, is buried close to last place in the prestigious NIELSEN RATINGS... As a midseason replacement, CBS may fill the 10 to 11 Sunday evening gap with reruns of the JACKIE GLEASON "HONEYMOONERS" specials... And while on the subject of the slimmed down GLEASON, CBS is considering bringing back this superlative talent in a new half-hour program in the fall of 1971... MIA FARROW makes her London stage debut in "JOAN AT THE STAKE"... The musical backdrop of the play will be provided by the London Symphony Orchestra, which is conducted by her husband ANDRE PREVIN...Will FAYE DUNAWAYE's solid gold tooth that she's wearing for the filming of "DOC", start a new fashion trend?... Please, let's hope not!...

CARL FOREMAN is keeping busy these days with the pre-production work on Columbia's "CHURCHILL STORY" and "FORCE 10 TO NAVARONE"... MIKE FRANKOVICH's next film "$" is getting the publicity build-up as "the dollar picture" and "the money film"... "SOLDIER BLUE" is keeping capacity Italian audiences happy in Milan and Rome. It's hard to say if they react to this motion picture as an excellently produced film, or as a slice of anti-American propaganda... MORGAN PAULL is being groomed for future star status... Those of you who have seen "PATTON", may recall his excellent performance in the role of Capt. Dick Jensen. PAULL is currently before the cameras in Columbia's "FOOLS PARADE", in the can't miss role of "Junior" Kilfong... Assuming the picture is well received critically, the role of Kilfong could put the rugged-looking PAULL into the "star" bracket... FLIP WILSON's camp drag impersonation of "Geraldine" is the most refreshingly humorous impression to be seen on the small screen in years... For sheer artistry, WILSON does one better than the pros of the famed JEWEL BOX REVUE... SHIRLEY JONES has a hit on her hands with her Friday evening soother, "THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY"...

The DICK CAVETT SHOW has been cancelled Monday evenings due to the infringement of ABC-TV's "NFL Monday Night Football" slate... The varying length of the games has caused a sticky programming jam which has resulted in the first part of the CAVETT late niter being shut out... Wether or not CAVETT will return Monday p.m. after the football season remains to be seen... Paramount's "THE YOUNG LAWYERS" was given the green light by ABC-TV to prepare nine more scripts for the series. This brings to 26 the number of shows that have been planned, thus assuring the new entry of being an entity at least till the end of the 1970-71 season... Former fashion model TWIGGY makes her acting debut in the KEN RUSSELL directed, "THE BOY FRIEND"... Funny Girl PHYLLIS DILLER is in the franchised flower business now. Miss DILLER made a personal appearance recently at the gala opening of her newest shop in Philadelphia... Peruvian actor RICARDO BLUME is just one of a number of top Peru thespians trekking north in search of better scripts, and more dollars...

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

NOTICE OF HEARING ON STATE HIGHWAY LAYOUT

MEDFIELD

"Pursuant to the provisions of Section 5, Chapter 81 of the General Laws, Ter. Ed., as amended, the Department of Public Works will give a public hearing in the Medfield Town Hall on Wednesday, October 28, 1970 at 8:00 P.M. to all persons interested in the reconstruction of a section of Route 27 in Medfield.

The project consists of the relocation and reconstruction of a section of Route 27 from a point on Hospital Road, Route 27, approximately 1600' east of the Charles River extending in a southeasterly direction on new location to a point on the existing Route 27 . Spring Street, approximately 700' southeast of Main Street.

This hearing is to be a design public hearing.

Plans showing the proposed project will be on display on Tuesday, October 27, 1970 from 3:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M. and again on Wednesday, October 28, 1970 from 5:00 P.M. until the time of the hearing at 8:00 P.M, all in the Medfield Town Hall. An Engineer will be in attendance during these displays to answer questions regarding the project.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five [5] days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the times and dates listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Daniel S. Horgan, Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Such submission will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date for receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten [10] days after this public hearing.

The Department's policy for "Relocation Assistance' if required and tentative schedules for right of way acquisition and construction' will be discussed at the hearing."

By order of the Department of Public Works,

Edward F. Doyle
Secretary

Helen Spaulding: 'Housewife Greatest Job There Is'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mrs. Helen Spaulding, campaigning for her husband Josiah's election to Congress, arrived at the parking lot near the Quincy Sun office in a flamboyant red, white and blue school bus, outfitted for women.

June Demerritt, her woman driver, has piloted the bus close to 2,000 miles in a criss-cross election route across the state.

Mrs. Spaulding arrived with an entourage of women, in red, white and blue outfits, and more women campaign workers were added to the bus before it left.

"But," says Helen Spaulding, "I am no women's liberationist. I believe in equal jobs, equal pay, equal education and equal opportunity, but I also think that any woman who is ashamed to say she is a housewife has something wrong with her nature. Being a housewife is just about the greatest job there is."

She was up at 5:15 a.m. to get [Si] off on his campaign tour at 5:45 a.m., did the breakfast dishes, made beds, then started her own bus tour at 8 a.m.

A typical week:

Tuesday through Thursday she is on the road with the women campaigning for her husband. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, she is on the road with her husband and often their three teenage sons, Josiah A., Jr., George, 17, and Alexander Hamilton, 14.

"Monday I take off, wash my hair and clean my clothes and pull myself together to go off again on Tuesday," Mrs. Spaulding says.

Like most women and mothers everywhere, Mrs. Spaulding feels drugs are the greatest problem facing the country.

"The basic problem facing us and a great majority of other states is the drugs addiction," she says. "I have been going around to several drug centers and programs.

"When I talk to women, I encourage them to find out what the community is doing for this, and if there is a program, I encourage them to get behind it. -- And not to be afraid to talk to their children about it. Communication is so important."

"We need to sit down with our children and discuss the problem - to learn what they have tried and to deal with it as an objective issue. The most effective drug program begins in the community; and the community begins with you and me.

"We need to approach this problem on two levels, first, prevention for those who have not as yet experimented, and, second, treatment for those who have."

Only Two Local Battles

73 - To - 78% Vote Forecast

City Clerk John M. Gillis predicts 73-to-78 per cent of Quincy's 45,889 registered voters will turn out for the Nov. 3 state election.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The "hot" gubernatorial-lieutenant governor race between the teams of Republicans Francis W. Sargent-Donald R. Dwight and Democrats Kevin White-Michael Dukakis will generate considerable voter interest, he said.

So will Republican Josiah A. Spaulding's "Herculean" challenge of U.S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

The turnout, Gillis feels, would be "somewhat highter", however, if there were more than just two local battles.

On the local front, City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth looms as a serious threat for one of the two state representative seats in the Third Norfolk district comprising Wards 4, 5, and 6.

The two seats are held by Joseph E. Brett, Democrat, and Walter J. Hannon, Republican, both seeking re-election.

Smyth, a Democrat, and Jens E. Thornton of Squantum a Republican, are challenging for the two seats.

In the only other local race, Francis P. J. DiCesare, an Independent and political newcomer hopes to unseat Democrat incumbent Rep. Clifford H. Marshall in Quincy's Second Norfolk District of Wards 2 and 3.

Traditional past voter attractions are merely "also's" this year. Running unopposed are:

- Congressman James A. Burke.
- State Senator James R. McIntyre.
- Dist. Atty. George G. Burke.
- Rep. Arthur H. Tobin, First Norfolk District, Ward 1.

Taking up the slack somewhat, however, are six widely ranging referenda questions including one to determine how Massachusetts voters feel about U.S. policy in Vietnam and four proposed Constitutional amendments which seek to:

- Permit property to be assessed by classification according to use for tax purposes.
- Lower the minimum voting age for a state election from 21 to 19.
- Reduce the residence requirement for voting in a state election from one year to six months.
- Create 240 single House of Representative districts and a 40-member Senate.

In other Democrat vs Republican contests in addition to the gubernatorial-lieutenant governor battle and U.S. senatorial race:

- Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn is opposed by Donald L. Conn, former special attorney general.
- Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren faces Mary B. Newman.
- Treasurer Robert Q. Crane squares off against Frederick D. Hannon.
- Auditor Thaddeus Buczko is opposed by Frank P. Bucci of Braintree, former Boston newsman.
- Norfolk County Register Barry T. Hannon of Braintree is being tested by Quincy Atty. James A. Shannon.

Enjoying a "free ride" to re-election without opposition are:

- Norfolk County Clerk of Courts John P. Concannon.
- Norfolk County Commissioner Thomas K. McManus of Norwood.

1,100-Signature Petitions Favor HN Youth Center

Petitions with signatures of more than 1,100 Houghs Neck residents favoring purchase of a building at 1095 Sea St., for a permanent youth center were presented yesterday to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Signatures were obtained during a two-week period by volunteers working under Leo Kelly, president of the Grenham Youth Center advisory board. The petition asks use of accumulated interest of the Ervant Serposs Fund for the purchase of the building which would include also a Medical-Dental Clinic now located in the Atherton Hough School basement.

The petitions were circulated at the suggestion of Mayor McIntyre who wanted a "firm commitment" from residents on whether they were for or against use of the Serposs Funds for this purpose.

To further enable Mayor McIntyre to hear at first hand both sides of the question, the Houghs Neck Community Council has scheduled an open meeting for Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Legion Hall, 1116 Sea St.

Robert F. Denvir, Jr., president of the council which has already endorsed the proposal, said:

"In recent weeks there have been many rumors and many statements made, a number of which are not true. It is now up to the people to hear the proponents and opponents of this proposal. . . ."

Mayor McIntyre, chairman of the Serposs Fund trustees, has been invited to the meeting.

Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon of the Houghs Neck Legion Post has written McIntyre that the post would like "to go on record, as being fully in favor of the proposal that the city of Quincy purchase through the Elizabeth Serposs Fund, the building at 1095 Sea Street, Houghs Neck [diagonally across from our Post Home] for use as the "Elizabeth Serposs Clinic and a Youth Study Recreational Center."

He added that the Houghs Neck Post had supported the youth center effort "since its inception" and continues to support them financially and by member participation as supervisors.

"In gratitude to the post's help, their members have painted our Post Home both inside and out," he added.

LWV Invites YOU To Candidates Night

The League of Women Voters of Quincy will hold a Candidates Evening tonight at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Nathan Paven of 40 Wollaston Ave., Wollaston.

Quincy candidates for the state legislature have been invited. Informal talks, questions and answers are scheduled. The public is invited.

Be A White Clad Ghost For Halloween

The ALA urges young trick-or-treaters to be sheet-clad Halloween ghosts rather than black-robed witches, in the interest of highway safety.

"We don't have anything against nice, attractive witches and warlocks, but dark costumes are very hard for motorists to see and a tragic accident could well result," says Philip C. Wallwork, ALA's safety director.

"Ghosts can be easily seen in the beam of headlights," he notes, "and we're sure that the loot will be just the same."

He also urges motorists to be extremely watchful on Halloween for the young trick-or-treaters, regardless of their costume.

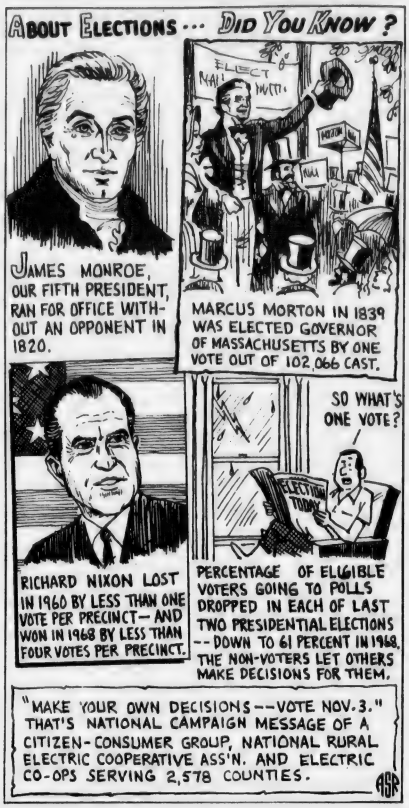
Hospital Needs 20-25 Volunteers

Miss Emma Hassan, Director of Volunteers at Quincy City Hospital, is looking for 20 to 25 volunteers to help in a new therapy program underway there.

Some 40 women are already giving their time, one or more days a week, during the five hours from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. when help is needed most urgently.

Miss Hassan estimates that some 480 patients could benefit from the recreation therapy underway if there were more help. Bingo games have been arranged for ambulatory patients, checkers, cribbage and other games are available for adults, and even children can benefit from this type of program.

"The nurses are cooperating all the way," she says, "but we do need additional women to volunteer at least one day a week, or as many as they can manage."



Mayor Suggests Computer Leasing

The leasing of a computer by the city of Quincy has been suggested by Mayor James R. McIntyre, who expressed concern that computer costs will soon be at the $100,000 figure.

In a letter to George Tull, chairman of the board of Quincy City Hospital, the Mayor pointed out that the computer could be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week and program various types of city work.

He asked for recommendations on the suggested computer program for the city.

Halloween

By
Margaret DeAngelo
29 Deldorf St., Quincy

On Halloween, the witches ride
Along the Starways-side by side.
They see the world in Autumn dress,
Tom-cats, pumpkins, happiness.

They hear the sound of running feet
And children calling, "trick or treat?"
And while the small folk raise a din -
A witch sneaks old man winter in.

Priscilla

[The following is a tribute to Priscella Marston Stewart who recently retired as organist at First Baptist Church of Wollaston. It was read at an Appreciation Dinner honoring Mrs. Stewart]

By RUTH WELLS

All the folk who gather here
Have come to do you honor
They've come to you from far and near
And from just around the corner.

We have one common thought in mind
Our teacher friend, and pal,
To tell you those "ties that bind"
Mean more than words can tell.

From those of us that watched you grow
From a youngster through your teens
We watched you fight, we saw you win,
You taught us what courage means.

As the years went on you gave to all
Whatever was asked of you,
You were always ready to heed the call,
To give of yourself when we needed you.

There's not much we can do or say
That can show our appreciation,
Except to give our thanks this day
And give you this celebration.

The gifts we give are small indeed
Considering what you've done
We hope they're what you'll like,
That they'll remind you of each one.

Readers are invited to submit poems for publication in The Poet's Corner.

They should be typewritten or hand printed.

The Mixed Bag Of Fall Fashions

LIGHT-HEARTED — The gypsy mood of fall is captured in this fly-away dress of floral-printed cotton accented with touches of gold rickrack. A wide belt cinches the waist of the laced bodice, and ruffle flounces adorn the full sleeves and gathered skirt. By Pat Ashley for Craig.

THE LONG FALL—Space-dyed cotton knit in shades of brown and pink stretches to midi-length in fashion's new sweater dress. The full-length button front lets the dress double as a coat, too. By Juliano.

THE SILHOUETTE—In the right proportion for fashion, 1970, is this cotton velour ensemble by Kirsti. The midi coat buttons to the waist, then swings freely to expose wide straight trousers. A super wide leather belt by Elegant laces up the midriff.

FALL-SUITED—Ribless cotton corduroy in a soft shade of chamois is the choice for a stylish pant suit. The side-buttoned midi coat features a high inset waist band and squared off collar. By Patty Woodard of California.

Week of Oct. 30 - Nov. 6

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Get your paper work done early in the week and clear the path for benefits that are coming. Exercise patience with others.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Older people can be provoking and your feelings are apt to be hurt. Don't get caught up in the intrigue that is going on.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - You may find yourself drawn toward the occult - an investigation could be fun. An unexpected return from investments coming.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - There is a possibility of domestic disturbances and disappointments. Friends aren't much help to you right now.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Expect some financial difficulties. To make changes now will take courage and determination since new ideas are opposed.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - There is much to be gained from social affairs. A new venture will improve financial standing if care is taken with details.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Your thoughts could become so involved in new ideas that accidents could happen. Avoid any disputes involving the law.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - There's so much going on now you don't know which way to turn. Watch for intrigue and possible domestic trouble this week.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - This is a very active time for you. There are new friends to meet, new ventures to try, and you are ready and willing.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Most of your activity now is of a social nature but watch for a sudden change in employment that is not to your liking.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - This is a good time for writing and studying. There may be difficulty in career matters but gains come unexpectedly.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Examine all written work closely for mistakes. You can enjoy the company of artistic people whose ideas are not too far out.

It's In To Be Thin

By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

Fat teens are troubled times...

Not too long ago I had the opportunity to meet a young girl who was on our program. And although I like to think that we had a conversation, the truth of the matter is that it was a monologue–I did all the talking. Most of the time I don't need any encouragement to do just that, but in this case it was a necessity because very often fat children don't talk.

I don't often discourse on this subject, which is, perhaps, a mistake. I believe it would be very important to find a way to motivate these children. It may be inconceivable to you, but it is actually more difficult for them than it is for other age groups.

I say this because they are a mass of jumbled values–they don't really understand the rewards of something which seems so far away, but they very well understand the difficulties of the process.

It you have a child who is overweight, I have advice to give you. Don't nag–it doesn't promote good dieting and it may break the communications you have. You can be helpful by having the proper foods around. And you can be the most helpful by ridding your house of your child's Frankenstein–whether that be potato chips, pretzels, chocolates, or whatever. If it's fattening, get rid of it. It solves the need for much decision making and it saves arguing.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please contact me by writing in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

The Mothers

Mother of the bride and mother of the groom, remember you two are very special people on this important day. Shop early for your gown! As soon as the bride and bridesmaids have made their selections start shopping for your gown.

As every one knows it's the bride's mother who has first choice on color and makes the decision on whether to wear short or long gowns. However, if she is a thoughtfull person she will take into consideration the future mother-in-law's favorite color, her budget, and the wearability of the gown after the wedding.

Better yet, the mothers will shop together and know their dresses will complement each other's and the bridal party. Incidentally, this is a perfect way to help cement relationships for the children with their future in-laws.

And mothers, never, no never wear your mink stole or out door coat down the aisle. The only time a coat is acceptable is when it is part of an ensemble.

Shoes to match the gown are stunning. Your hat and bag may match or contrast. For a really smart affect pin your corsage onto your bag. Your gloves must be white to be correct.

Now you are your prettiest. The day has arrived. The ceremony is about to begin. Take a deep breath, groom's mother [and tuck in that tummy] with your head held high down the aisle you go on the arm of an usher with dad following. SMILE.

At the exact time the ceremony is supposed to begin the bride's mother walks down the aisle with an usher. Once she has started no one is allowed down the center aisle except the bridal party. Any last minute guests must use the side aisles.

McIntyre Seeks Five-Year Beautification Program

Mayor James R. McIntyre has sent to the City Council for review two actions regarding Urban Beautification which will come up for action at the City Council meeting Nov. 2.

The first is a resolution approving and adopting the Urban Beautification and Improvement Program for 1971-1975. The second authorizes filing of the federal Urban Beautification Program for 1971.

"Our application for 1971 anticipates major renovations at Broadmeadows field, new open space construction at the corner of Upland Rd and Granite St. and general improvements to the Bradford St. Playground, Whiton Park, The Granite Railroad Incline and Sailor's Home Pond," Mayor McIntyre said.

Total estimated cost for the four groups of program itemized runs to $118,500, with the greatest amount [$30,000] earmarked for reconstruction of Welcome Young Park. Broadmeadows reconstruction at $20,000 is next followed by spot beautification of landscape at $16,500.

McIntyre points out that federal assistance totalling over $200,000 has been received to date for improvements to Quincy parks, playgrounds and historic sites.

Total beautification figures anticipated for the remaining four years are $197,500 in 1972; $165,500 in 1973; $148,000 in 1974; and $157,000 in 1975.

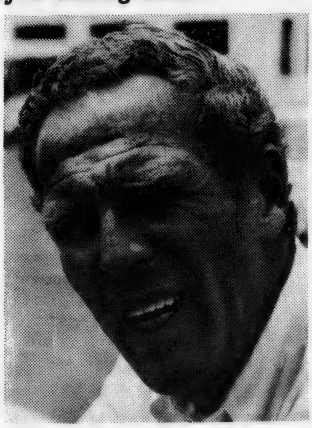
Only one job is really important: YOURS

Right now there are 162,000 people out of work in Massachusetts. These are people who want to work but can't find a job.



The candidates for Governor have strikingly different positions on unemployment.

The Republican, Mr. Sargent, blames Washington and says there isn't much he can do about it.

The Democrat, Kevin White, says there's plenty a Governor can do — if he really cares.

Take your pick.

Maybe it's YOUR job they're talking about.

Four Win Prizes In HN Legion Post Flag Coloring Contest

Four students have been named winners of the Flag Coloring contest sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post in observance of American Education Week.

Mary Fitzpatrick of Snug Harbor School, Carole Peters of Atherton Hough School, Carol Carpenter and Joseph Kamb of Great Hill School, the winners, were honored with their parents at a lunch at the Post Home.

Other guests were principals of the three elementary schools, teachers, and the art teachers who judged the contest: Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon, Senior Vice Commander Willard Timcoe, Chaplain Thomas Hurlebaus, Adjutant Elinor Forsythe, and Mrs. Mary Timcoe, Post Historian and contest chairman. Lunch was prepared by Auxiliary members.

Prizes for each of the three girl winners were two tickets to the Braintree Cinema donated by the manager, and two games donated by the Legion Auxiliary.

He's not looking for ways to spend your money.

Politicians are smart, but they're dumb about one thing:

Money.

They seem to think that if you throw enough money at a problem it'll go away.

Frank Sargent doesn't think that way.

Maybe because he didn't grow up with politicians.

He worked in the outdoors, ran a store, and still has a storekeeper's respect for a hard-earned buck.

He knows how to say No.

He said No to the legislators' pay raise, No to an extra pay hike for state employees, No to extra welfare payments, No to the big insurance companies when they demanded higher auto insurance premiums.

Maybe the biggest issue in the Governor's race is that one little word: No.

The man who wants to be Governor can't seem to say it.

The man who is Governor can.

Governor Sargent

With him in there, there's hope.

Burke Endorses Ryan Judge Appointment

Appointment of Dennis F. Ryan as next justice of Quincy District Court is urged by Congressman James A. Burke, in a letter to Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

Tyan, now clerk of the Quincy court, is being endorsed to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Kenneth L. Nash.

Burke, in response to a request by Ronald N. Halter, President of the South Shore Constables Association, wrote to Sargent.

The Governor replied, "I will give your views careful consideration when making this appointment."

Fenway Park, Two Harvard Stadiums Under One Roof

Jordan Marsh Squantum Facility Really KING-SIZE

You don't know what king-size is until you see the new Jordan Marsh Central Service Facility at Squantum.

Visualize some 1.3 million square feet - or 30 acres - all under one roof.

If that figure kind of loses you then try this: You could put two Harvard stadiums and a Fenway Park inside the building and have plenty of room left over for ample parking.

The sprawling structure–the nation's largest distribution center for a retail store–is partially in operation but it won't be until spring before it is in full swing.

Man, but it's big.

Employees going from department to department don't walk. They go by bicycle.

And, James E. Claypoole, project director who will be manager of the facility, has an indoor "staff car"–a battery operated golf-cart like vehicle.

This week, Jordan Marsh President William P. Reed invited three Quincy officials who played key roles in making the multi-million dollar facility a Quincy reality to "look it over".

The three are Mayor James R. McIntyre, Rep.-Councillor Walter J. Hannon and City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth.

While inspecting specifically the new electronic control panel installation system which is a unique feature of the giant project, the three were commended by Mr. Reed:

"The progress we have made in building America's largest distribution center is due to a great extent to the foresight and efforts of Mayor McIntyre and Representative Hannon, both of whom brought Jordan Marsh and Quincy together.

"Their guidance and cooperation during our building period the past two years has been most helpful. In addition, I would like to thank Councillor Smyth who rendered valuable assistance during the construction phase. Quincy can be particularly proud of these three officials."

Mr. Reed also noted:

"With the nine Jordan Marsh stores now operating in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine and Rhode Island, our new distribution center and equipment will enable us to provide our customers with constantly improved service which has made the Jordan Marsh name a byword in New England for 119 years."

The sophisticated electronic system is designed to facilitate the distribution and delivery of furniture, appliances, home furnishings and merchandise of every description.

Mr. Claypoole said:

"By the end of the year, all of the handling equipment for bulk merchandise will have been tested and checked. This means top efficiency will be achieved in receiving, marking, storing, packing and delivery of furniture, rugs, appliances, bedding and other bulk merchandise to the customer."

He pointed out that to assist in the handling of large homefurnishing items, a 24-ft. high lift truck operated on tracks between aisles, removes merchandise from its shelves at any height and lowers it to specially designed towline carts.

The 1500 carts run on tracks set in cement and are operated by chains enabling them to travel up to 80-ft. per minute. Through the electronic panel system the carts carrying merchandise are transported from their stock areas to designated trucks on the loading platforms for delivery to customers or branch stores.

The mammoth facility which encompasses 30 acres under cover is comprised of a north building of 560,000 square feet and a south building of 746,000 square feet. Separating the two buildings is a tremendous covered roadway approximately 1,000-ft. long banked on both sides with loading platforms to accommodate trucks and vans.

Store executives said they are pleased with the progress since the facility began construction two years ago. Final stages are nearing completion.

The highly sophisticated electronic and computerized systems are providing store management with the necessary information for more efficient supervision of inventory control and merchandise delivery.

In congratulating Mr. Reed, on the progress and installation, Mayor McIntyre said:

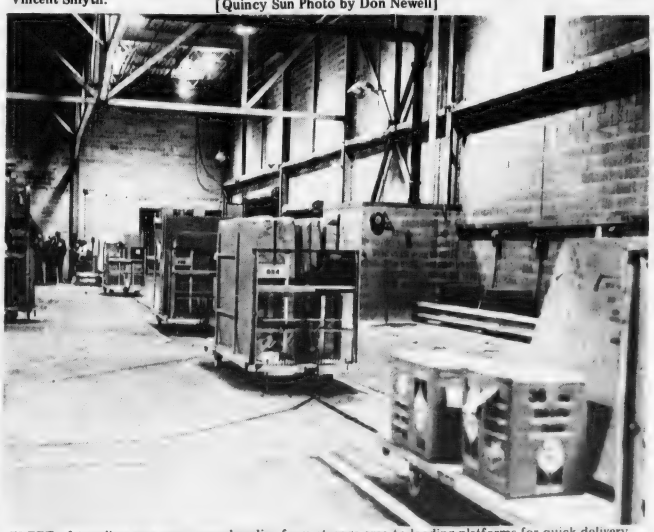
"I am happy to welcome the Jordan Marsh family to our community. The soon-to-be opened Central Service Facility will be a tremendous boost to the economic vitality of the city of Quincy. Not only will hundreds of new jobs be open, but a good deal of the goods and services that will be required to support this great facility will be purchased locally."

Representative Hannon added "As a member of city of Quincy government, I am very pleased to have played an important part in this fine building. Beside the tax revenue, we look at the new jobs that it has and will continue to create for our citizens.

"I hope that Jordan Marsh will help to show the way to other business and industry that Quincy is a good place to establish itself. We can look forward to many years of cooperation with this fine concern, and thank them for coming to Quincy."

Councillor Smyth said: "The Jordan Marsh Central Service Facility in the North Quincy area of our city is another page of a new chapter in the future growth and development of Quincy.

"Already in its early infancy, the new Jordan Marsh Company unit has begun to hire Quincy residents both on a full time and a part time basis. The architects and engineers who designed this magnificent Central Service Facility are to be highly commended for their tasteful design."



Smyth added, that Mayor McIntyre, his fellow colleagues on the City Council and the citizens of Quincy join him in extending to the officials of Jordan Marsh Company "sincere thanks" for choosing Quincy in which to locate their New England Distribution Center. He also wished Jordan's success and pledged cooperation towards their future growth.

Three Quincy Hospital Staff Members On Stroke Committee

Three Quincy professionals are serving on the Massachusetts Heart Association, Inc., Southeast Chapter, Stroke Committee. Dr. Leonard M. Bornstein, a cardiologist at Quincy City Hospital, has been named chairman of the Stroke Committee of the Southeast Chapter, by Donald C. Reusch, M.D., president.

Also on the committee are Dr. Eugene M. Tyrrell, internist, at Quincy Hospital and Frances LaMontagne, R.N., director of Nurses at Quincy Hospital.

The Stroke Committee is designed to encourage the improvement of diagnostic techniques of stroke and rehabilitation of the stroke patient.

Smyth To Seek Mass Transit Fund

City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth says he will seek a constitutional amendment to allow state highway fund money to be used for mass transit.

The former City Council president running as a Democrat for state representative in Quincy's Third Norfolk District [Wards 4, 5, 6] declared:

"Our highway fund is the only tax source which can absorb the prohibitive costs of mass transit."

"Two things in life are certain: death and the property tax due to the MBTA",

"And it takes no courage to campaign for public office and continually duck the pressing question of increased MBTA deficits and increased property taxes."

"Taxes will never be a glamorous campaigning issue."

"We in Quincy have taken on a serious responsibility by bringing rapid transit service to our City.

"We face the problems of parking, access roads, efficient, safe service, and HOW TO PAY FOR IT.

"One way is obvious: to allow our highway fund money to be used for mass transit.

"In January, therefore, I plan to co-file that constitutional amendment to the highway fund with Senator James R. McIntyre, and work tirelessly for its passage.

"Releasing our highway money for public, fast, modern transportation facilities is essential if our cities are to be livable in the coming decades.

"I would not want it to be said that I allowed our children and grandchildren to face a future in a morass of concrete pavement. But already in the United States 60% of the total earth's resources are consumed in large part by transportation.

"The key to saving our open space and historic city land is the provision for more rapid transit facilities and fewer cars in congested areas, and I am proud that we have begun that process in Quincy.

Richard Braude Editorial Director At WEEI-CBS

Richard N. Braude of 24 Alrick Rd., West Quincy, this week began his new position as Director of Editorials and Public Affairs for WEEI-CBS Radio, Boston.

Braude, a Patriot Ledger staff writer since September 1968, covered Quincy City Hall before being assigned as State House reporter for that newspaper in July, 1969. Previously he had spent three summers in the sports department and newsroom.

Braude received his bachelor's degree from Hobart College, Geneva, N.Y. in 1967. He is married to the former Carol Goldman of Newton.

Citizens Assn. Urges 'Yes' Vote On Question No. 1

The Quincy Citizens Association is urging a "Yes" vote on referenda question No. 1 "to bring real estate taxes on small homes within the ability of the wage-earning middle-class homeowner to pay."

The Association, in a letter to the Quincy Sun this week, said the ballot question "is just the opportunity Massachusetts small homeowners have been waiting for."

The letter was signed by Laurence J. Curtin, association president; Miss Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary, and Edward J. Melia, chairman of the Revaluation Committee.

"Since very little has been heard about the reasons for voting "YES" to Question 1 on the Nov. 3rd ballot, in the public interest we hope you will publish this letter giving the small homeowner's viewpoint.

"Question 1 is just the opportunity Massachusetts small homeowners have been waiting for – to tell the whole Legislature [by vote] that something must be done immediately to bring real estate taxes on small homes within the ability of the wage-earning middle-class homeowner to pay.

"For over 50 years, 90% of the homes in the cities and towns of Massachusetts have been assessed at 30% to 50% of their market value. A "YES" vote would tell the Legislature that the taxpayers wish continuation of this percentage assessing practice; and those homes now revalued need tax relief!

"Under Revaluation at market value, homeowners in the older diversified cities like Boston and Quincy would be crushed under the burden of an immediate $300 increase in their tax bill; the abatements allowed the elderly and disabled veterans would be negated, and homeowners of all ages will be forced to give up their small homes because they can no longer afford to pay the increased taxes on their non-income-producing homes.

U.S. Vietnam Policy, Voting Age, Revaluation Among Ballot Questions

Voters will be asked to answer six widely varied questions on the Nov. 3 ballot.

They seek to:

- Permit classification of property for tax purposes.
- Reduce the residence requirement for voting in a state election from one year to six months.
- Lower the minimum voting age for a state election from 21 to 19.
- Create 240 single House of Representatives districts and a 40-member Senate.
- Determine the "thinking" of Massachusetts voters on U. S. policy in Vietnam.
- Approve or disapprove issuance of liquor licenses

The questions as they will appear on the ballot.

QUESTION NO. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 15, 1968, received 155 votes in the affirmative and 98 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 147 votes in the affirmative and 119 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizes the Legislature to classify real property according to uses, and authorizes the assessment, rating and taxation of real property at different rates in the different classes so established, but proportionately in the same class. The amendment further authorizes the granting of reasonable exemptions and abatements.

QUESTION NO. 2

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held October 9, 1967, received 237 votes in the affirmative and 0 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 262 votes in the affirmative and 4 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution abolishes the requirement that in order to vote in a state election a person must have resided within the Commonwealth one year. If amended, the Constitution would require only that a voter have resided six months in the town or district in which he claims a right to vote.

QUESTION NO. 3

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held October 9, 1967, received 142 votes in the affirmative and 102 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 222 votes in the affirmative and 49 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution reduces the minimum age for voting in a state election from twenty-one to nineteen.

QUESTION NO. 4

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 15, 1968, received 181 votes in the affirmative and 66 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 15, 1969, received 208 votes in the affirmative and 54 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution amends the existing constitutional provisions which direct the division of the Commonwealth into 240 representative districts and 40 senatorial districts. It provides for a census of the inhabitants of each city and town in the Commonwealth in the year 1971 and in every tenth year thereafter. The census in 1971 is to be the basis for determining the representative and senatorial districts for the ten-year period beginning January 1, 1975. Each subsequent census shall be the basis for determining the districts for each ten-year period beginning the fourth January following each census, so that the census in 1981 will determine the districts as of January, 1985, etc.

The amendment provides that the house of representatives shall consist of two hundred and forty members and the senate of forty members. In its first regular session following each census, the Legislature shall divide the Commonwealth into two hundred and forty representative districts of contiguous territory and forty senatorial districts also of contiguous territory. Each representative district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. Each senatorial district shall also contain as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. A representative district shall not unite two or more counties, towns, or cities, or parts thereof, or a city and a town, or parts thereof, in one district unless the same is unavoidable. Further, no town of less than six thousand inhabitants shall be divided in forming representative districts. It is also provided that the County of Dukes County and Nantucket County shall each be a representative district, notwithstanding the foregoing. The senatorial districts, each of which shall elect one Senator, shall be formed without uniting two counties or parts of two or more counties, unless the same is unavoidable.

Each representative shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at least one year immediately preceding his election, and each senator shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at the time of his election and shall have been an inhabitant of the Commonwealth for at least five years immediately preceding his election. Any representative or senator who ceases to be an inhabitant of the Commonwealth shall cease to represent his district.

The amendment also provides that the Legislature (1) may by law limit the time within which judicial proceedings may be instituted calling in question any such division and (2) shall prescribe by law the manner of calling and conducting elections for the choice of representatives and of ascertaining their election.

Finally, the amendment annuls the existing constitutional provisions with respect to apportionment of representative and senatorial districts, although those provisions will remain in effect until January 1, 1975.

Hannon To Seek Revenue

Rep. Walter J. Hannon said he will seek U.S revenue sharing legislation because "the property tax can no longer be used as the basis to run city government."

Hannon, seeking re-election as a state representative in Quincy's Third Norfolk District [Wards 4, 5, 6] said he will file a resolution that:

"...a revenue sharing bill be passed by the U.S. Congress to have the federal government share the financial burden of the cities, thus helping the property homeowner."

In a prepared statement, Hannon said :

"The property tax can no longer be used as the basis to run city government."

"As a member of city government for the past four terms and as a four year member of the state legislature, it has become quite clear to me that we must look to other sources for the needed revenue to keep up with the financial increases in city government.

"The Master Tax Plan Commission has stated that they may recommend an increase in the present property tax rate. This, to me, would be the "straw that broke the camel's back".

Fire Fighters Union Commends Rep. Brett

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has received a letter from Rocco A. Lanso, president of the Associated Fire Fighters of Massachusetts AFL-CIO, thanking him for his support during the past legislative session.

"In particular," Lanso wrote, "the members noted with great interest and appreciation the courage and wisdom you displayed in helping to secure passage of the 72% Disability Pension Law."

QEA President Backs 19-Year Voting Age

Full support for the 19-year voting age is pledged by Robert W. Garner, president of the 760-member Quincy Education Association.

The act would reduce the voting age in Massachusetts State elections to 19 from the present age-21.

Garner declared:

"I feel that in many instances, these young adults 19 and 20 years of age are already shouldering adult responsibilities.

"We find that they are better informed and better educated than ever before, and a lower voting age would certainly encourage the participation of young people at an age when they are interested, enthusiastic and knowledgeable about politics as well as government."

WIPING OUT MEASLES

About 24,600 cases of measles were reported in the United States between October 1967 and October 1968. This compares to more than 70,000 cases in the 1966-1967 period and upward of 750,000 cases annually only a decade ago.

The remarkable decline is credited to the use of the measles vaccine which was licensed in 1963. The progress against measles is among medicine's most startling success stories of the 1960's.

With the development of the measles vaccine, there is no valid reason for any child to be endangered. It seems likely from today's evidence that one immunization will protect him for life. Hopefully, measles should soon be a disease of the past.

However, in this country, the AMA reports, more than five million youngsters under the age of twelve are unprotected against measles and should be immunized right away. Is one of these your child?

Despite Injuries, Quincy Rolls On

Powerful Presidents Host Weymouth

Opposing coaches who may have taken heart when Quincy's football team lost ace running back Steve McCarthy and outstanding reserve back Bobby Malvesti, probably for the year, undoubtedly don't feel nearly so hopeful today.

Hank Conroy's high-powered Presidents, blessed with good depth, went against Somerville last week without the two excellent backs and rolled to their fifth straight win this fall and eighth straight going back to last fall, 40-28, and promise to sail right along despite their loss.

Saturday, Quincy, 4-0-0 Greater Boston League leader and a solid favorite to win the title, goes outside the league for the second time when it hosts Weymouth North in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The Presidents, who waltzed over Weymouth South earlier in the year, will be overwhelming favorites to top the visitors who gained their first win in five starts last week, 16-6, over Waltham.

In its previous games the Weymouth North team, a member of the Suburban League, had lost to Lowell, 14-0; Brookline, 34-13; North Quincy, 14-6; and Newton, 26-0.

"We are not taking anything for granted," Conroy said. "Weymouth has been coming along well and our scouts were impressed with its showing against Waltham. They could give us plenty of trouble."

Last week Steve Sullivan, improving in every game at quarterback, threw four more touchdown passes against Somerville, while the Presidents continued to show considerable ground strength with more than 175 yards rushing.

"The other backs seemed to rise to the occasion and realize they must do just a little bit better to compensate for the loss of McCarthy and Malvesti," Conroy said. "Joe Goguen, John Provost and Wayne Richards ran very well and led the running attack. And Steve Sullivan looks better every game at quarterback. He did another excellent job both in his passing and his ball handling."

With a slow field following the heavy rain, the game was more or less a fullback's game, explaining why Richards got the ball so much. He picked up six and seven yards at a crack with fine second and third efforts, as did Provost and Goguen.

The Presidents' "Menchi-Maver Combo," ends Rich Menchi and Billy Maver, continued to sparkle. Conroy calls them "Our bread and butter players."

Several other players came in for high praise from their coach, including sophomore lineman Ron Smith who played both ways with Bob Conti and John Davis on the injured list. Others were linebackers Dave Omar and Bob Gallo, Jim Bucchianeri, Bob Sylva, Frank Pellegrino and Joe NiCastro, who did well in the backfield; Joe Russo and Dennis Waters for outstanding defensive play.

In the second period Provost ended a 50-yard drive by going over from the two. Richards rushed for the two points.

With just seven seconds left in the half Provost caught a pass for 25 yards and the third touchdown. A penalty against Quincy had stopped the clock, permitting time for the scoring pass. Sullivan passed to Menchi for the points.

In the third period Sullivan passed to Maver for 10 yards and a touchdown and then hit Richards on a 15-yard scoring pass to make it Quincy 34-7 going into the final period.

The Presidents added their final touchdown on a 38-yard pass to Menchi while the Highlanders exploded for three touchdowns against the Quincy subs. Bob Karopoulos ran back a pass interception 50 yards, and little Pat Scrima, a 120-pound quarterback, threw two scoring passes, both to Art Bent, an outstanding end. The first was good for 36 yards and the second 70 yards, the pass traveling 50 yards in the air. Scrima, incidentally, had scored the first Somerville touchdown from the one in the second period.

In five games Quincy has outscored its opposition, 218 to 66.

Undefeated Season

North Takes Soccer Title

North Quincy's soccer team is the South Shore Association champion and will represent the association in the Eastern Mass. tournament which starts next Wednesday.

North won its second league title with a 2-0 win over Quincy on Tuesday and finished with an 11-0 record, the first unbeaten season in history.

The top four teams engage in a playoff series beginning today with North and Quincy meeting at Hingham and second place Duxbury facing Hingham. The finals will be played at 10 a.m. Saturday, at South Shore Voc-Tech Field in Hanover, if that field is available.

North will receive a trophy for winning the league crown and the playoff winner also will be awarded one.

George Bourikas, North's ace who has been in this country only a few years from his native Greece, scored both goals Tuesday, the first on a penalty shot in the first period, the second on a pass from Tim Flynn in the second period.

Both goalies, Mike Jacques of North, who had a sensational season, and Quincy's Dave D'Olympio, one of the best in the state, turned in outstanding performances.

Bourikas had an outstanding year and led the team with 22 goals, followed closely by Vin Cameron. Al Lavoie was Quincy's top scorer with 15 goals, followed by Artie Boyle.

A week ago North came up with the big win, a 1-0 squeaker over perennial league champion Duxbury in a battle of undefeated. Duxbury is the defending champion and has won the championship nearly every year.

The game was scoreless for three periods as goalies Mike Jacques of North and Bud McGarigle were brilliant.

Finally, in a scramble in front of the Duxbury goal, North's Tom Flynn got control of the ball, passed to Vin Cameron who had stepped out of the pack and Cameron put the ball into the lower right hand corner of the net for the winning goal.

The rivals' high scorers, George Bourikas of North, Pete Chandler and Mark McEvoy of Duxbury, were thwarted as Chandler had only one shot in the game.

Quincy scored a goal in every period to blank Foxboro, 4-0, to remain tied with Hingham for third place.

Harry Meidinis, who later had an assist, scored the first Quincy goal and the others were scored by Artie Boyle, Bob Curtis and Mike Orlando.

Earlier in the week North had walloped Foxboro, 9-2, and Quincy topped Norwell, 3-1.

Foxboro lost its starting goalie Roy Ludwig in the first period and North exploded for six goals in the second period. Cameron and Bourikas scored two goals each, Steve Mullaney, Steve Lane, O'Malley, Flynn and Bob Golden one each. Mullaney also had three assists and Bourikas two.

Quincy was tied with Norwell, 1-1, after three periods but scored twice in the final session to pull it out. Al Lavoie had two goals and Orlando the other, while Meidinas had two assists.

Defense Showing Way

Raiders After Fifth Win At Everett

The North Quincy football team, making a fine comeback from a 2-7 season in 1969, exploded for four touchdowns last week but Coach Ralph Frazier gave the defense most of the credit for an impressive 27-0 win over previously undefeated Chelsea at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win gave the improving Raiders a 4-1-1 overall mark [2-1-1 in the Greater Boston League] and they will be slim favorites over a capable Everett team Saturday in their 1:30 p.m. meeting at Everett.

Everett, big as usual, has a 3-2 overall record with wins over Somerville, 14-0; Revere, 24-8; and Medford, 22-8; and losses to Newton [non-league], 20-0 and Quincy, 29-6. The Big Red is right behind Quincy in the league with a 3-1 mark.

"Our offense looked a lot better but it was the defense again which gave us the win," Frazier said. "The defense made all the difference as it scored our first touchdown and checked Chelsea's attack well. They had only one scoring chance and we held them when they reached our 15 on a pass. The defense has been our strong point all year long."

North overcame two early game setbacks to hand the surprising Red Devils their first loss. First, Tony Kelly fumbled the ball on the Chelsea two just as he was about to score and a few minutes later Greg King came up with one of several North interceptions and ran it in for an apparent score but it was nullified by a pass interference call.

But those were the only good things that happened to the visitors all day. Later in the opening period Lee Davis stole a pass off the fingertips of Bob Martinello and ran it back 13 yards to put the Raiders in front. Brian McCleery kicked the first of this three extra points.

In the second period Paul Lippens, who had another fine day at quarterback, hit end Dave Mahoney on a spectacular 62-yard pass play and McCleery again kicked the point. Later in the same quarter John Panarelli capped a drive by scoring from the three.

NORTH QUINCY'S SCORING

	TD	PAT	Pts.

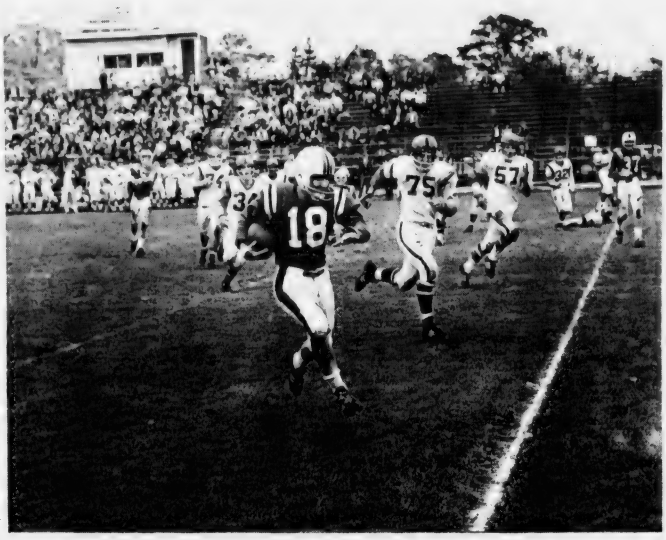
King	2	0	12
Davis	2	0	12
Lippens	2	0	12
Panarelli	1	2	8
McCleery	0	7	7
Zink	1	0	6



In the third period Lippens again hit Mahoney with a touchdown pass, this one covering 38 yards, and again McCleery added the point.

North gave the ball away six times on fumbles and interceptions but was in command all the way.

"Lippens played very well at quarterback with some good running and passing," a happy Frazier said. "Panarelli, Kelly and Jimmy deVarennes all played well in the backfield and Mahoney sparkled at end. He made another picture catch, jumping up between two defenders and catching the ball. He also played very well on defense.

"King was strong on defense as was Dan Doherty and the entire defensive line again stood out. Actually, our first team played only about half the game and the second unit did an excellent job.

"This was a meaningful win for us. If we lost we could be just a mediocre club. We won and now are still alive in the league race although our chances are remote with a tie and a one-point loss. We are just three points away from a perfect season."

NORTH DOUBLE THREAT, Quarterback Paul Lippens not only does well in the pass department but he knows how to run, too, as Chelsea discovered Saturday. Here he is off on long jaunt.

Quincy Harriers Top North--At Last

Tom Hall's first year as Quincy's cross country coach was an outstanding success as he led the Presidents to their best season in many years.

Under Hall's guidance, Quincy last week defeated North Quincy for the first time in eight years, 26-30, in the final Greater Boston League meet of the season.

Bob Gentry's North team wound up with a 3-4 league record and a 5-4 overall mark. A year ago the Raiders lost only once.

The individual race between Quincy's Bobby Ciano and North's Kevin Henry, both unbeaten going into the meet, was just as exciting as expected as Ciano nipped his cross-town rival by four seconds.

Quincy's Jim Dubois was third, Matt Clancy of North fourth, Pete Ciano of Quincy fifth, Mike Gilcoine of Quincy sixth, North's Richie Yee, Paul Strungis, Rich Malloy and Paul Bonoli seven through 10 and Quincy's Chris Toy 11th.

A Good Year Despite Central Tie

Sterling Clinches Soccer Title

Although held to a surprise scoreless tie by Central, Sterling's unscored-upon soccer team clinched another Quincy Junior High school title.

In by far the most exciting game of the season, Sterling got off to a flying start and bombarded the Central goal with shot after shot but couldn't score in the first period. Central settled down in the second period and put some pressure on the Sterling defense but both sides held.

Central could almost taste the upset and put on a brilliant display of hard running soccer in the second half but excellent play by goalie Tom McKinnon kept them from scoring.

As usual halfback Tony Michaelangelo played an outstanding game for Sterling, while halfbacks Bob Gordon and Joe Ciano were standouts for Central. It was mainly through their efforts that Sterling couldn't score in the opening period.

Halfbacks John McKinnon and Bob Morse of Atlantic proved too strong for the opposition at midfield and helped keep their team on the attack. John Farren, Point's left fullback, had a busy day as he was under constant pressure, and forward Mike Cullen also played well for Point.

Earlier in the week Sterling defeated Broad Meadows, 4-0, with Mike Ranalli scoring two goals, Michaelangelo and John Sweeney one apiece. It was the fifth goal for Sweeny, the league's top scorer.

Sterling's powerhouse is making a runaway of the league with five wins and a tie and scored 14 goals, nine more than the second place team. Atlantic had two wins, two ties and two losses, Central one win, four ties and a loss, Broad Meadows one win, two ties and two losses and Point no wins, one tie and four losses.

Recreation Department Opens 22nd Winter Season Program

The Winter Program of the Quincy Park-Recreation Department opened its 22nd season this week with after school and Saturday activities in 22 Quincy schools, under William F. Ryan, director, announces Board Chairman James F. McCormack, Sr.

Elementary school children eight years and older are eligible for the 3-5 p.m. after school program.

Saturday programs schedule elementary school boys from 8 to 10:30 a.m.; junior high school boys from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., and senior high students from 11:30 a.m. to the 1 p.m. closing.

The men's physical fitness program at Atlantic Junior High School gymnasiym runs from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday evenings and will open Nov. 2. This program is under the direction of John [Butch] Mahoney, former North Quincy High School and A.I.C. footballstar.

The women's fitness program, held Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at atlantic Junior High School Gymnasium, began this week.

The Saturday program from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. for handicapped children will be held at North Quincy High School, opens Oct. 31.

Three Teams Tied For Top In Little Loop

Montclair Men's Club, Quincy Elks and Dist. Atty. George G. Burke's teams lead the Quincy Bowling Little Loop, 4-0. The Montclair team is on top with a pinfall of 1,246.

Dick Hirtle with a 96.1 average and high three of 289 was top scorer. Following were Bruce Perry, 96 average and high single of 113; Kevin Mullaney, 95.1; Mike Durkin, 93.1; Dick Magnarelli, 92.2; Joe Gullins, 92.2; William J. Connolly, 92.2; John Karaian, 91.2; Paul Peckham, 91.1 and Andy Wilkinson and Gordon Stone tied at 90.2.

Quacks To Try Again To Open

Quincy Quacks, who won their first scheduled game on a forfeit, will attempt their season's opener Sunday at 2 p.m. at Furnace Brook School against Jamaica Plain.

Quincy's street hockey players, ready to go, had a disappointing day when Brookline's team took sick last Sunday morning and replacements could not be found.

Good Compact Model

Shoff A Good Thing In A Small Package

Good things, they say, come in small packages.

Eastern Nazarene College soccer coach Bob Jack, heartily concurs, because the best thing to ever happen to his soccer team is small, compact and very good.

Steve Shoff, a 5-8 junior from North Quincy, who played his high school soccer at Manchester, Conn. High School, is the big reason the Crusaders are coasting along with a 6-1-2 record, their best mark in years.

Shoff, in the nine games played to date, has scored 19 goals and has seven assists.

"Shoff is a cool little ball player," explained Coach Jack, "and he can kick a ball with either foot."

Another asset that has helped Shoff in his scoring is the ability to move with the ball. He has an uncanny ability to fake a defender, keep possession of the ball and move in for the score.

Last week the Crusaders picked up two more victories in the Colonial Intercollegiate Soccer Conference play as they nipped Nasson College, 2-1, in a rough, hard-fought game played at Quincy and then rolled over New England College, 4-1 in Henniker, N.H.

Shoff got all the ENC goals against Nasson as he connected on two penalty kicks. He also scored three goals against New England. The fourth ENC goal was scored by Ed Gardner a senior wing from Bloomington, Conn.

Only two other games remain on the schedule. On Nov. 3 the Crusaders will host Worcester Junior College and on Nov. 14, they will face the Alumni as part of Homecoming weekend.

ENC Hoop Team High Scoring Unit

Eastern Nazarene College should have a high scoring basketball team this winter with three players, two from Quincy, averaging more than 30 points a game last year.

Leading the Crusaders will be the sensational Ron Bradley from North Quincy, a 6-3 guard who averaged 30.6 points a game last winter for ENC in his sophomore year. He starred at North Quincy High three years ago and received NAIA All-American honorable mention.

Paul Beston of Quincy, a former Quincy High star, last year averaged 30 points a game for Quincy Junior College. He was named to the New England Junior College Basketball League's all-star team and was named the league's Most Valuable Player.

He is expected to see most of his action in the backcourt at ENC, where his shooting and ball handling will be used to good advantage.

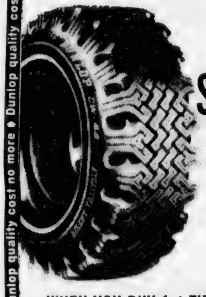
The third big scorer could be Don Eads, a six-foot guard who averaged 32 points a game at Mount Vernon Nazarene Junior College in Mount Vernon, Ohio. A tough 190-pounder, he has excellent speed, is a good driver and has a good jump shot.

Things are looking up for Coach Bill Smith at Eastern Nazarene.

Meyer 'Headhunter'

Don Meyer, a sophomore linebacker for the Lafayette College football team, last week was named the "headhunter" for making the most tackles in a game.

Don, a former North Quincy lineman, earned the honor with five tackles and six assists. He now has made 26 tackles in two games.



The previous week Don was selected as the team's "bad cat" for overall aggressiveness.

'Kids As Good As Always' Says N.Q.'s Martin Casey In Farewell

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Martin H. Casey, retiring assistant principal at North Quincy High School, has met a lot of teenage kids during his 17 years in Quincy.

And he seems to have enjoyed those years – and them.

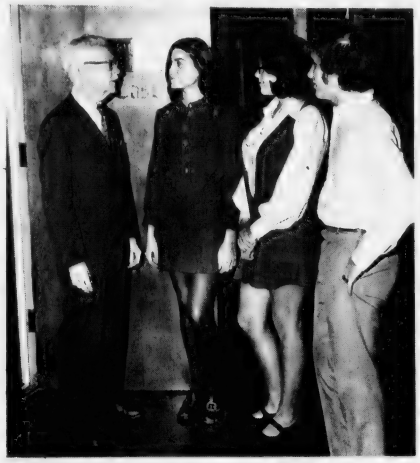
With wit, discernment and the humor that is his forte, Mr. Casey shared a few of his reflections with the Quincy Sun on his favorite subject.

"Kids are just as good as they always were. Today this super sophistication is really pseudo-maturity. They are not any more mature than they ever were. They think they are.

"Teenage kids have always known all the answers – I even remember when I was a teenager. It is the most wonderful period of their lives because there is nothing they don't know the answer to. It will never happen again, except when they are sophomores in college.

"It is too bad that there are a few – and I blame the media for this – characters who are given great publicity, rather than the ones who have really done something worthwhile.

"I blame TV – there would be infinitely less problems if they did not give coverage daily, hourly, minutely on TV to the bombings, rioting etc. Most of the young people today welcome a 'fence' around them. It is a form of protection knowing what they can and can't do."



"I came here as a counselor when Mr. [James] Collins was principal," he recalled. "I've been 17 years in Quincy - this is my 18th year.

"Before that I was at Leominster – had a leave of absence for four years while I served as Lieutenant Commander in the Navy – and it wasn't the Civil War, either!"

After taking part in action in both Atlantic and Pacific areas, Mr. Casey returned to teaching at Leominster for four years.

Then he started looking around for a position in Quincy.

"Mrs. Casey taught in Quincy before we were married – I met her in college [Boston University], but it took the war to get us together. She is a Braintree girl. We have been married more than 25 years – it's legal enough," he said.

Mrs. Casey is the former Miss Margaret Haley. Lt. Martin Michael Casey, USN, their son, is a crew member of the latest nuclear submarine USS George Washington Carver, based at Groton, Conn. They have two grandchildren.

Questioned about the future, Mr. Casey replied: "There are no definite plans – we will do some traveling that has been put off for many years. Due to my type of work, my summers haven't always been free – I had to be more or less available for scheduling."

A high point in Mr. Casey's years at North came in 1960 when, he helped re-establish the Quincy Summer School program and was its director.

"We started from nothing and begged, borrowed and stole material and equipment – and I got a big kick out of that with my years in the Navy of 'stealing' things – we had to know where things could be 'stolen'," Mr. Casey laughed.

"We didn't hire teachers unless they could 'borrow' enough supplies for their summer program."

Asked about the possibility of one high school for all Quincy, Mr. Casey replied judiciously, "Looking into a cloudy, crystal ball, such a union would have many advantages and many disadvantages – a typical school teacher's answer.

"I personally feel that one school, despite the many advantages, would be too big. I believe in a little more intimacy. We feel very strongly that there is an esprit de corps, or morale, or spirit at North – maybe it is parochial – a strong loyalty among alumni from North that would rebel against the combination."

"Our greatest need is space," Mr. Casey emphasized. "Another building. Wollaston Golf Course would have been an ideal place for a new school. We could build on 'Mr. Walsh's lawn', or perhaps in back of the school."

North Quincy High has 27 floating teachers, Mr. Casey listed, with no classrooms of their own.

Last night Mr. Casey's friends and family joined in honoring him at a dinner at the Neighborhood Club, for his 11 years in the Guidance Department, his eight years as assistant principal at North.

Sometime this week he will sit down with his successor, Peter J. Chrisom, former head of the Social Studies Department at Quincy High School, and perhaps tell him a few things about teenagers. Some nice things.

Quincy's School Programs Studied By NU Students

Quincy's public school organization and programs were under recent scrutiny by 12 graduate students from Northeastern University's Department of Educational Administration and an instructor.

Lloyd Creighton, Quincy High School principal; Laurence Babin, director of Quincy Vocational Technical School, and Arthur S. Woodward coordinator of secondary schools met with the visitors.

Discussion included an overall picture of the learning procedures in Quincy Public Schools, the individual teaching-learning environment, along with Quincy's participation in programs such as Project ABLE, PLAN, Model Schools, and ES '70.

Shorebank, Inc.

Per Share Income Up

Shorebank Inc., announces that per share net income for the first nine months of 1970 was $2.57, compared to the $2.11 reported for the same period a year ago.

Total net income for the period was $1,041,485, while the 1969 figure was $857,552. Both figures are based on 405,676 shares outstanding.

The company's most recent dividend, 35 cents per share, was paid on Oct. 1. For the nine months, a total dividend of $1.05 per share has been paid, versus 90 cents per share in the previous year.

Shorebank, a one-bank holding company, was formed in December, 1968, and is traded over the counter. Its subsidiaries are South Shore National Bank and Royal Check Printers Inc.

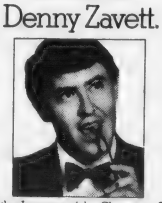
What's New? Male Strippers!



ELLIOTT GOULD was voted this year's "Star of the Year" by the National Association of Theatre Owners. And with his list of recent hits, the premier star of the 70's has more than earned the award he will be receiving at the Theatre Owners Convention at Bal Harbour, Florida, Nov. 5th... However the person chosen winner of the female "Star of the Year" award, doesn't quite make any sense... GOLDIE HAWN was selected over a field of more competent and more established actresses who have more than one film to their credit... Thus far Miss HAWN has only made one picture, that being "CACTUS FLOWER"... How successful she is in the future is anyone's guess; although it is this column's opinion that GOLDIE HAWN will be just another Hollywood pretty face by 1975... KARL MALDEN, who won rave reviews for his performance in "PATTON", is in Italy filming the suspense thriller "CAT O' NINE TAILS". Giving him ample support in this film are JAMES FRANCISCUS and CATHERINE SPAAK...

New York Daily News Film Critic WANDA HALE butcher-reviewed ANDY WAHOL's "TRASH" with all the finesse of a third rate apprentice surgeon... More than likely Miss HALE viewed the film through anti-WARHOL eyes, or she would never have referred to this production as a "no stars" flic... Each of the "TRASH" actors involved gave commendable performances, as was noted by other New York film critics... "CROMWELL" will New England premier at the BEN SACK owned Pi Alley Theatre as a special Christmas engagement the middle of December... KEITH CARRADINE makes his film debut in the WARREN BEATTY-JULIE CHRISTIE starred, "THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WAGER"... If the last name sounds familiar it should. Keith is the son of famed character actor JOHN CARRADINE... CHARLTON HESTON's follow-up to his highly acclaimed "JULIUS CAESAR", will be the remake of "ANTONY AND CLEOPATRA", soon to be filmed in Spain... In this one, HESTON is writing the screenplay, putting up the bankroll, and of course starring...

"TORA, TORA, TORA" is a mere $23 million short of the break even point... JOE NAMATH is strictly a third stringer when it comes to acting. You can catch him flexing his muscles in "C.C. AND COMPANY", and playing the heavy to the real star of the film,ANN-MARGARET... So you think you have problems? ROY ROGERS is hauling the Internal Revenue Service to court shortly over a little matter of $187,615 the IRS claims the singing-cowboy owes on back taxes for the year 1965... GINA LOLLABRIGIDIA cancelled out of a proposed guest role in a forthcoming "NAME OF THE GAME" episode. A LA GINA didn't think the script was so hot... Producer-director BARRY SHEAR agreed with her, that the script "needed changes", and in true Hollywood tradition SHEAR cried to the press that GINA "quit" the proposed segment. Well, that's Show Biz... The "DAVID FROST SHOW" will originate from the west coast for a two week stand starting Nov. 3rd...

The television scene would make more sense than it does if CBS were to cancel the atrociously boring "HEE-HAW"... LUCILLE BALL, DORIS DAY and CAROL BURNETT each have NIELSON RATED hits on their lovely hands, as each of their comedy fests have consistently turned up on TV's Top 20 Hit Parade this season... And the number one ranked television show you ask? GUNSMOKE, of course... "BAREFOOT IN THE PARK" star SCOEY MITCHELL was fired from this poorly written situation comedy a few weeks ago... Something to do with his "socking it to" producer TED LEONARD... Have you seen the LEE MARVIN-JEANNE MOREAU starred "MONTE WALSH" yet?... One of the finest, realistic westerns filmed to date...

In order to satisfy its women clientele, LE SPEAK EASY, a Parisian left bank nitery, is introducing MALE strippers. Management claims they are offering this entertainment "in the service of women's liberation"... Members of the Los Angeles company of "HAIR" are doing their bit to "enhance" the already downtrodden image of youth. No less than 12 of the cast were picked up on narcotics charges during a police raid at a swank, swinging party... Writer, essayist and American Black playwright JAMES BALDWIN is in the beginning stages of forming his own film company in Paris... Whatever happened to JOYCE REDMAN of 1965 "OTHELLO" fame?...

Denny Zavett.

Now appearing at the Lounge of the Sheraton-Quincy: Nightclub favorite Denny Zavett playing the beautiful music he does so well. Tuesdays through Saturdays 5 to 7 and again from 9 to 12 pm. No cover. No minimum.

Quincy Lions Club Planning Mystery Ride, Dinner Nov. 4

Because of the ride, the noon meeting on Nov. 3 has been cancelled.

Quincy's 1970-71 officers are William Shea, president; Joseph Doherty, Roger Hamel and Everett Tatreau, first, second and third vice-presidents; Paul Nogueira, secretary; David Houston, treasurer; William Palmer, tail twister; Columbo Cherubini, lion tamer and assistant treasurer.

The directors include Americo Cherubini, Thomas Morrissey, George Riley, John Swanson, Robert Bollinger, Arthur Gillis, Robert Newman, David King, Elden Zuern, Timothy Abbott and Roy Rounseville.

SAFE ON FILM--Register of Deeds Barry T. Hannon of Braintree inspects microfilm of Norfolk County land records and mortgage deeds, stored in former ammunition depot bunker in Hull. With him are Asst. Register Charles N. Ross of Quincy and Record Supervisor Wendel Beal. Records go back to 1700's. When new records are received, they are photographed within 10 minutes and stored in containers within the bunker whose concrete walls run from four to 26 feet thick.

Marcia Mitchell At NAEP Meeting In Ann Arbor

Miss Marcia Mitchell, a teacher at the Adams elementary school, South Quincy, has been invited to attend a National Assessment of Educational Progress meeting to be held in Ann Arbor, Mich. this week.

NAEP a project of the Education Commission of the United States, has been designed to measure youngsters' achievement of specific citizenship and vocational objectives.

While working at the American Institutes for Research in Palo Alto, Calif., Miss Mitchell helped develop these objectives.

Miss Mitchell's expenses will be paid for by NAEP. She will be meeting in one of several small groups with persons representing expertise in vocational development theory and in vocational education, and with some who are currently working in the field with young people.

QUESTIONS

IN ALL CITIES AND TOWNS

QUESTION NO. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION: Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 15, 1968, received 155 votes in the affirmative and 98 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 147 votes in the affirmative and 119 in the negative? YES. . . NO.

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizes the Legislature to classify real property according to uses, and authorizes the assessment, rating and taxation of real property at different rates in the different classes so established, but proportionately in the same class. The amendment further authorizes the granting of reasonable exemptions and abatements.

QUESTION NO. 2

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION: Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held October 9, 1967, received 237 votes in the affirmative and 0 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 262 votes in the affirmative and 4 in the negative? YES. . . NO. . .

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution abolishes the requirement that in order to vote in a state election a person must have resided within the Commonwealth one year. If amended, the Constitution would require only that a voter have resided six months in the town or district in which he claims a right to vote.

QUESTION NO. 3

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION: Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held October 9, 1967, received 142 votes in the affirmative and 102 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 14, 1969, received 222 votes in the affirmative and 49 in the negative? YES. . .NO. .

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution reduces the minimum age for voting in a state election from twenty-one to nineteen.

QUESTION NO. 4

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION: Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below, which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 15, 1968, received 181 votes in the affirmative and 66 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 15, 1969, received 208 votes in the affirmative and 54 in the negative? YES. . . NO. .

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment to the Constitution amends the existing constitutional provisions which direct the division of the Commonwealth into 240 representative districts and 40 senatorial districts. It provides for a census of the inhabitants of each city and town in the Commonwealth in the year 1971 and in every tenth year thereafter. The census in 1971 is to be the basis for determining the representative and senatorial districts for the ten-year period beginning January 1, 1975. Each subsequent census shall be the basis for determining the districts for each ten-year period beginning the fourth January following each census, so that the census in 1981 will determine the districts as of January, 1985 etc.

The amendment provides that the house of representatives shall consist of two hundred and forty members and the senate of forty members. In its first regular session following each census, the Legislature shall divide the Commonwealth into two hundred and forty representative districts of contiguous territory and forty senatorial districts also of contiguous territory. Each representative district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. Each senatorial district shall also contain as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants according to the census. A representative district shall not unite two or more counties, towns, or cities, or parts thereof, or a city and a town, or parts thereof, in one district unless the same is unavoidable. Further, no town of less than six thousand inhabitants shall be divided in forming representative districts. It is also provided that the County of Dukes County and Nantucket County shall each be a representative district, notwithstanding the foregoing. The senatorial districts, each of which shall elect one Senator, shall be formed without uniting two counties or parts of two or more counties, unless the same is unavoidable.

Each representative shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at least one year immediately preceding his election, and each senator shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen at the time of his election and shall have been an inhabitant of the Commonwealth for at least five years immediately preceding his election. Any representative or senator who ceases to be an inhabitant of the Commonwealth shall cease to represent his district.

The amendment also provides that the Legislature [1] may by law limit the time within which judicial proceedings may be instituted calling in question any such division and [2] shall prescribe by law the manner of calling and conducting elections for the choice of representatives and of ascertaining their election.

Finally, the amendment annuls the existing constitutional provisions with respect to apportionment of representative and senatorial districts, although those provisions will remain in effect until January 1, 1975.

Appreciates Coverage Of WJDA Guidance Staff Programs

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We very much appreciate the excellent coverage which you gave to the series of programs to be presented by the Guidance Staff of the Quincy Public Schools monthly on WJDA. The long article had excellent placement and could not be missed by any one.

Since our purpose for the broadcasts is to inform area residents, and especially parents, of the many services available through the Guidance Department, we were delighted that all Quincy residents have had the opportunity to learn of the programs through your paper.

Countless people have mentioned that they read the article and have marked the dates on their calendars.

We are most grateful for this cooperation on your part and by WJDA to assist us in helping people better to understand the role of a school counselor.

Thank you.

John Evans Honored Nov. 17

John A. Evans, principal of Atlantic Junior High School, North Quincy, will be honored at a testimonial dinner Nov. 17 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Mr. Evans, who is retiring Dec. 31, has been principal of Atlantic since it opened Feb. 12, 1959. He was formerly assistant principal at North Quincy High School and had been a counselor and teacher at Quincy Point Junior High School and South Junior High School.

The dinner is being sponsored by the school faculty, and all former staff members and friends are invited.

Reservations should be made with Stephen J. DelRosso, head counselor at Atlantic Junior High School, chairman of the dinner committee.

Students Award 'Apples'

"Apples for the teachers" were tokens of appreciation by Central Junior High School's ninth graders at a surprise coffee hour for the faculty during American Education Week.

Refreshments were planned and prepared by the students, and served with background music provided by a quartet. Musicians were Donna Bacherman and Maria Dano, pianists; Betsy Hamburger and Carl Leone, guitarists.

Ninth grade officers responsible were the all-male slate including John Flynn, president; Daniel Minton, vice president; Michael White, secretary; and Kevin Hogan, Treasurer.

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

Will The 'Normal' Man Please Stand Up!

[Today's guest column is written by Dr. Robert Mann, an associate of Dr. Charles Djerf]

Medical science exists to treat disease, to return the abnormal state of health to normal. We learn early in our training how to differentiate disease from health. In the first year of medical training, one takes a course in Histology, to learn what all the normal tissues in the body look like, microscopically.

Following this is a course in Pathology, to look at these same organs and tissues in the pathological state. Subsequent courses in diagnosis and treatment of disease follow, and then the young physician is equipped to treat disease, to return the abnormal to normal, and like a knight in shining armor, goes out to "cure" the world.

It isn't long before the dream is shattered by the first patient with a tumor, that proves untreatable or by the first leukemic child, that lives only a few months or by the first newborn with multiple birth defects, that can not be treated, only "made comfortable."

Such patients can really hit one hard, "right between the eyes", and the repeated assaults of such uncurable cases can lead some physicians to the brink of depression. The one saving factor. at least in pediatrics, is the greatest number of beautiful well children, and happy families, and the fast response of children to antibiotics with such once-dread diseases as pneumonia and menengitis. It is a thrill to see a very ill child get well. In fact, that is what makes the whole grind bearable. It certainly isn't the telephone that does.

One gets a great thrill helping to make the abnormal normal again. It can be very frustrating when you can't. It is even more frustrating when the guidelines between what is normal and abnormal are faint or obscured. There is little problem when dealing with most infections or tumors. Things are, for the most part, clear-cut.

However, when dealing with behavior, and mental or emotional disorders, things become more obtuse. I don't think it is easy to be a psychiatrict or psychologist, because of the confusing and conflicting theory as to what is normal and abnormal. We are quick to condemn psychiatry as not too helpful in some problems. but when you consider the non-exactness and haziness of the science. their problems are understandable.

And now, we are beginning to hear that things once thought to be abnormal are "normal". "Bleeding hearts" are after us constantly to accept such deviant behavior as homosexuality "as normal", and give the practitioners of their "art" their proper place in society. As far as I am concerned, the bleeding hearts can exsanquinate [bleed to death].

We are told that everything is "relative", and depends on our value systems, which may vary. I won't argue with this point completely, but it would seem that there is some line between normal and abnormal sexual behavior. and the amount of participation in an activity does not make it right! And Judeo-Christian tradition would seem to put sexual perversion in it's proper place. But not some of our "experts".

Consider the Commission on Pornography, and it's report to the President. Allowing pornography for adults and not children could not be managed properly. We are able to control. to a fair degree, the purity and healthfulness of what we consume by mouth, but not what enters our minds. We are informed that the pursuit of erotica is "normal".

I wonder about the mental health of the person that has to rely on the obscene to fulfill his sexual appetite. If a man was starving to death, and tried to fulfill his hunger by cutting out a picture of a pork-chop, pasting it on the wall to stare at, we would consider him ready for Medfield. Unlicensed and steady exposure of a young mind to the obscene can lead to pathology in the future mental development of a young mind.

We need some better guidelines as to what is normal and abnormal. Until we have some acceptable ones. pity the poor psychiatrist, and pity yourself too. We're all the losers!

Cardinal Cushing Mourned Here By All Faiths

DEMOLAY LEGION OF HONOR -- City Auditor Alexander Smith [center] invested to the Demolay Legion of Honor is shown with A. Neill Osgood, member of the International Supreme Council and executive officer in Massachusetts, and Alexander Harding, Commander in the East from Old Colony Order of Demolay.

The Cardinal, who died of cancer Monday at 75, was extolled here as "one of God's great noblemen," whose personal qualities "endeared him to Protestants as well as his own flock," and as "one of the greatest church leaders of this century."

A concelebrated funeral Mass will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, with Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, apostolic delegate to the United States, as principal celebrant. Concelebrants will include Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros, his successor, Auxiliary Bishops Jeremiah F. Minihan, Thomas J. Reily and Daniel A. Cronin.

Burial will be in a crypt in Portiuncula Chapel at St. Coletta's School for Exceptional Children in Hanover.

Among the tributes:

Congressman James A. Burke, who represents Quincy in Washington, declared:

"Richard Cardinal Cushing was truly one of God's great noblemen. His concern for the sick, the elderly and the disadvantaged was compassionate and strong and consistent over the entire span of his priestly life, while he was also renowned for his great interest in children and their well being.

"He had a warm and sincere feeling of brotherhood for peoples of all races and religions. He was a giant among men and we are not apt to see his like again.

"Mrs. Burke and I extend our deepest sympathy to the Cushing family and the clergy throughout the Boston archdiocese who have lost a great friend and a leader."

Rev. John D. Banks, minister of Bethany Congregational Church, commented:

"Cardinal Cushing's leadership in this large Catholic Archdiocese had inevitably had its influence on all our Christian works and fellowship. His large part in the ecumenical movement of recent years will constitute a lasting gift that all of us will try to use wisely in future development.

"His own personal qualities endeared him to Protestants as well as his own more immediate flock."

Mayor James R. McIntyre said:

"I was a great admirer of Cardinal Cushing, and I had a deep and abiding respect for him. I have known him personally for a long time, and I was confirmed by him in St. Ann's Parish in Wollaston.

"Also, he was a graduate of Boston College High School as I was, and I went to school with his nephew Richard Francis. Also, I was friendly with his sister, who incidentally, was in Quincy last week.

"I have been for a long time of the belief that Cardinal Cushing was truly one of the greatest church leaders of this century, and he was the founder of ecumenism before the word became popular.

"He was truly a priest of God for all faiths, and he had as many admirers in the Jewish and Protestant faiths as in the Catholic for his open heartedness, his ability to laugh at himself, plus what I think is an outstanding trait of the Irish, a self-effacing humor.

"In my opinion, his death is an irreconcilable loss to the people of Boston and the people of the area in the Archdiocese. It is something that affects me very greatly because of my very deep admiration for him.

"One of the outstanding character qualities that he displayed in his later years was his stamina, perseverance and courage. He had known of his sickness for sometime, and yet he withstood all assaults on his health and did his job, and wanted to complete the job. I think God gave him one of his final wishes when he allowed him to see his successor installed as Archbishop of Boston.

"I was there in the Cathedral when this happened. I heard his talk a few weeks ago, and he expressed a tremendous appreciation to God for allowing him to see his successor installed, and I think that now that he saw this happen and the burden of his grave responsibilities of leading the Church in this area relieved, I believe he thought his job was done and acceded to his death.

"We will surely miss him in Quincy. He was a very familiar figure around here, and a very beloved figure."

Rev. John T. Foley, assistant at St. Ann's Church in Wollaston, opened Monday night's City Council meeting with an eulogy:

Fr. Foley called his death a "loss to the church and to the world."

He recalled Cardinal Cushing's accomplishments in Quincy, the establishment of St. Boniface Parish in Germantown, and two Catholic Schools.

The Cardinal was a "leader in the ecumenical movement" long before others became interested, Fr. Foley said, and he praised the Cardinal as an outstanding humanitarian.

The Council meeting closed, as it opened, with words of remembrance and praise of Cardinal Cushing by Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

$26 Million In

$1.8 Million Still Owed City In 1970 Taxes

An estimated $1.8 million was still owed the city by mid-week as the deadline for paying 1970 real estate and personal property taxes passed.

Approximately $26 million has come in–about $10 million of it this week–reports City Treasurer-Tax Collector David R. Houston.

"It's the best shape we've been in the past five years," notes Houston. "There are fewer stragglers this year."

Houston, however, urged those who have not yet paid their taxes to do so immediately.

"They will save themselves an interest charge and at the same time help the city," he said.

Deadline for paying the tax bills was Monday. Those who have not paid face an 8 per cent interest per year penalty retroactive to Oct. 1 until the bills are paid, he said.

A $1,000 tax bill, he illustrated, would mean an $80 interest charge penalty if not paid by next Nov. 1.

Houston said one reason for the quicker return of tax payments this year was the fact the bills were sent out July 14–two months sooner than in 1969.

Some 25,000 bills–22,700 real estate and 2,300 personal property–totalling $27,819,000 were mailed out in July.

Miss Nora Mullarkey Turns Tables On Her Friends

Miss Nora Mullarkey turned the tables on her friends the other night and they loved it.

In June she was honored at a dinner at Hugo's, Cohasset, by those friends when she retired after a 44-year teaching career.

She has never forgotten a moment of that night.

So, recently, nearly 100 teachers and other friends received engraved invitations from "a happy old retired teacher named Nora Mullarkey, cherishing the memory of the evening at Hugo's which you made possible".

They were invited to be her guests at a "thank you" dinner at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, Oct. 27.

Among those attending were School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Theodore R. Silva, principal of Daniel Webster School where Miss Mullarkey spent 43 of her 44 teaching years and two sisters of late Richard Cardinal Cushing.

Noted Silva:

"She is a very sincere, gentle and lovable person – loves children and people and has never been known to say a harsh word against anyone!"

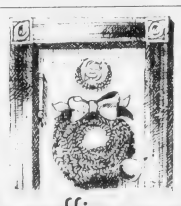
"She is honest, very helpful to everyone, a most remarkable person with rare qualities and very charitable. She has always given of herself and to this day she continues to do so."

Miss Mullarkey continues to live with her sister, Miss Margaret Mullarkey, also retired, at 98 Crescent St., West Quincy, their home for more than 50 years. Their brother, Msgr. John E. Mullarkey, is pastor of St. Pius V. parish in Lynn.

Miss Mullarkey picked up the tab for both the dinner and the "Happy Hour" social.

52 Boys, Girls To Ride In Parade

Fifty boys and girls, in addition to the 1970 Festival Prince and Princess, will have an opportunity to ride in the Nov. 29 Christmas Festival parade.



Names of additional runners-up will be drawn from registration coupons, announces Joseph Whiteman and David Coletti, co-chairmen. These boys and girls will participate in the 19th annual Santa Claus parade by riding on one of the especially designed and constructed floats to salute Walt Disney and Disneyland.

It may be in Fantasyland, a castle; Adventureland, an explorer's boat; Frontierland, a frontier train; New Orleans Square, a pirate's boat; Main Street U.S.A., a trolleycar; Tomorrowland, a monorail; and Santa's Workshop.

Boys and girls from 5 to 10 years have until Nov. 15 to register for the Prince and Princess Contest. In addition to reigning as "King and Queen" of the parade, the winners will appear on television and radio to help publicize the parade, and officiate at other Festival programs such as the Christmas Lights Ceremony Nov. 27.

More than $200 worth of gifts will be given to the Prince and Princess by Quincy-South Shore businesses.

Registration coupons are available in more than 75 Quincy businesses, Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Kristosik, Sr., of 15 Janet Rd., Wollaston, were honored recently at a surprise party in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The party was held at the home of Mrs. Elsa Breivogels, Mrs. Kristosik's sister, of 252 Franklin St. The party was given by their children H. Stanley Kristosik, Jr. and Mrs. Everette C. Sprague of Wollaston.

The couple were married Oct. 27, 1945 at Quincy Point Congregational Church by Rev. Bedros Baharian. Mrs. Kristosik is the former Arna Harriet Holm.

In addition to their two children the Kristosik's have one grandchild, Sandra Suzanne Sprague.

Mr. Kristosik is a member of the Rural Lodge, Quincy, and Mrs. Kristosik is a member of the Reliance Rebekah Lodge.

Mr. Kristosik is employed by Capitol Engineering Co. of Cambridge and Mrs. Kristosik is employed by the Patriot Ledger.

Two members of the original bridal party attended. They are Mrs. Elsa Breivogel, maid of honor and Mrs. Lilly Knowles, bridesmaid, both Mrs. Kristosik's sisters. Mrs. Knowles flew in from Ellington, Fla. to attend the party.

The couples' son H. Stanley Kristosik flew from Coral Gables, Fla., where he is a freshman at Miami University. The Kristosiks have lived in Wollaston for 25 years, the past 16 at their present address.

Pearl Harbor Survivors Install On Sunday

The Bay Patriots Chapter of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association will hold an installation of 1971 officers Sunday at 2 p.m. at George F. Bryan VFW Post Home, 24 Broad St.

There will be a demonstration of Quincy K-9 police dogs.

Reservations for the 2 p.m. dinner should be made with Charles A. Toohey of 16 Roseen Ave., Weymouth.

Mini Olympics, Fair Planned At Trinity Lutheran

A Mini Olympics program, open to the public, will be sponsored by the November Group at Trinity Lutheran Church Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Films will be shown of children's Olympic games held at Pembroke 30 years ago, in which a number of Trinity Church members participated. The games were directed by Eero Helin, a student at the time and now a teacher at Oliver Ames High School, Easton.

The Olympics, which were held for five consecutive years, drew many spectators to the U. K. Temperance Society's summer camp on Furnace Pond. On closing day each year the points for each country were totalled, and in Olympic style, the winning country's representative was crowned with a laurel wreath.

Pastries of different countries, in keeping with the evening's international theme, will be served by women of the November group after the program.

To complete its special activities, the group is also sponsoring a Mini Fair in the church vestry Nov. 14 from 2 to 5 p.m. There will be a white elephant table, plants, baked goods and gift items. Afternoon coffee will be served.

G. William Tuori, chairman of the November Group, is assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ahola, Mrs. Norma Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Ferrisi, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ferrisi, Mrs. Richard Harries, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heikkila, Miss Helen Heikkila, Mrs. Cere Hermanson, Mrs. Leonard Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. David Laaperi.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maki, Miss Martha Mattila, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kaivisto, Mrs. Impi Nattie, Mr. and Mrs. Christie Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pietila, Miss Karen Rose, Mrs. Hugh Rose, Sulo Soini, Mrs. G. William Tuori and Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Tuori.

CROSS-SECTION OF DRUG VIOLATERS

A report prepared by the Nassau County, Long Island Probation Dept. has concluded that, "As the drug abuse problem increases in size and scope, arrested drug users and their parents more closely approximate the general cross-section of the county population in terms of income, education and occupation."

In 1967, full time students accounted for 26% of the arrests, but by 1968 the percentage had grown to 35%. Of the students, 60% were in junior or senior highschool and 40% in college. In 1968, 35% of those arrested on drug charges came from homes with an annual income of over $15,000 compared to only 20% in this category one year earlier.

In a nutshell, this report indicates that base of drug offenders is getting younger each year and has now spread from the walls of the ghetto into the affluent suburbs.

TEEN WINNER—Excellent workmanship and coordination of fabric and pattern brought top honors to 17-year old Phylis Holthaus, Littleton, Colo., in the teen division of the National Grange Cotton Sewing Contest. Her entry was an easy-fitting dress and coat ensemble with curved seaming in coordinated cottons.

Sewing With Cotton Brings Top Honors

First place winners in three categories of the National Grange Cotton Sewing Contest have been named to compete for the grand prize award in November.

They are: Mrs. Tom Davis, Herman, Neb.; Miss Phylis Holthaus, Littleton, Colo.; and Mrs. Ruth Hickcox, Weston, Conn. The three won cash awards, savings bonds, sewing machines, and other prizes for placing first in their divisions.

The grand prize—a trip to Hawaii for two—will be awarded at the Grange's annual convention in Boise, Idaho.

Runners-up in the three divisions were: Mrs. John Ater, Clarksburg, O.; Cynthia Kershner, Wheatland, Wyo.; Norma Shanks, Baltimore, Md.; Kathy Nishimoto, Hood River, Ore.; Mrs. Virgil Fisher, Apple Creek, O.; and Dorothy Isenhower, Seaford, Del.

Honorable mention went to Margaret Nakamura, Santa Ana, Calif., and 13-year old Cindy Kraus of Jefferson, Okla.

Co-sponsors of the contest are the National Cotton Council, McCall's Patterns, The Singer Co., B. Blumenthal & Co., Inc., Coats & Clark, Inc., John Dritz & Sons, William Prym, Inc., and Wm. E. Wright & Sons.

Approximately 50,000 garments were entered in the sewing event.

GRANGE WINNER—First place honors in Class A of the National Grange Cotton Sewing Contest went to Mrs. Tom Davis of Herman, Neb. Her prize-winning outfit—a three-piece ensemble in red, white, and blue cotton knit—was accented with hand top stitching.

Poet's Corner

Another Tomorrow

By Mrs. John Amaral
20 Ballou St. Quincy

I often think, will there be another tomorrow
Will I know happiness
Or will it be sorrow

Will I have bad news
Will I have good.
Or perhaps do something
I never should.

Come what may.
I won't worry or fret
If there will be another day
Hope it is one I'll never regret.

May the next day be happy
From morning till night.
May the year that's ahead
Be the kind that's just right.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Nov. 6 - 13

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - If you use discretion in pushing forward this week, there are some benefits to be gained. Romantic thoughts hold your attention.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - If your marriage partner has romantic ideas, don't let your natural reluctance hinder. Unusual subjects interest you now.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - New people you meet now are stimulating and gains can be made even though the acquaintance will be of a short duration.

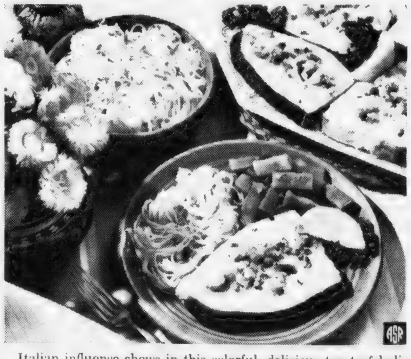
CANCER [June 22-July 22] - A sudden reversal in your opinions could cause friction. Diplomacy will ease the situation and monetary gains can be made.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Creative mental powers work well this week, so put forth your ideas. There are some emotional difficulties to overcome, however.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Your intuition is working overtime and you can expect an unusual emotional response if money is involved in your scheming.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - You will find yourself actively seeking the company of others, especially the opposite sex. New friends bring opportunities.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Don't let strange dreams upset you. Turn your thoughts to increasing income now that vitality and health are strengthened.



SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Expect weird experiences. A friend's emotional problem may need solving but don't get yourself too involved.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Take advantage of social affairs and let your desires be known. Secrets of an interesting nature hold your attention.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - A mentally stimulating week with plenty of ideas - but expressing yourself now on the job could lead to trouble.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Your imagination can be working at full tilt this week so try to use it constructively instead of chasing rainbows.

Halibut With Italian Flavor

Italian influence shows in this colorful, delicious treat of halibut. The white steaks are brushed with olive oil, then topped with a mixture of green onion, fresh diced tomato, garlic and oregano. A final sprinkling with Parmesan bread crumbs and the entree is ready for the oven.

To Italians the completed dish is only as good as the original ingredients. Only when you choose genuine North Pacific halibut can you be assured of a delicate flavor and firm texture with a high-protein, low-fat content.

With Italian-style halibut serve thin vermicelli cooked just until tender, broad Italian beans and a crusty bread.

Italian-Style Halibut

2 pounds genuine North Pacific halibut steaks, fresh or frozen
Olive oil
Salt and pepper
3 green onions, sliced
1 medium tomato, diced
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup dry white wine or water

Thaw frozen halibut. Brush both sides with oil and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in shallow baking dish. Combine green onion, tomato, garlic and oregano. Spoon over halibut steaks. Mix bread crumbs with Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle over fish. Pour wine in bottom of baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees 25 to 30 minutes or until halibut flakes. Makes 4 servings.

Dr. Creedon Speaker Friday At Church Women World Community Day

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will discuss "Quincy's Method of Education" for Church Women United of Quincy on Friday's World Community Day at First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

There will be a 1 p.m. coffee hour prepared by women of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. John Smith will preside at the 2 p.m. meeting.

In keeping with the 1970 theme, "Education - The Key to Knowledge", gift certificates will be accepted to go for the establishment of a school for women in Kenya, and for the purchase of good books for children published in ten languages.

Mrs. J. Henry Johnson is World Community Day Chairman. Assisting are Mrs. Leon McIntire, Mrs. William Turner and Mrs. Harry Maki, who will take part in the worship service; Mrs. Richard Gilliland, Mrs. Clark Wilson and Mrs. Harold Robbins.

Quincy Knights Of Columbus Memorial Mass On Nov. 11

A Memorial Mass for all deceased members of Quincy Knights of Columbus Council will be celebrated Veterans Day Nov. 11 at 5:30 p.m. in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

Rev. Henry Nichols, Quincy Council Chaplain and assistant pastor at Our Lady of Good Counsel, will be the celebrant.

Invited guests are: District Deputy Robert Warner; Charles Graham, Grand Knight North Quincy Council and Timothy Donovan, Grand Knight Ave Maria Council. Special invitations have been extended to relatives and families of deceased members.

Other special guests will be Mayor James R. McIntyre; Rev. Leo Lynch and Rev. Mark Sheehan, former Chaplains of Quincy Council.

A special honor guard of Fourth Degree Knights will head the procession into the church. During the Mass, James Clancy, Quincy Council member, and his wife Marion, will be guest soloists.

Following the Mass a buffet and reception will be held at Quincy Council headquarters, Foster Street, Quincy.

Serving on the Memorial Committee are Laurence J. Curtin, chairman; Vincent Cristiani, Grand Knight Quincy Council; Bernard Dill, Henry Paquin, Edward Wrublewski, Olin Taylor, Phillip Labrecque, Paul Kelly and Nicholas Cristiani.

Seven Quincy Girls Presented Marian Medals By Archbishop

Seven Quincy girls on Sunday were among those receiving Marian Medals from Most Rev. Humberto S. Medeiros, D.D., Archbishop of Boston, in his first presentation as Archbishop at Holy Cross Cathedral.

The medals, highest award of the Catholic Church to girls' youth groups, went to:

Donna Touma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Touma of 27 Blake St., and Joanne Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Flynn of 79 Freeman St., both of Wollaston, and ninth grade Horizon Club members of the Camp Fire Girls organization.

Girl Scouts Maryann Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jordan of 22 Hillside Ave.; Charlene Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murphy of 37 Eustis St.; and Audrey Flores, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flores of 13 Sewall St.; all of Troop 209 in Wollaston.

Also Girl Scouts Frances McGann and Gloria McGann, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McGann of 114 Doane St., Germantown, members of Troop 162.

Miss Ruth Wilkinson of 9 Granter St., Wollaston, was the girls' instructor for the two-year course leading to the award.

Blue Bird Regina Buckley and Camp Fire Girl Kathleen Cogliano, both of Wollaston, were among those participating in the procession at the Cathedral.

Pumpkin Seeds

I once saw pumpkin seeds. I picked one up. And then I planted it in my garden. I watered it and let it have sun. And then ten days later the pumpkin seed was not a seed. It was a pumpkin. And then I picked it for Hallowee. My pumpkin and I lived happily ever after.

The Haunted House

On Holloween night I went to call my friend. We went to the houses. We went past the haunted house. All of a sudden a bat flew out? It skinned my friend's head. Then a real witch flew by I was scared. My friend did not see the witch. Then it started to rain. The witch melted. I was glad. Then it started to thunder and lighting. So I started to run home. On the way I so a skeleton so I turned around the other way, and that way I saw a bat. So I ran across the street and that way I so a vampire. Then I thought I was trapped I did not know what to do. I was scared. Then all of a sudden I died. I died, then all of a sudden a died.

A Seed

A girl found a seed. She planted the seed. In a week something happened to the seed. A stem was growing. It grew and grew and grew and grew. Pretty soon it grew out the window. The girl saw a bud. The next morning came and she looked out the window. She saw a flower. She ran to her mother. She told her mother what happened.

The end.

Halloween

On Halloween night I went to this house it looked old and a little burned down. So I went into the house and it was creepy. All the sudden I heard something coming down the stairs! But that was only a little dog. And I went upstairs and I saw something white! It was a ghost! So I hid and he could not find me. He went away. I looked out of the window and I saw dozens of bats. And I saw a witch! She was coming toward the house! I hurried to hide in the closet. She looked around. Soon she saw something in the sky, so she took her broom and took off. I came out of the closet and looked around. Then the lightning struck. Soon it was really pouring out. I ran outside and went home and told my mother the whole story.

Pumpkins Come From Seeds

One day a little girl wanted to plant a seed. Three days later she planted a seed. It grew. Then the little girl picked the pumpkin for her mother so her mother can make pumpkin pie. But she dropped the pumpkin so mother can't make the pie. One day a man came. He saw the pumpkin. Then he fixed the pumpkin, and he made pumpkin pie. He gave the pie to the little girl. And they lived happily ever after.

"The World Is Full Of Wonderful Sights"

The world is full of wonderful sights,
Of a fat white moon on a cool brisk night,
Of the sun waking up in the early morn,
Of a doe in a meadow with her tiny fawn,
Of a bird soaring high with beauty and grace,
Of snowflakes drifting like white lace,
Of campfire glowing on a warm summer night,
Oh, the world is full of such wonderful sights.

John Smith

So many years ago, John Smith sailed to New England as an explorer. Many people came with John Smith on three ships.

In time, John Smith started a settlement in Jamestown, Virginia because they weren't prepared for winter in New England.

The people then survived the bitter cold winter in Jamestown.

Here Smith explored and made a map that was used later by other men.

Great Egypt

Good evening, have you ever visited the tomb stone of Egypt? Well you woudn't want to go because if you do you'll never return. Once two men went there. King Tut burned in flame one of the men and threw him in the snake pit! Snakes all over him. He died. This is Halloween night. The other man ran, he ran as fast as he could. There stood in front of him the tomb stone of Cleopatra. He ran faster and faster. He fell in another snake pit. He died. At Halloween night, never go to Egypt or you'll never return.

Fall Is Here

The wind whispered a secret to me
I knew that Fall was near.
The animals had hidden from sight
The birds fled south in fear.

The leaves were colored bright and keen;
Sweet fragrance filled the air.
The children all around were screeching-
Halloween was here!

Everyone was happy;
No one had a care
Yes, everyone was happy
For Fall at last was here!

How The Big Dipper Came To Be

It started with seven little Indian boys who were playing games. When came supper, their mothers called them but they did not go. So they just went on playing. So the lord punished them by sending them up to look like the big dipper. So that is how the big dipper came to be.

USS Savannah Delivered To Navy 17 Days Early

A versatile new-class Navy supply ship--USS Savannah--was delivered ahead of schedule to the Navy last week by the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

The Savannah, constructed from keel to delivery in a record-setting 21 months, is the fifth ship in a row delivered to the Navy on or ahead of schedule by Quincy shipbuilders.

The sophisticated multi-purpose ship, 659 feet long and displacing 37,360 tons fully loaded, was delivered to the Boston Naval Shipyard 17 days ahead of her contract delivery date.

Savannah earned praise from the Navy trial board as an "excellent ship" when she completed the sea portion of her preliminary acceptance trials Oct. 13 after less than 24 hours underway.

Equipped with advanced transfer-at-sea equipment, the huge ship is designed to replenish combatant ships underway with a variety of supplies from missiles to fuel.

Savannah is the fourth of sixth fleet replenishment oilers--all representing an entirely new class of Navy vessel--built or under construction by Quincy Shipbuilding Division.

The first ship of the new class, USS Wichita, was delivered to the Navy May 9, 1969, after 35 months of construction, including 14 months of outfitting after her launching.

The Savannah, in contrast, was delivered just six months and five days after she was launched, and just 21 months from the time her keel was laid.

The Navy has assigned the designation AOR to the Savannah-type ships. She is AOR-4.

Arms Problem Nov. 12 Subject At S.S. UN Council Lecture

Prof. George Rathjens of Massachusetts Institute of Technology will discuss the arms problems at the second lecture-discussion sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in United First Parish Church hall, Quincy Sq.

Prof. Rathjens was formerly Deputy Director of the Advanced Research Agency, U. S. Department of Defense; Special Assistant to the Director of the U. S. Arms Control Agency from 1964-65, and Director of the Systems Evaluation Division of the Institute for Defense Analyses before joining the Political Science Department of M.I.T. in 1968.

He has been a contributor to books on the antiballistic missile system, American Militarism 1970, impact of new technologies on the arms race, and a prospectus for nuclear proliferation and has written articles for Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists and Scientific American. A question period will follow the meeting.

Reservations for a catered dinner preceding the lecture may be made with either Miss Lena Foster of 17 Overlook Rd., or Mrs. Viola Ellis of 10 Terne Rd. There is a charge for the dinner, with reduced rate for college and high school students. The lecture is free.

Madeline Papile Named To Education Advisory Committee

Mrs. Madeline Papile, Division Coordinator of Health Occupations at Quincy Vocational Technical School, has been appointed to the Advisory Committee on Nursing Education to the Board of Higher Education in Massachusetts, according to Laurence H. Babin, Voc-Tech Director.

The three-year appointment by Edward C. Moore, Chancellor of the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education, was made at a statewide conference on nursing education held recently in Framingham. It was made to fulfill the need for a nurse educator in practical nursing on the Advisory Committee.

Appropriate $2,869 For 'Cardiac Room'

The City Council Monday unanimously approved a request of the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers that $2,869. be transferred to the Hospital Maintenance Capital Outlay fund so that preliminary plans may be drawn for a "Cardiac Room" at the hospital.

Dr. Gerald Rosenblatt, head of the intensive care unit at the hospital, said that cardiac patients are now treated in the intensive care unit where there are 18 beds for all types of cases.

He said $200,000 is the "best estimate" the hospital has received for establishment of the new Cardiac Room which would start with six or eight beds using either Hunting 1 or 2 or part of the special care unit, and would include special equipment.

The hospital is receiving and treating about one acute heart attack case a day, he said. Patients would remain in the planned cardiac unit, where it would be quiet and with specially trained nurses and monitoring equipment for four or five days if there were no complications.

Dennis F. Ryan, hospital board member, speaking for the new unit said: "With the coming of the MBTA there will be a rush of business at the hospital. We foresee that we are going to need much more room there. Today is the time to get ready for tomorrow. I would not ask, I would beg you to consider this health account."

Also with Ryan was Edward Cronin of the Board of Managers who concurred with him.

In other action, the Council:

- Voted to accept anonymous donations of $250 and $200 to be made part of a Heart Research Fund to be used at the discretion of Elliot Young, M.D. at Quincy Hospital.
- Accepted a donation from Gladchar, Inc. of $50. to be made part of a new Civil Defense Auxiliary Police Car Fund to be used for purchase and maintenance of the Civil Defense Auxiliary Police Cars.
- Voted an annuity of $1,500 to Margaret I. Cunniff, widow of Police Officer Edmund K. Cunniff who died Sept. 19 from injuries received in performance of his duty.
- Confirmed the re-appointment of Roger E. Perfetti to a second term as a member of the Quincy Retirement Board. City Auditor Alexander Smith is board chairman.

Drug Problems, Concern Over Vietnam In Japan Today, Too

TELEMISSION TO JAPAN--Dr. Marvin Dirks, [standing] who addressed some of the first telephone questions to Rev. Stanley Manierre in Tokyo, is shown with Mrs. Dirks; Mrs. Florence MacDougall, chairman of the program at First Baptist Church of Wollaston; Rev. Charles L. McEachern, pastor; and Mrs. McEachern. At 8 a.m. in Tokyo tomorrow, it may be 8 p.m. in Wollaston, but there are still similarities between Japan and the United States, members of First Baptist Church of Wollaston learned recently.

Rev. Stanley Manierre, Tokyo missionary, listed some of them in a "Telemission" 20-minute direct telephone call in reply to questions from Quincy:

* There is a "drop" at seminary - fewer going into religious work.
* Young people are upset about Vietnam – they feel the church should be doing something about it instead of just talking.
* There is a drug problem – "probably not as much as you have in the States" – with marijuana and LSD among drugs smuggled into the country.
* Japanese are concerned about the maintaining of military bases in Japan by the United States.
* Unlike the United States, there is a big labor shortage in Japan because of the concentration of industry on the small island.

Mrs. Florence MacDougall, Chairman of the Board of Missions, introduced those taking part, Dr. Marvin Dirks, 12-year old Betty Rieman, Mrs. Fabian Wells, Hope and Don MacKenzie, and Rev. Charles L. McEachern, pastor, who questioned Rev. Manierre.

Through equipment provided by the Bell Telephone Company, both sides of the telephone conversation were heard in the church hall. Technicians George Calhoon of East Weymouth and his assistant, Conrad Berthold of Saugus, required one-and one-half hours to set up the "Telelecture set" used for the 20-minute call which was transmitted by cable and satellite.

Marie Lynch To Be Installed Educators Assn. President

Miss Marie J. Lynch, head of the Business Education Department at Quincy High School, will be installed Nov. 7 as president of the New England Business Educators Association at the 68th annual convention at Nashua, N.H.

Miss Lynch holds the degrees of B.S., ED. M. and C.A.G.S. from Boston University, and is president of Epsilon Chapter, Delta Pi Epsilon Fraternity and past president of the Massachusetts Business Education Directors Association.

She has also served on the executive board as a permanent member for the development of guidelines for business and office education under the direction of the Massachusetts Department of Education.

N.Q. Student Via Germany Finds America 'Fantastic'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"International Living can be fun!"

Three seniors at North Quincy High School are learning this, along with the school's scheduled curriculum.

They are Ulrike Merten, 16 years, from the German capitol of Bonn [near Cologne] and Theresa [Terry] Lyell, 17 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galon Lyell of 185 Essex St., Squantum.

Also involved is Harriet Blanchard, who in response to a classroom-to-classroom appeal by Terry, volunteered her parents as "family" for Ulrike's year in Quincy. Her home until July is with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blanchard of 50 Lansdowne St., Squantum.

"American are really friendly. It's fantastic!" says Ulrike, who admits some difficulty in adjusting to the general informality, but not the American teenage idiom.

She has telephone calls from home about twice a month.

"I am happy when my parents call because I can talk to them better than I can write," Ulrike says. "But I am not homesick. I am enjoying my year here, especially with Terry."

"It was so cold," Ulrike commented. "After the second quarter, I spent the rest of the game in the bus watching from there. North Quincy won 14-6 over Medford. We don't have much snow where I live; it is cool but not cold."

However, she will go again "if it's not too cold," and the Quincy-North game on Thanksgiving Day is a certainty.

Ulrike finds the four or five majors at North Quincy High a breeze after studying 12 subjects each year in Germany. She faces two additional years of high school there, before going to a university for six or seven years. Majoring in Russian history, English, German and Political Science, she hopes to become an international journalist.

Terry, on the other hand, is keeping her fingers crossed about those 12 German subjects. An Honor Roll student, Terry has had four years of German, and hopes it will prove adequate when she leaves in January for five months with a family at Celle.

FRIENDLY ADVICE--North Quincy High School's Head Counselor Peter N. Fitch discusses "International Living" with seniors Ulrike Merten, 16, of Bonn, Germany, and Theresa Lyell, 17, of Squantum, who will go to Germany in January.

"She speaks German perfectly," Ulrike commended her. "Besides, everyone will know she is an American and not expect too much."

Terry is putting her facility with the language to practical use as a teacher aide at Montclair School. Here she is tutoring two German-speaking Hungarian youngsters to become familiar with English [or "American"].

Ulrike and Terry were brought together by the "Experiment in International Living" organization, which trains Peace Corps workers. Unlike American Field Service students, the girls and their families pay a $300 fee to International Living for making arrangements and providing guidance. In addition, there are overseas travel expenses of about $500, and an allowance to the host families for food. The room and family life are the hosts' contribution to the experiment.

Both girls are college-bound. Terry has applied to Boston College for an early decision admittance, and hopes eventually to become an elementary school teacher.

Ulrike, asked if she would like to go to college here, replied, "I couldn't afford to go to college here. I can go to the university in Germany for $50 a year, and they give me my books. Here, I couldn't afford it. I'm not rich like the Americans," she joked.

Whatever the future, their "experiment" completed, both girls expect to be in the 1971 North Quincy High School graduating lineup next June at Veterans' Stadium!

Reavey Elected Wollaston Park Assn. President

Francis Reavey of 167 East Elm Ave., was elected president of the Wollaston Park Association, at its recent meeting at the Quincy YMCA.

Leonard C. Delaney of 116 Davis St. will be vice president; Mrs. Anna H. Lucey of 28 Ridgeway St., treasurer. Miss Dorothy C. Kelly of 108 Davis St., was re-elected secretary.

The Board of Directors includes Mrs. Alyce Cripanuk of 113 Franklin Ave., Leonard C. Delaney of 116 Davis St., Dominic Falcetta of 55 The Strand, Herman Gauger of 141 Bromfield St., Mrs. Lucey, Mrs. Angela Roobian of 9 Ridgeway St., Benjamin Rudner of 148 E. Elm Ave., and Frank Valzania of 370 Penno St.

Organized and incorporated in September, 1956, the Wollaston Park Association has been active in opposition to revaluation, conservation including the preservation of Black's Creek Marsh as open space, and in the rezoning of Wollaston Beach area.

Algae At Wollaston Beach

Mayor James R. McIntyre is asking that an inspector from the State's Division of Natural Resources investigate the problem of algae at Wollaston Beach.

In a letter to Commissioner Arthur W. Brownell, the Mayor expressed "grave concern" over the condition of Wollaston Beach and the abundance of algae there.

He asks that recommendations about the best ways to clear up the algae be made by the Natural Resources inspector.

The text of the Mayor's letter follows:

"I am writing to express to you my grave concern with the condition of Wollaston Beach in Quincy, and most particularly with the abundance of algae in that area.

"I think it is incumbent upon us, as government leaders and public servants, to be on guard about situations which will be of concern to Massachusetts citizens in the near future.

"For that reason then, and to guarantee a pleasant and healthful swimming season for the bathers at Wollaston Beach next summer, may I ask you to send an inspector from Natural Resources to investigate this problem, and make his recommendations about the best ways to clear up the algae?

"I am anticipating your favorable action on this request, and will await your inspector's suggestions in this regard."

Central Junior Honors Three As 'Friends Of Education'

Three men were presented awards as "Friends of Education" as a highlight of a "Back to School Night" program for parents at Central Junior High School during American Education Week.

Dr. Robert Brown of Eastern Nazarene College, for sharing with students various professional performances by music groups, received his award from Charles Graham, a member of the school band.

Councillor-Rep. Clifford H. Marshall, Jr., praised as "truly helpful to students involved in the ecology Project SCORE," received his award from Carole Denvir of the SCORE group.

Joseph Kucera, First Engineer at Deer Island Treatment Plant, also helpful to SCORE students, received the presentation from Cathy Cavanaugh of the group.

The award consisted of a paper weight engraved, "A Friend to Education, October, 1970".

QUINCY SUN Christmas Gift List

32 Servicemen Listed

Four more names have been added to the Quincy Sun's list of servicemen in Southeast Asia, bringing the total to 32.

Capt. John T. Sinclair, previously listed, has returned to the United States.

The list is being compiled by the Quincy Sun in response to readers requesting names of local servicemen in Vietnam so that they may remember them at Christmas with cards, letters or gifts.

Mayor's Mother Released From Hospital

Mrs. William McIntyre, mother of Mayor James R. McIntyre, has been released from Quincy City Hospital where she was a coronary patient for a month.

She is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Hunt of 57 Ellington Rd., Wollaston.

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'The Servant Partner'

"I answer the phone for his delivery business...I have his meals right on time...I handle the money and pay the bills...I even shine his shoes every night." This was a wife talking. "But I still don't feel close to him. I do everything I know to please that man...nothing seems to work...what else can I do?"

I felt sorry for her. She couldn't see that she was trying to win the affection of her husband by serving him. Said I..."Why don't you try loving him?"

She shot back at me..."What do you men expect...I know women who don't do half what I do and they seem to be so close to their husbands. I think he's just cold and cruel." She was hurt...now filled with resentment because she wasn't making it with her husband even with all her doing. When her husband came in he said..."She embarrasses me with all her ways of serving me...I don't need a servant...I need a loving partner." He wasn't inappreciative of the nice things she was doing...but she had fallen into a pattern of a little servant girl trying to win "brownie points" with her man.

When the prodigal went away and then returned...[this was Jesus' story]...the father gave a gala party for the son who was lost. The older brother was angry and wouldn't come in. The father begged him to join the festivities. He refused saying..."All these years I've served you and you never gave me a fatted calf to make merry with my friends." Observe his motivation..."I've served you"...not "I've loved you." The attitude makes a big difference. You don't win a partner's favor by "serving" him/her. If you try, sooner or later you'll feel used...because your "servicing" expects a return payment. Loving actions are given freely...and not accompanied with a statement of cost for services rendered.

The "servant partner" is often judgmental..."look what I did for you...so I deserve better than this." If you don't pay back for the "service rendered" you are judged and condemned by the "servant partner."

The "servant partner" is often very self-righteous...sometimes with a martyr complex. "I bring home my pay check every Friday...hang up my clothes...drive my daughter to school parties...I don't gamble... cheat...drink...run around...take drugs...nor chew tobacco." These "servant partner" males can make quite a self-righteous list of "goodies" to justify themselves. These are his "services rendered" and if he doesn't "get back" equivalently he may feel used...even like a martyr.

Finally...the "servant partner" is usually an unhappy person because his/her "serving" doesn't work...doesn't produce the close loving companionship he/she craves. So he/she feels lonely. And who can be happy if lonely?

How does one avoid falling into this "servant partner" relationship? I think one starts by loving oneself. When we love ourselves we have a reservoir of love which overflows toward a partner. You really can't love another person unless you first love yourself...otherwise your "doings" for the other person will be only "servicing" the other person. Furthermore...your partner will feel your "pressure accounting" and feel that your relationship is on a cheap bargain basis. The source of love to another person is love for yourself.

You may object..."That's conceit...vanity...it's selfish to love myself." Not at all. Loving oneself means knowing oneself...accepting oneself...being honest with oneself...seeing oneself as one really is...without pretending...without clinging to pre-conditioned responses one has learned in childhood.

Pleasing acts to gain the favor of a parent...an aunt...an uncle...boy-friend...girl-friend...husband...wife...may not be born of love at all...just servicing to gain acceptance. When people do not love themselves they may do things to make themselves look loving...[like shining shoes]. A partner can usually tell the difference.

Jesus again..."Love your partner [neighbor] as you love yourself." That takes you off the "serving" level and lets the love within you flow to your partner in warm full relationship.

Thanksgiving Day Comes Early For Two Houghs Neck Families

Thanksgiving Day came early for two Houghs Neck families this year.

To treat a visiting family from Holland to their first typical New England Thanksgiving Day dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher of 209 Winthrop St. and Mr. and Mrs. Francis McQuinn of 45 Wall St. combined families in a day of celebration at the McQuinn home.

Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Verdonk of Amersfoort, Holland, and their four children, John, 19 years; Ronnie, 18; Carla, 15; and Rene, 10.

Mr. Verdonk, employed by Pan-Am Airlines, is president of International Christian Youthcontacts of Amersfoort, a group which arranges European study tours.

Pamela Fisher, a student of Quincy Vocational Technical School's practical nursing program, and Gail McQuinn, 1970 Quincy High School graduate employed by John Hancock Insurance Co., were selected in April to take part in the three-weeks' study tour sponsored by the United Church of Christ.

The girls, with other teenagers from Massachusetts who took part in the tour, have recently helped organize the first International Youth Group Chapter in the United States which meets in Concord.

During the summer months, the McQuinn family were hosts to a young man from Germany, while the Fishers had a teenager from Holland as their guest.

Engine 7 Visits Second Graders

Engine Company No. 7 attached to the Squantum Fire Station, went to the Myles Standish School last week.

It wasn't an emergency call.

Students of Miss Frances Barry's second grade class were visited by the fire engine as part of their observance and study of Fire Prevention Week.

Lt. John Schatzl, Firefighter Harry Marini and Firefighter William Center explained and demonstrated the equipment and firefighting procedures.

It was an exciting day for the class.

Variateens To Begin Rehearsals

The Houghs Neck Variateens are beginning rehearsals for their new show.

Boys and girls 13 to 18 years interested in trying out for the play, "Operation Ice Cube", or taking part in a musical variety show, are asked to be at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Mr. John Ridlen and Mrs. Harold O'Hare are directors of the production.

Raymond Burr Starting Newspaper

TOM SMOTHERS film debuts in the KATHERINE ROSS starred "GET TO KNOW YOUR RABBI". Adding dignity to this Warner Brothers presentation is the versatilely talented ORSON WELLES, who has an important "cameo role"... Talk about keeping things in the family; JOHN WAYNE'S latest flic, "THE MILLION DOLLAR KIDNAPPING", co-stars his youngest son JOHN ETHAN as his grandson; PATRICK WAYNE portrays one of his three sons; and his eldest son MICHAEL WAYNE is the producer... Also in the motion picture is perennial super star ROBERT MITCHUM'S prodigy, CHRIS MITCHUM... ELLIOTT GOULD walked away with the "8TH PANAMA FILM FESTIVAL BEST ACTOR AWARD" for his performance in "GETTING STRAIGHT". In so far as GOULD deserved the honor, his "M*A*S*H" was a far superior effort... "BORSALINO" is fast fizzling into box-office oblivion... CARY GRANT is being sought for the lead role in MERVYN LeROY's upcoming "COWBOYS AND INDIANS"... ANN HEYWARD was this years recipient of Italy's version of the Oscar, the "MASCHERA D'ARGENTO" accolade...

RAYMOND BURR is diversifying his talent and money into a new endeavor-publishing. The "IRONSIDE" star is planning to set up a daily newspaper in his isle home of Fiji... As publisher, BURR added, "I think this is a fine country, and I think it could stand another [second] newspaper"... Sounds great. But does the tiny isle population warrant a second daily?... ROBERT YOUNG, of the "MARCUS WELBY" rating success, was elected this year's chairman of the National Easter Seal Appeal Drive... Producers of the "DICK CAVETT" sleep show are scanning the airwaves for more station outlets. They feel if he had as many television outlets as CARSON and GRIFFIN, he would be able to offer more serious competition to his nightly rivals... CAVETT, by the way, was given a green light renewal for another year... Hollywood's obsession with athletic-rugged types continues unabated. Angel TONY CONIGLIARO has been signed as a member of "THE LOVE MACHINE" team. Will he strike out like so many others have in the past?... Hitting home runs is one thing; "acting" is yet another...

Doesn't GLEN CAMPBELL come across as too goody, goody? After all, how much "corn" can the viewing public digest?... Boston Thespian GIOVANNI LANZA is back for a short Hub visit after acting in several New York based JONATHAN KAPLAN directed film documentaries... LANZA, one of the new breed of actors, has the talent to match his virile-rugged appearance... Remember the name! You'll be hearing a great deal of GIOVANNI LANZA in the years to come. With his animal magnetism and ability he should go far in Show Business... Whatever became of BRIGETTE BARDOT? She hasn't made a screen appearance in the past three years... TONY RANDALL and JACK KLUGMAN are clicking with their "ODD COUPLE" series... The show is a definite winner... Unfortunately HERSCHEL BERNARDI is zeroing out in "ARNIE". Both his and the MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW are running neck and neck for the worst situation comedies of the new season... Like, they put you to sleep with jokes strictly from "dullsville"...

Memo to those who ponder televisions influence in fostering and breeding violence: FOOTBALL and HOCKEY televised "he-man action sports" do irreparable psychological harm to the young who view these "gladiator" farces... Like the weekly cry of "Kill the Quarterback" isn't exactly conducive to generating peace and love... LEONARD NIMOY'S "MISSION IMPOSSIBLE" impersonations are worthy of recognition in form of an Emmy... Isn't the "ED SULLIVAN SHOW" over exaggerating the importance of the "new, young talents" of the now generation? The ever ratings conscious Mr. SULLIVAN faces the dismal possibility of having his Sunday nighter deteriorate into a third-rate burlesque fiasco... MART CROWLEY's "THE BOYS IN THE BAND" is edging upwards to the $4 million mark... STEVE McQUEEN raps up filming of "LeMANS" any edition now... 'Drama-In-The-Round' Adams Shore Hit

"The Rosy Cheeked Ghost" included in principal roles Susan Bouffard, Jackie Pearson, Ann Marie Nigro, Maryann and Patricia Murray, Tony Curley, Dorothy and Theresa Donahue, Kimberly and Kathy Bouffard, Laura Darrow.

The production was directed by Mrs. Blanche Eckert, children's librarian, and Miss Linda Clayworth, junior assistant.

After Weymouth Scare

Quincy Guns For Win No. 7 At Chelsea

Quincy's undefeated football team returns to Greater Boston League action Saturday and Coach Hank Conroy hopes the Presidents will recover from the scare of the season when they meet Chelsea in a 1:30 p.m. Chelsea Stadium game.

Quincy, unbeaten in its last nine games and 6-0 this fall, barely survived last week as it edged vastly improved Weymouth North, 14-13, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

This was the usual close game for which Quincy and Weymouth became famous before the new Weymouth South High School was built. North is actually old Weymouth High but several of its players were lost to South.

"I wasn't too surprised by the closeness of the game because Weymouth had been improving every week and had upset Waltham in its previous game," Conroy said. "We didn't play a good game but give Dick MacPherson and his Weymouth players credit, they did a terrific job and we were fortunate to come out with a win."

Quincy's last defeat, the only one in two years, was to Weymouth, 6-0, a year ago.

Weymouth had a big edge in statistics and had 268 yards in total offense to Quincy's 163, its lowest of the season. If MacPherson had decided to go for a kick following its second touchdown late in the game, he undoubtedly would have come out with a tie but, to his credit, he went for the winning two points and failed.

Steve Sullivan played another fine game at quarterback for Quincy and passed well, while end Billy Maver again excelled. Little Frank Pellegrino, a 5-2, 125-pound reserve back, was outstanding as he scored a touchdown and picked up good yardage.

Quincy's Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Maver	7	2	44
Provost	6	2	38
Richards	5	4	34
McCarthy	4	4	29
Menchi	3	4	22
Sullivan	2	2	14
Malvesti	1	2	8
Waters	1	2	8
McDermott	1	0	6
Goguen	1	0	6
Hanlon	1	0	6
Walker	1	0	6
Pellegrino	1	0	6
Sylva	0	3	3

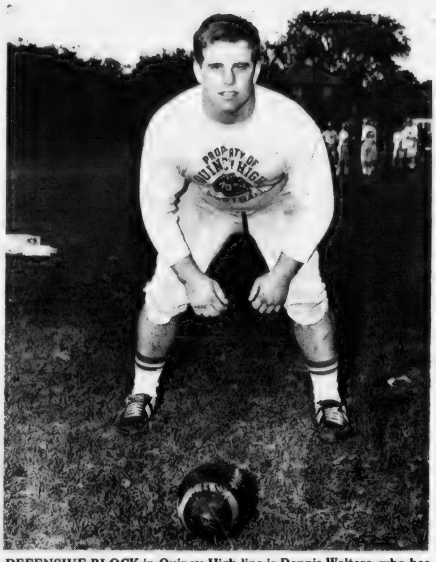
Wayne Richards continued his terrific punting, averaging 44 yards and he is rated by most as the best Quincy has had since Conroy himself, one of the finest punsters in Quincy history.

On defense Rich Menchi stood out with 15 tackles and Richards also shone in this department.

There was no scoring in the first half as Weymouth held Quincy to 21 yards offense.

The first of three key plays led to Quincy's first score in the third period.

John Provost intercepted a pass at midfield and returned it to Weymouth's 44. Pellegrino picked up 10 yards and Sullivan then hit Maver with a 34-yard touchdown pass. A rush for the two points fell short.



Weymouth took the lead as it went 72 yards in seven plays and Dennis McLaughlin scored from the three. Gary Stilphen's kick put North in front, 7-6.

Later in the third period little Pellegrino caught a big pass for 34 yards to the Weymouth seven, then scored himself from the one. On a fake kick, Provost passed to Menchi in the end zone for the winning two points.

Weymouth dominated the final period but on another key play for Quincy, Bobby Malvesti and Bob Tarbox stopped a Weymouth runner on a fourth down and less than a yard situation. Later, with fourth and six on the Presidents' 10, Paul Crowley passed to Mike Antonowicz for the touchdown.

On the try for the winning points, Maver and Joe Russo came up with the third key play as they stopped the runner just short of the goal line.

Chelsea, Saturday's Quincy foe, started fast this year after 27 straight losses and three winless seasons as it won three and tied one. However, the Red Devils slipped the past two weeks as they bowed to North Quincy, 27-0, and were bombed by Malden, 51-0.

Sterling Closes Season With 6-0-1 Record

Sterling's potent soccer team, which already had clinched the Quincy Junior High title again, remained unscored upon last week as it topped Atlantic, 2-0, to make its season's record 6-0-1.

Sterling, which has outscored its opposition, 16-0, put on another fine display of machine-like efficiency and ball control. Henry Pakkala and Tony Michaelangelo scored the goals.

Superb in defeat was Atlantic's goalie, Ken O'Sullivan, who turned in one of the year's finest performances as he turned back more than 30 shots.

Broad Meadows edged Point, 2-1, to move into a second place tie with Central, with Joe McEachearn and Tom Tasney scoring for Meadows and Stephen LeBlanc for Point.

Winless Point gave the winners all they could handle but several good attacks were foiled by Brian Mitchell and Fran Golarick, who were Meadows standouts.

Earlier in the week Central blanked Point, 4-0, as Tim Kane and Fred Condeloro scored twice each.

Following last week's games Sterling was 6-0-1, Broad Meadows 3-2-2, Central 2-1-4, Atlantic 2-4-2 and Point 0-6-1.

Sterling's John Sweeny led scorers with five goals, followed by Mike Ranelli of Sterling, Atlantic's Jim Mullaney, Central's Condeloro and Broad Meadows' Tasney with three apiece.

Koch Basketball Leagues In Action

Koch Club Basketball Leagues in Montclair for boys and at Broad Meadows for boys and girls opened this week, and will continue on Monday evenings through March 15.

At the Montclair School gymnasium on Holbrook Rd., boys ages 7 through 9 years will play between 6 and 7 p.m., while ages 10 through 12 years will play from 7 to 8 p.m.

Peter Cappola will again direct the program and fathers are welcome to assist as coaches and referees.

At Broad Meadows Junior High School gymnasium, Calvin Rd., boys from 7 to 9 years will play between 6 and 7 p.m.; ages 10 through 12 from 7 to 8 p.m., and girls 9 through 15 years will play between 6 and 7 p.m.

Anthony Delmonico will direct the program, now in its ninth season, with parents welcome to assist as coaches and referees.

A league will be formed in each age group and all joining will be assigned to a team. Everyone joining will participate and play. Competition is secondary although teams will be evenly matched according to ability.

An awards night will be held at the close of the season with parents, boys and girls meeting as a family unit for the presentation of trophies.

Quacks Lose To JP, 5-4

The Quincy Quacks blew a 4-2 lead to lose their first game in street hockey to the Jamaica Plain Bombers 5-4.

The Quacks early lead came when Dave Stern scored from Dave London to give the Quacks momentum. They rallied with goals by Steve Golden from Ron Smith, and by Dave London from Brian Sullivan and Don Silverstein.

In the second period Jamaica Plain scored twice. A few defensive lapses in the third period was the downfall as the Bombers scored three times against Pete Skoler to win the game 5-4.

Sunday the Quacks will close out the homestand against Brighton at 1 p.m. at Furnace Brook School.

Win Over Everett 'Sweet'

Day Off To Help Raiders Mend Injuries

North Quincy's football team has a day off Saturday following its third win in a row and it will give the Raiders' injured players a chance to recover and be at full strength for the game at Somerville a week from Saturday and, hopefully, for the big Thanksgiving Day windup against Quincy.

"We are nearly back at full strength and should be for the Somerville game," Coach Ralph Frazier said following last week's thrilling 25-18 Greater Boston League win at Everett. "And I just hope we will escape any further injuries in that game so we will have everyone ready for Quincy."

Frazier and his players are being haunted by the only blemishes on the Raiders' fine record, a 6-6 tie with Revere and a 21-20 loss to Malden in which a late pass gave Malden the win.

"We are just three points away from a perfect season and wouldn't it have been something to take a perfect record into the Quincy game?" said Frazier. North should have little trouble with winless Somerville next week and should carry a 6-1-1 mark into the annual classic.

Frazier referred to last week's win over huge Everett as "a real sweet victory over a good, big team." He had high praise for both the offensive and defensive unit.

"The defense was the key to the win and did another superb job," Ralph explained. "Their first touchdown came on an intercepted flair pass and 70-yard runback and the second was set up by a blocked punt on our six-yard line. They only drove for one touchdown and that came after a fine kickoff return to our 40."

Tony Kelly, outstanding running back, was again the workhorse of the Radiers' ground attack, carrying 25 times for an average of more than five yards a carry. He scored two of the touchdowns.

Paul Lippens, improving in every game, had a fine day at quarterback, running and passing well as he threw two scoring passes for the second game in a row. He was 8 for 16 for 168 yards.

"The entire offensive unit was outstanding and the blocking was excellent," Frazier went on. "Kelly and Lippens were especially outstanding but everyone did very well."

The second-year North coach, whose team has a 5-1-1 overall mark [3-1-1 in the GBL] after a 2-7 record in his first year, lauded the blocking of his guards, John Salenius and John Graceffa.

He couldn't say enough for his defensive unit, hailing Greg King for intercepting three passes, linebackers John Panarelli and Kevin Egan, the latter returning after missing two games; safety man Jimmy deVarennes, Jimmy Sarruda, Ken Baker, Dan Zink and Dan Doherty. "They all did an unbelievable job," he said.

Kelly put North on the scoreboard first with a seven yard run and Brian McCleery kicked the point.

In the second period Lippens hit end Dave Mahoney with a 45-yard touchdown pass but Everett came right back when Mark Jagiello intercepted a flair pass and ran it back 70 yards for a touchdown.

Everett moved to within a point in the third period when Frank Nuzzo went 13 yards.

In the final quarter Lippens passed to Zink for nine yards and a touchdown but Everett again came to within a point on Nuzzo's five-yard run.

Kelly then scored the clincher from the 13-yard line.

North's secondary was brilliant as it held Everett to 25 yards passing and had the three interceptions.

Raiders In Soccer Tourney

North Quincy's soccer team is representing the South Shore Association in the Eastern Mass. tourney which opened yesterday.

The Raiders suffered their first loss of the year last weekend in the finals of the association's playoffs.

The Raiders had finished their league season 11-0 with their second championship and first unbeaten season, then topped Quincy, 2-1 in the playoffs semi-finals.

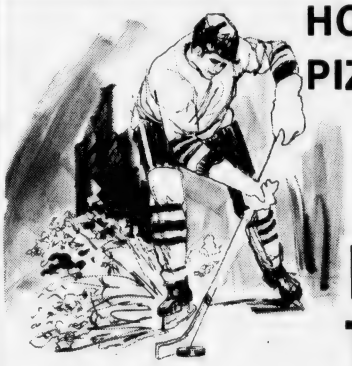
But in the finals on Saturday, Duxbury avenged its only loss to North with a 5-3 win at Braintree.

Duxbury took a 3-0 lead after two periods. After George Bourikas, who scored 22 goals in regular season play and all three goals in the finals, Duxbury added two in the final period as did Bourikas.

Cobb Wins Second Tourney

Greg Cobb of Quincy continued his hot pace as he won the Boston Bowlers Association October Ten Pin Handicap Tournament at Boston Bowl in Dorchester.

Greg became the second bowler to win back-to-back tournaments. First was Armand Martel also of Quincy. Averaging 214 with his handicap, he easily won all four head-to-head matches in the finals. In the last match he defeated Bill Jones of Dorchester to win all honors in the two-day event.



The qualifying cut-off was 788. Marty Whitmore of Braintree had the high scratch series of 799. Will Cote of Dorchester had the high game of 255. Ernie Villeneuve of Braintree had a 236 and Ken Lucas of Boston had a 234.

The next tournament now sponsored by Perma Shoe Horn of Braintree will be held Nov. 28-29.

Lettermen Back At ENC

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team will be playing without a senior in the lineup this year, but that shouldn't create any problems.

The roster will consist of three freshmen, three sophomores and six juniors. Included in that group are five returning lettermen from last year's team which finished the season with an 11-16 record.

Leading the returnees will be Ron Bradley a 6-3 guard from North Quincy, who averaged 30.6 points per game for the Crusaders last year.

Bradley was named to the All-Tournament teams at the Potato Classic Tournament at Nasson College [Springvale, Me.] and at the King's College Invitational Tournament at King's College [Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y.]

He was also selected to the District 32 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics [NAIA] All-Star team and received honorable mention All-American honors. Besides leading the team in scoring, Bradley also averaged 10 rebounds and 10 assists.

Other returning lettermen are Don Constantine of North Quincy, a 6-2 sophomore forward, Jerry Hoche of Hull, a 6-3 junior center, Bob Rose of Gibsonia, Pa., a 6-2, junior forward and Ray Shannon of Southington, Ohio, a 6-0 sophomore guard.

Paul Beston of Quincy, is a 6-2 junior who graduated from Quincy Junior College last year. At QJC, Beston averaged 30 points per game and was named Most Valuable Player on the Massachusetts Junior College Basketball League's All-Star team.

Another outstanding junior college transfer is junior Don Eads of Morrow, Ohio, who averaged 32 points per game at Mount Vernon Nazarene Junior College [Mount Vernon, Ohio].

The third transfer student is Jeff Davidson of Roseville, Mich., a 6-5, 220 pound junior center, who attended Detroit College of the Bible last year. Because Detroit is a four-year school, Davidson will sit out the first semester, in accordance with the rules of the NAIA. Davidson was an outstanding high school basketball and baseball player in the Detroit area.

Steve Shoff of North Quincy, a 5-9 junior guard is back with the team after sitting out his sophomore year with academic difficulties, and Mark Sanford of Harrisburg, Pa., a 6-1 sophomore guard, has moved up to the varsity after averaging over 20 points per game with the jayvee team last year.

The three freshmen are Clark Adams of Lapeer, Mich., a 6-3 forward who averaged 20 points per game at Lapeer High School, Tom Gunsales of Ogdensburg, N.Y., a strong fast 5-11 guard, and Bill Whitman of Hamlin, N.Y., a good playmaker.

30,000 Expected At Veterans Day Observance

REFERENDA FORUM--Mrs. John Kane, member and speaker and Mrs. John Toland, Voter Service Chairman, discuss with Steve Druckenmiller, a Quincy Junior College student, and Francis X. McCauley, two of the speakers at Quincy League of Women Voters forum on Nov. 3 referenda at Adams Shore Branch of Thomas Crane Public Library. [Quincy Sun Photo by Don Newell]

More than 30,000 persons are expected to turn out Wednesday for Quincy's annual Veterans Day parade and ceremonies.

Harold F. Welsh, National Sergeant-at-Arms of the Marine Corps League will be the keynote speaker.

Some 3,500 veterans and bandsmen will be in the line of march for the 10:30 a.m. parade from the Charles Ross Parkingway to Adams Academy where ceremonies will take place.

The observance is sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council, representing all veterans posts in the city.

In the three-division parade will be 14 bands and drum and bugle corps, Army, Navy, Marine, Civil Air Patrol, Boy Scout Units, with veterans groups.

At the Adams Academy ceremonies, the invocation will be given by Rev. Frank Bauer, pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church, with the Veterans Day prayer by Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and the Benediction by Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue.

City Clerk John M. Gillis, chairman, will introduce invited guests.

Wreaths will be placed and "Taps" and rifle volleys sounded during the solemn ceremonies.

Thomas McDonald, Commander of Quincy Veterans Council, is chief marshal and Anthony M. Famigletti, Junior Vice Commander, is chief of staff. Co-chairmen of the parade are Lawrence S. Butler, P.C. Quincy Veterans Council; Louis Simons, P.C. Jewish War Veterans; and John Wipfler, P.C. Norfolk County DAV.

Henry J. Williams, P.C. Quincy Veterans Council, is officer of the Day; and Arthur McLean, adjutant; Thomas B. Hanrahan, sergeant-at-arms; Ralph Paul, assistant. Aides to invited guests will be William L. Villone, Director of Veterans Services; Arthur J. Perette, and John Dineen, P.C. of Quincy Veterans Council; Richard Koch of Quincy Amvets Post and Irving Isaacson, P.C.

Serving as Aides de camp will be Walter Johnson, Finance Officer, and J. Henry Sullivan, chaplain, P.C. Lawrence J. Perette, Public Relations Officer, and Herbert Bush, historian, all of Quincy Veterans Council.

Marshals of the three parade divisions will be Lawrence Carnali, graves registration Officer, and Allen Kofman, Past Commander, Quincy Veterans Council; and Roger Whitcomb, Commander Quincy Amvets Post.

Their adjutants will be Irving Isaacson, judge advocate; Walter Johnson, finance officer, Quincy Veterans Council; and Albert McKinnon, P.C. Cavanaugh Chapter DAV.

Barilaro Takes Aim At Seagulls

Seagulls are the subject of a petition to the Quincy Health Department.

Councillor Albert Barilaro at Monday's City Council meeting pointed out, "I fought against having the dump in West Quincy, and now we not only have the dump but what goes with it – seagulls!"

He said he had received eight calls on Saturday complaining about these "white elephants". Sunday there were 500 seagulls on St. Mary's Church and surrounding roofs taking "pot shots" at parishioners on their way to church, he declared.

Public Works Commissioner John Browne had told him this was a problem for the Health Department, he said.

Councillor George B. McDonald suggested a copy of the petition be sent to the Audubon Society, which has a wiring system which discourages seagulls.

McDonald said the only solution was to carry an umbrella.

Quincy Shipyard In Jobs 'Bounty Hunting'

Borrowing a chapter from the Old West, the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics has revived "bounty hunting" in an effort to recruit more than 400 tradesmen for its shipyard.

Described as a referral program, the campaign rewards shipyard employees with U.S. Savings Bonds or cash for every new worker they recruit.

Robert Smith, the shipyard's industrial relations director, implemented the program to overcome a critical shortage of skilled tradesmen.

The Quincy Shipbuilding Division, which has a two-year backlog of naval and merchant shipbuilding, has immediate openings for skilled shipfitters, burners, welders, carpenters, electricians, outside machinists, pipefitters, and sheetmetal mechanics.

It also has openings for unskilled welders, shipfitters and electricians.

'Moment Of Silence' On Veterans Day

Quincy will observe a "moment of silence" on Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. "to commemorate the termination of hostilities of World War I and to remind us of those who made this supreme sacrifice in the cause of world peace."

The resolution submitted by Councillor J. Vincent Smyth at Monday's Council meeting was passed unanimously and referred to the Mayor's office for an official proclamation.

MBTA Here 'Around Easter'

NEW TOY gets competition from old thumb in this cute scene in Children's Ward at Quincy City Hospital. Meet Jamie Seamans, four-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Seamans, Jr. of 20 Moreland Rd., Quincy, and his friend Head Nurse Judith Scarry. The truck was gift from Chi-Ro Club. [Photo by Gunter]

MBTA trains should be running to North Quincy "around next Easter" predicts new General Manager Joseph Kelly.

During a tour of MBTA facilities under construction for the Quincy rapid transit extension, Kelly told the Quincy Sun:

"They [trains] should be running by around Easter--April or May. Of course, that is providing we don't get hit with a lot of heavy snow this winter to slow construction."

Kelly said that if his Easter target forecast is correct, then trains should be running to Quincy Center by next November--a year from now.

MBTA trains should be running to North Quincy "around next Easter", according to new General Manager Joseph Kelly.

"They should be running by around Easter--April or May--," Kelly said during a tour of Quincy MBTA stations this week.

"Of course," he said, "that is providing we don't get hit with a lot of heavy snow this winter to slow construction."

Kelly said that if his Easter forecast is correct, then trains should be running to Quincy Center by next November.

One of his predecessors, Leo Cusick predicted in 1968 that he would ride the first train into Quincy by Christmas, 1969.

Reminded of that, Kelly pointed out that construction of the rapid transit line to Quincy had run into many problems, including eight strikes which slowed completion of the line.

Kelly and other MBTA officials hosted a "progress" bus tour of the MBTA Quincy facilities for Quincy business leaders and city officials.

Among those making the tour were:

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, Rep-Councillor Walter J. Hannon, Councillor George B. McDonald, Public Works Commissioner John M. Browne, Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Serposs Fund Use Discussion Nov. 17

An open discussion of proposed use of Serposs Fund income for a medical-youth center at Houghs Neck is scheduled for Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall by the Houghs Neck Community Council.

"Every person who is against it or for it will be welcome to speak," says Robert F. Denvir, Jr., Council president who will be moderator for the discussion. "We will determine the amount of time allowed each speaker by the number of persons indicating a desire to speak."

No questions or interruptions will be permitted during the talks, but at conclusion, there will be an opportunity to question and comment.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, who wishes a firm commitment by residents on the proposal, has said that he will be present during the evening following his attendance at a previous engagement.

29 Hunting School Students Learn, Live Brotherhood

Writing to servicemen in Vietnam is just part of a "Brotherhood" study recently completed by 29 fifth grade students at N. S. Hunting School.

With their student teacher, Miss Elaine M. Kasper, the class learned about and agreed on the need for brotherhood -- then did something about it.

Using their own "Brotherly Rules", the students:

- Wrote letters of "cheer" to servicemen, especially in Vietnam.
- Collected pennies on Halloween for UNICEF [$160. was collected by 110 students throughout the school].
- Presented a "Brotherhood" play, song and poem.
- Prepared an exhibit of projects to share their ideas with others.
- Assisted a third-grade student from Greece to learn English.
- Working with and helping others, the fifth graders at N. S. Hunting learned "Brotherhood must begin within ourselves if there is to be peace in the world."

Taking part in the projects were Jackie Baldacchino, Patrick Banberry, Laurie Bersani, Paul Bondarick, Susan Bouffard, Vivian Carver, Donald Cefail, Bobbie DeAngelo, Eddie Fenby, Mary Graham, Steve Jenkins.

159 Permits For $66,487 Wiring During October

Fees for the permits amounted to $690, he said.

Some 190 inspections were made during the month and 25 defects noted.

Major wiring projects for the month were:

-- A new building for Hancock Bank, 515 Southern Artery.

-- A six-unit apartment building at 108 Presidents Lane.

-- A garage for Atlantic Richfield Co., 2-10 Franklin St.

Young GOP Club To Discuss Survival, Inc.

The Quincy Young Republican Club will discuss Survival, Inc., Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St.

Dr. Charles Djerf's Survival, Inc., proposed drugs center program, will be presented by two members of that group, Wayne Castor and Joseph Ricci. They will show a film on the increasing drug and narcotic problem in Quincy.

There will be a question and answer period after the film to discuss what can be done to help Dr. Djerf establish a center and comprehensive program to fight the problem in Quincy.

Les Molyneaux, treasurer of the Quincy Club, will host the meeting. The Club extends an invitation to attend the meeting to all who are interested and would also like to know what to do to help in this program.

Preceding the discussion, Kathy Roberts, president, will conduct a short business meeting for members and interested Republicans and independents between the ages of 18 to 40 at 7:30 p.m.

Open House Tonight At Quincy Voc-Tech

Open House at Quincy Vocational Technical School will be held tonight [Thursday] from 7 to 9 p.m., announces William Yee, shop supervisor.

The event provides an opportunity for parents, students and prospective employers to talk with instructors and learn about programs for 9th through 12th grade students, as well as post graduates in the 13th and 14th years.

Student guides will assist visitors in locating departments and teachers within the building.

All departments will be open including: Electro-Electronics, Metals and Machines, Power Mechanics, General Woodworking, General Piping, Food Preparation, Computer Data Processing, Health Occupations and Graphic and Commercial arts.

In addition, there will be a display in the school foyer.

Teachers Workshops On Nov. 18

The second in a series of eight afternoon workshops for Quincy junior and senior high schools' teachers and administrators will take place Nov. 18. Students are to be dismissed by 1 p.m.

The workshops are an attempt to provide "improved teaching-learning environment" in the secondary schools, says Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator.

The afternoon in-service workshops are held to aid the progress of new programs to provide "quality education" for all students.

Further workshops are planned for Dec. 9, Jan. 13, Feb. 10, March 10, April 14 and May 12.

Consultant To Address QEA On Nov. 18

Raymon W. Eldridge, retirement consultant for the Massachusetts Teachers Association, will meet with Quincy teachers Nov. 18 at 3:30 p.m. in Quincy Vocational Technical High School cafeteria.

Robert W. Garner, president of the 770-member Quincy Education Association, will preside.

Mr. Eldridge, retired principal of Lawrence School in Brookline, is a graduate of Tufts and Harvard Universities. He taught in Brookline from 1927 through 1968, with 39 years as a principal.

He is a former president of Brookline Teachers Association, Massachusetts Elementary School Principals Association and Massachusetts Teachers Association, and vice-president of the National Education Association and Massachusetts Schoolmasters Club.

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'The Loving Marriage'

The counseling session began with this question asked by the husband..."Why would any man go out for hamburger if he has steak at home?" Typical of a counselor...and I try not to be typical...I said..."Why do you ask that question?" Many counselees would like the counselor to do their "homework" for them.

The man went on. :"Well, doctor, it's this way. My wife is always yelling at me...I'm dammed if I do and I'm dammed if I don't. If I suggest a Saturday trip she has excuses for not going. But if she wants to go I'm inconsiderate if I don't drop everything and go. After eight years of this kind of thing I admit I've gone out and that I've had 'affairs' with other women." He was braver than most men to admit it in the presence of his wife.

He went on to say that he didn't like going out..."but what was I to do?...What would you do, doctor, if your wife rejected you...never showed you any affection...grudgingly "gave in' to you sexually...was always complaining...never a smile or encouraging word...what would you do?" I didn't answer him.

We saw clearly that this wasn't a very "loving marriage"...that their marriage was just lumbering along on square wheels. His "affairs" were a poor substitute for the comfortable...happy...loving relationship at home which he wanted. What was lacking was a plentiful supply of loving words for each other...and for their children...plenty of real good sexual love-making with each other...plenty of good, open conversation about anything and everything of interest to each of them...the ability to solve problems regarding sex...children...finances...friends...health conditions...these people were talking divorce...because their marriage wasn't working.

In a loving marriage love is given freely...not possessively or in expectation of getting something in return. They do not compete with each other for control...they work out a system that works for them. Usually...in the loving marriage the man is recognized as head of the family...the wife wants this and accepts his leadership. Right here is a big problem for many couples...because if there is antagonism as to who is "in charge" chances are happiness will be missing and "love-ins" will be rare.

I just don't believe that marriage has to be marked with fighting...yelling...antagonism...coldness...silence...and the resulting "affair". What has happened to cause these common ailments in marriage? Two factors: First...people aren't prepared for marriage. The ignorance about relationship with the opposite sex is astounding. I've said it before and I repeat..."Men don't know how to treat women...women don't know how to treat men." Until you learn, your marriage won't be very happy. The conditions of love make loving each other possible.

Secondly...People haven't learned how to resolve problems. People blunder along with a sex problem...resistance...rejection...resentment... hostility...in that sequence...probably more fights over sex than anything else...and so little effort at resolving the problem. The usual cause is bad childhood conditioning regarding the male-female relationship...which must be unlearned so that new attitudes can be the pattern of life...so that the normal expressions of affection and physical love will work between two people.

Or...take the budget...this can be a happy thing between a couple as they work together to get their needs and luxuries...or it can be a source of daily conflict. It's not the amount of money so much as proper handling. Again, childhood understanding of the uses of money...a rational attitude toward money...how it's earned...spent.. saved. It may not matter when you're single...but neither the spendthrift nor the tight-wad relate well to marriage partners.

Take the children's discipline...children can be a source of great unhappiness...unless both parents are in agreement in their rearing. Mother can't gang up with the kids against Dad...and still expect Dad to feel happy and loving around the house. Dad can't be constantly hollering about waste of food...electric lights...use of the car...and have mother singing gay songs in her kitchen. GET TOGETHER on the common questions which are present in every family..hours...meals...going out...coming in...friends...homework...television...so that these aren't running battles every day.

If yours isn't a loving marriage...why not? Is your part of the marriage "steak at home?" Or is the hamburger out there meeting needs which you're not? Think about it...each of you.

250,000 Expected At Santa Claus Parade Nov. 29

FAREWELL TO A FRIEND–Mourners line bridge and Southeast Expressway in West Quincy as funeral cortege of Richard Cardinal Cushing passes by enroute to St. Coletta's School, Hanover, and Cardinal's final resting place in Portiuncula Chapel there.

An estimated 250,000 persons of all ages are expected to turn out Sunday, Nov. 29 at 1:30 p.m., to view Quincy's 19th Annual Santa Claus Parade.

Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce said he expects this years' parade to be "the best ever" with a marked emphasis on better and bigger floats."

Close to 30 floats are expected to be entered in this year's parade. However, unlike previous years there will be two categories. The Business-Commercial catgory will be eligible for trophies, whereas non-profit groups, schools, clubs and organizations will be competing for the $1,000 grand prize award for best over-all float, being sponsored by the South Shore National Bank.

Second, third and fourth prize awards for $300, $200, and $100 will also be presented for "best theme", "originality" and "best use of colors and materials". Those winners in the business-commercial category for the above will be eligible for trophies.

The parade will form in Ross Parkingway, Quincy Center, proceed along School St. to Hancock St., north on Hancock St. past City Hall, and the Armory, and will then proceed to Beale St., Wollaston where it will disband at the Wollaston parking area.

It is estimated that the crowds will be heaviest on School Street, in Quincy Square and as it approaches Wollaston.

Television personalities who will appear in the parade in behalf of the Toys for Tots program are Miss Jean of Channel 5's "Romper Room Show" and Willie Whistle of Channel 38's "Willie Whistle Show". Representing the younger set will be this years winners of the Parade Festival's Prince and Princess contest.

"I hope to have as many personalities from the sports world as possible appear in the parade as well," Moore said.

An estimated 25 musical bands and bugle corps groups from the various South Shore communities have been lined up to appear in this years festive event.

Bands entered include: Quincy High, North Quincy High, Central Junior High, Holbrook High and Plymouth-Carver High; and St. Joseph's Bag Pipe Band, The Clan MacGregor Band and The George F. Bryant VFW Post Band, all of Quincy.

The bugle corps groups include: Sir Thomas Moore Cadets and Sir Thomas Moore Squires, Braintree; The AmVets Buccaneers and The AmVets Lancers, Randolph; St. John's Missiles, Winthrop; 27th Lancers, Revere; Lt. Norman Prince Drum and Bugle Corps, Melrose; and the Imperial Junior Corp, Pembroke.

"The Father Thomas J. Tierney Trophy", Moore said, "Will be awarded to that musical group judged the best by the Chamber of Commerce."

Quincy Raytheon Plant Wins $64,938 Contract

A $64,938 government contract for electronic supplies has been awarded the Raytheon Company, 465 Centre St., Quincy, by the Defense Supply Agency's Defense Electronics Supply Center in Dayton, Ohio.

The contract calls for 26,291 electron tubes, type 6418, to be manufactured in accordance with military specifications at the contractor's plant in Quincy.

This is a fixed-price supply type contract awarded after competitive negotiations.

Anyone Lose A German Shepherd?

Somewhere, someone is looking for a lost German Shepherd.

Angelo Calabrese of 43 Sumner St., Dorchester, reports he found a full grown male German Shepherd Oct. 28 around 5:30 p.m. wandering along the Southeast Expressway near the Furnace Brook Parkway cutoff. He picked him up, fearful the dog might be hit by a car.

"He's a friendly fellow and we'd like to keep him," said Calabrese. "But we know the owner would want him back."

Calabrese may be reached by calling 265-6152.

Food Demonstration

A Commodity Food Demonstration will be given today [Thursday] at 1 p.m. at the Germantown Service Center at 9 Bicknell St.

"Foods the International Way" will be the theme of the program.

Here Comes The Bride

Wedding Flowers

Are you giving a great deal of thought to your wedding flowers? Or will it be a hit or miss purchase with colors and styles clashing with the gowns? Or will you end up with an exorbitant florist bill?

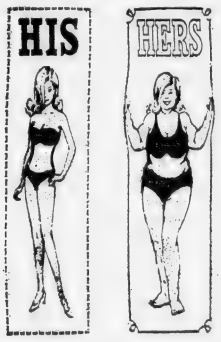
How will you avoid these calamities?

First and foremost go to a reliable florist. Give him a description of your gown and the bridesmaids dresses. Tell him whether it's a modern, victorian, traditional, etc. wedding. If you have had a good bridal consultant and listened to her advice the bridesmaid style will fall in with the style of your gown. Give his swatches of fabric from your gown, the bridesmaids gowns and both mothers' dresses so bouquets and corsages can be made to match or harmonize.

The silhouette and formality of your dress as well as the color and lines of the attendants are important considerations in determining which shape and type of bouquet would be the most effective. Therefore, if you are unsure ask the florist to contact your bridal consultant. [One more way we try to make your day a great success.] Although the groom pays for your bouquet, mothers' corsages, and the boutoniers, you should do all the ordering.

How to keep the price down? Order flowers that are in season and be sure to select the ones that will stay fresh the longest. If you have any particular likes or dislikes don't hesitate to mention them to the florist. Don't be afraid to ask him questions. He too, wants to help make your day a happy one.

Do you know orange blossoms are the age-old symbol of fertility and happiness because the tree bears fruit and blossom at the same time?



Lilies denote purity.

Roses are the flower of love.

Ivy has a long tradition as a token of fidelity.

[Mabelle is owner of Weddings By Mabelle and a noted bridal consultant].

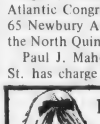
THE DANGER OF CARBON TET

Household products containing carbon tetrachloride should be considered hazardous.

"Three thimblefuls of carbon tet can saturate the air in an average-sized room to the danger point. The addition of heat or flame can convert it into lethal phosgene gas, turning the room into a virtual gas chamber," state experts.

Small children are likely victims because the fumes tend to settle near the floor. If the vapors of carbon tet don't kill, they can seriously damage the liver, kidneys, nervous system [including the brain], and the heart.



Products containing carbon tet most often are used for cleaning clothes, carpets and upholstered furniture. It is also used in fire extinguishers, insecticides, and typewriter cleaner.

The Food and Drug Administration has a pending regulation which would ban the use of the chemical from household products. I suggest you beat the government in banning carbon tet from your home.

Artistry

By
Margaret DeAngelo

If I could paint the Heavens
The ripples of a stream,
Some swaying, bending blades of grass
Across the fields of green.
The snow that drifts in Winter,
A rose that comes with Spring,
A sunny day in Summer
And a robin on the wing.
If I could sketch a rain drop,
And the leaves of red and brown-
To capture every angle
As they saunter to the ground,
A spray of clinging ivy
As it climbs the garden wall,
The moon and all the shiny stars,
And the many winds that call.
I'd tarry in the meadow,
Amid the golden rod-
And create for you a painting of
The beauty that is God.

The Seekers

By Vince Puleo

Water, water everywhere
But nowhere,
A mirage, dream, fantasy, illusion.

Clean once,
But no more.
H20 gone forever,
diluted with chemicals, detergents, insecticides, and worse yet,
The blood of a mothers'
Vietnam dead son.

The Long-Haired Itinerant

By Priscilla Laveaga
91 Cross St., Belmont

He wore his hair at shoulder length,
A gentle beard adorned his face;
He strove to share the lot of men,
To justify the human race.

He wore the tunic others wore,
Not striving to be singled out,
Or to arouse a vehemence
By the way he traveled about.

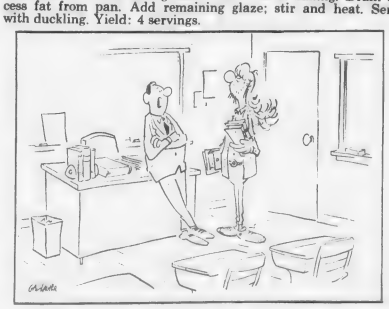
He sought no ways of copping out
. Nor shirked his call to the divine;
He had compassion for the crowds
Who sought the words of Truth's bright shine.

Shunning the ways of violence,
His bare feet walked the dusty sod,
Searching in life-long discipline
To bring men to the will of God.

THE SWITCHABLES—Cone's plush cotton corduroy styles separates that can get together or go it alone. At left, garrison pants are matchmated with the new longer vest. The zip-up mini jumper can stand alone or pair up with the garrisons for a tunic/pant look. All three are from Blue Bell, a division of Lady Wrangler.

Try Duckling This Holiday Season

Calculated to stir the appetites of the male members of your family and your dinner guests during the holiday season is this currant jelly glazed duckling with a stuffing of tart apple wedges and whole prunes.



Reminiscent of the hearty triumphs from Grandmother's day, the fruit stuffing complements the superb flavor of the duckling, making it truly fine fare. The currant jelly glaze adds distinctive flavor and gives the duckling an elegant appearance.

Duckling is easy to prepare and serve. Your guests, savoring every morsel, will mark your dinner party as a truly memorable occasion.

Glazed Fruit Stuffed Duckling

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon rosemary
3 cups pared tart cooking apple wedges in eighths
½ pound prunes, soaked and pitted (about 1 cup)
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup currant jelly
¼ cup light corn syrup

Wash and drain duckling; dry skin gently with paper toweling. Sprinkle body and neck cavities with salt and rosemary. Combine apples, prunes and sugar; stir to coat fruits with sugar. Fill neck and body cavities loosely with stuffing. Skewer neck skin to back. Cover opening of body cavity with aluminum foil and tie legs together loosely. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) until drumstick meat is tender, about 3 hours. To make glaze, combine jelly and corn syrup. Place over low heat until jelly is melted. Brush duckling with glaze several times during last 30 minutes of baking. Drain excess fat from pan. Add remaining glaze; stir and heat. Serve with duckling. Yield: 4 servings.

Week of Nov. 13 - 20

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - The work load is heavier and compensation may not be all you expected. In a few weeks things will loosen up again.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - A change in routine would relieve your restless feelings and help you to wait out this period. Complaining won't help.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Look after your financial affairs and try for some improvement. Added responsibility can eventually enhance reputation.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Get those original ideas of yours to work around the house. It's possible to meet someone who will be mentally stimulating.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - It won't be all smooth sailing, but you can get your ideas across and improve your image. Working with arts favorable.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Travel will be limited because of extra work. Give your attention to budget matters and see where you can cut expenses.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - If you have any good ideas cooking, present them now while others will react favorably. Feeling restless this week.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23- Nov. 21] - Your attention should be given to all paper work. New friends could prove exciting but do guard against impulsiveness now.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - The actions of friends could prove stimulating as well as lucrative. Gather together your good ideas for presentation.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Your ideas are good but could cause a dispute. This is not the time for risks where money or friends are concerned.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Home affairs could still be having an adverse affect on career matters. A trip to visit relatives would be pleasant now.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - This is an exciting week, especially if traveling. You will come back with some excellent ideas and the people will impress you.

The Gobblin' Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out...

We don't believe in spooks and we don't believe in ghosts. We do, however, believe in the truth of consequences. And the kind of gobblin' I refer to is the packing away of all kinds of holiday goodies.

It is an American tradition to celebrate the harvest time with feasting. But there is nothing patriotic or even desirable involved when you have to stagger away from the table because of an overstuffed tummy. And this is just the beginning. For some people, Thanksgiving becomes the beginning of a six week eating spree which culminates in an overloaded conscience as well as body.

Let's chase away all ghosts, spooks and gobblins and help you to become the bewitching you, you were born to be by exercising moderation and foresight during the holidays.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please contact me at the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Dr. Ralph Earle Chapel Speaker For Eastern Nazarene Homecoming Friday

Dr. Ralph Earle, Professor of New Testament at Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., will be the chapel speaker for Homecoming at Eastern Nazarene College Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Dr. Earle, a native of Massachusetts, graduated from the Wollaston college in 1933. A member of the faculty for 12 years, he was elected Alumnus of the Year in 1962.

Ordained in 1934, Dr. Earle has served as pastor of Nazarene churches in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, and Everett, Massachusetts. He often serves as evangelist for revivals, city-wide meetings and camp meetings.

Dr. Earle holds three graduate degrees including a doctor of theology degree from Boston University and Gordon Divinity School. He took additional graduate work at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and at Harvard University. He has taught in the New Testament field at Nazarene Theological Seminary, a graduate school for the Nazarene ministry, since it opened in 1945.

A prolific writer, Dr. Earle is known nationally for "The Gospel According to Mark", which was the first volume in new evangelical commentary. He wrote "The Quest of the Spirit" and five Christian service training course books for the church, and edited the college textbook, "Exploring the New Testament".

Since 1949 Rev. Earle has led several tours to the Holy Land and has also lectured on flying seminar's abroad. In 1968 Dr. and Mrs. Earle spent several months on a world trip as visiting lecturers at Nazarene Bible schools in Europe, Asia, the Mid-East, Africa and Australia.

Mrs. Earle is the former Mabel Mosher, E.N.C. class of 1929.

Blind Pastor To Speak Saturday At Adams Shore Methodist Church

Rev. Wayne Moody, blind pastor of Lexington United Methodist Church, will speak on "Stewardship" at Adams Shore United Methodist Church Saturday evening.

Rev. Moody, a Lynn native, is a graduate of Union College at Barbourville, Ky., and Boston University School of Theology. He has served pastorates at Shelburne Falls, Beverly, West Chelmsford and Dedham.

A member of the Southern New England Conference Board of Christian Social Concern, he is known as a speaker, particularly for the Protestant Guild for the Blind.

Rev. Moody's talk will follow a 5:30 p.m. smorgasbord dinner prepared under direction of Mrs. Kenneth Yoerger.

Mrs. Gunnard Skoog, stewardship chairman, has charge of the program which will include brief talks by the Rev. John M. Lurvey and Rev. Gwen Jones Lurvey, co-pastors, and selections by the church choir directed by Miss Marjorie McAllister.

Teenage Center Director Speaks At Bible Class

Rev. Eugene Langevin, director of "The Way", teenage center at North Quincy, spoke at Sunday's meeting of the Golden Rule Bible Class at Senior Citizens Hall, Quincy.

Rev. Langevin, who recently wrote a book on teenagers, graduated with High Honors from Harvard University and became a Rhodes Scholar through a Rotarian grant, studying at Oxford College, England. He is an ordained Baptist clergyman.

Norma MacLeod was vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Hemeon, pianist. Oliver F. Tatro, Jr. led community singing. Dr. Carl Leander, class director, discussed "Pioneer Disciples and Today's Bombing and Violence."

Loyalty Day At Wollaston Methodist

Church Loyalty Day will be Sunday at Wollaston United Methodist Church.

"The Christian and His Giving", with Church Loyalty Day and Stewardship emphasis, will be the topic of Rev. Ronald W. Ober, pastor, at the 10:45 a.m. worship.

At the close of the service, the Finance Committee, headed by Robert Blair, chairman, and its corps of visitors will be dedicated to their task.

HN Congregational Church Observes Youth Sunday

Day Off Helps Injuries

North At Full Strength For Somerville

North Quincy's football team had a day off last week and the rest enabled the Raiders' injured to heal.

They will be back at full strength for the first time since early in the year when they face winless Somerville Saturday in a 1:30 game at Somerville's Hilboy Stadium.

"We have been getting back to full strength slowly but surely in recent games and it appears we will finally have everyone available for Somerville," Coach Ralph Frazier said.

Despite Somerville's 0-7 record, Frazier is taking nothing for granted and is hoping his players won't be looking ahead to the Thanksgiving windup with Quincy. He wants them to concentrate on Somerville.

"We have seen Somerville play and they have some fine players," Ralph added. "They could explode one of these days and I just hope it won't be against us. We have been improving every week and if the boys just go out and play their game, we should win.

"We have two objectives Saturday. We want to win and take a fine 6-1-1 record [North is just three points away from a perfect season with a 6-6 tie and 21-20 loss] into the Quincy game and also want to escape injuries so we will be at top strength. Several of our boys played in last year's Quincy game and, needless to say, haven't forgotten that 58-0 score."

In their last game the Raiders took a big 25-18 decision over a huge Everett team. They are 5-1-1 overall and 4-1-1 in the Greater Boston League.

North's sting of injuries did have an advantage in one respect. It gave Jimmy deVarennes a chance to start and he has developed into one of the team's finest two-way players.

"Jimmy had been doing a good job anyway, but he has really come along after being given a chance to start," Frazier pointed out. "He has done a truly great job for us both ways and right now is one of our key men."

North's defense has been strong all year but the offense sputtered in early games. But Paul Lippens has improved tremendously at quarterback, Tony Kelly, the workhorse of the backfield, has run well all year long, John Panarelli and Lee Davis have been outstanding throughout the season.

Somerville's sad record includes losses to Arlington, 23-0; Everett, 14-0; Medford, 20-7; Chelsea, 16-0; Quincy, 40-28; Revere, 28-7, and Malden, 32-14.

Houghs Neck Manets Claw Bears, 22-0

The Houghs Neck Manets defeated the Nashua [N.H.] Bears 22-0 Sunday on their home grounds.

The Bears are rated No. 3 in the National Pop Warner ratings.

Coached by Joe Amyouny and his assistants, Vinnie Vecchione and Tony Ianello, the Manets went out in front during the first period on a Steve Burke to Bob Vecchione pass play that covered 45 yards. The Manets defense held the Bears to one first down this period.

Burke scored again in the second period on a 6-yard plunge after a 47-yard march. This touchdown was set up on a blocked punt by Mike Donovan. Again the defense stopped everything the Bears put against it. Burke also scored - two points later.

Nashua team took the opening kickoff in the third period and started a strong march on the ground. This was stopped by a fumble, recovered by the Manets. This time Bond Doucette scored the touchdown and 2 points following. A 53-yard run by Mike Floridia on an inside reverse set up the touchdown. The Manets' defense again stopped the Bears from crossing midfield.

A 23-yard pass by Burke to Jimmy Forrester netted another score for the Manets in the fourth period. This followed another Nashua fumble, again covered by the Manets. The Manets strong defense forced Nashua to fumble 5 times during a game which saw both offense and defense in a great total team effort.

Wamps Oust North From Soccer Tourney

North Quincy's soccer team won its first 13 games this year, then lost its last two games of the season.

The second loss last Saturday was the most disappointing as it knocked the Raiders out of the Eastern Mass. tournament. It was a 2-0 decision to Braintree in the tourney quarterfinals at Concord-Carlisle High field. Braintree had won a preliminary game to make the quarters.

It was the first shutout for North this year. The Raiders did score an apparent goal to tie the score at 1-1 in the second period but it was nullified by an offside call.

Braintree scored in the first and last periods as both defenses shone. The Wamps had only eight shots on North goalie Mike Jaques while the Raiders had only four shots.

Braintree was called 16 times for rules infractions while North had only six assessed against it.

The only other North defeat was in the finals of the South Shore Association playoffs, a 5-3 loss to Duxbury. George Golding's Raiders were 11-0 in league play to win their second title, had a non-league win over B. C. High and edged Quincy in the first round of the playoffs.

ENC Soccer Team Enjoys Best Season In History

No matter what happens in the final two games, the Eastern Nazarene College soccer team has already been assured of the most successful soccer season in its history.

The Crusaders defeated Husson College [Bangor, Me.] Oct. 31 for an 8-3-1 record. The best previous record was 7-6, turned in last year.

"It's been a good season," said ENC Coach Bob Jack. "But it could have been even better. With any breaks we could have a 11-1 record, but you have to expect the bad with the good."

The Crusaders ended their Colonial Intercollegiate Soccer Conference season with a 2-1, double-overtime loss to St. Francis [Bangor, Me.]. The loss dropped the Crusaders into third place in the conference behind undefeated Barrington and St. Francis.

"One bright spot," said Coach Jack, "is the fact that we will have most of the players back next year. We'll be graduating All-Conference goalie Bill Mauger [Pottstown, Pa.] outside left Ed Gardner [Bloomfield, Conn.], [13 goals and three assists] and halfback Bill Nielson [Lowell, Mass.] all starters, but we feel we have solid replacements behind all of them."

One man Coach Jack will be especially pleased to have back is center forward Steve Shoff of North Quincy.

"Shoff is listed as a junior on the roster," said Jack, "but he still has two more years of eligibility, so we expect he'll play for two more seasons."

Shoff already has scored 20 goals and 10 assists [both new ENC records] for the season and he has 11 goals and four assists in CISC play.

The team's second highest scorer is Carline [illegible] has 13 goals and two assists. Gardner has seven goals and two assists in CISC play.

The team's third scorer is Abel Espada [Edinburgh, Scotland] who had five goals and two assists for the season.

Presidents Roll Merrily Along

Presidents Host Medford, Eye No. 8

The Quincy football team, whose string of injuries is near that of the Patriots, continues to roll merrily along and only Medford stands in the way of the Presidents bringing a perfect 8-0-0 mark into the Thanksgiving game with North Quincy.

And the Presidents, 44-8 winners at Chelsea last week, should encounter little trouble in Saturday's 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Medford has only a 2-5 record and doesn't appear to pose a real problem for the injury-riddled Quincy team. The Mustangs defeated Revere, 27-7, and Somerville, 20-7, while losing to Boston Latin, 27-0; Chelsea, 14-8; North Quincy, 14-6; Everett, 22-8, and Newton, 27-7.

Quincy Coach Hank Conroy lost his top running back, Steve McCarthy, and an outstanding reserve back, Bobby Malvesti, several weeks ago, McCarthy with a broken leg and Malvesti with a broken ankle. Several other starters have missed one or more games but others have come along to take up the slack.

Two weeks ago little Frank Pellegrino, 5-2, 125-pound halfback, pulled the Presidents past upset-minded Weymouth North.

Last week Conroy lost another standout back, Joe Goguen, who earlier had helped carry the load.

In the romp over Chelsea John Provost, who has been outstanding in every game, hit his peak and scored four touchdowns to spark his club.

"The rash of injuries hasn't been as bad as I had feared, because the other boys have come along to fill the gaps," Conroy said. "We did receive some good news last week. McCarthy may be back for the North Quincy game. Of course, he won't be ready for full time action but it will be good to have him back."

Provost's four touchdowns came in the first half at Chelsea as Conroy used his reserves throughout the second half.

Quincy had two touchdowns nullified, picked up 234 yards on the ground and added 111 through the air, but also was hit with 155 yards in penalties.

Defensively the Presidents again were strong, holding Chelsea to minus 14 yards rushing, although the Red Devils did pick up 118 yards on 13 pass completions in 30 attempts.

Provost, having his best day of the year, totalled 195 yards himself in total offense as he scored on three runs and a pass from Steve Sullivan, who continued to be impressive at quarterback.

Provost started things off with a 44-yard touchdown run and a few minutes later Joe Russo dropped Chelsea's Bruce Glazer in the end zone for a safety.

Later in the first period Provost took a pass from Sullivan for 27 yards and Wayne Richards, who played another fine game, rushed the two extra points.

In the second period Dennis Waters picked up a blocked kick and raced 28 yards for a touchdown, Provost went 40 yards for his third score and added his fourth on a 14-yard run, Jim Walker rushing for the points.

Quincy's only touchdown in the second half came in the third period on a 35-yard run by Walker and Kevin Shea passed to Jim Hanlon for the final two points.

Quincy is now 7-0-0 for the year [5-0-0 in the league] and has won its last 10 games going back to last year.

Quincy Sophs Top Arlington

The Quincy sophomore football team rebounded fr its second loss in five ye top Arlington, 12-6, last week for its fifth win in six games this fall.

Dave Ferris intercepted a pass and ran it back 35 yards for a touchdown and Dave Ciani scored from the three. Mike Kelly was outstanding on defense, coming up with two intercepions.

In its previous game Dave Vogl Quincy am fell behind B. C. High, 16-0, and couldn't overcome the deficit as it bowed, 22-18.

Quincy's scores came on a five-yard plunge by Duke Whitney, a 40-yard pass play from Paul Creedon to Bob Bouchard and a 35-yard pass from Creedon to Bob Spillane.

Sterling Junior Soccer Champs, Look Like Team To Beat In '71

Another Quincy Junior High soccer season is now history and Sterling has again won the championship with a 7-0-1 record.

Sterling, which has dominated the league in recent years, wound up with a 5-0 breeze over winless Point as Henry Pakkala scored twice, Jim Keenan, Mike Ranalli and Marco DiCienzo once each.

Sterling's fine team play and passing again proved too much for the opposition.

Sterling loses many of its players through graduation and will be forced to rebuild next season, but there are a lot of good seventh and eighth graders who should be able to make the team the team to beat again in 1971.

In the other final game Central and Broad Meadows tied, 1-1, with Meadows' Tom Tasney scored early in the game and Fred Condeloro scoring the equalizer in the second half.

Broad Meadows and Central finished in a second place tie with nine points apiece. Meadows on three wins, three ties and two losses, Central on two wins, five ties and a loss. Atlantic was 2-4-2 and Point 0-7-1.

Sterling's John Sweeney was the top scorer for the season with five goals, followed by Ranalli, Condeloro and Tasney with four each; Keenan, Pakkala and Atlantic's Him Mullaney with three apiece.

Sterling Wins Grid Title, Too

Sterling Junior High, which also won another Quincy soccer title, won the ninth grade football championship with a 14-0 win over North to make its record 7-1.

Sterling's first score came on a 50-yard pass play from Robin Carrera to Da McDermott.

The second also came on the same pass combination, this time for 25 yeards, and Carrera passed to Rick Folino for the points.

Atlantic-North, however, gained revenge in the eighth grade contest, topping Sterling, 14-8, to win that championship.

It was the sixth straight win for unbeaten A-N.

Paul Peckham put Atlantic on the scoreboard first with a 45-yard end run and he also scored the second from 20 yards out. Mike Meehan rushed for the points.

Joe Toccio passed to Preston Carroll for a 60-yard touchdown play and Carroll also rushed for the points for Sterling.

Queen Crowning, Game Highlight ENC Homecoming

Alumni from throughout the United States will be visiting the Eastern Nazarene College campus for the annual Homecoming today through Saturday.

Highlighting the weekend is the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and the Bagpiper Classic basketball game between Gordon College and the ENC Crusaders, the first game of the season.

Dr. Ralph Earle, professor of New Testament at Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri, and Alumnus of the Year for 1962, will be the Homecoming Chapel speaker on Friday morning at 10:30 in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

The weekend begins tonight [Thursday], with a Bonfire Pep Rally on the ENC athletic field featuring the basketball team and cheerleaders.

On Friday night ENC meets Gordon College at 6 p.m. in the Boston Garden for the big traditional rivalry game. Last year ENC won 80-79 at the final buzzer.

The Student Council is providing a luncheon for all alumni and their wives or husbands in the old gymnasium Saturday noon. The campaign to raise funds for a new gym will be presented at that time and pledges will be received. Total goal is $600,000.

The ENC varsity soccer team will meet the Alumni at 2 p.m. on the college soccer field. A special half-time program is being planned by the Senior class. Miss Pat Lockwood of East Wareham, last year's Homecoming Queen, will ride on a special float and queen candidates and class representatives for this year will ride in decorated convertibles.

The queen candidates are Joanna Clark [Mrs. Reginald Clark] of Foxboro; Peggy L. Karker [Mrs. Lee Karker] 51 Faxon Rd, North Quincy; and Joyce Long [Mrs. John Long] 55 Hancock St., North Quincy, all seniors. The Freshman class representative is Denise Smith, Salisbury, Md; sophomore class, Marsha Nance, Warren, Ohio and the junior class, Dee Starr, Plymouth, Mich.

At 6 p.m. Saturday the J.V. basketball team will meet the Alumni in the Vocational Technical School gymnasium. The presentation of the Queen and her court will be made at 7:30, following the game. A playlet and musical entertainment are being planned by Miss Peggy Dougherty of Waterford, Pa., social chairman; Merritt Nielson, Instructor in English and Robert Brown and Gregory Larkin of the ENC Music Department.

In the past the Queen has worn a rented robe. A new Queen's robe has been especially made for the senior class by Miss Ruth Ann Douglas, 95 Quincy St., who graduated from the Wollaston college last spring.

The Queen's reception is being planned by the sophomore class following the Crusaders versus Roger Williams basketball game at 8:30 p.m.

Mandy Crocker Joins Recreation Dept. Staff

Mandy Crocker of Milton, a senior at Northeastern University, has joined the Quincy Recreation Department staff.

She is majoring in Recreation Education and will do her field work here at the Quincy Recreation Department. She will graduate in June.

Mandy has spent the last three summers teaching tennis at a camp in Vermont. She has also worked with the Newton and Milton Recreation departments during cooperative assignments and for special activities.

She is fulfilling a requirement for 10 weeks of supervised work. During this time the department will try to provide an opportunity for her to learn the techniques and to experience different phases of the department's program. She will be under the supervision of Recreation Director William F. Ryan and Assistant Director Charles L. Alongi, Jr.

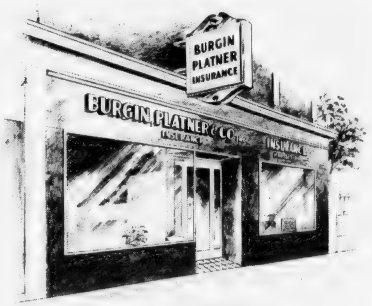
Miss Crocker is the third Northeastern student to do her field work with the department and the 12th student to work with Ryan.

Brighton Surprises Quacks, 8-3

A large crowd was on hand as the Quincy Quacks street hockey team lost to the Brighton Bats 8-3.

It was a surprise loss for the Quacks as they expected an easy victory over the Bats who had lost 12-4 to the Jamaica Plain Bombers.

The Bats scored two early goals before Dave Stern scored from David London and Ron White, a new addition to the Quacks. They racked up another score before Ron Smith hit from Brian Sullivan to make the score 3-2.



The Bats shot by Peter Skoler twice before Dave London and Kevin Sullivan helped Steve Golden score on the Bats' alternate goalie.

The Quacks played an aggressive third period, but were unable to come up with winning scores.

The Quacks will play the second place Newton team in their first away game on Sunday.

First And Last

Babies are short,
Parents are tall,
Cat are great,
Mice are small,
Puddles are shallow,
The sea is deep,
Cats are awake
While I'm asleep,
Turtles are slow
Cars are fast
A comes first
And Z comes last.

The Lost Ball

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Susan. She had a ball. It was all colors. One day she lost her ball. She liked the ball. A week passed. Susan did not know where the ball was. She had a birthday and her Mother gave her a kitten and the playful kitten found her ball. They lived happily ever after!

The Sun With A Pain

Once there was a yellow sun,
This sun liked to run.
Everytime it looked like rain,
The sun got a big pain.

Then, came the black clouds
Then, the ugly rain,
Poor sun, it got a worse PAIN!!

I Wish

I wish I had a dog.
I wish I could have the best scores anyone could ever have in bowling.
I wish there was a girls' hockey league.
I wish I could go horseback riding every Saturday with my uncle
I wish I had a built in swimming pool.
I wish I had a raccoon.
I wish I could fly all over the world.
I wish I was the richest person in the world
I wish I could build a buggy.
I wish I could have every different species of fish that would live forever.
I wish I owned a ranch.
I wish I will have children just like me.
I wish, I wish, I wish and I will never stop wishing.

I Wish

I wish I was in a pod filled with peas.
I wish I could fly like the fleas.
I wish I could visit all the castles.
I wish I had a suit full of tassels.
I wish I had a house.
I wish I had a mouse.
I wish I had a rubber ducky
I wish I was just plain lucky.
I wish I was a farmer.
I wish I was Arnold Palmer.
I wish I was a fish.
I wish, I wish, I wish.

The Bat And The Witch

On Halloween night
High in the sky,
There'll be a bat
Flying high by.
The bat met a witch
With a very long nose.
And that is how
My poem goes.

Halloween Night

Halloween is a scary night with witches flying into your face and pumpkins glowing in your eyes; with kids knocking at your door for candy, and black cats roaming around in the black night.

My Tree

Why am I here today?
Why must I stay?
Is it because my friends have gone?

Well, my tree is here today.
No, my tree's not gone away.
I've climbed this tree so many times.

Its rough branches I do know,
This swing that is so high.
I put it up there long ago,
It is very lonely here today,
I can hear the birds that sing so gay.

I must go now - mother calls,
But don't you run away on me
And leave my swing high in your tree.

The Yellow Cat

One Halloween night my friend and I went Trick-or-Treating, My friend said "Look at that, a yellow cat." Then we heard a yell in the sky. It was a witch, she dropped her broom. I said "Look out." But it was too late, the witch was hanging by her leg in a tree. Then the yellow cat jumped on the witch and she fell out of the tree. Then she filled our bags with candy. I got more candy then my friend did. So he kicked her into the sky. Then I threw her broom up with her and she caught it and flew away.

Halloween Night

Riding on a broomstick
High in the sky,
The funny old witch just went by.
With her feet on her broomstick,
Her hand on the wheel
The broomstick was on

I Wish

I wish I had a horse - a beautiful white one.
I wish I had a little baby monkey.
I wish I had a boat to sail the ocean.
I wish I lived on a big farm.
I wish I didn't have Hebrew School.
I wish my DUMB dog was nicer.
I wish I could have a million wishes.
I wish we had a built in pool.
I wish I could go to Israel.
I wish I could go to California.
I wish there were no wars.
I wish I was a movie star.
I wish I had a little sister.
I wish I was a millionaire.
I wish I had a very good friend and I do, Pat.

Columbus

In 1492 Christopher Columbus always thought the world was round, when other people thought the world was flat as a book.

Anyways Christopher Columbus went all over the place to prove it.

It was terrible every where he went. All of the people said that it was flat. When Christopher went to Spain, he spoke to Queen Isabela said "you must prove it."

So he took a globe and around. It spun faster and faster and you could see her eyes glow!

"Yes!" she said "you may take my three beautiful boats Nina the Pinta and the Santa Maria.

So the next day Christopher Columbus sailed the seven seas.

Then he found land. It was America.

I Wish

I wish I had a lot of money because I would go out looking for a horse - it would be a pinto because I love them.

I wish I had a car so I could go out anywhere I wanted to.

I wish there were no school.

I wish there were no such things as boys.

I wish, I wish, I wish.

The Witch Who Turned Into A Spy

On the big moon,
A ghost was sleeping,
On the big moon,

Edy Williams New Sex Symbol

TELLY SAVALAS, famed for his earthy portrayal of villain types, demonstrates his other side in the Warner Bros. comedy-fest "SOPHIE's PLACE"... CLINT EASTWOOD just rapped up the production of his first film as a director, "PLAY MISTY FOR ME"... The X-rated motion picture "ZAP" was given the Atlanta, Ga., heave-ho by Superior Court Judge CLAUDE SHAW... "I don't believe the wildest animals in darkest Africa could do worse than the participants in this picture have done," commented Judge SHAW before declaring "ZAP" obscene... MELVYN DOUGLAS, GENE HACKMAN and ESTELLE PARSONS each hand in supberb performances in Columbia's "I NEVER SANG FOR MY FATHER"... The ROBERT ANDERSON scenario is due for a New England release in December... PETER SELLERS career - plods along in the sex-adventure duplicity, "HOFFMAN"... DAVID LEAN was singled out as this years National Association of Theatre Owners "Director of the Year" for his superlative effort, "RYAN's DAUGHTER"...

Yes, they are still making TARZAN flics!... Only this time the locale is a place called Rainbow Springs, Fla., and the thespians involved are from Europe... STEVE HUKES, a Yugoslav actor, and KRISTEEN SVANHOLM, a Danish delight recreate the roles of Tarzan and Jane respectively in "TARZAN AND THE RAINBOW"... Sounds harmless enough. But will your children be able to see this "possible" X-rated ape yard?... Politico spit-fire JANE FONDA is meeting with indifferent results with her anti-anti speels in swinging London... Maybe the sparsely seated audiences are trying to tell her something... ANJANETTE COMER is in Mexico City filming "NIGHT OF THE THOUSAND CATS" for Avant Films... Up and coming sex symbol EDY WILLIAMS gives "acting" a go around in the RUSS MEYER directed "THE SEVEN MINUTES". The 1971 release is based on the best selling IRVING WALLACE novel... With MEYER behind the helm, one can only wonder if the film will in any way resemble the excellently written book?... Most likely it won't, although it could serve as a handy vehicle by which Miss WILLIAMS can challenge RAQUEL WELCH as America's number one sex goddess... Short on talent, but heavy on the curves, EDY WILLIAMS seems more intent on being heir to Miss WELCH's throne [?] than pursuing any worthwhile career...

Sunday, Nov. 29 shows promise of being an NBC tele-viewing evening well worth catching... GEORGE ROY HILL narrates the behind-the-scenes making of "BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID" from 6:30 to 7:30; and The JOHN WAYNE Special swings into action an hour later... The Dukes' guest for his first television special include LUCILLE BALL, JACK BENNY, BOB HOPE, DEAN MARTIN, LESLIE UGGAMS and TOM SMOTHERS... Holy Cross alumni MARK GODDARD is back in television after an 18 month furlough from acting... Hailed as "the ultimate escape film", "THE McKENZIE BREAK" lacks the suspense and daring of the STEVE McQUEEN-JAMES GARNER "THE GREAT ESCAPE" of a few years back... Isn't it about time EFREM ZIMBALIST, Jr., received Emmy award recognition for his "THE FBI" Sunday night efforts?... Is or isn't BILL COSBY retiring?... For years the affable comedian has been telling interviewers that "next year I retire"... And COSBY started this "line" five years ago...

DAME MARGARET RUTHERFORD was 72 years old when she won an Oscar for Best Supporting Actress of the Year... The famed "Miss Marple" of Agatha Christie film fame walked away with the prestigious award in 1963 for her brilliant "V.I.P." performance... As far as this column can ascertain, Miss RUTHERFORD is the oldest award winner on record... PETULA CLARK's next ABC-TV special is slated for Dec. 9... Joining Miss CLARK in the pre-Xmas frolics and fun will be stellar stars, PEGGY LEE, DEAN MARTIN The EVERLY BROTHERS, and PETULA's English compatriot, DAVID FROST... RICHARD KILEY has been signed to play the lead role in the film version of the highly acclaimed Broadway musical, "MAN OF LaMANCHA"... The picture is scheduled to go into production May 17th of next year... Remember TY HARDIN? The former television cowboy star is now making spaghetti westerns under the sunny skys of Italy... HARDIN's next flic is the comedy-oater, "HOLLER HAPPY"...

Quincy Women Juniors To Hold Free Vision Screening Program

A free vision screening program for pre-school children [3-5 years] will be held at Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Nov. 15 from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Quincy Women's Club Juniors under auspices of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The clinic was held last year at John F. Kennedy Health Center, but due to lack of space and the large turnout, a new site has been chosen.

Since children of this age group are usually unable to read printed matter, the screening will be done by the playing of the "E" game. Visual faults can be detected by having the youngster point out the position of the "E" legs with his arms.

"We hope every parent in Quincy will take advantage of the opportunity to have his or her child's eyes checked," says Mrs. John Dzierzeski, chairman. "An undetected vision problem can be a needless and tragic handicap for the youngster."

If the child's test performance indicates a possible vision problem, the child's parents will be notified in writing that he needs a complete and professional eye examination. These notifications are followed up to see if the child has had the necessary examination.

Members of the Advisory Committee are Dr. Charles Djerf, Dr. [illegible] Wolper, Miss Alice [illegible] Mrs. Virginia [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] the Prevention of Blindness.

A Registration form must be filled out with the child's name, birth date, age, sex, parent's name, telephone number, home address, family doctor, school to attend, etc.

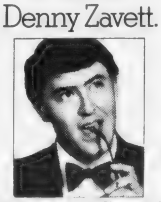
HN Auxiliary Games Party At VA Hospital

The Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Mary Timcoe, will join units from Weymouth and Milton tonight [Thursday] to hold a games party at West Roxbury Veterans Hospital.

Along with money gifts, they will bring playing cards and books for patients.

On Dec. 7 and 8, Auxiliary members will again go to West Roxbury to help veterans select gifts to send to their families, and to help wrap and mail them.

Through their "Christmas in July" party and donations from members, the Auxiliary has provided 35 gifts for the veterans' Christmas shop.



'Hobby Books' Nov. 16 At Adams Shore

"Hobby Books" will be the Nov. 16 topic at an hour-long program for junior high school students from 3 to 4 p.m. in the Exhibition Hall at Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Mrs. Margaret Anne Myers, librarian, is conducting the series of programs to be held each week on Monday, without charge.

"It's Party Time" will be the Nov. 23 subject; "How to Make Gifts for the Holidays", Nov. 30; "Christmas Customs in Other Lands", Dec. 7; and "Legends and Symbols of Christmas", Dec. 14.

Burke Thanks For Record Vote

Congressman James A. Burke expresses his "sincere thanks to all voters" who helped him "break all records" in election results in the South Shore.

Burke topped all candidates in Quincy, Brockton, Avon, Braintree, Canton, Dedham, Holbrook, Milton, Norwood, Randolph and Stoughton, hitting close to 85 per cent in most communities.

Burke's percentage increase over the last off year election was 1.2 percent. At that time he received the highest vote of any Congressman elected east of the Rockies.

MTA Executive Secretary Visits Quincy Schools

Dr. William H. Hebert, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Teachers Association, made a stop in Quincy this week as part of a fact-finding tour on behalf of public school teachers.

Dr. Hebert visited with teachers at North Quincy High School, had lunch and meetings with members of the Quincy Education Association headed by Robert W. Garner, at Quincy High School and Vocational Technical High School. He visited also Quincy Point Junior High School and Daniel Webster elementary school

A conference with Mayor James R. McIntyre was also scheduled.

Paul F. McCarthy, assistant director of Field Services for the MTA's Metropolitan District, accompanied Dr. Hebert.

$20,211 For Auditorium

Contributions of $20,211 by 450 residents of 1000 Southern Artery to the Senior Citizen's Center auditorium are reported.

Residents have topped their goal of $20,000 with an additional $300 pledged by residents and members.

A campaign for $120,000 for the auditorium was launched April 1. The sum of $60,000 has been received from foundations, corporations and friends, bringing the total raised to 2/3 of the amount needed.

Spanish Club Cake Sale

A cake sale will be held by the Quincy High School Spanish Club Saturday starting at 10 a.m. at Stop & Shop on Southern Artery. Mrs. Prudence Alfaro is club advisor.

Friday The 13th A Day To Remember At Quincy High

Friday the 13th will be a special day for the Spanish Club at Quincy High School.

The Club, headed by Senior John P. Russo speaking in Spanish and English, at 9 a.m. will plant two "Friendship Trees" dedicated to World Friendship, its first project in what members hope will be an active year.

Two red Maples will be planted, one on each side of Quincy High School, in the presence of school and city officials, and club members with Mrs. Prudence Alfaro, Spanish Club advisor.

The trees were secured from the Forestry Department through Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, who plans to attend the ceremonies.

"I think this is a wonderful program, and we should be part of it." Koch said.

Other invited guests are Mayor James R. McIntyre, who will speak and assist with the planting; School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon; Principal Lloyd Creighton of Quincy High School; and Director-Principal Laurence H. Babin of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Members of the Spanish Club responsible for the gesture of friendship include, with president John Russo; Joanne Phillips, vice president; Debbie Lomanno, treasurer; Jane Roffo, secretary.

Also Nancy Cappadona, Wayne Chatterton, Barbara Glennon, Imelda Greenan, Dawn Harrington, Joanne Kasianowicz, Mary Kelly, Suzanne Lee, Linda Martin, Luis Niveiro, a foreign exchange student from South America, Nancy Siddens and Patricia Wessling.

Destination: Golden Age Or Stagnation

City At Crucial 'Crossroads'

Quincy is at the development crossroads with a spectacular future - or stagnation its destination.

With proper planning and action by officials–and needed support by a majority of residents–Quincy will become Massachusetts "boom town" of the 1970's and enter into its Golden Age.

Or, it will stagnate.

That was the let's-lay-our-cards-on-the-table summary of the Harvard Business School Study Report presented at a public hearing last night at the Broad Meadows Junior High School.

The student study project team, headed by James E. Schoenberger and Sam Williams, recommended:

- Massive renovation and new construction of retail space in the Central Business District to develop a more compact shopping area.
- Considerable more parking--especially parking garage variety–for the MBTA, existing stores and new office and retail development.
- A through traffic system to allow through traffic to pass around the CBD and permit local traffic to enter the area for shopping and other business.
- Development of high density housing near the CBD to provide more of a captive market for retail sales.
- Establishment of a Renewal Authority even if its powers are limited to the CBD.
- Exploitation of the city's rich historical past to draw the benefits of tourist trade. [The city's historical past is largely unknown in the Boston area, the study shows].
- Approval of the new zoning proposal by the City Council to provide for high density development in the city.
- Development of air rights projects where economically feasible to help make up for the lack of open space which now hampers the city's ability to interest industries which need large amounts of land.
- Extend the city's budget process to five years instead of the present one year for more effective planning and listing of projects by priority.
- Hire a marketing representative for contacting developers and "selling" the city to them for approved programs of land use.
- Actively advertise its development and historical plans in regional and national media.
- Implement a public communications effort in the local media to inform Quincy residents of the need for growth and the city's plans in this regard.

The report summed up Quincy thusly:

"In summary, Quincy has an opportunity to be the Massachusetts boom town of the 1970's. Because of the MBTA, Quincy's dominant position on the South Shore [the fastest growing region in the Boston area], its historical tradition; its waterfront; and possible developments such as State Street's; its future can be spectacular.

"However, all of the raw assets will go unnoticed and the city will stagnate at this point in the development crossroads unless the elected officials [particularly the mayor] take an active role to convince the citizens of the need for redevelopment...

"...unless the CBD businesses unite to develop their area into a compact shopping center with adequate parking, traffic access and renovated stores...

"...and unless the majority of the citizens are willing to keep a vocal minority from preventing the Golden Age of Quincy.

"The future is not in any one group but in a partnership of all concerned."

McIntyre Seeks $3.6 Million To End Furnace Brook Flooding

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre will file legislation for a $3.6 million MDC bond issue to widen and deepen Furnace Brook to solve one of the city's major flooding problems.

The money, McIntyre said, would be used to widen and deepen Furnace Brook for an estimated three-mile length from its origin in the West Quincy section of the Blue Hills to Black's Creek, Merrymount.

McIntyre said he is filing the bill following a study of Furnace Brook by city engineers.

"I am sure," he said, "this would end the flooding which has plagued West Quincy, Wollaston and the Black's Creek areas."

The Mayor noted that two new culverts constructed at Hudson St. at Furnace Brook Parkway and Newport Ave. and Furnace Brook Parkway alleviated the flooding situation during Sunday's storm.

The culverts, double the size of the old ones and costing $100,000 were constructed as the result of McIntyre legislation.

"This shows that if we try to do something about a problem, we can solve it," he said. "I am certain the widening and deepening of Furnace Brook will halt the flooding in these areas."

City Council, Survival, Inc. To Fight Drugs Together

Survival, Inc. and the City Council have tentative plans to meet tomorrow night to map plans for fighting the drugs problem in Quincy together.

The get-together was brought about through meetings during the past few weeks between members of the board of directors of Survival, Inc., Dr. Carol Lee Griffin of the Quincy Public School system, and Joseph Whiteman, Quincy businessman, who set up preliminary negotiations with Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

At these meetings the menace of the narcotic problem in Quincy was discussed, together with ways in which Survival, Inc., could work out the problem with the support of the

Two POW's Among Those To Receive Christmas Gifts

"Christmas in Vietnam" packages from the City of Quincy will be packed Friday, announces William L. Villone, Director of Veterans Services.

This year some 70 or more men will receive in their packages: a transistor radio, fruit cake, tins of candy and nuts, plastic playing cards, and fountain pen.

"We will start on Friday," says Director Villone, "and complete the packaging on Monday to include any last minute additions."

This is the fourth consecutive year in which servicemen from Quincy serving in Vietnam will receive gifts provided through donations made by City employees and others.

Mayor James R. McIntyre suggested the gifts of appreciation four years ago, and the practice has been continued each year with contents of the packages varying from year to year.

Also included among the servicemen will be two Quincy pilots now held prisoner in North Vietnam. They are Capt. Edward A. Brudno and Lt. Commander Richard Stratton, whose packages will be sent through Ross Perot by way of Paris, France.

How To Apply For SS Retirement Benefits

Are you getting ready to retire?

Frank Culkin, Social Security office manager in Quincy, has some tips that may help save you time and trouble when you apply for your social security benefits.

A telephone call to the Social Security office is a good first step. Someone there can answer your questions and tell you how to apply and when to do it.

When you apply, bring your Social Security card or a record of your Social Security number, proof of your age, and your last year's income tax withholding statement. [If you are self-employed, bring a copy of last year's income tax return and evidence of payment of the self-employment contribution.]

If you wife also is applying for benefits, she should bring evidence of her age and her social security card or a record of her number if she has one.

The best evidence of your age is a birth or baptismal certificate made within five years of your birth. However, if these are not available, other documents may be used. Generally, the older the document the better.

If you have children under 18–or youngsters between 18 and 22 who are full-time students–bring their birth certificates and records of their social security numbers.

If you have a child who was severely disabled before age 18 and who continues to be disabled, you should also bring medical evidence of the child's disability and any other pertinent facts about his disability.

It's generally a good idea to apply about three months before you retire. Don't delay because you don't have any of the required documents or information. The people in the social security office will be glad to help you get the necessary information.

If you are housebound and unable to come to the office, arrangements can be made for taking your application by mail or, if necessary, someone can come to your home. Just let the social security office know.

"Remember," says Culkin, "the people in the Social Security office are there to help you."

Deadline Saturday For SAM

The final closing date for mailing SAM packages to Armed Forces overseas is Saturday, Nov. 21.

SAM packages travel by train to port of embarkation and are airlifted from that point to overseas destinations on a space available basis. Postage cost is for surface parcel post only. No additional charge is made for airlift overseas. SAM parcels are limited to a five-pound limit.

Officer-in-Charge George K. Walker also announces that 650,000 Christmas Mail Closing Date leaflets will be delivered by letter carriers between Nov. 23 and 28 to every home and business office in the Boston Postal District. This schedule calls for parcels to distant states, including Hawaii and Alaska to be mailed by Tuesday, Dec. 1, to assure delivery by Christmas.

Street letter boxes, especially decorated for Christmas, will be placed in downtown Boston and in the major shopping centers of cities and towns in the postal district on Friday, Nov. 27 to encourage SHOPPING EARLY and MAILING EARLY.

Letters to the Editor

Don Dwight Thanks Quincy Voters

Editor, Quincy Sun:

On behalf of Governor Sargent and myself, I would like to express my thanks through your newspaper to the many Quincy residents who made the Sargent-Dwight campaign such a huge success.

The next four years are very important to the future of our state. We will face many problems, and the solutions won't come easy.

But, working together we can keep Massachusetts moving. We can make this state a better place in which to work and to live.

Don Dwight
Lieutenant Governor Elect

Sunbeams

Mayor James R. McIntyre and former City Councillor Richard W. Barry appear to be on a collision course. A head-on collision.

Barry, the past few days, has been telling friends he definitely is going to run for mayor next year.

There has been some talk that McIntyre might step down from the city political scene when he completes his present third term.

But insiders think if Barry does run for mayor next year his opponent will be - McIntyre.

They are convinced His Honor is going to run for at least one more term. In fact, some of them will bet you he does.

They'll tell you that McIntyre will go one more term to see through to completion some of the projects started under his administration.

Projects such as: the MBTA Quincy line, the Multi-million dollar State Street South, Newport Ave. Extension, School St. Bridge and maybe his proposed Government Center.

So, if Barry does run and McIntyre goes for No. 4, it should liven the local political picture, which has been a sort of Dullsville.

★★★

SPEAKING of McIntyre, State House sources expect him to be named Majority Whip in the Senate.

That would give him the third-ranking post behind the President [expected to be Kevin Harrington of Salem] and Floor Leader.

If McIntyre does get that job, he no doubt will give up chairmanship of the Joint Legislative Committee on Transportation because of the new duties. He probably would remain a member of the committee though.

★★★

AND, while we're stirring the local political pot, the Speculation Corps wouldn't be surprised to see School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly make a bid next year for the City Council. An at-large seat, that is.

★★★

SO, you think you have bills? How would you like to pay the electricity for the new Jordan Marsh distribution center at Squantum?

Cost for lighting the 30-acre structure inside and out is -- get this -- $10,000 a month!

★★★

JACK BARRY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barry of Quincy, and agent in charge of the Covington, Ky. FBI office, recently got an editorial "Well done" for his work from the Kentucky Post.

Law and order seems to be an occupational trait for the Barry family.

Ed Barry, now retired, was a long-time assistant clerk in Boston Municipal Court. Another son, Mike, is a Quincy police sergeant.

THE St. Joseph's CYO variety show at the Lincoln Theatre turned out to be a reunion for two of that parish's most beloved priests.

On hand to take in the special matinee program for youngsters were Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, recently retired pastor, and Rev. Dennis Dever, his former curate. Fr. Dever is now a missionary for St. James Society in Ecuador.

★★★

INCIDENTALLY, Rev. Charles Hogan, a deacon assigned to St. Joseph's, just about stole the variety show as a surprise soloist. His baritone renditions brought demands for "more".

★★★

GEORGIE JESSEL [himself] comes to Quincy Dec. 4 as the headliner for the Quincy Police Betterment Association show to be presented at Quincy High School auditorium at 8 p.m.

Also appearing with him will be Norman Brooks, the Al Jolson sound-alike, singing many of the latter's old hits. Should be a good show.

Proceeds will aid scholarship funds and other charitable projects designated by the Police Betterment Association.

HAVE A QUOTE: From the National Research Bureau and reprinted in "Quarry Quotes", the South-West Quincy Community Center newsletter:

"Compared with other federal expenditures during the fiscal year 1969-70, the war in Vietnam has cost 10 times more than medicare and medical assistance, 14 times more than support to all levels of education and 50 times more than was spent for housing and community development."

Germantown Cub Scouts Send Gifts To 19 Servicemen Overseas

Nineteen servicemen overseas, their names chosen from the Quincy Sun's list, will receive Christmas gifts from 65 Cub Scouts at St. Boniface's Church in Germantown.

Each of the Cub Pack's eight regular dens and Webelos den were assigned two or more servicemen. Gifts were brought from home and packed at the church hall for shipment.

The thoughtful gift suggestion came from den mother Mrs. Patricia McCarthy, while Mrs. Mary Prescott, secretary of the Pack committee, had charge of the project.

Participating in the patriotic venture were:

Mrs. Barbara Bock and Cubs Daniel Sullivan, Brian Hanlin and Michael McGann of Pack 1; Mrs. Yvonne May and Cubs Timothy Duross, Stephen Duross, Charles Dooley, Michael May, John Faulkner, Mark Donnelly and Renold Crowe of Den 2; Mrs. Theresa Buckmann, and Cubs Robert Buckmann, Joseph Shaw and Robert Farnsworth of Den 3.

Mrs. Marie Black and Cubs Robert Dellamano, Daniel Dellamano, Francis McGaffigan, John Black, Michael Martin, Robert Veno and Steven Notarangelo of Den 4; Mrs. Jeanne Maskell and Cubs Richard Olson, Francis McManus, Michael Petersen, Frederick Canniff, David Maskell and Donald Maskell of Den 5.

Mrs. Ann Marie D'Allessandro and Cubs John Cavello, Robert Glynn, Wayne Hansen, John Keefe, Michael Lupo and David McCarthy of Den 6; Mrs. Patricia McCarthy and Cubs, Paul Knowles, William McGovern, Edward Quinlan, Norman Nicholson and Arthur Isleb of Den 7; Mrs. Renie Keefe and Cubs Bart Thorne, John Murphy, Thomas O'Keefe, Ricky Cable, Scott Kressler and William Hennessey of Den 8.

Webelos leader Edward Grindle, Don Prescott, Jr., assistant, and den chiefs David Prescott and Kevin Connors, with Webelos Cubs John Lasoski, James Murphy, Mark Dupont, James Macaluso, Mark Grindle, David Notarangelo, Michael Madden, Ed Regan, Bradford Thorne, David Morrow, John McManus, Charles Bock, James King, Vernon Olseon, James Barrier, Steven Cable, Frederick Mahoney, Michael Lavender, Donald Kneeland and Daniel Prescott.

Also assisting was Committeeman John Murphy. The Color Guard from George F. Bryan VFW Post gave the cubs a close-up view of overseas servicemen, now discharged veterans.

Donations of refreshments at the mass packaging session were from Stop & Shop on Southern Artery, Capitol Super Markets and Kasanof's Bakery.

GIFTS FOR SERVICEMEN -- Germantown Cub Scouts William McGoreen, Paul Knowles, Arthur Isleb and Norman Nicholson, with their den mother Mrs. Patricia McCarthy, who originated the idea, pack gifts for overseas servicemen as Mayor James R. McIntyre and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin look on with approval. In background are color guard from the George F. Use 'QUINCY' Band To Speed Up Local Mail Delivery

Mail deposited in collection boxes in the general Quincy area for delivery to Quincy, North Quincy, Wollaston, Braintree and Weymouth can be expedited by utilizing the local "QUINCY" band furnished by the Postal Service, announces George K. Walker, Officer-in-Charge, Boston Postal District.

Letters and a supply of bands have been sent to all large mailers in the Quincy area requesting they enclose in the "QUINCY" band all mail addressed to Quincy, North Quincy, Wollaston, Braintree and all Weymouths.

"If mailers use the "QUINCY" band, we will trap this mail in the local post office for processing and delivery," Walker said.

"Local mail that is deposited loose in the mail collection boxes can not possibly be segregated from the rest of the mail and is forwarded to the central distribution point in Boston for processing."

"By utilizing the bands, we will be able to process this local mail much earlier and assure on-schedule delivery to our customers' homes".

Additional information and bands is available at local post offices.

Committee Sought To Study Voting Machines

Appointment of a five-member committee to investigate the possibility of "electrical" or "mechanical" vote-counting machines to take the place of the present manual "slow count", was asked by City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, at Monday's City Council meeting.

Referred to the Mayor was the request for appointment of a member each from the Republican and Democratic City Committees, a member of the League of Women Voters and a member of the Taxpayers Association, to work with the City Clerk and report back to Mayor and Council before Jan. 4, 1971.

Other meetings were held which included the new coordinator of Survival's program, Dr. Ronal Rosso of Harvard Medical School, and also Dr. Charles Djerf, president of Survival, Inc.

As a result, these meetings "led to a growth of mutual concern for the safety of the community and youth", according to Tobin, and led to a public press conference on Wednesday at City Hall.

Further statements will be made jointly by Dr. Rosso and Tobin.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Family Customs

Q. Recently I went to a wedding where the bride and groom shared the first toast from a silver goblet. Is this a new custom?

A. This is an old French custom and called "a coupe de marriage". The cup is large with two handles and of silver. It is given a place of honor at the table and usually filled with champagne. At a signal from the best man the bride and groom raise it high then each drinks from it.

If this has been a family tradition then their initials and wedding date are added to those of past generations. However there is no reason why today's bride cannot start a new family custom.

Q. Who pays for the small wedding albums?

A. By small wedding albums I assume you mean the mothers' albums. There is no set ruling on this. Very often the bride and groom will buy them for each set of parents. However, this is not always possible financially especially with todays' soaring prices. If this should be the case, then the parents could buy their own.

Q. My first marriage was annulled after one year. Now I am to be married again. May I have a large formal wedding?

A. Even when a marriage is annulled it is not good taste to have a large formal wedding. Tongues would surely wag. If your first wedding was a small affair it would be permissable to have a large informal wedding. You would wear a simple pastel gown. Either short or floor length but no train or veil. Two attendants at the most.

The number of ushers would depend on the number of guests. [one usher for each fifty guests] They would wear dark business type suits. The groom would wear the same.

However if your first wedding was a large formal affair then the second one should definitely be a small affair with only family and very close friends.

Thanksgiving Praise

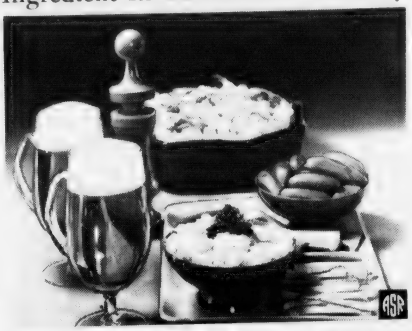
By Jayne Wysocki
Age 10, 5th Grade
North Weymouth

Give thanks! Give Praise!
Thanksgiving time is near.
Give thanks to God for another wonderful year.
The love that fills the air when people
See each other, like Aunts and Uncles, sisters and brothers.

We give thanks for peace and love,
And also all the gifts from God above.
A feast of food is waiting there,
Excitement and Love fills the air.
Every one is happy when all the guests appear,
And soon all the food will disappear.
For all God's blessing we bring love to you
That are full of praise through and through.

Compassion

By Mrs. Micky Rizzo
87 Sumner St., Quincy



A heart is empty without love
A soul needs a full confession,
Of each human, don't be above
Distribute a little of your compassion.
Don't say, "He's different, he's not my kind"
His heritage is different, that may be true
If he gets hurt you will find,
That he'll bleed the same as you.

Don't deride a man for his ways and fashion
Assist and help him all you can.
Show him some of your compassion
Respect and love him as a man.
It matters not his color of skin
Say to yourself "I've got discretion,
Beauty comes from deep within
So give out all your compassion.

The world is free to all mankind
One shouldn't say "You're not wanted there,
True understanding must all us bind
Do unto others what is fair.
Other people live the same as we
They hurt, they bleed, they live their fate,
A better person you know you'll be
If you remember - don't discriminate.

So go along on your merry way
And here's a thought that you can "hash on",
At the dawn of a brand new day,
Remember to have a little compassion.

New Booklet Features Secret Ingredient In Convenience Cookery

Whether she whirls or swirls, slices or tosses, heats or chills—the busy homemaker transforms convenience foods into tasty, inviting meals in a matter of minutes.

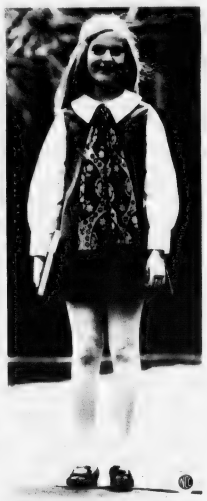
Now, a new recipe booklet, "The Secret Ingredient in Cooking," ventures a step further. It's recipes are based on convenience foods plus a special seasoning agent to create totally new and intriguing dishes.

The secret ingredient? Beer.

What makes it so special? Beer gives an added flavor enhancer to soups, seafoods and meats, a zesty tang and buoyancy to breads.

The secrets of this special seasoning are revealed in a four color, 48-page recipe booklet just introduced by the U.S. Brewers Association. It contains more than 60 recipes for appetizers, soups, entrees, breads and desserts. In addition there's a handy guide to storing and serving beer for meals and parties.

To receive a free copy of "The Secret Ingredient in Cooking," write to the U.S. Brewers Association, 535 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10017. Recipes for Shrimp in Beer and Brewed Cocktail Franks (pictured) are featured in the booklet. Meanwhile here is the recipe for Tavern Cheese Dip, a tangy spread for crackers or bread.



Tavern Cheese Dip

4 (4 oz.) packages shredded sharp cheddar
1 (3 oz.) wedge blue or Roquefort cheese
1 (12 oz.) can or bottle beer

Let cheese soften at room temperature for about an hour. With electric mixer slowly blend cheese together. Gradually add beer, beating continuously. The amount of beer governs the consistency of the mixture. For a thick spread add less beer; for a smoother spread add more beer or blend all together in a blender. Makes about 4 cups.

THE SHORTER VIEW—Cotton suede with shadings that make it look like authentic animal hide is the choice for a casual mini-length coat in 1970's soft, unconstructed look. In chamois, antelope, or brown, it comes with a matching hat and bag. Styled by Winett of California.

THE A-STUDENT—Ascoted in a gay print with its own schoolgirl blouse, the A-line jumper is a favorite with the young set. In Cone's gold-colored cotton corduroy, it's by Tiny Town Togs.

"This isn't exactly what I had in mind when I asked for a larger pay check, sir."

Week of Nov. 20 - 27

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Listen to others now because you may be able to use their new ideas to advantage later in the week. Your feelings still uncertain.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Though some may be opposed to your way of thinking right now, they will change their mind in a month or so. Partner is uncertain.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Those of you born around June 2nd are now seeking to expand their horizons through new ideas and opportunities presented.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Analize your life-plan carefully and begin to make the basic changes that will be necessary for faster progress this year.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - There can be a lot of traveling around in the car as you bring your ideas to other people's attention. The redecorating almost complete.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Your affairs can become a little confused on Monday as you begin to put some of your constructive ideas to work in the home.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - This is an excellent time for study - your mind is quick and ideas come easily. You still cannot collect the money due you.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Spending money this week on unusual studies or objects. Agreements and contracts you wish to keep secret can now be signed.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You may feel confused but you are on the right track. An original idea of yours can be put into action this week.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Your recent plans for the future may have started off on the wrong foot but there will be another chance soon. Read Cancer message.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - The winter months should be spent lining up and working toward a specific goal. Next June is when things begin to happen.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Don't allow inspiration to undermine your practicality in the years ahead. Keep control and a long period of luck is yours.

It's In To Be Thin
By Lois L. Lindauer
Director, The Diet Workshop

If this is the day you have been murmuring to yourself that "one of these days, I really must go on a diet", maybe I can help you.

Cause I may save you the anguish of kidding yourself. Depends. It depends on how often you say this to yourself. Let's find out how serious you are. If you have said this to yourself more frequently than two times a week for the past three months, you might as well face up to the fact that you probably don't mean it.

Now it may be true that something happened last month which prevented you from getting started, and your daughter got married this month, which made it impossible, but if something comes up today, you may as well face the fact that you may never start your new eating program and save yourself a lot of anxiety.

Find out if you mean it. Place a red X on your calendar on this exact day next month. When you reach this date, see how far you've gotten. If you've not started, you might as well stop torturing yourself and start buying yourself a new wardrobe in the next size.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please contact me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Family Service Of Thanksgiving Sunday At United First Parish

United First Parish Church [Unitarian] will hold its annual Family Service of Thanksgiving on Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

High school young people will assist Dr. Bradford Gale, minister, at the special service by reading the Governor's Proclamation and the Lesson of the Day, by ushering and receiving the morning offering.

There will be a procession of junior high youth to the altar with special offerings, and the youth choir will sing under direction of Gale Harrison, organist and music director.

"Thanksgiving Revisited - Was the Wompanoag Right?" is the subject of Dr. Gale's sermon.

Parish school is recessed on this Sunday so that the entire family may attend the festival service in a group.

In the evening at Quincy Square parish hall there will be a joint meeting of schools of United First Parish and All Souls Church of Braintree, with parents invited. Supper will be served and the school choirs will sing.

Special Thanksgiving Offertory At St. Joseph's Church Nov. 26

On Thanksgiving Day at an 8 a.m. mass, the entire parish of St. Joseph's Church at Quincy Point will have an opportunity to "express the true meaning" of the day.

Children are being asked to donate canned goods, and adults to contribute money to purchase turkeys, fresh vegetables and fruit for Christmas baskets. The project has been organized by the Christian Service Commission.

This is "an opportunity to all the parishioners to offer their thanks to God in a more meaningful manner by their participation in the Offertory Procession of the Mass," says Mrs. George MacLean of 44 Silver St., chairman of the Christian Service Commission of the parish.

Two Quincy Residents Elected To Church Of Nazarene General Board

Two Quincy residents have been elected to the 39-member General Board of the Church of the Nazarene.

They are: Dr. Donald L. Young, 3 Speakman St., Dean of Eastern Nazarene College and Rev. Gordon Wetmore, 12 East Elm Ave., Chaplain at Eastern Nazarene College and pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

Their election came in a ballot by mail by other members of the general board. The results were announced recently at general offices of the denomination in Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Young succeeds Dr. Edward S. Mann, former president of Eastern Nazarene College who moved to Kansas City as the general secretary of the denomination's Department of Education.

Rev. Wetmore will represent the Department of Youth on the General Board. He is general secretary of the youth department and will succeed Rev. Jim Bond, Nampa, Idaho, youth department president, who is under appointment as a missionary to Brazil.

The General Board is the chief administrative body of the church and meets each January in Kansas City, Mo. The board approves an annual budget and appointment of missionaries and hears annual reports.

Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, 180 Adams St., Quincy, Chairman of the ENC Board of Trustees and District Superintendent of the New England District of the Church of the Nazarene, is also a member of the General Board.

Ingathering Thanksgiving At First Baptist

The First Baptist Church of Wollaston will hold its Church School ingathering Thanksgiving Nov. 22 at 9:45 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Donations of canned foods, meats and juices and gifts of money will be accepted.

Robert F. Taylor, director of Protestant Social Service Bureau, will speak to the group on the Donner House home for boys.

Thanksgiving Church News Deadline Friday

The Quincy Sun deadline for news of Church Services and other Thanksgiving programs is Friday, Nov. 20.

Because of the holiday, The Quincy Sun will be published on Wednesday, Nov. 25.

Worcester Pastor To Speak At Finnish Communion Service

Rev. Viljo Heiman, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, Worcester, will speak at a Finnish Communion service at Trinity Lutheran Church, 65 Roberts St., on Sunday [Nov. 29] at 3 p.m.

Rev. James Kimmell is Trinity Church pastor.

Rev. Kenneth Pearsall Elected Chairman ENC Trustees Board

Rev. Kenneth H. Pearsall of 180 Adams St., Quincy, was recently elected the new Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Eastern Nazarene College.

An alumnus of ENC, class of 1944, Rev. Pearsall served as Executive Field Secretary for the college from 1948 to 1953. He is currently the District Superintendent over the Churches of the Nazarene in New England.

Before being named New England District Superintendent in 1968, Rev. Pearsall served pastorates in Kearny, New Jersey, Kingston, New York; Akron, Ohio and Yakima, Washington and was District Superintendent of the Upstate New York District.

He is a member of the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene as well as a member of the Nazarene Theological Seminary Board and the New Hymn Book Committee of the church.

Mrs. Pearsall, the former Ruby Friend, is an ENC alumna, Class of 1951. A registered nurse, she had been a nurse at Eastern Nazarene College for several years prior to her marriage to Rev. Pearsall.

The Pearsalls have four children: Mrs. Andrew Satta, an ENC alumna whose husband is a ministerial student at Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., Judith and John who are sophomores at ENC, and Joel, age 12.

Other officers elected for the current year are: Vice-Chairman, Rev. James Hunton, District Superintendent of the Philadelphia District; Secretary, Dr. Jonathan T. Gassett, District Superintendent of the Upstate New York District; and Treasurer, Wesley Angell of 65 Gould St., Quincy.

Montclair School Testing TV Role In Classrooms

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Does educational television have a role in Quincy's school rooms?

That is the question Leon Gould, Montclair School principal, and his teachers will answer this year through a pilot program for 22 kindergarten through sixth grade classes.

Recently two Japanese TV educators from Tokyo visited Montclair to compare notes with their own experiences. Atara Jokima, chief director of correspondence school broadcasts, educational program department from Station NHK [Japan Broadcasting Corp.] and Takeshi Yamaguchi, education division TV director, joined a sixth grade group viewing a 10-minute "What's My Thing?" episode on "The 21-Inch Classroom" screen.

"They seemed very much impressed," says Gould. "But they seemed even more deeply impressed by Montclair's interesting devices in the multi-media center."

Gould gained the impression that Japan is out in front in educational TV. One of Tokyo's two channels is devoted entirely to education with programs for kindergarten through high school. They have a four-year high school course for factory workers who receive graduation credit for written reports sent to the Japanese broadcasting system.

In a pilot program, Citizens University Course, a university student can attend classes, then watch TV programs for credit, and send his thesis to the university. By 1972 there will be Open University, using UHF channels, in which students may go to one of the universities for tutoring or to take exams once a month.

Several years ago all Quincy schools were enrolled in educational television. Because of lack of equipment and problems in scheduling the programs, this was not successful.

This year at the suggestion of Arthur Gillis, coordinator of library services for Quincy Public Schools, Montclair was asked to take part in a pilot program which runs through June, 1971.

It costs 25-cents per pupil for services of The 21 Inch Classroom. Teachers receive instruction books to help guide children in thinking through the implications of a particular program.

"There is no additional expense. We are using equipment already available," Gould explains. "We had three televisions; borrowed two. Mr. Gillis brought in the monitors and tape decks. Now we have seven viewing instruments and monitor with playback equipment."

Often a program is shown several times a week on television. If taped, it can be seen again and again to pick up details missed in the first showing. Usually one class [sometimes doubled with another] views an "episode", discusses it with the teacher, then returns for a repeat performance to fill in the gaps. Gould foresees through video tapes special sessions for individuals and small groups.

While "What's My Thing?" deals with children's real life situations, other programs relating to conservation, mathematics, science, "Word Worlds", among others, are available.

"The program is certainly going well at this point," Gould comments. "The shows are great! The kids love them, and the teachers like them, too."

JAPANESE VISITORS--Akira Kojima, Chief Director of Correspondence School Broadcasts Educational Program Department from Station NHK, Tokyo, and Takeshi Yamaguchi, Education Division TV Director, with Principal Leon Gould of Montclair School, view an educational television program with a few of the students taking part in the pilot program.

Quincy Firm To Rehabilitate Part Of Famed Faneuil Hall

Scott-Prescott Corporation of Quincy will begin rehabilitation of a portion of Faneuil Hall, built in 1721 in Boston, to provide headquarters for The Hollis Apothecary, "America's Oldest Drug Store", founded in 1821.

William H. Scott, president of the corporation with offices at 21 Intervale Rd., South Quincy, is working with Caeser and Vincent Monarca, pharmacist-owners, and the City of Boston's Real Property Department to preserve the original colonial architectural design and blend harmoniously with modern floors, wood paneling and store fixtures.

Plimoth Plantation

On November 5, 1970 the fifth grade of Wollaston School took a trip to Plimouth Plantation. We left at 1:00 P.M. and started the trip by bus.

When we got there, we saw a movie that told the story of the Pilgrims. The movie prepared us for the trip through Plimouth Plantation.

Our guide said Plimouth Plantation is supposed to be 7 years after the landing of the Pilgrims.

First our group went through the houses and this is what we learned. Captain Myles Standish was five feet tall. He told the people to bring muskets, flintlocks, matchlocks and other weapons. The people often went barefoot to save shoes. The women cooked most of the day. We learned how they cooked their food.

We went to the common house last. A lady there told us that the common house was used for both a church and a stockade. A man on top of the common house told us about the cannons and guns.

After we were finished we saw the Mayflower. The people on and under the deck told us about it.

We left at either 5:00 or 5:30, but on the way back Tom McGilvray and John McDonald fell asleep. When we got to the school everyone got excited. When they let us out we pushed and shoved. Then all of a sudden we stopped. We had just realized that we hadn't been dismissed from school. Mr. Hamilton dismissed us and we went home, excited.

The First Thanksgiving

Before 1620 King Charles was counting his money
With a wicked grin on his baffled face
And enough evil to tear down the place.
With a mixture of mean and sly grins
He knew how to fix the Pilgrims.
An evil glance of his wicked eye – a thought emerged!
Everyone must go to the Royal Church!
At the door he collected a tax.
He was a robber not wearing a mask.
Now the time arrived, it was believed,
That all the Pilgrims must leave.
If anyone was caught they'd be hung by the throat
So they left England on the "Mayflower", a cargo boat.
When the Mayflower came near the bay
Many had died, many wished they'd stayed;
Quarrels arose from time to time
For something as small as a penny or a dime.
But we people are happy today
We have no hardships of yesterday.
Time to time we remember their living
When we celebrate Thanksgiving.

When We Went To Plimoth Plantation

The fifth grade classes from Wollaston School, Wollaston, Mass., went to Plimoth Plantation. We went on November 5, 1970.

We saw the way Pilgrim made the houses when they came. It was interesting. After that we child were excited. We ran down the road. The adults told us to walk. Then we went to the movie theater and a lady talked to us about the Pilgrims. Then we saw a movie. We went down to the village and saw the houses. In the houses it was very small. After we went to the Plantation, we went on the Mayflower and saw all the rooms. It was small but in those day it was called big. When we came out, it was raining and we ran to the buses. Some of the children fell asleep but most of us were fooling around. Then we came to the school and went home.

Plimoth Plantation

The fifth grade people of Wollaston School went on a trip to Plimoth. We went on Nov. 5, 1970. It was a successful trip. We went by bus. We needed eight adults.

On the way back, my friend Tom McGilvray and I, John McDonald, fell asleep. My head was hanging out in the middle of the aisle. We were very hungry and tired.

When we went, we saw a movie. It showed Squanto and Samoset showing how to plant corn and catch wild life. It showed a cold winter scene at Plimoth and Captain Standish conferring with his Indian friend, Hobomack about setting up a trading post off of Cape Cod.

I'm glad I'm not a Pilgrim.

Pollard School Teachers, Seniors In 'Get Together'

Nine teachers from Thomas B. Pollard School are taking part in a voluntary "reciprocity deal" with Senior Citizens from 1000 Southern Artery.

Principal Frank W. Keegan, a member of Quincy Education Association, calls the unusual setup "rewarding in many ways".

Through Mrs. Blanche Wellman of the 1000 Southern Artery staff, some 15 to 20 Senior Citizens, many of whom are college graduates volunteered to assist at the Pollard School media center, putting material together and reading stories to students. Some attend school twice weekly.

"It's wonderful to see them become part of the educational process," says Mr. Keegan, "and they can put in as much time as they desire. Our students enjoy it tremendously and it makes a marvelous relationship between the pupils and the senior citizens."

In return, Mr. Keegan and eight of his staff at least once a month on schedule serve meals, clean up, and spend a couple of hours at 1000 Southern Artery with the senior citizens catching up with world and local problems.

Faculty members assisting with Mr. Keegan, are John Creedon, assistant principal; Miss Mary DiBartholomeo, Miss Elizabeth Dunlavy, Miss Kathleen Hofferty, Miss Rosemarie Guivens, Miss Judith Keith, Miss Jean Ann MacLean and Mrs. Dorothy Flate.

Thomas Timcoe Commander HN Sons Of Legion

Thomas Timcoe has been elected Commander of the newly reactivated Houghs Neck Sons of the American Legion.

Gary Clark was elected vice commander; John Timcoe, finance officer; David Manson, adjutant; Carl Symonds, chaplain; and Roy Crombie, sergeant-at-arms.

New officers presided at their first meeting on Saturday.

Ecology Nov. 30 Topic At Adams Shore

"Ecology Action Speaks to Young Adults" is the youth program at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library Nov. 30 at 7 p.m.

Speakers from a Cambridge Center are young people who are attempting to interest youth in problems of ecology. A discussion will follow the program.

Jan Ricciuti Leads Flag Salute At Council Meeting

The salute to the flag at Monday's City Council meeting was led by Girl Scout Jan Ricciuti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Ricciuti.

Her Dad is Mayor James R. McIntyre's executive secretary.

Jan, with six other Girl Scouts of Troop 120, St. Agatha's parish, were guests of Mayor McIntyre during the day, and returned for the evening to learn how the City Council functions.

MBTA Considering Transportation Study

The MBTA through its Plans and Schedules Department will consider a transportation study, according to a letter received by City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Gillis wrote the MBTA regarding a resolve by Councillor Clifford H. Marshall calling for the Traffic Commission to join with the MBTA in a transportation study.

Warren J. Higgins, MBTA Director of Operations, wrote:

"I have referred Councillor Marshall's request to our Plans and Schedules Department for action, and they will be in contact with both the Councillor and the Traffic Commission at the earliest opportunity."

"Please be assured that Operator Dexter will be contacted and any suggestions or recommendations he has concerning safety procedures and traffic regulations will be given the fullest consideration.

"Thank you for the interest you have shown in providing better public transportation for the residents of the Quincy area."

South-West Residents To Be Heard On Landtaking

South-West Quincy residents affected by landtaking for the new Hancock-Lincoln School will have an opportunity Monday to air their views at a 'courtesy' public hearing set for 8 p.m. in the City Council chamber.

The South-West Community Council and all abutters are to be notified by City Clerk John L. Gillis of the hearing.

At Monday's Council meeting the sum of $342,000 was set aside for possible property damage should suits be filed against the city for landtaking.

Questioned by the Council on the 7.5 acres involved, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon noted that the area had been arrived at through compromise with the State Department whose guide-lines required much more land. The state took into consideration the proximity of Kincaide Park as a playground area for students.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin questioned the acquisition of so much acreage because of the "acute housing shortage"

"We are trying to save city taxpayers money by not taking so many homes," Tobin said.

Both Dr. Creedon and architect Barry Coletti agreed that "everything humanly possible was done to reduce the site." Both felt the state would not go along with any less area without reducing the 40% reimbursement the City would receive on the new school construction.

The school building itself will take 'around two acres', Coletti estimated.

Councillor Walter Hannon termed the requirement for large amounts of land for schools "blackmail by the state."

Councillor Clifford H. Marshall pointed out that legislation is being filed this year to obtain help in situations like this.

The order was referred to the Public Works Department.

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Your List Of Priorities'

A married couple came into the office from the Probate Court. "What's the problem?"...I asked. He answered..."Doctor, it isn't my wife's fault...it's mine. I gamble...I drink too much...and I run around with other women." We don't always get the "problem" so quickly defined. "I just can't live with it any longer"...said the wife. Both were being blunt and honest.

Upon examination it appeared that there was little he could complain about at home...he had simply reverted to an earlier stage of life and was acting as an irresponsible teen-age boy. He had no defined priorities.

It was difficult for him to come to terms with the fact that he had to make up his mind to what was to have priority in his life. But he did. Today he is an exemplary husband and father.

This priority principle is important for all of us. What do you want in life?

It seems only a few years ago that I was enrolling in the University of Kansas...puzzling over the catalogue in selecting courses for my sophomore year. The old dean sensed a confused boy. "May I help you?" he asked across the registration table. "Dean Schweagler"... I said... "I don't know what courses to take."

"Well"...said the dean..."let's put down the catalogues and talk"...communication is always important. "Now Mr. Knox"...he said..."What do you want to be doing 20 years from now?"

He caught me flat-footed. I didn't know. I hadn't thought much about it. I didn't have a system of priorities. Almost brazenly and with little modesty I stammered out..."I think I'd like to be in a position like yours." He liked my answer. He was a state-wide educator...a great counselor to young and old...a walking encyclopedia in human relations. "Then let's start getting ready for it"...he said firmly with a smile. That was the moment that I began preparing to work with people...and incidentally I'm still preparing for whoever masters the art of human relations?

He forced me to a decision with...WHAT DO YOU WANT IN LIFE? He started me ordering my set of priorities. I shaped up fast. If you're in the dilemma I was in, let me make three suggestions:

First...Clarify your priorities. So many people are confused...don't know what they want. Ask yourself as the Dean asked me..."What do I want to be"now...and in the future. Why play it by chance? Determine yourself. Then set the controls in that direction. Commit yourself to your set of priorities.

Secondly...Feel the tug of those goals. One man said recently to me..."All I ever wanted in life was to have a wife I could love and to be loved by her." He had everything else. In this he was so far unsuccessful. He was determined to let nothing prevent the attainment of that goal. He was facing a hard choice to bring it about. One week said to her husband..."It's me or the bottle...you'll have to choose." He chose her and sloughed off his drinking habit because she was at the top of his set of priorities.

Thirdly...Keep growing...developing...adjusting your priorities as new experience stretches your mind. You can't stand still...either you grow...or slip backward. Make your own priority list...unmet needs...love...affection...deeper relationship...a happy marriage...an education...health...job success...whatever yours is. Then move forward letting nothing else take precedence.

Contrary to popular opinion, you'll have to start loving yourself before you can get far with your set of priorities. Because...why have worthy priorities for an unworthy self?

Jaycees In 'Help Light The Way' Drive

The "Help Light the Way Sunday", fund-raising drive is being held this week by Jaycee Chapters in Massachusetts.

The Quincy Jaycees will take part in the state-wide drive Sunday to raise funds to start a Jaycee Foundation for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, announces William Griffin, president.

Money raised from the project will go into a Foundation which will provide funds for research into causes of these diseases and also to run local projects in the area of mental health and mental retardation.

Ken Casey is chairman and Charles Leonard, co-chairman of the Quincy drive which will take place from noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Members of the Quincy Jaycee Chapter and local youth groups will be selling door-to-door some 2000 bags of fire starters.

A state-wide goal of $40,000 has been set by the Massachusetts Jaycees.

Stop & Shop Opens Largest Supermarket On South Shore

A new delicatessen, new florist and card shop, and an all new Spanish Mediterranean look greeted shoppers Tuesday at Stop & Shop's reopened supermarket at 495 Southern Artery.

A 33 per cent increase in size makes this the largest supermarket of any chain in the South Shore area. It represents a three quarter million dollar investment overall in the South Shore marketing area for Stop & Shop.

Mayor James R. McIntyre and Rep.-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin joined Stop & Shop officials for formal ribbon cutting ceremonies. Free coffee and donuts will be on hand for visitors all week long, and the first 1000 customers received gift philodendrons plants.

The store includes 10 registers and two express registers for added customer convenience; and enlarged produce, meat, frozen food, dairy, bakery and grocery departments.

Stop & Shop pioneered the concept of small, boutique-like "shops within a shop", and the Quincy store will include these areas of related product groupings clustered under separate "roofs" for ease in shopping.

Jeremiah Luise of 46 Davis Ave., Norwood will manage the new store. Assisting him will be Meat Manager Peter S. Wolent, of Abington; Produce Manager John A. Romano of Brockton; Reserve Store Manager Joseph E. Green of Norwood; Grocery Manager Joseph A. Noyes of Dedham; and Florist Manager Joseph F. Robertson of Waltham.

The Stop & Shop companies include 150 supermarkets, 52 Bradlees Department stores, 12 Medi Mart drug stores, 27 Perkins Tobacco Shops, and related units throughout New England, New York and New Jersey.

Last year's sales topped $720 million.

RIBBON-CUTTING -- Stop & Shop's new "Mediterranean Look" supermarket at 495 Southern Artery opened Tuesday with the traditional ribbon cutting by Mayor James R. McIntyre and Store Manager Jerry Luise. Helping with the ceremonies are Robert Bidwell, Boston Division Area Manager; Robert Kroeger, vice president Supermarket Division; Joe Noyes, grocery manager; Rep.-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin; Peter Wolent, meat manager; John Romano, produce manager; and Joe Robertson, florist.

New Tax Course Starts Nov. 23 At Taxman, Inc.

A new course in tax form preparation will start Nov. 23 at Taxman, Inc., 1661 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The course will be conducted by Al Peruzzi, manager and instructor.

Peruzzi who recently took a tour of the Internal Revenue Service Center in Andover with other Taxman, Inc. personnel, says a higher percentage of taxpayers this year will make errors and overpay their taxes because of changes in tax laws and tax forms.

EARLY CUSTOMERS -- Bill Olsen of the Boston Patriots and Mrs. Olsen, who live on Canton Rd., Quincy, receive from Store Manager Jerry Luise two of the 1,000 philodendrons given away opening day at the newly renovated Stop & Shop Supermarket at 495 Southern Artery, Quincy.

'Putting It All Together'

Rolling Raiders Romp To Sixth Victory

North Quincy's football team, improving every week, will take a four-game winning streak into the Thanksgiving classic with Quincy.

This looks like one of the most attractive meetings in the 37-year old series.

Ralph Frazier's Raiders, who hope to do to Quincy what the Presidents did to them two years ago, turned in another impressive performance last week to wreck Somerville, 33-12, and take a 6-1-1 record into the Turkey Day game. North is just three points away from a perfect season, losing to Malden, 21-20, and tying Revere, 6-6.

"We put everything together in the Somerville game and moved the ball well on a real quagmire of a field," Frazier said. "I never saw a field in worse condition and the boys did an excellent job under the circumstances." The game was played at Somerville's Dilboy Stadium.

North was finally back at full strength (except for guard Billy Morgan, sidelined for the season several weeks ago) and the second-year coach paid tribute to every player, both on offense and defense.

"Both units did a great job," he said. "The defense was outstanding, although we do need more work on our pass defense and will really work on this department for the Quincy game.

"Paul Lippens played another fine game at quarterback, passing and also running well, and Tony Kelly played his usual great game. He again was the workhorse of our running attack until suffering a sprained ankle in the third period. John Linnehan filled in very capably and scored our final touchdown. Kelly will be all right and will be ready for Quincy as will everyone else."

Ralph wouldn't single out any one on defense, lauding the entire unit for bottling up Somerville's running attack.

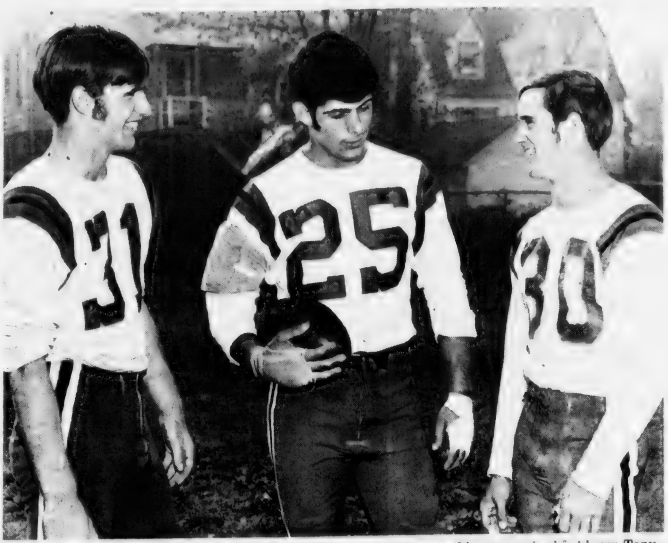
Jimmy deVarennes, who has improved steadily since being made a starter, put North on the board first when he took a Lippens pass for a 40-yard scoring play. Brian McCleery kicked the point.

Later in the first period Lippens threw his second touchdown pass, this one a 15-yarder to end Dave Mahoney and Lippens rushed for the two points.

North Quincy's Scoring

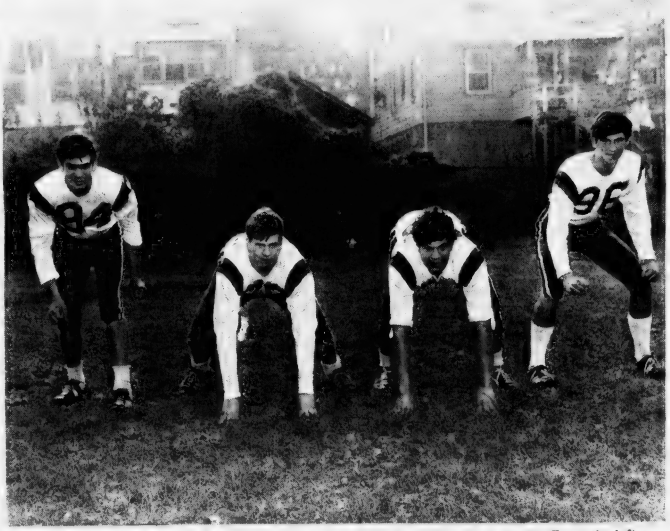
	TD	PAT	Pts.
Kelly	6	0	36
Mahoney	5	0	30
Lippens	3	2	20
King	2	0	12
Davis	2	0	12
Zink	2	0	12
DeVarennes	2	0	12
McCleery	0	9	9
Panarelli	1	2	8
Linnehan	1	0	6

Lippens made it 21-0 in the second quarter on a 10-yard run.



Somerville scored late in the half on a 45-yard pass play from little Pat Scrima to outstanding end Art Bent.

The third period was scoreless but in the finale deVarennes scored his second touchdown from the two and Somerville added its second on a two-yard dive by Paul Velardo after a pass interference called had put the Highlanders in scoring position.



With time running out, reserve quarterback Bob McKay passed to Linnehan for a 65-yard touchdown play to finish the scoring.

Two years ago North was favored in THE GAME and would have won the Greater Boston League title with a victory. Quincy upset the Raiders, 21-8, to knock them out of the crown and give it to Somerville.

This year North can't keep the Presidents from at least a share of the title but can keep them from winning it outright.

THREE REASONS why North Quincy is enjoying a good grid season this year are backfield men Tony Kelly, John Panarelli and Lee Davis.

Medford Eighth Victim

Quincy Clinches GB League Title Tie

Continued brilliant individual performances by John Provost and Rich Menchi enabled Quincy's high-powered football team to clinch at least a tie for the Greater Boston League championship and, for the first time, take a perfect 8-0-0 record into the Thanksgiving classic with North Quincy.

This outstanding pair sparked a great second half comeback [30 points, 22 in the last period] to overcome stubborn Medford, 36-6, last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win was the 11th in a row going back to last year for Hank Conroy's Presidents, gave them a 6-0-0 league record and assured them of no worse than a tie for the title. Malden, 5-1-0 in the league, had its game with Everett last week postponed by wet grounds.

"Provost and Menchi were absolutely great, just as they have been all year long," Conroy said. "Medford presented different defenses than we had expected and we had a tough time moving in the first half. Our blocking broke down and we made too many mistakes such as illegal procedure and the like.

"In the second half we knew what to expect and, as we have done in most of our games, we exploded for long gainers. We have been an explosive club all year and don't grind out the yardage like some teams do.

"Provost has been carrying much of the offensive load in recent weeks and was amazing in the Chelsea and Medford games. I've never seen anyone break tackles like he does. He isn't very big [5-10, 165], but has great moves.

"And this, I think, was Menchi's best game. His tackling and blocking were fantastic. I haven't seen a better end anywhere and he was certainly at his best today."

Provost, who scored four touchdowns two weeks ago against Chelsea, scored twice last week on runs of 79 and 25 yards, gained 190 yards by himself in 16 carries and had runs of 35 and 15 yards nullified by penalties. He also personally accounted for seven of Quincy's 13 first downs.

Conroy also praised Wayne Richards for his running and blocking. He had an 80-yard touchdown run on which Menchi stayed right with him and blocked out the last man between him and the end zone, and gained 127 yards on 10 carries. He also blocked well.

"Menchi and Billy Maver were terrific at end and Dennis Waters, Bob Conti and Joe Russo were outstanding in the line," the Quincy coach added. "John Milkowski played in the offensive line for the first time and did a fine job and Joe Coner, playing only his second game with the varsity, backed up the line well with Bobby McDermott. They made many of the tackles."

The tired-no Medford team struck first with a beautiful 53-yard touchdown pass play early in the game. Kevin Cunniff who hit most of the receiving from his quarterback [illegible] and passed an excellent game, threw a long bomb to [illegible] who outran the Quincy secondary took a perfectly placed pass and ran 27 yards to complete the play.

Twice the aggressive Medford line broke through to hit quarterback Steve Sullivan before he could get passes away and forced fumbles. Medford recovered both as well as falling on another Quincy bobble.

Quincy was stymied until late in the opening quarter. The Presidents took over on their 20 when a field goal try went wide.

Provost made a yard, then raced around right end, broke into the clear and raced 79 yards for the tying touchdown.

Earlier Provost had run 35 yards to the Medford 10 but an illegal procedure penalty nullified it.

There was no more scoring in the first half as both lines hit hard. Provost saved trouble midway in the second period with a spectacular pass interception on the Quincy 12 on a long bomb.

The second half was all Quincy as it scored 30 points and made 11 first downs to just one on the next to last play of the game for Medford. For some reason, Medford failed to throw a single pass in the last two periods despite falling far behind.

Quincy's Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Provost	12	2	74
Maver	7	4	46
Richards	6	6	42
Menchi	4	8	32
McCarthy	4	5	29
Walker	3	2	20
Sullivan	2	2	14
Waters	2	2	14
Malvesti	1	2	8
Hanlon	1	2	8
McDermott	1	0	6
Goguen	1	0	6
Pellegrino	1	0	6
Sylva	0	3	3

Quincy took the second half kickoff and rolled to the Medford 19 on a 15-yard pass to Provost, runs of 13 and 14 yards by Provost and a 19-yard pass to Richards, but a pass interception stalled the drive on the 13.

The first of four second half punts by Medford went only to its 44 and three plays later Provost raced around right end for 25 yards and the winning touchdown. A pass to Menchi clicked for the two points.

Early in the final period Provost was shaken up after running 24 yards to the Medford 20, Jimmy Walker replaced him and immediately went the 20 yards for a touchdown.

Maver recovered a Medford fumble on the ensuing kickoff on Medford's 42. Provost and Richards combined to carry to the 19 from where Sullivan passed to Menchi in the end zone. The ball was deflected by a Medford defender and grabbed by Menchi barely inside the end zone. Menchi also took a pass for the points.

The final touchdown came on Richards' 80-yard run on which Menchi wiped out the last defender at the Medford 15. Sullivan's pass to Maver added the last points of the game.

Quincy had 340 net yards on the ground, 62 yards on four pass completions and 13 first downs. Medford had a net of only 53 yards rushing, 69 on three pass completions and six first downs.

GRANITE WALL -- Medford player is stopped cold by three Presidents in Veterans Stadium 36-6 victory. Bob Conti [74] made the tackle. Win gave Quincy at least a tie for Greater Boston League crown.

Wildcat, the High Mountain, has always been a favorite of ski enthusiasts. Now we're enlarging our base facilities for the less exuberant. We're building a new Base Lodge with a larger Cafeteria—same good food, same breathtaking alpine views of Mount Washington. We're also enlarging our nursery and ski school. You'll watch a fashion show, or NASTAR races or even color TV. Should you decide to ski we'll take just as great care to make the experience a memorable one. Our manicured novice Polecat Trail offers 2¾ miles of uninterrupted, pure learning pleasure. Gondolas, chairs, T-bars and new Linx double-chair lift. So what are you waiting for? Write for information on Wildcat weekend, mid-week ski packages.

Quincy, North Sophs Clash Saturday In Turkey Preview

[illegible] for the annual "Turkey" meeting between the Quincy and North Quincy interscholastic football teams Saturday morning.

The game is scheduled for 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium, complete with [illegible] electric clock and [illegible] varsity sharpnings. However if any rain this week should make the field soggy the game will be played at Faxon Field according to Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone.

A year ago the game was played on the stadium for the first time as Quincy romped, 35-0.

This year Ted Sadowski's North sophs take a 6-1 record into the game following a 2-0 win Monday [illegible] Squantum.

Jack Burke's Quincy sophs [illegible] lost only once in two years, take a 7-1 mark into the game after bowing for the second time to B. C. High, 14-0, Monday.

In between the two losses to B. C. High, Quincy had defeated Medford, Scituate, Arlington and Hingham.

Sadowski's North Sayers finished up with a 5-1-1 record.

Bobby Orr To Attend St. Coletta's Benefit Game

Boston Bruins superstar Bobby Orr will be present when the Bruins Old Timers face off against the Braintree Hawks Nov. 27.

The exhibition game for the benefit of Braintree St. Coletta Day School will be played at Ridge Arena, Braintree, beginning at 8 p.m.

Some of the Old Timers who will be playing are Bill Ezinicki, Cliff Thompson, Harvey Bennett, Andy Brannigan, Pat Egan, Johnny Peirson, Don McKenney, Woody Dumart, Johnny Crawford, Bucky Hollingsworth, Fernie Flaman will be coach.

In addition to Bobby Orr, other all-time Bruins greats expected to be present are Milt Schmidt, Cooney Weiland and Zellio Toppazzini.

Advance sale tickets are available at the school, Ridge Arena, Remick's and Coleman's stores in Quincy.

Quincy, North Guests Of Kiwanis Club

George Sauer, general manager of the Boston Patriots, will be guest speaker Nov. 23 at the annual pre-Thanksgiving football luncheon of Kiwanis Club of Quincy at Quincy YMCA at 12:15 noon.

Members of both Quincy and North Quincy High School football teams will be guests along with coaches and principals.

Alexander E. Warmington will preside. The day's program has been arranged by James F. Stearns, Jr., special events chairman.

Hancock Bank Opens New 4-Story Home Office In Downtown

Downtown Quincy received a hefty economic boost this week with the opening of Hancock Bank's new four-story home office building on the site of Sheridan's Department Store which closed nearly two years ago.

The bank's new headquarters present many striking architectural innovations combined with the skillful use of interior and exterior color combinations and materials. Architects were, Bank Building Corporation, St. Louis, Mo. Prime contractor was Clark and Smith Construction Co., Quincy.

Open House Days have been set for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 23, 24, 25 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. according to William J. Kelley, President.

Kelley is encouraging the public to view the bank's many innovations, then introduce themselves to the bank's officers and employees to develop what he calls Hancock's "first-name relationship".

Hancock Bank's design is unique with its dual front entrances: one at 1495 Hancock St. the other on the opposite end of the building facing Ross Parkingway. Both fronts feature a series of elongated arches extending beyond the roof of the building.

The arches frame translucent glass that filters the sun's rays while admitting complete daylight to the exterior. Viewed from the outside the glass resembles a mirror.

Hancock Bank has 13 offices. The 14th is under construction on Southern Artery at McGrath Highway, Quincy, for an early January 1971 opening. Hancock Bank resulted from the merger of Quincy Trust Co. and the Dedham Trust Co. on December 31, 1967.

In less than three years merged banks have expanded asset growth from $80 million to $70 million.

Propose Computer Info System For Police

A computerized information system adequate to meet law enforcement needs has been proposed by the South Metropol District comprising the police departments of Braintree, Milton, Quincy and Weymouth.

This is recommended in a 248-page report on the information needs of small and medium sized police departments to the Governor's Committee on Law Enforcement and Administration of Criminal Justice. The report was the product of Phase I of "Project SPAIS" [Suburban Police Automatic Information System] which received a part of its funds from the Committee.

If plans suggested are followed, a computerized system, the first of its kind in the country, would be established in the South Metropol District to serve as a model for all suburban areas in Massachusetts. Once the system is developed, it is felt that installation, maintenance and operation could be within the financial means of the communities involved.

The system would aid the war against crime and high accidents by placing "grass-roots" information in the hands of officers: It would let him know who dangerous persons are that are on his beat, who is wanted, what they look like, whereabouts of suspects, etc.

The information will give the officer "tools to work with" to do the job he knows how to do, rather than statistics such as are emphasized in many existing police computer facilities, the report said.

One significant observation in the SPAIS report relates to the tallying of crimes and crime-related incidents in the Monthly Reports, the basis for annual reports by the FBI.

Computers are expected to overcome deficiencies in accuracy and reliability of reports from local sources.

As opposed to local manual systems, the report suggests that local computerized systems will provide accurate and timely information to LEAPS [The Massachusetts State Police Computer System], and can serve as as intermediary between the LEAPS computer and the local police officer.

This can be done by sorting the Statewide information into a meaningful arrangement for the officer. By doing this and giving him other information which means something to his specific responsibilities, the local computer encourages the officer to contribute information to the system, the report said.

AMPHETAMINES AND VIOLENCE

Amphetamines are used medically to suppress appetite and reduce fatigue or mild depression. When prescribed by a doctor, they are safe and helpful. When abused and taken in massive doses, they can cause psychotic symptoms known as paranoid schizophrenia. The subject is super-suspicious that others are plotting to harm him. The hallucinations are so real that the abuser will even resort to murder to protect himself from this illusionary danger.

A study of 30 cases of amphetimine-related murders in San Francisco in 1968-69, noted that most "speed freaks" carried dangerous weapons to defend themselves. It concluded that, "The combination of large doses of amphetamine and concealed weapons is awesomely dangerous and only a matter of time before it results in a homicidal attack". It's something to think about.

Quincy Symphony Orchestra Blends Classics, 'Rock' Saturday

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will open its 1970-71 season Saturday with a blend of the classics and rock n' roll at its annual concert for young people at 10:30 a.m. at Quincy High School auditorium.

Conducted by Professor Robert E. Brown of Eastern Nazarene College, the program will consist of three works. Prelude from "Hansel and Gretel" by Engelbert Humperdinck; Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major by J. S. Bach, and Marche Slave, op. 31 by P. Tschaikowski.

The Brandenburg Concerto will be played both in its original setting and, with the "Sound Investment" group, in a "rock" setting. Soloists will be Eleanor Nelson, violin; Ralph Bausman, oboe; Howard Roland, flute; Marilyn Reiman, trumpet.

There will be no admission charge, and children of third grade level and older are invited.

In addition, the orchestra will present a winter concert in February; a Youth Performance concert in April; and the Annual Pops concert in May.

Orchestra personnel includes:

Violins: Eleanor Nelson, Concermistress; Billie Falardeau, Rev. Paul E. Sparrman, Barbara Litterio, Irene Williamson, Victor Romanul, Edith Taube, Dr. H. J. Seymour, Sylvia Peters, Edwin Matthews, Andrew Walsh, Soloman Temple, Morris Morse, Alice Kauffman, Principal; Judy Seaton, Nancy Brown, Anne Marie Beaudry, Miriam Kirkland, Josiah Baker, Eric Chilstedt, Kathleen Webb, Stephen Brown, and Alexander Romanul.

Violas: Margaret Lert Schwarz, Principal; Amy Kehew, Dr. Abraham Alter, Warren Hathaway.

Basses: Karen Rydwansky, Earl Healey, Kendall Lord, Myron Romanul.

Piccalo: James Andrews.

Flutes: Howard Rowland, James Andrews, Elaine Baker.

Oboe: Ralph Bausman.

Clarinets: Susan Barnes, Michael Arth.

Bassoon: Hymeld Garginard.

Horns: Marjorie Maxham, Patricia Larkin, Raymond Thayer, Jr., Esther Chandler.

Trumpets: Marilyn Reiman, Edmund Zaks, Karen Seager.

Trombones: Thomas Johnson, Frank Raz, George Schare, Arthur Milmore.

Tuba: Ed Doyle.

Percussion: Robert Jenkins.

Bryan Post Collecting Clothing For Inmates

A drive for clothing for men about to be released from the Norfolk County House of Correction will be held Nov. 29 from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. by the George F. Bryan VFW Post at the Post Home, 25 Broad St.

Permission has been received from Sheriff Charles W. Hedges to conduct the drive, and the items will be picked up by jail personnel on Nov. 30.

Shoes are badly needed. Any items of men's clothing in clean and usable condition will be accepted, as some of the men enter the House of Correction with only the clothes they are wearing and have no relatives to provide needed items.

Also appreciated are used television sets for use in the rehabilitation training program.

Post Commander James Mulloy is in charge of the collection.

Golden Age Or Stagnation Seen For Quincy

also noted:

"While the city's attitude towards development after the MBTA decision has been largely reactive thus far, the city can effectively control and encourage future construction if it so chooses.

"By controlling development and seeking a certain character of new industries, the city can gain the benefits of economic development but still maintain its heritage.

"The community has generally been uninformed as to the meaning of the long range goals of elected officials. This has resulted somewhat because of a lack of initiative on those officials. In turn, the business leaders have no long range development program to support. Current handling of the new zoning proposal illustrates this.

"Due to the growth in office space anticipated in the State Street Bank development and elsewhere in the city, new housing and retail space may be needed to support that activity.

"The city's bond rating is excellent and it generally is "underbonded" for a city its size. Large amounts of additional bond issues in coordination with private, state, and federal funds for development will be necessary in the future. The city has the necessary available bond capacity.

"If the city's expenditures can be kept to an increase of less than 10% per year, new construction such as State Street's, which is scheduled to come on the tax rolls in the 1970s, will enable the tax rate to remain relatively stable during the next decade.

"In the Central Business District [CBD], telephone surveys show the MBTA is likely to hurt sales of Quincy stores specializing in clothing more than any other.

"The MBTA garage currently under construction in the CBD will not be adequate and the parking problem will worsen. Some relief will occur when the line is extended to Braintree.

"There is some indication the CBD businesses are being taxed at an assessment rate greater than 100% of market value while homeowners have a rate far below 100%. This is not a healthy situation for encouraging new development in the Central Business District.

How Will MBTA Affect Quincy?

What effect will the MBTA have on Quincy?

The Harvard Business School Study Report on downtown Quincy lists the following effects of rapid transit extensions in other cities:

- Orderly growth is promoted and new population centers are opened.
- Parking spaces are more effectively utilized and traffic flow improves.
- New jobs are provided.
- New business and industry results.
- Transportation improves for those traditionally without it—the old, the young and the disabled.
- Better access to educational and cultural facilities is provided.

Wipfler Freaney President

John F. Wipfler, formerly of Quincy, has been named president and chief operating officer of James A. Freaney, Inc., Boston-based waste disposal firm.

The member company of the Waste Control Division of Sanitas Service Corporation, a national multi-service company with headquarters in Hartford, Connecticut.

James A. Freaney, Inc., providing a variety of waste removal and disposal services in eastern and central Massachusetts, is a member company of the Waste Control Division of Sanitas Service Corporation, a national multi-service company with headquarters in Hartford, Conn.

Wipfler, a North Quincy High School graduate, attended the School of Industrial Relations of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He served for 18 years as vice president and Sales Manager of the Freaney company and as chief operating officer of Contain-A-Way, Inc., of Cranston Raode Island.

Wipfler, now a Braintree resident, is married and has two children. He is Past District Commander of the Disabled American Veterans, a member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, Past President of the Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and a member of the Board of Governors, Quincy Junior College.

At the Freaney company Wipfler succeeds James Freaney of Weymouth as president. Mr. Freaney currently serves as Chairman of the Board of Sanitas Waste Control Corporation, Boston.

Certificates To Barilaro, Hurlebaus

Mayor James R. McIntyre at Monday's City Council meeting presented Certificates of Appreciation to Thomas F. Hurlebaus of 25 Shennen St. and Ward 4 Councillor Albert R. Barilaro.

The certificates were a "Thank You" for efforts by the men in behalf of Question 1 on the state election ballot regarding classification of property under revaluation. While the "Yes" votes carried in Quincy, the state-wide vote defeated the issue.

Hurlebaus, past commander Houghs Neck Legion Post, was cited for "leading the fight locally, particularly in veterans organizations."

Councillor Barilaro was commended for his many talks throughout Massachusetts on the issue.

Nature Topic For Camera Club

"Variety in Nature Subjects" will be the topic for the South Shore Camera Club at their Nov. 24 8 p.m. meeting at 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Lee Remick In English Films

The talented trio of RICHARD BURTON, ELIZABETH TAYLOR, and PETER USTINOV are teaming together to produce a number of small budgeted films... Their first scheduled outing is "HAMMERSMITH IS OUT", which starts shooting the first of next year in the locales of the U.S., Mexico and Switzerland... This "farcial tragedy" has a planned budget of $720,000... The musical version of VLADIMOR NABOKOV's "LOLITA" will light up the Broadway stage next spring... ALAN JAY LERNER is writing the lyrics, and JOHN BARRY is composing the score... Quincy born actress LEE REMICK has two completed British films which will shortly be released – "LOOT" and "THE SEVERED HEAD"... The former South Shore starlet seems to be happy with the English scene, as she has taken up residence in a recently purchased villa in picturesque North London... "M*A*S*H" is still doing landslide business at the Galleria theatre in Rome... Thirty weeks strong to be exact...

The Italian film drama "INTOLERANCE–1920", is a biog of the Sacco and Vanzetti tragedy. The picture is headed for American shores by the middle of 1971... The ARRIGO COLOMBO-GIORGIO PAPI production could prove to be one of the controversial hits of next season... TINY TIM's "new look" isn't all that new... For those of you who may have caught the shorter tressed TIM on the "MIKE DOUGLAS SHOW", TINY's long locks were covered by a much shorter, now-with-it "wig"... Whether TINY TIM plans to adopt this more conventional look as a permanent part of his routine, remains to be seen... REX HARRISON will produce, but not act in, ANGELA HUTH's "NOWHERE GIRL"... The 1964 "MY FAIR LADY" award winner is also piercing together the anti-war spiel, "PRIDE OF LIONS", which he will direct... Does all this behind the camera work mean a finis to REX HARRISON's career as an actor?...

"MOD SQUAD" is hanging in there with the top 15 NIELSEN ratings winners... Watch for the "MERV GRIFFIN" nightly "bore" extravaganza to be replaced by the "DAVID FROST" talk-variety "perk-me-up"... The New York to Hollywood move has done nothing to enhance GRIFFIN's ratings, and CBS is contemplating terminating his contract in January... Author TRUMAN CAPOTE is being sought after for a "LAUGH-IN" guest spot... WILLIAM HOLDEN runs from his "WILD BUNCH" success to his next starter, "WILD ROVERS". The film will be directed by BLAKE EDWARDS for MGM... JACK BENNY just completed his Israel concert tour... The "sleeper of the year", "JOE", is sizzling towards the $2 million mark... Have you seen this excellent piece of contemporary America yet?... Potential Academy Award nominee GEORGE C. SCOTT [PATTON], has been cast in the JOHN HUSTON directed, "THE LAST RUN"... SCOTT will play an underworld mogul in this chase thriller... ROBERT CULP more than holds his own as TONY FRANCIOSA's "NAME OF THE GAME" replacement...

ROBERT E. WISE has been selected to chairman and produce the 43rd ACADEMY AWARDS glitter spectacular... The gala awards showcase will be NBC telecast next April 15th from the Pavilion Music Center in Los Angeles... As fine a production as last year's OSCAR presentation was, the wit and masterful humor of BOB HOPE was sorely missed... As of this writing no master of ceremonies has yet been selected... The un-Oscared HOPE has this column's vote... MICHAEL SARRAZIN and JACQUELINE BISSET will co-star in the anti-drug flic "SPEED IS THE ESSENCE"... The ISRAEL HOROWITZ scenario could prove to be just what the doctor orderedas the anecdote to such pro-drug, "trip flics" as "THE STRAWBERRY STATEMENT"... The plot details the havoc and destruction drugs play on a relationship... SHIRLEY McLAINE's autobiography, "DON'T FALL OFF THE MOUNTAIN", is one of the most revealing of its' type... Tells it like it is, Hollywood style, and with no punches pulled...

Whatever happened to MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE, the 1949 Best Supporting Actress of the Year?... Famed for her earthy portrayal in the BRODERICK CRAWFORD starred, "ALL THE KINGS MEN", Miss McCAMBRIDGE's expertise would be greatly appreciated in this day and age of pretty faced, no-talents... Is SIDNEY POITIER career skidding downhill? The 1963 Best Actor of the Year has proven a box office loser since his 1967 "IN THE HEAT OF THE NIGHT" success... YAKIMA CANUTT is one of the most "decorated" stunt men in the business today... CANUTT received a special Academy Award statuette in 1966 for developing safety devices to protect stunt men...

Four Quincy Residents Aiding 'Charley's Aunt'

Four Quincy residents are involved in production of "Charley's Aunt", to be presented Nov. 19, 20 and 21 at 8:30 p.m. in Cushing Auditorium of Carney Hospital, Dorchester.

This is the 11th annual production of the Carney Hospital Little Theatre Group.

Mary Ilacqua of Quincy is production manager, assisted by Dianna Ricci, also of Quincy. Other "backstage" volunteers include Charlotte Hirsch and Lillian Dias, also of Quincy.

Founded in 1958, the group includes doctors, nurses, dieticians, students, orderlies, technicians, secretaries and other personnel.

Proceeds will go to the Carney Hospital Building Fund, to aid in the three-wing expansion and renovation program now underway.

Tickets at $2. each are available at the hospital with mail orders promptly filled. Those interested should write or call Miss Ilacqua, Carney Hospital, 2100 Dorchester Ave., Boston, Mass. 02124, Telephone 296-4000, Ext. 202.

Quincy Receives $1,700 Grant

A total of $25,000 is available in the Commonwealth for Council on Aging. The Quincy award has been made under the state program of matching grants to local councils on aging. This will make possible continuing the many and varied programs for the Quincy elderly population and will help to finance new and meaningful programs of service, McIntyre said.

The Office of Services to Older Americans in the Department of Community Affairs administers this grant program as well as technical assistance to organizations of elderly people across the Commonwealth.

Teel's Ready By Spring

Re-allocation of $13,000 will enable the city to proceed immediately with completing the conversion of Teel's Pond in North Quincy into an athletic-recreation field.

At the request of Mayor James R. McIntyre, Urban Beautification Coordinator Richard J. Koch is transferring the money originally earmarked for development of Kendall Park, also in North Quincy.

"We are giving Teel's Pond priority for two reasons," Koch said.

"The first is that the field, when completed, will be used by 2,000 North Quincy High School youngsters--both boys and girls.

"The second is that thanks to an agreement with the Duane Company, the city received free the equivalent of $40,000 in demolition materials which filled the pond in just two or three months."

Koch said he hopes the new field will be ready by spring for use.

The $13,00 will go for top soil, grading and other costs to complete the conversion from pond to field.

Koch said that because of a 40 per cent moisture condition in the peat at the pond's bottom, there will be a gradual settlement for the next five to 10 years but that it will not affect using the field.

Soggy-bottom Teel's Pond has posed a danger to children for many years.

'Cheering' For Survival, Inc.

Cheerleaders from the five junior high schools of Quincy will be joined in fund-raising efforts in behalf of Survival, Inc. Thursday at the Quincy-North Quincy football game at Veterans Stadium.

Each will carry a specially designed canister to accept donations from spectators at the big game.

"Whatever is contributed by spectators will be appreciated by Survival, Inc.," says Dr. Ronal G. Rosso, who is serving as coordinator for Survival, Inc.'s programs.

Thoughts Of Many In Vietnam

Family Reunions, Services, Football Thanksgiving Menu

Thanksgiving, 1970 will be observed here with family reunions, special church services, traditional turkey dinner and the Quincy-North Quincy football classic.

But for many Quincy families, thoughts on this holiday will be in Vietnam and other far-away military installations where loved ones are serving their country.

And, on this day of feast, many will remember the hungry with special donations.

The weather outlook appears "good".

Five Quincy Churches will join in Thanksgiving services at two churches tonight.

Wollaston Baptist, Congregational and United Methodist parishioners will attend an 8 p.m. service at Wollaston Methodist Church.

Also, at 7:30 p.m. tonight, members of Salem Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran Churches will gather at Salem Lutheran Church for a service of Thanksgiving and installation of Youth Ministry officers.

Again this year the Christian Service Commission at St. Joseph's Church is sponsoring a food collection at a Thanksgiving Day 8 a.m. mass.

Children will offer their thanks by donating canned goods, coffee, cereal and tea for the needy.

Adult parishioners will contribute funds to be used for the purchase of turkeys, fresh fruit and vegetables for Christmas baskets.

The Salvation Army and Quincy Lodge of Elks are now in the process of preparing Christmas baskets for the needy.

Sportswise, Thanksgiving Day belongs to the schoolboys.

And an estimated 18,000–maybe the biggest crowd in the 38-year series history–are expected to jam Veterans Memorial Stadium Thursday for the Quincy-North Quincy grid classic. Kickoff is 10 a.m.

The Presidents are seeking their first perfect season in the school's history and undisputed claim to the Greater Boston League football crown.

The Raiders from North Quincy, however, have revenge in their hearts–revenge for last year's 53-0 shellacking at the hands of Quincy.

A 19-man police detail will be on hand to handle the traffic and huge crowd.

The game, a traditional appetite whetter, and fun, this year has a special sober note.

Junior high school cheerleaders and city officials will help collect funds to aid Survival, Inc.'s plans for a drug rehabilitation program and center to help local youth win the battle against narcotics.

Latest MBTA Forecast:

3 MBTA Stations Open In July

Revised plans now call for the North Quincy, Wollaston and MBTA stations to be open simultaneously next July.

The three-in-one opening and new target date were confirmed by General Manager Joseph C. Kelly in response to an inquiry by the Quincy Sun.

Main reson for the change in plans, Kelly said, is to prevent major traffic problems in the north end of the city if the North Quincy station opened first.

Simultaneous opening of the three stations would alleviate jams in that part of the city, he said, by distributing more evenly the traffic load.

Kelly said the simultaneously opening has been discussed with Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre and that the latter thought "it was a good idea".

Earlier this month, Kelly had different target dates for putting the Quincy rapid transit line into operation.

During a tour of MBTA facilities here with Quincy business leaders, Kelly said that he expected trains to be running to North Quincy "around next Easter."

He said that if that proved correct, then trains should be running to Quincy Center by November, 1971.

The revised completion schedule would put trains on the tracks to Quincy four months ahead of his earlier prediction.

But it would still be far behind the famed forecast of former General Manager Leo J. Cusick who said in 1968 he would ride the first train into Quincy on Christmas Day, 1969.

Rent Grievance Committee Appointed By McIntyre

A nine-member Rent Grievance Committee has been appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

The committee will hear complaints relative to tenant-landlord grievances, with emphasis on rent increases.

The first meeting is set for Dec. 17 at 3:30 p.m. in the Mayor's office, with a chairman to be selected by the committee.

Members include City Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, Assessor John Comer, Earl MacLeod and James Saunders of the North Quincy Improvement Project Donald Strong, director of the Council on Aging; Edward Melia of the Quincy Citizens Association; Francis McNally, executive with John Hancock Insurance Co.; Mrs. David Coletti, president of the Quincy League of Women Voters; and Mrs. Rebecca Wolf, president of the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens.

Thanksgiving Thoughts

Many, many years ago, our forefathers--the Pilgrims--
Came to this spacious and glorious country,
With a burning desire to seek for Living opportunities in a land of freedom.
In pursuit for such a Cause--they dreamt,
Prayed, struggled and fought for food and survival,
Sacrificing many a life so others could be
Free to finish endeavorments--where others had failed.

Later--with God's help--their Dreams and hopes,
Were answered and fulfilled ... on the
First "gathering of the harvest"--1621--Plymouth powers,
Appointed a day of Thanksgiving to God ...
Then--in the year of Lincoln's Presidency--1864--this Annual festival became a National Holiday.
Today ... Thanksgiving Day ... is still celebrated as of yore.

The present "basics of life" are very much the same
We still have the same yearnings,
As our kin-folks of yesterday,
Dreaming, and hoping for a better way of life:
--By tilling the land--providing us with our daily bread,
...the Staff of Life ...
--By cultivating our minds ... making us productive and creative according to our distinctive talents.
--By observing the Sabbath Day ... to pray and rest.

But--what the world needs today is a revaluation
Of our physical, cultural, and spiritual perspectives.
As human beings, we're in the habit
Of taking such things for granted:
--The world in all its splendor ... sky-birds-sea-sunset-fields-flowers-crops-and pets.
--The wisdom of all ages ... art ... education.
--God's ten commandments ... the ultimatum which is L-O-V-E.

So--my friends--as Thanksgiving "drops in"
This year--1970--let's greet him with Dignity.
Let's all "gather" in one great table feast--
Setting our eyes on the dressed Turkey,
Followed with colorful vegetables and fruits.
But--before we partake in this significant Meal--we must first Unite in Prayer to Praise and thank God ... our silent guest ...
For His bounteous earthly wealth and spiritual riches.
This pious gesture will then tune the Hearts of its Beholders.
Enjoying the "blessed banquet" ... Laughing, Singing and Dancing.
And "in a still moment of reflection" we suddenly become Aware that the Art of Thankfulness should be Uttered ... not for a day ... "but always."

One proud American says:

'Call me square'

[Ed. Note: The following article was written by Mary Coolidge, former Wollaston resident, who is now on the staff of the Tampa [Fla] Times.

In it she expresses the sentiments of many Americans today--the old-fashioned "squares" who seem to be drowned out today by the noisy ones who grab the headlines and hog television and radio time for their "cause".

Mrs. Coolidge's cause is a simple one: patriotism. We think it quite appropriate to reprint her thoughts at this Thanksgiving time.]

I am sick, tired and mad!

I am the kind of an American who loves her country, her flag and her home.

I am the kind of an American who gets a lump in her throat when I hear the "Star-Spangled Banner," who weeps at a parade when the armed forces, all spit and polish, march by; who lets the tears run down her cheeks when the flag is whipped to the top of the flag pole and who completely dissolves at the sound of "Taps".

AND, I am proud of it. If I am called a "square", I consider it an honor and a privilege to be a part of that minority group today.

I have total and complete respect for Jesus, the Internal Revenue and the police, in that order. And, I am not about to change.

I am sick when I see the long-haired, unwashed, bare-footed, slovenly youth, mouth their tirade against honesty, morality and integrity.

I AM sick of listening to them talk about what is wrong with this country, which defends their right to free speech, free assembly and choice of religion.

I am sick of their language as they know all the four-letter words in the book, except work and wash.

I am sick when I hear about youths tearing down the flag, defacing and discarding draft cards, singing dirty lyrics to the tune of the national anthem with no one to stop them, either legally or morally.

I AM tired of the apathetic attitude when American centers are stoned and burned by mobs throughout the world.

I am mad when I think of the lives sacrificed, money poured down the drain and assistance scorned by these same countries when they asked America for help. I am sick of being pointed out as an "ugly American" and pelted with "Yankee, go home"...

I AM sick when I hear a young man rebelling against serving in the armed forces. I am tired of them using flimsy excuses to avoid defending the very freedoms they abuse.

I AM tired of these wars in foreign lands when American blood is spilled for causes unacceptable to the average American. I am tired because I speak from experience. I stood at MacDill Air Force Base and watched my only child fly off in the F4C's to Vietnam. I was crushed, as any mother would be, but not as crushed as I would have been if he was a coward.

I am mad when I see how the college students are using the halls of learning for ... destruction, violence and death. It used to be a challenge and an honor to go to college. Today anyone can get in as long as they have a big mouth and the tuition.

I am sick of hearing that only a small minority of students are the revolutionaries. I am mad when the majority of students haven't got the nerve or the incentive to put into effect, "the majority rule", and put these instigators down, so they can get back to the business of studying.

I AM tired of campuses allowing the student body to be brainwashed by a bunch of civil righters, who are in the business for the money only, because they are against "capitalism" or a decent, honest job.

I am tired of listening to the advocates of the 18-year-old vote saying, "If they can carry a gun they are old enough to vote". That's a lot of hogwash ... you can give a five-year old kid a pistol and he can shoot to kill. Does that mean he is old enough to vote?

They already have the most lethal weapon in the world ... an automobile driver's license!

I am sick when I think of what could be voted into the White House as a result of the 10 million vote block of the 18-year-olders.

I AM tired of supporting, by my tax dollars, families who refuse to work and depend on government or state relief checks. I am sick of "filth peddlers" who would have us believe that the average American approves of obscenity in the movies, nudity on the stage, and garbage in literature.

I am sick of the consumer who will snap up goods marked "Made in Japan" instead of American-made articles. I am tired of the worker who has no pride in his work, who will pass off shoddy merchandise and charge top dollar.

I am just sick and tired of them, that's all.

"NEVER underestimate the power of a woman" is a cliche. But, what a waste of talent. June is designated as the National Flag month. How many flags did you see flying from homes on your street?

According to the latest statistics, there are several million women who are members of the American Federation of Women's Clubs. What if the AFWC adopted a project of having an American Flag flying from every home throughout the land? With the talent of these clubwomen put to such a cause, how could it lose? Providing of course, the American Flags were "made in America".

WITH THE steamroller push of the average clubwoman, it would be a very worthwhile effort. Maybe a little of this kind of patriotism would stiffen up a lot of sagging saffron-colored backbones.

Letters to the Editor

Likes Dr. Knox

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I am enclosing my check to renew for another year, The Quincy Sun Keep up the good work. In my opinion the best part of your fine paper is the article by Dr. Knox. This is your third year. On Dec. 5th, I will be starting my fifth year in your lovely city of Quincy after moving up here from Groton, Conn.

Tobin Issues Traditional Thanksgiving Proclamation

In the absence of Mayor James R. McIntyre, the City of Quincy's traditional Proclamation of Thanksgiving has been issued by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Acting Mayor.

It reads:

WHEREAS, the American tradition of Thanksgiving is a time to pause and to reflect on the blessings that have come to us, and

WHEREAS. Thanksgiving is a recognition of the freedom of religion, the freedom of liberty and justice, and

WHEREAS, qualities of friendship, good will and loyalty must be counted as blessings, and

WHEREAS, it is a day for all of us to be gathered to pay thanks to God, to be kind to our fellowmen, to enjoy family ties, and

WHEREAS, we as Americans stand together in assisting where we can in a most troubled world, and

WHEREAS, we are conscious of the troubles and problems of our nation,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED:

THAT we choose this time to express our sincere thanks for the good life and so together we may enjoy the fruits of this Thanksgiving Day.

Now, therefore, I, Arthur H. Tobin, Acting Mayor of the City of Quincy, extend to the citizens of the City of Quincy a most enjoyable Thanksgiving Day.

Ecology Program Nov. 30 At Adams Shore Branch Library

Ecology Action Center of Cambridge will provide a program for young adults Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

An independent volunteer organization, the Center works in an advisory capacity to help individuals and groups, provides speakers to discuss current problems, and works with other conservation groups to help improve the environment.

A discussion will follow the program, which is open to all young adults without charge. Miss Betty Santangelo, reference librarian, has charge of arrangements.

Five Junior High Students On TV Sunday

Five Quincy junior high school students are being "taped" for appearance on a children's talk program on Sunday morning over WBZ-TV.

Appearing on the Wendell Davis production will be Lisa Lee from Atlantic Junior High School; Lisa Rizzo, Broad Meadows; Dana Cetlin, Central; Paul Nigro, Quincy Point and Terri Ahearn, Sterling.

QUINCY SUN Christmas List

Overseas Servicemen List Now At 46

Four additional servicemen serving in the Southeast Asia area have been added to the Quincy Sun's list of names and addresses, bringing to 46 the total number on the Christmas list.

This list is being compiled at the request of readers so that they may remember them at Christmas with cards, letters or gifts. Names of all servicemen submitted have also been turned over to William L. Villone, Director of Veterans Services, who has charge of packaging "Christmas in Vietnam" gifts from Quincy city employees.

New names are those of:

Robert Baron Has Bar Mitzvah

Robert Donald Baron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin D. Baron of 180 Squanto Rd., Merrymount, celebrated his Bar Mitzvah on Saturday.

He is the grandson of Mrs. William Lowenthal of Quincy.

Ceremonies were held at Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St., with Rabbi David Jacobs officiating and Morris Semigran as cantor. A luncheon followed at the Temple, and an open house was held that evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baron.

Robert is an eighth grade student at Central Junior High School where he is a violinist in the school orchestra. He also plays piano.

Quincy Women In Goodwill Presidents' Day

Two Quincy women are among 13 South Shore club leaders invited to participate in the 65th annual President's Day program of the Goodwill Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial on Dec. 11 at 1:15 p.m. at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, 95 Berkeley St., Boston.

They are Mrs. Anthony Losordo, President of Quincy Woman's Club; Mrs. Richard D. Schiavo, President of both the Quincy Federation of Women's Organizations and the Wollaston Women's Club.

Special "100-hour" awards will be presented Goodwill Auxiliary volunteers who have completed more than 100 hours of service.

A half-hour film, "Breaking the Barriers," emphasizing the need for eliminating architectural hindrances in all public buildings so that handicapped people may have easier access, will be presented.

Mrs. Byron E. Churchill will preside.

Give Thanks

By Margaret DeAngelo

Be thankful for your health today,
Your family and your home.
For all of your possessions and,
That you are not alone.

Be thankful for your waking hours,
And a place to lay your head.
The chance to earn a living,
And bring home the daily bread.

Be mindful of misfortune,
That befalls a fellow man,
Let not your heart misjudge him,
But help him if you can.

Let God know you mean it
When you take the time to pray.
You'll find a life worth living-
When tomorrow is today.

Only Us

By Vince Puleo

We loved,
frolicked,
danced,
in the blurred nightmare
of this nuclear age.
And then
We understood, that the steel and concrete road hell is paved with good intentions.

Thanksgiving Day, 1970

Thanksgiving Day, in this our land,
Blest as it is in untold wealth,
There will be cupboards that are bare,
There will be tables without bread.

There will be children, starved and cold,
Elders anxious and distraught,
Parents begging for the means
To be delivered from their cross.

And all the Thanks that we might pray,
And all the praise we raise on high,
Will be a farce, a sham, a fake,
To which the poor shall testify,
Which naught but justice can redeem,
That naught but love can rectify.

Stitch A Sampler

Holiday decorations that mean the most are the ones made by a member of the family or a friend. Used year after year, they become a part of the traditional observance of the Christmas season.

One that will add to your own decorations or make a handsome gift is a holiday needlework sampler.

Samplers have a history dating back to Colonial days, and mention of them can even be found in wills and literature of the early 1500's. They were originally done by young girls learning to sew. They made them for practice or to show their skill.

The holiday sampler above, an original design by Coats & Clark, is worked on cotton monk's cloth with six-strand cotton embroidery floss. The design calls for nine basic embroidery stitches, and the finished size of the sampler is 15 by 19¼". Easy for beginners, it's an inexpensive but rewarding project for holiday needlework.

Free pattern for the sampler can be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to the National Cotton Council, Dept. PR, P. O. Box 12285, Memphis, Tennessee.

Sandwiches Star In Menu Fare

Almost anything you can spread or slice can be made into a sandwich. It can be as nourishing and flavorful as you wish. And what better way to insure both nourishment and flavor than with a sandwich rich with cheese grilled in an herbed or spiced butter?

Cheese by its very nature is a high-protein food . . . it takes about 10 pounds of milk to produce just 1 pound of cheese. That's what makes Curried Swiss and Ham Sandwiches nourishing!

Curried Swiss and Ham Sandwiches make tasty luncheon entrees, and yet are perfect for teen-age snacks and unexpected guests, too. The ingredients are those that you normally have on hand, and the sandwiches are so easy to make. To round out a luncheon menu serve mugs of chocolate milk and a fruit pudding and butter cookies for dessert.

Curried Swiss And Ham Sandwich

⅓ cup soft butter
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
8 slices day old white bread
8 slices (3½x3½x⅛-inch) Swiss cheese (½ lb.)
¼ pound sliced cooked ham or chicken

Combine butter and curry powder. Spread ½ tablespoon salad dressing or mayonnaise evenly over one side of the 8 bread slices. On 4 slices of bread place a cheese slice, ¼ of the ham or chicken, a second cheese slice and a bread slice, salad dressing side down. Press sandwiches together firmly. Spread bread on both sides of each sandwich with an equal amount of curry butter. Brown sandwiches on both sides on a moderately hot grill or in fry pan over moderate heat, turning sandwiches when a golden brown; brown second side. Serve immediately. Makes 4 sandwiches or 4 servings.

Week of Nov. 27 - Dec. 4

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Your relationship with others has been under a strain lately but this is due to improve by the end of the week.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Your public image is much improved by the end of the week as others have a change of feeling. Partnership matters become easier.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Your application of a little creative know-how can make working matters a lot easier for you toward the end of the week.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Romance is in the air for you and some of you will be receiving [or giving] an engagement ring as pre Christmas gift.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - The rest of your redecorating plans are beginning to take shape and you can finish the projects that you put off before.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Perhaps you've been only window shopping lately, wondering where the money is coming from for Christmas. Next week brings answer.

LIBRA [Sept. 22-Oct. 22] - As with Virgo, window shopping turns into actual purchases as the extra money, that was held back, augments budget.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - You can be experiencing one of the most difficult years of your life - learn to understand yourself and happiness comes naturally.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - This can be an important time for those of you with birthdays this week. Keep your changed feelings to yourself for awhile.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - A very special or unusual friend assumes added importance to you this week and can smooth the way for success.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - It has been difficult to know where you stand with other people lately, especially as concerns reputation. Situation about to clear.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Your relationship with the boss is much improved shortly as ruffled feelings are smoothed. Travel arrangements can then be made.

It's In To Be Thin
By Lois L. Lindauer
Director, The Diet Workshop

Are you a cookbook collector?

If you are, chances are you are fat. Most of the collectors I know are. Of course they cook too, not to mention their own treats.

I guess one of the most important long range pieces of advice I can give you if you wish to be slender is you have to learn how to live thin.

Translation–there are many rewards in life other than those which revolve around the pleasures of the kitchen. The pleasure of seeing the pride in your appearance reflected in the eyes of your loved ones, the pleasure of utilizing your body as a doing, active vehicle instead of as a repository for all the food in sight, the pleasure of knowing you have conquered that problem which hangs like a sword over too many of us are but a few examples.

Don't throw away your cookbooks, but don't pore over the reviews looking for new ones to titilate your appetite. Revitalize your zest for living by teaching yourself to cook a new way–with balanced nutritious meals which taste good too.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

'Christmas For Others' NU Chapter Theme

"Christmas For Others" will be the purpose of activity following the Dec. 2 supper meeting of Nu Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society, at Hollis School in Braintree.

Miss Maude Wheeler of Quincy will preside at the business meeting of the local chapter of the international honorary organization for women educators.

Instead of a customary gift exchange among members, work will center on a service project for Long Island Hospital patients. Useful articles will be decorated for distribution. Each member will bring a gift for a woman patient, along with five holiday cards and stamped envelopes for the patient's use. These, along with magazine and other reading material, will be brought by a group from the Chapter to the Hospital.

Miss Ruth Fox and Miss Edyth MacBeth will be hostesses for the evening.

Miss Wheeler and other Chapter members attended a recent area meeting of the Society at the King Philip in Wrentham.

"Values in Action" was the theme of the meeting which included a media approach demonstration by Miss Mary Dooley of Rho Chapter, and a talk by Miss Basilla Neilan, director of the Cambridge, Mass. Youth Project.

Miss Neilan has served on the President's Commission on Youth and has twice been named an Ellen Lyman Cabot Fellow for Humanitarian Services.

Christmas Fair Theme At Atlantic Methodist

Snow-Time is the theme of the Atlantic United Methodist Church Christmas Fair on Dec. 4.

The fair will be held in the church hall at 50 East Squantum St., North Quincy, opening at 10 a.m. under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Lawson, general chairman.

On sale at the various tables will be knit wear for adults and children, aprons and other hand sewn items, flower arrangements, jewelry, Christmas decorations and candles, along with home baked bread, pastry and candy.

Mrs. James Morrison will be chairman for a fish chowder luncheon to be served from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

Special features in the afternoon will include games and stories for children. A nursery will be open from 3 to 5 p.m. Girl Scout Troop 189 will serve tea and pastries beginning at 3 p.m.

Closing event of the fair will be a 6:30 p.m. roast beef supper with Mrs. Albert Church, chairman. Reservations, with special prizes for adults and children, should be made in advance with Mrs. Lawson, Tel. 479-5828.

Reservations may be made also with Circle chairman, Mrs. Florence Dodd, Mrs. Eugene Bannister, Mrs. Carl Paulson, Mrs. Genevieve Omar and Mrs. Donald Nogueira.

Mrs. Kenneth Donovan is in charge of decorations for the fair, assisted by Mrs. David Church, Mrs. Horton Devers and Mrs. Jean Mahoney. Members of the Circles will alternate as workers at the various tables. Mrs. Bertram Millham is in charge of tickets.

'The Baby Arrives' LaLeche Topic Dec. 1

LeLeche League of Quincy will hold a discussion on "The Baby Arrives – The Family and the Breastfed Baby" Dec. 1 at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ronald Johnson of 28 Hilltop St., West Quincy.

Mrs. Donald Wilkinson of 17 Dale Ave., will be moderator. Interested women are invited.

United Thanksgiving Services Tonight For Five Quincy Churches

Five Quincy churches will combine in services at two locations, in joint worship services of Thanksgiving tonight.

Congregations of the Wollaston Congregational Church, First Baptist Church of Wollaston and Wollaston United Methodist Church will hold a union service of Thanksgiving at 8 p.m. at the Wollaston United Methodist Church on Beale St.

Rev. Lloyd Martin, pastor of Wollaston Congregational Church, will have as his topic, "The Happy Heart".

Rev. Ronald W. Ober of the host church will conduct the worship service, assisted by Rev. Charles McEachern of Wollaston Baptist Church.

Salem Lutheran Church and Trinity Lutheran Church will hold joint Thanksgiving services at 7:30 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St.

Pastors Rev. Bertil E. Hult and Rev. James L. Kimmell will participate in the worship services, with Rev. Kimmell preaching.

There will be an installation of officers of the newly formed Youth Ministry, a joint organization of both churches supplanting the former Luther League.

"Prayer of Thanksgiving" will be sung by the Salem Church choir accompanied by Mrs. Ethel Berg, minister of music. William Tuori, soloist, of Trinity Lutheran Church will sing "Just A Closer Walk".

Retirement Reception Dec. 6 For Mr., Mrs. Edward Whittredge

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

A retirement reception for Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Whittredge will be held by Wollaston Congregational Church on Dec. 6 from 4 to 6 p.m. in the church social hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittredge retired this fall. "Ted" Whittredge was organist and choir director of the Senior and Junior choirs for 34 years. "Peggy" Whittredge was a choir member and director of the Bluebird Choir.

As a lasting tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Whittredge for their "inspiring musical leadership over so many years," church members are hoping to have published Mr. Whittredge's "91st Psalm Cantata." The cantata, in its unpublished form, has been sung several times by the Wollaston Congregational Church choirs, and also in a program with choirs of other Quincy churches.

That evening there will be a token gift presented by Rev. Lloyd Martin, minister.

Also attending and speaking will be Rev. Stuart Haskins, former minister who was instrumental in securing the services of the organist-choir director and his wife 34 years ago.

Mr. Whittredge, has been a church organist for some 52 years, playing at Christ Church, before going to Wollaston Congregational Church. During those years, he was reported to have missed only two Sundays–because of illness.

During the evening, Mr. Whittredge will introduce Donald Reade of Braintree, new organist and choir director who will succeed him at the church. He assumes his position on Sunday [Nov. 29].

Mrs. Laban H. Whittaker is reception chairman, with Harold Hodges in charge of program arrangements.

Donald Reade To Succeed Whittredge

Donald Reade, new organist and choir director at Wollaston Congregational Church, will assume his position Sunday. He succeeds Edward B. Whittredge, who recently retired after 34 years in the position.

Mr. Reade is a graduate of Hingham High School and received his degree from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. in 1963. For the past six years he has been an English teacher and drama coach at Cohasset High School.

He has studied piano and organ with Walter Dodd of Brockton, Winslow Chamberlain of Whitman and W. Richard Smith of Hingham, and was organist at Whitman Methodist Church. For the past three years he has been organist and choir director at Winthrop Congregational Church, Holbrook.

Mr. Reade, also a voice student, has been soloist at Cohasset Second Congregational Church, Scituate First Parish Unitarian, Hingham Methodist Church, and with the Hingham Civic Chorus, Holbrook Community Chorus and the Dickinson College Opera Workshop.

Union Advent Service Sunday At Salem Lutheran Church

Salem Lutheran Church, Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, Covenant Congregational Church and the Salvation Army will hold a union Advent Service on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St.

Rev. Riley Shirley, new pastor at Quincy Centre UM Church, will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "Look Where You Are Going".

Rev. Bertil Hult, pastor of Salem Lutheran Church, will lead devotions. Rev. Paul Sparrman will represent Covenant Congregational Church, and Capt. William Bessant, the Salvation Army.

Music, with Mrs. Ethel Berg, organist, will include "Lift Up Your Heads", by Hopkins and "What Child Is This?"

Mayor Proclaims Bible Week

Mayor James R. McIntyre has proclaimed this week Nov. 22 - 29 as Bible Week, launching Worldwide Bible Reading from Thanksgiving to Christmas in Quincy.

The Mayor urged "all men, women and children of all faiths to observe the week by reading the Scriptures and setting up a plan of regular examination of the Foundation Book of the Judeo-Christian heritage."

In his official proclamation, Mayor McIntyre pointed to the ignorance about the Bible and the lessons it has for modern man and his problems. He added that new translations and new guides to Bible study provide fresh readability and help for people of all ages, races and creeds.

"It is imperative for modern man, confused and perplexed by rapid technological and social changes to understand the roots of his moral and spiritual belief-system," he said.

Edwards Discusses Pilgrims

Quincy Historian William C. Edwards spoke on "The God-Fearing Pilgrims and Thanksgiving 1970" at Sunday's session of the Golden Rule Bible Class in Senior Citizens Hall, Quincy.

Miss Norma MacLeod, soloist, dedicated a Thanksgiving hymn to Mr. Edwards, who is a direct descendant of one of the Pilgrims and a member of the Plymouth 350th Anniversary committee.

Communion Service Thursday At St. Chrysostom's Church

St. Chrysostom's Church, Hancock and Linden Sts., Wollaston, will have a Thanksgiving Day 7 a.m. service of Holy Communion, followed by a breakfast.

This is considered a "pre-game special" with music, celebration and fellowship. A free-will offering will be asked to cover breakfast costs. The entire program will be completed by 8:30 a.m.

Christ Church Communion Service On Thanksgiving

Christ Church will hold a Service of Holy Communion on Thanksgiving Day at 8 a.m. with music by the Girls' Choir.

Donations of non-perishable canned goods [vegetables, fruits etc.] may be brought to the Church on Thanksgiving Day. Gifts will be taken to the Home for Little Wanderers in Boston.

Anthony Colucci Honored At Dinner

Anthony Colucci, retiring director of training at General Dynamics, Quincy Shipbuilding Division, was honored recently at a dinner at Morrisette Post.

Among the 250 persons attending were graduates of the Apprentice School, relatives and friends.

Mr. Colucci for 31 years was director of training for Bethlehem Steel Corp., and since its transfer to General Dynamics, has served in the same position for six years.

Henry Stupinski of General Dynamics Industrial Relations Department, master of ceremonies, presented a "This Is Your Life" program, recalling Mr. Colucci's student years at Lake Forest, Ill. Academy, and at Holy Cross College.

At Holy Cross, Mr. Colucci was named in 1931 to "All America" in football as a member of the "Grand Opera" ends. A surprise guest was James Cavalieri of Beverly, the other "end" of the partnership.

Head table guests included also Col. and Mrs. Herbert Kay and Mr. Stupinski of General Dynamics; the Colucci daughters, Mrs. M. Joseph Gonsalves, Jr. and Miss Peggy Sue Colucci; Mr. Gonsalves and Richard Paradise, Miss Colucci's escort; Mario DiBona, president Bethlehem Steel Graduate Apprentice Association and committee chairman for the event.

Fred Stobart, new supervisor of apprenticeship; Richard DiRamio, his assistant; Nelson Broce of General Dynamics, who gave the invocation and led a pledge of allegiance.

Gifts were presented to both Mr. and Mrs. Colucci, and there were letters from former Gov. John Volpe, Congressman James A. Burke and Senator Edward W. Brooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Colucci have been residents at 21 Hilltop St., West Quincy, for 27 years.

HONORED--Anthony Colucci [fourth left] retiring director of training at General Dynamics, was honored by 250 persons at a dinner at Morrisette Post. With him are Henry Stupinski, master of ceremonies, Mario DiBona, chairman of the event; Mrs. Colucci and Mrs. M. Joseph Gonsalves, Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colucci. Camping

One night in May of 1969, I went with the girl scouts to camp in a forest. When we arrived, it was pouring.

Six girls, including myself were in the tent. Diane Congdon, Susan Pacetti, Anne McClelland, Barbara Rudolph, Vicky Roman, and I. We hung our flashlights on the inside of the tent. We were all on our cots singing and laughing.

Suddenly everybody stopped! Diane said, "I hear a noise." Everybody thought she was talking about the thunder. Suddenly a loud scratching noise at the side of the tent. Everybody started screaming, "It's a bear, it's a bear." For the rest of the night we kept the tent ties knotted.

The next morning we went to see if there were scratch marks on the tent. And do you know what we found out? All of the time it had been a tree!

One night I was over my cousin's. It was about ten o'clock. The moon was full and an erie feeling was about. Hardly anybody had their lights on. My aunt and uncle had gone to a friends. Just us five were home. There wasn't any thing to do so we went out. We were outside sitting down when suddenly something swooped down. We thought it was some boys playing a trick. Suddenly it swooped down again. This time we saw what it was. It was a bat so I headed for the house.

Furnace Brook Youngsters Star In First Thanksgiving

The first Thanksgiving in play form was presented this morning at Furnace Brook School by first grade pupils of Miss Leslie Berger. Attending were parents and students of other primary grades.

The play was directed by Miss Arlene Lapon, student-teacher, a senior at Perry Normal School of Boston.

In the role of Pilgrims were Susan Ranahan, Patricia Scanlan, Deborah Hirtle, Jacqueline Kennedy, Suzanne Meighan, Kimberly Sheets, Joseph Paccioretti, Michael Rosenblatt, Dominic Carlow and John Hogan.

Indians included Heather Grant, Tracy Stockwell, Lisa Barry, Marilyn Dulkis, Donna Carlson, Donna White, Charles Federico, Robert Hiltunen, David Swan and Neal Fisher.

Original Thanksgiving Production At Central

Classroom activities, football, hippies and the turkey's point of view were all combined today in an original production by seventh grade students at Central Junior High School for their Thanksgiving observance.

Miss Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor, was coordinator for the presentation which consisted of slides, skits, Thanksgiving selections by the Chapel Choir, and a song, "The Desperate Ones" by Diane Dunn.

Speaking parts were taken by Timothy Wetmore, Joseph Long, Eric Bergstrom, Steven Whelton, Steven Gutro, Denise Richards and Betsy Shaw.

Russell Belanger, Anthony Poole, Glenn Davis and John Brown, football players; Michael Sorkin, Heather Forbush and Deborah Flate, hippies; Deborah O'Leary, Mark Frazier and Ann Fornaro, turkeys.

Mickey Mouse Honorary Marshal

ROYAL CARRIAGE – Princess Robyn Harold, 7, and Prince Billy Mallard, 9, are shown in full regalia at front of old fashioned trolley car, one of the many floats which will be seen in the South Shore Christmas Festival Parade on Sunday.

More than 250,000 kids of all ages are expected to turn out Sunday for the 19th annual Santa Claus Parade sponsored by the South Shore Christmas Festival.

Theme of this year's parade is "Christmas In Disneyland" and Mickey Mouse himself will be on hand as honorary parade marshall.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. in the Ross Parkingway, move down School St., turn onto Hancock St. pass City Hall, the Health Center, the Armory, Veterans Stadium to Beale St., turn down Beale St., turn left on Clay St. and disband in the Clay St. Parking Area.

The reviewing stand will be in front of the Hancock Bank on Beale St., Wollaston.

Appearing with Mickey Mouse will be his friends, Minnie Mouse, Goofy and Donald Duck.

Children's television celebrities appearing in the parade on behalf of the Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots campaign in Greater Boston will again include Miss Jean [Channel 5], Willie Whistle [Channel 38] and Bunker Hill [Channel 56].

Collection boxes for "Toys for Tots" will be set up at Sears, Roebuck & Co., 1591 Hancock St.; Child World, 1475 Hancock St.; Quincy City Hall; Veterans Memorial Stadium and the Reviewing stand at Hancock Bank & Trust in Wollaston.

Children attending the Christmas Parade are urged to bring a new toy for the Toys for Tots program.

The Festival Prince and Princess, nominal King and Queen of the Parade, will ride on the Fantasyland Float sponsored by Remick's.

Other features include

* Disneyland Floats by 25 clubs and organizations.
* Ten business-sponsored Disneyland Floats.
* Twenty-eight bands and musical units.
* Ten marching and twirling units.
* Three hundred or more Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts marching.

Santa Claus will ride in a special movable workshop accompanied by Winnie the Poo, sponsored by Sear's Roebuck & Company.

Other civic-minded businesses sponsoring seven floats in addition to Remick's are; Adventureland, Capitol Supermarkets; Frontierland by Turnstyle-Star Market-Grossman's; New Orleans Square, Main St., U.S.A., and Tomorrow Land.

The special $1,000 cash prize offered by South Shore National Bank for the best overall float sponsored by a non-profit club or organization has stimulated greater interest and 25 groups are expected to enter the competition.

Judging for floats will take place at noon prior to the Parade in the Turnstyle parking area in the following categories

* Grand Prize [Best overall float] - South Shore National Bank Trophy and $1,000 cash.
* Best Theme - Chamber of Commerce Trophy.
* Most Original - Festival Committee Trophy.
* Best use of materials and color - Grand Marshall's Trophy.
* Outstanding Participation by a Quincy organization - Mayor James R. McIntyre Trophy.

New Shipbuilding Committee Considered By McIntyre

Labor, business and industry will be included in a Shipbuilding Committee being considered by Mayor James R. McIntyre to combat effects of the present economy in Quincy.

"We are facing a dire economic situation which could adversely affect the shipbuilding industry in Quincy," McIntyre said. "Several years ago, the shipbuilding committee was active on a local level and much success resulted when this Committee visited Washington to discuss shipbuilding with the legislative delegation from Massachusetts."

McIntyre has invited six men to meet with him at his office Dec. 14 at 10 a.m. to discuss the problem.

They include:

Anthony Svizzero, Charles Johnston, Joseph Sullivan and James Arthur, representing various labor unions; Lloyd Bergeson, general manager of General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division, and William A. O'Connell, executive vice president Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Pledges Exceed ENC's $250,000 Campaign Goal

Pledges for Eastern Nazarene College '70 Capital Gifts campaign have exceeded the goal of $250,000, according to Robert J. Shoff, Director of Development.

"This is the largest one year campaign goal in the history of the college," wires Mr. Shoff.

He added that the College is having one of the best years in its history in all other areas.

Acting Mayor Tobin To Perform Pleasant Duties

City Council President Arthur Tobin will perform two pleasant duties while serving as acting mayor during the next few days.

On Thursday he will participate with the Quincy and North Quincy High School Queens in half-time ceremonies at the annual Thanksgiving Day game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

And on next Sunday he will help lead the annual Santa Claus Parade.

Rotary Club To Hear Tea Taster Dec. 15

Details of a little-known occupation which shows no signs of yielding to automation will be outlined to members of the Quincy Rotary Club Dec. 15, at Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Guest speaker will be Kenneth Rapieff, tea taster from the Tea Council of the U.S.A.

Tea tasting is a highly specialized job. It is estimated there are probably no more than 60 qualified tea tasters in the U.S., tasting teas that come into this country and blending, from over 2,000 varieties, those that produce the special flavors the public prefers.

In addition to his tea tasting activities, Rapieff has lectured widely and has, in the past, served as special events reporter for the Yankee Network in Boston and announcer at NBC in New York

Camera Club Competition Dec. 1

The South Shore Camera Club will have a regular competition on Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. at 65 Newbury Ave., Atlantic.

Color, black and white, portrait and nature pictures will be presented in a pre-judged program. All pictures will be commented on by a local International Exhibitor.

The public is invited.

New Hancock Bank Main Office Dedicated

An historic flag raising ceremony, using a flag that flew over the U. S. Capitol, marked the Sunday afternoon dedication of Hancock Bank's new four-story home office in downtown Quincy.

Congressman James A. Burke presented bank president William E. Kelley with the flag and a letter from the Capitol architect stating that the flag was flown over the Capitol in anticipation of the dedication of the new Hancock Bank home office, Quincy.

At the presentation Mr. Kelley hoisted the flag aloft on the new 35 foot flagpole recently installed on the plaza of the bank at the Ross Parkingway entrance. The Sir Thomas More Championship Drum & Bugle Corps of Braintree played the National Anthem and supplied pops and martial music for the remainder of the afternoon.

Among the dignitaries participating in the ceremony were Acting Mayor and State Representative Arthur H. Tobin and State Representative William A. Connell, Weymouth; who is chairman of the Mass. House of Representatives Committee on Banks and Banking.

Also, City Treasurer David R. Houston; City Clerk John Gillis and City Auditor Alexander Smith. Also present were the City Board of Assessors - Chairman William C. Callahan with Elmer K. Fagerlund and Alfred L. Fontana.

The bank's new headquarters at 1495 Hancock St., downtown Quincy, presents many striking architectural innovations combined with the skillful use of interior and exterior color combinations and materials. Architects were: Bank Building Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.; the prime contractor was Clark and Smith Construction Co. of Quincy.

FLAG-RAISING--Sir Thomas More Drum and Bugle Corps provides background music for the raising of a flag that flew over the U.S. Capitol at the dedication of Hancock Bank's new four-story home office on Hancock St., in downtown Quincy. [Miller Studio]

Hancock Bank's design is unique with its dual front entrances: one at 1495 Hancock St., the other on the opposite end of the building facing Ross Parkingway. Both fronts feature a series of elongated arches extending beyond the roof of the building. These arches frame translucent glass that filters the sun's rays while admitting complete daylight to the exterior. Viewed from the outside the glass resembles a mirror.

Hancock Bank has 13 offices. The 14th is under construction on Southern Artery at McGrath Highway, Quincy, for an early January 1971 opening. Hancock Bank resulted from the merger of Quincy Trust Co. and the Dedham Trust Co. on December 31, 1967.

In less than three years the merged banks have experienced asset growth from $50 million to $70 million.

Children's Book Week Closes With Thanksgiving Theme At A. S.

Children's Book Week at Adams Shore Branch Library closed with a performance by the Sing-Along and Drama groups on a Thanksgiving theme.

An Indian War dance, in costume and to recorded music, was followed by recitation of a poem, "Thanksgiving All Year 'Round" by Laura Darrow and Susan Jenkins, and a reading by Mrs. Blanche Eckert, children's librarian.

"Dreams of Thanksgiving Eve", a play with costumes made by parents of children participating and Mrs. Eckert, and Thanksgiving songs sung under direction of Miss Linda Clayworth, junior assistant, concluded the program.

Taking part were Kathleen, Kimberley and Susan Bouffard, Laura Darrow, Susan Jankins, Ann Marie and Deborah Nigro, Patricia and Mary Ann Murray and Jacqueline Pearson.

Rehearsals start Dec. 5 at 1 p.m. for a Christmas program. Children interested may register at that time.

Teenagers 'Smash Hit' In St. Joseph's CYO Show

"HELLO, DOLLY" -- One of the hits of St. Joseph's CYO variety show was this dance line struttting to "Hello Dolly". Lineup included Maureen Hurley, Karen Higgins, Deidra Irving, Diane Maguire, Patty Thibodeau, Mary Grant, Debbie Leahy, Joanne Corvi, Diane Chiaramonte, Pamela Lomano, Julie Trubiano and Lorraine Hajjar.

"Rest O' Lot", annual variety show of St. Joseph's Catholic Youth Organization, was a "smash hit" at the Lincoln Theatre.

The Original production written and directed by Richard M. Gilmore had its locale in a home for "swinging" senior citizens, with roles played by some 70 teenagers.

Anthony Trubiano was master of ceremonies, while music was provided by Terry Dunn and Frank D'Alessandro. Choreography was through courtesy of Art Linkletter Young World Dance Studio, Bette Campbell, director.

Appearing as a surprise soloist was Rev. Charles Hogan, deacon assigned to St. Joseph's, who will be ordained to the priesthood in May. His baritone renditions brought demands for "more".

The show was also a reunion for Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, retired pastor, and Rev. Dennis Dever, former curate, who attended the performance. Fr. Dever is now a missionary for St. James Society in Ecuador.

Rev. Robert D. Tyrrell is spiritual director for St. Joseph's CYO.

Deidre Irvine, Debbie Isaac, Paul Johnston, Debbie Leahy, Pamela Lomanno, Mary Lyons, Diane Maguire, Sandy Maguire, Joe Marani, Bob Marusa, Mary McCauley, Ann Marie McLaughlin, Gayle McLaughlin, Mike McLaughlin, Karen McLean.

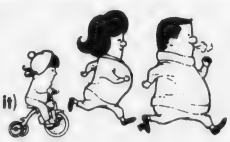
The program booklet was prepared by Catherine Williams, Frank Cosgrove, Ray Dunn, Grace Giunchiglia, Kathie Erickson, Cathy Trubiano, Paul DiFazio, Joanne Falzone, Mike Connolly, Beth Hanratty, John Stevens, Lorraine Hajjar, P. Gangi, Frank D'Allessandro and Lee Gilmore.

The stage crew included Frank Brillo, John Lyons, Bob McBride, Ray Dunn, Jr., Joe Goguen and Eddie Amoroso. Irene Mohr had charge of tickets.



SONGSTRESS -- Susan Hajjar sings "Going Out of My Head" at St. Joseph's CYO Variety show, "Rest O Lot" held at the Lincoln Theatre, Quincy Point.

REFLECTION CAN SAVE LIFE

Of our present annual pedestrian traffic deaths, over 54 percent occur at night - despite the fact that the numbers of pedestrians and cars are far fewer than in the daytime. Last year, almost 2,000 of these fatalities were children.

The reason is simple. Human beings, unlike some members of the animal kingdom, cannot see well at night.

Fortunately - an effective, practical and inexpensive way has been found to light up pedestrians at night. It is known as reflective tape.

It allows pedestrians to glow brightly at over 600 feet, twice the normal range of auto headlights. Even at 70 mph, a vehicle can be stopped with a 600 foot warning.

There is no problem in having reflective tape made a part of a person's clothing, bicycle, or even Rover's dog collar. In fact, one of the new iron-on tapes will stay in place through launderings for the lifetime of most garments. It's certainly a simple way to prevent a needless tragedy..

Quincy doesn't need any incentive when it meets North Quincy in any sport but there are several reasons why the Presidents want to beat the Raiders on the holiday.

If the high-powered Quincy football team wins the annual 10 a.m. classic at Veterans Memorial Stadium, it will not only be the third straight win over their cross-town rivals, but it will give the school its first perfect season ever and sole possession of the Greater Boston League championship. It will also extend its winning streak to 12 straight going back to last year.

"I never have to get these kids up for North and they are really fired up this year," Coach Hank Conroy said. "They want to be the first ever to have a perfect record here and also want that league title. Last year we had to share it with Malden and this year the boys want it all by themselves."

Conroy found out this past week that Wayne Richards has mononucleosis and will definitely be unable to play in the Quincy-North Quincy game Thanksgiving Day. This is clearly a severe blow to Quincy.

It will take four boys to fill Richards' shoes. Dennis Waters will go in as fullback, with Jimmy Walker and Joe Goguen splitting the plays with Waters.

Richards, probably one of the best punters in the Greater Boston area, will be replaced by Bob Bosader who will do the punting.

Conroy plans no surprises for the strong Raiders.

"We have had fine success this year so why change anything?" he asked.

There will be one change from games of recent weeks. Steve McCarthy, one of the finest running backs in the league, will be back at halfback after missing the last four games and most of a fifth.

Steve broke a bone in his leg early in the Malden game, the same game in which Bobby Malvesti suffered a broken ankle.

McCarthy returned to practice two weeks ago but didn't start working out in pads until last week. He was given the green light by the doctor and will start.

The loss of McCarthy, Malvesti and several other players during the season wasn't felt as much as feared, thanks to the showings of several other backs.

John Provost has been brilliant in recent games. He scored four touchdowns against Chelsea and followed up with two more plus 200 yards rushing against Medford. He has developed into one of the finest runners in the league and with McCarthy and Dennis Waters in the starting backfield with him, the North defense will be put to a severe test.

Richards also has been sensational with his punting, running, blocking and defensive play.

Steve Sullivan will be starting his last game at quarterback and he has done a terrific job all year long. His passes, with Ends Rich Menchi and Billy Maver as prime targets, has been great and his ball handling excellent.

The starting line on the holiday will have Menchi and Maver at end, Dave Omar and Jim Bucchianeri tackles, Bob Sylva and Bob Gallo guards and Ron Smith center. All are seniors except Smith, an outstanding sophomore. A year ago McCarthy started as a sophomore.

On defense the starters will be Maver, Menchi, Bob Conti, Joe Russo, Waters and Jon Milkowski in the line, Sylva and Bobby McDermott linebackers and Walker, Provost and Waters as deep men..

"We expect plenty of trouble with North [a 53-0 loser last year] and our scouts, Dave Burke and Jack Raymer, have watched them several times and have been impressed with their improvement," Conroy said. "After all, they are only three points away from a perfect season. It should definitely be our toughest game of the year."

Conroy paid tribute to his assistant coaches, Bud Mosher, Gene Macomber, John Bogan, Burke and Raymer, a Quincy Junior College student who assists Burke with coaching the sophomores and scouting.

Win Would Give Quincy First Perfect Record In History

Quincy Coach Hank Conroy has a lot of reasons to want a win over North on the holiday morning.

Not only will a victory for the Presidents give the school its first perfect season ever and also give Quincy the Greater Boston League championship by itself, but Conroy was associated with three former Quincy teams which just missed unbeaten seasons.

According to available records, Quincy's last undefeated football season was way back in 1905 and that team had three ties to go along with five wins.

The 1916 team had an 8-1 record, while the 1942 club was 6-1-1, the 1964 teams 7-1-1.

Conroy was the starting right halfback on the 1942 team, made his head coaching bow at Quincy with the 1964 team and, of course, coached last year's classy team.

"I've had several near misses as far as unbeaten seasons are concerned and it would be nice to win this one for a perfect record," the coach admitted. "But, it is for the boys' sake, not mine, that I am hoping for a win. They certainly deserve it."

The coach of that 1942 team, incidentally, was the late Munroe MacLean and a 7-0 win over Weymouth was especially pleasing to Mack, Hank and the other players.

Weymouth had an unbeaten streak of 29 games going into that game and Hank was their hero, scoring the only touchdown of the game on a 49-yard run with less than two minutes remaining.

Last Thanksgiving Quincy handed North Quincy the worst shellacking in the 37-year old football series, 53-0.

This week there are nine North Quincy players who saw action in that game.

To say they are looking to get even for that debacle is putting it mildly. That also goes for all the boys who were not in last year's game.

"I'm making no predictions whatever," Coach Ralph Frazier said. "All I'll say is we are going out there to play a good game and hope we can upset them. But the boys who played last year haven't forgotten that game and have proved it the way they have hustled in practice."

North is only three points away from equalling the Presidents' 8-0-0 record. Only a 6-6 tie with Revere and a last minute 21-20 loss to Malden mar its fine record.

Two years ago Quincy was the underdog but upset North, 21-8, to knock the Raiders from the Greater Boston League title, giving it to Somerville.

This year North cannot keep Quincy from at least sharing the title with Malden, but can keep it from gaining sole possession.

North has come along fast under second year Coach Frazier, whose first Raider team last year had only a 2-7 record. The defense has been strong all season long but the offense sputtered for the first weeks of the season.

Quincy's John Provost, Steve McCarthy and Wayne Richards have been acclaimed for their running but North has some excellent ball carriers of its own.

Although he hasn't scored much of late, Tony Kelly is one of the top runners in the league. He is the workhorse of the running attack, usually carries about 25 times in a game and averages better than five yards.

Le e Davis, John Panarelli and Jimmy deVarennes, who got his chance to start when injuries hit the Raiders, also have been running well.

At quarterback Paul Lippens has improved tremendously since the season opened. He has been passing extremely well and has done a good share of the running.

The opening line Thursday will have Dan Zink and Dave Mahoney at end, John Meyer and Fran McIsaac tackles, John Salenius and John Graceffa guards and Mike Tracy center. All are seniors except Meyer, a junior.

Mahoney and Zink are excellent pass receivers and Mahoney, who has come up with several unbelievable catches, has had a touchdown pass in each of the last three games.

The starters on defense will be Ken Baker and Dan Doherty, ends; Meyer and McIsaac, tackles; Panarelli and Steve Murray, linebackers; Ed Hill, middle guard; Zink and Jimmy Sarruda, cornerbacks; deVarennes and Davis, halfbacks and Greg King, safety.

"I had to name an extra man because it depends on what defense we open with," Frazier explained. "We have been trying a few new things and may pull some surprises on them." He hopes to use all his seniors, if possible.

Frazier lauded his coaching staff and said everyone contributed to the success of this year's club. They are Bill Pagnano, Jack Bowes, Ted Sadowski and Tom Fitzgerald.

Can North Do Unto Quincy?

Can North Quincy's football team turn around and do unto Quincy on the holiday what Quincy did unto it two years ago?

On that occasion North, which won its first six games, then lost the last three, would have won the Greater Boston League championship with a Thanksgiving Day win.

However, the underdog Presidents, who finished fast that year after a slow start, turned around and topped the Raiders, 21-8, thus knocking them out of the title.

This year the Raiders, with a fine 6-1-1 record, hope to return the favor and knock the unbeaten Presidents [8-0-0] from sole possession of the league title. Quincy can do no worse than share the title again with Malden.

Turkey Day Series Spiced By Upsets

The 37-year old Quincy-North Quincy football series has been spiced by many upsets, several of the monumental variety.

However, although Quincy, with its 8-0-0 record, must be rated the favorite this year as it seeks its first perfect season ever, a North upset can hardly be called a major surprise.

Hank Conroy's Presidents have outscored their opposition, 312 to 96.

Ralph Frazier's Raiders, winners of their last four games and only three points away from a perfect season [a 6-1-1 record], has scored 159 points to the opposition's 69.

Sophs' Version

North Upsets Quincy, 22-12

North Quincy's sophomore football team finally did it!

Ted Sadowski's North sophs upset Dave Burke's Quincy club, 22-12, last Saturday before a good crowd at Veterans Memorial Stadium, the first time in several years the young Raiders had toppled the Presidents.

"This was a great effort by our kids," said a happy Sadowski, whose team had only a 3-2-1 record going into the game. "The first half was pretty even but we controlled the ball most of the second half.

"It was a fine game between two fine ball clubs and I'm very happy we were allowed to play at the Stadium. We were afraid we would have to move to Faxon Field after the rain but Carl Leone [Quincy's Coordinator of Athletics] said we could use the stadium, something these kids looked forward to."

North took an early 8-0 lead on a 60-yard run off tackle by Jack Pomarole and a conversion pass from Bob Morton to Billy Carroll.

Quincy came back when Duke Whitney scored his first touchdown, but the try for the tying points failed.

North made it 14-6 when Morton passed to Chuck deVarennes for a 50-yard touchdown but again Quincy bounced right back as Whitney scored his second touchdown. Again the try for points failed and North led at halftime, 14-12.

Quincy moved the ball well at the start of the second half but was held once deep in North territory and then fumbled the ball away to stop a second drive. North marched 89 yards for its final touchdown with deVarennes scoring from the six and Morton again hitting Carroll for the points.

Sadowski paid tribute to Pomarole, Morton and deVarennes on offense and also lauded tackle Jim Neal and Jim Fatses for their work in the offensive line. On defense he hailed Ken Stevens, Pete Quinn and linebackers Wayne Bell, Mike Mulvaney and Paul Cadigan.

"It was a fine game and North played very well, but so did our boys," Burke said. "Both teams played a hard, clean game."

He singled out quarterback Paul Creedon and end Bob Spillaine, who teamed up for a long pass to set up the second touchdown.

He also had praise for Whitney, fullback Bob Ford and Billy Bouchard as well as guard Bob Guido, his most improved player, for their offensive efforts.

Receiving their coach's plaudits on defense were Steve Goulart, Glen King, Randy Califano and Dennis Sullivan. Califano did some excellent punting.

Until this year Burke's sophomores had lost only once in four years but this year finished up with a 7-3 record, having lost twice to B. C. High.

Provost Leads Both Teams In Scoring

Quincy's football team has scored a lot more than North this year and it is shown in the individual statistics.

Quincy's high scorer is John Provost, whose six touchdowns in the last two games gave him 74 points.

The number two and three scorers, Bill Maver with 46 and Wayne Richards with 42, have scored more points than North's pacesetter, Tony Kelly, who has 36. North's second man is Dave Mahoney with 30 points.

1946 Game Drew 18,000 Record Crowd

If the weatherman cooperates on the holiday, the crowd at Veterans Memorial Stadium could approach the record 18,000 attendance set in 1946.

Quincy's Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone has reason to remember that crowd.

He quarterbacked the Presidents that year and sparked them to a 31-6 win.

Quincy takes an 8-0-0 record into the game while North, only three points away from a perfect season, has a fine 6-1-1 record.

A year ago a crowd estimated at 15,000 saw the Presidents Whomp the Raiders, 53-0, a record score for the series.

Officials Lineup Same As '69

The officials for Thursday's Quincy-North game will be the same as last year.

Joe Berman of Hull will be the referee, John Krikorian of Brockton the umpire, Al Benson of North Reading, field judge and Edgar Stowell of Bedford head linesman.

Quincy's LeRoy [Curley] Rogers, who handles the electric clock for all Quincy and North home games, will handle this chore on the holiday.

19-Man Police Detail

A 19-man special police detail will be on hand for the Quincy-North Thanksgiving Day game to handle traffic and the anticipated crowd of 18,000.

The police detail will be headed by Lt. William Daly.

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club Installs Officers

The annual banquet and installation of officers of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club at Houghs Neck Legion Hall was attended by more than 140 persons.

Frank Locke, founder, was installed as president for his 16th term by Atty. Howard Willard, retired Director of the Law Enforcement Department of Natural Resources, who was also the guest speaker.

Others installed were Joseph Devine, vice president; Harry Johnson, treasurer; and Ralph Bergstrom, secretary.

The Club was organized some 16 years ago, its main purpose to provide a day's outing for hospitalized veterans. This year, 45 disabled veterans from Chelsea Naval Hospital and 15 paraplegic veterans from West Roxbury Veterans Hospital were guests for a day's fishing and a dinner.

Willard discussed pollution, urging more interest in the subject by clubs throughout the area.

Commander and Mrs. Ernest Fitzgibbon of the Houghs Neck Legion Post were guests at the dinner which was prepared and served by post members Donald Wallace, David Wenners, Roy Wenners, Thomas Gibbons, John Christenson and Frank Lenardis.

Hayes, Grogan New Junior Hockey Coaches

Strangely enough, Quincy Junior High's hockey team will be coached by a former North Quincy player and the North icemen will have a former Quincy star as coach this year.

Ken Hayes, a former star goalie for North, who last year coached the North Junior High team, has moved over to Quincy to replace Ray Brown.

Ed Grogan, a former Quincy ace under Bill Hutchinson, has taken over the North Quincy junior high reins.

The two teams will again compete in the Greater Boston Freshman League. Quincy was one of the top teams last year while North, although not having a good won-lost record, played some solid hockey and sent some likely prospects up to the high school.

U-Mass. President Speaker At Chamber Fall Meeting Dec. 2

Dr. Robert C. Wood, president, University of Massachusetts, will be the keynote speaker, Dec. 2, at the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce's 75th annual fall membership meeting.

Dr. Wood's subject will be: "College Students and Parents: Is There A Common Ground?"

The event will be held at Valle's, Braintree with a social hour starting at 6 p.m., and dinner at 7 p.m.

John W. Blake is chairman and Mayor James R. McIntyre honorary chairman.

Dr. Wood, during his talk, plans to discuss police intervention on campus, FBI authorization to trespass, recent rulings and student unrest in general.

Dr. Wood, immediate past chairman of the board for the MBTA, was appointed to the University of Massachusetts May 13 and assumed his duties July 1. He will be officially inaugurated Dec. 9.

The dinner committee includes:

James D. Asher, Lloyd Bergeson, Fred Bergfors, Sr., Mrs. Vida Berk, Alvin O. Bicknell, Thomas S. Burgin, John M. Corcoran, Robert Cutler, Dr. Edmond L. Demski, John N. Dwyer, Robert M. Faxon.

William A. O'Connell, Forrest A. Parmenter, Charles A. Pearce, Charles G. Peterson, George Reardon, Gerald T. Reilly, Frank E. Remick, Mrs. Flouise Troup, Mrs. Rita M. Welch, Arthur L. Whitten.

Col. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr. New Vice-Commander Airlift Wing

Col. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., former Quincy assistant city solicitor, has been named Vice Commander of the 94th Military Airlift Wing, New England's only Air Force Reserve flying unit, located at L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford.

Colonel Keefe is married to the former Mary Feeley. They have three sons, David, 21, and twins, Michael and Stephen, 17. They live at 175 Rock Island Rd, Houghs Neck.

Entering the Army Air Corps in 1942, Colonel Keefe was commissioned a Second Lieutenant and served in North Africa during World War II. Reactivated for the Korean Conflict, Colonel Keefe served one year in Korea with the 8th Fighter Bomber Wing.

A command pilot with more than 28 years of service, he pilots the four-engine C-124 Globemaster aircraft. His assignments with the Air Force Reserve at Hanscom Field date back to 1946. In 1963 Colonel Keefe was named Commander of the 901st Troop Carrier Group, which position he held for more than five years. Recently his Reserve assignment was with the Office of Plans and Operations, Electronics System Division at Hanscom.

He is a graduate of Suffolk Law School and has a general law practice in Quincy. He is a past president of the Quincy Bar Association and a member of other bar associations, civic, fraternal and veterans organizations. Presently he is serving as chairman of the South Division of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

ENC Librarians Named Indexers

$334,800 Authorized For Design Of Quincy-To-Braintree MBTA Extension

The MBTA Board of Directors has authorized expenditure of up to $334,800 for final design services for the $39 million South Shore rapid transit extension from Quincy to South Braintree.

Completing the design work and providing final construction plans and specifications for the construction of the School Street Bridge in Quincy, a flyover in South Quincy, the North Braintree and South Braintree Station complexes and track system will be Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas, Inc., the engineering firm involved in the preliminary work.

The work will be performed under a supplemental agreement that brings the engineering firm's total contract to an amount not to exceed $1,302,350.

The supplemental agreement is required because of revisions in the scope of work, such as:

- Relocation of the flyover from the area of Church St. in Braintree, northward to South Quincy, just north of the North Braintree Station.
- Continued land-fill operation at the South Braintree town dump.
- Agreement with the Massachusetts Department of Public Works on the highway network at the Capen's Bridge Interchange in North Braintree.
- Legislation requiring the Authority to rebuild the School Street Bridge in Quincy.

The MDPW has a separate contract with Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas, Inc. to perform engineering and design work necessary to re-build the highway network at Capen's Bridge Interchange.

The cost of building the rapid transit line from south of the Granite Street Bridge in Quincy, three miles to South Braintree, is estimated at $39 million.

DAV Commemorative Stamps On Sale

Commemorative postage stamps honoring the 50th Anniversary of the founding of the Disabled American Veterans went on sale this week, climaxing the organization's 50th birthday observance.

Massachusetts, with 19,000 members ranks fifth among the states in membership.

The Massachusetts Department Headquarters is located in the State House, Boston, headed by Joseph R. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, Quincy. It is open Monday through Friday to assist Disabled Veterans.

John Tormey Reappointed To Government Center

John E. Tormey, Jr. of 154 Putnam St. has been reappointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre to serve as a five-year member of the Government Center Commission in Quincy.

The term, a reappointment for Tormey, will run from Nov. 1, 1970 through Oct. 31, 1975.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Namath Best Since Valentino?

JACK WARNER is expected to purchase the film rights of the stage play "1776"... WARNERS' bid for this highly entertaining Broadway vehicle is anticipated to be in the $1.25 million bracket... The SHERMAN EDWARDS-PETER STONE musical is still running in its second year at the same 46th St. theatre which it opened in, on March 16, 1969... NEIL SIMON plans to overhaul "THE GINGERBREAD LADY" with major script revisions. SIMON wasn't the least bit happy with the fair to middlin' reviews that the Boston press hurled at his latest production, and he has decided that extensive script revisions are needed before "LADY" bows on Broadway... DEAN MARTIN's next film will be a big budgeted western, and is scheduled to go into production by the first of next year... The motion picture will be directed by ANDREW McLAGLEN, as soon as he winds up the JAMES STEWART-GEORGE KENNEDY starred "FOOLS PARADE"... JACK VALENTI, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, was recently named the March of Dimes "Man of the Year"...

Talk about popular pictures: "2001: A Space Odyssey", closed in Toronto a few weeks ago after a record breaking 127-week run... It has been estimated that over 400,000 people in this northerly city shelled out $1.2 million to witness this highly provocative piece of entertainment... When is some television network going to give VIKKI CARR a "special" of her own to do?... Seems like every big and not so big "star" has had his or her own tele-night except the versatilely talented Miss CARR... "A.K.A. CASSIUS CLAY" would have to rank as one of the most enlightening sporting film produced to date... Watch for CLEAVON LITTLE to make an Academy Award impact in the 1971 release of "VANISHING POINT"... The Tony award winner brings all his multiple talents to the forefront in his role of "Super Soul", a Deejay with power... Starring along with LITTLE is Boston's own BARRY NEWMAN who first made an audience impact some seven months ago in the motion picture "THE LAWYER"... DAME JUDITH ANDERSON is on national tour with "HAMLET"... What makes the Shakespearean classic so unusual is that DAME JUDITH recreates the role of "HAMLET" herself... Shades of Women's Lib?...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: Character actor JACK ELAM discussing the potential of "THE LAST REBEL" co-worker JOE NAMATH: "he is the greatest natural acting talent to come along since the late RUDOLPH VALENTINO"... Oh sure he is!... How JACK ELAM can make such a comparison is beyond this column's comprehension... ELAM was still in knickers when VALENTINO was long dead and buried... Holiday viewing suggestions: "SCROOGE" and "THE SONG OF NORWAY"... Both films are personally uplifting and each can be seen by all members of the family as they are G-rated pictures... PAUL NEWMAN and JOANNE WOODWARD compliment each other nicely in "WUSA"... However, former Brookline native ANTHONY PERKINS "steals" every scene he is in... Isn't it about time "WUSA" co-star ANTHONY PERKINS was given recognition with an award of some type? Like PERKINS is only one of America's 10 most gifted actors...

ANTHONY QUINN, the actor with a thousand and one personalities, is at it again, this time as an Indian called "FLAP"... Newcomer FRANK LANGELLA has two commendable hits on his hands, "THE TWELVE CHAIRS" and "DIARY OF A MAD HOUSEWIFE"... With these two films LANGELLA has demonstrated himself to be a talent to watch... Christmas wish for aging Academy Award winner MARLON BRANDO: That his upcoming release "BURN" places him back on top of the thespian heap where he belongs... The extraordinarily gifted BRANDO hasn't had a major hit in over eight years... "CATCH 22" has caught on big with audiences to the tune of over $6 million so far... JOHN WAYNE rip-snorts his way in "true grit" fashion in his latest oater yarn "RIO LOBO"... The NATIONAL GENERAL PICTURES production is due shortly in the Hub, and shows promise of being as big a western financially as "TRUE GRIT"...

Serposs Trustees To Meet Dec. 10 On Fund Use

Dec. 10 at 4 p.m. is the date and time set by Mayor James R. McIntyre, chairman of Trustees of the Serposs Fund, for a board meeting to decide the next step in a request for use of interest from the fund for a combined Youth Center-Clinic at Houghs Neck.

In response to McIntyre's request for a definite indication of interest in the Houghs Neck community, petitions were signed by more than 1,300 residents asking use of $23,500 in income from the fund to purchase a building at 1095 Sea St. for a Youth-Center-Clinic.

In addition, an open meeting Nov. 17 at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall sponsored by the Houghs Neck Community Council was attended by some 200 residents to present their opinions.

"I am calling this meeting to get some action from the Board of Trustees," the Mayor said. "I think the sentiment from the Houghs Neck area and the interest shown warrant the question being submitted for a Court decision."

At the open meeting, City Solicitor Harry Pavan, also a member of the Serposs board of trustees, quoted from the will of the late Ervant A. Serposs, emphasizing that it specifically stipulated that the money be used for a "clinic".

"It is a question of interpretation by the court," he said, adding that in his opinion, "if all the people in Houghs Neck but one wanted it, that person could go to court to stop the proposal."

Leo J. Kelly, president of the board of advisors for the Grenham Youth Center, presented architect's plans for changes proposed in the building at 1095 Sea St. to include a clinic on the ground floor, with a youth center headquarters at the rear of the building and recreational area in the basement.

The Grenham Youth Center is now located in the former Davis White Front Bakery which is in a dilapidated condition. The rent is now being increased by the owners, and it has been placed on the market for sale.

Dr. James Will, director of the Serposs Dental Clinic, while not opposed to the Youth Center, said that he is against moving the clinic facilities from the basement of the Atherton Hough School.

Also speaking against the move were dental workers Mrs. Fred Haskins and Mrs. Harry Towle.

Others speaking for the youth center were:

Dr. Gordon Wetmore, chaplain of Eastern Nazarene College, whose students are volunteers at the present Grenham Youth Center.

Thomas Hurlebaus, 23-year resident, who spoke for the Houghs Neck American Legion Post where the youth group held its first meetings; Roland K. Joselyn, 86 years old and a 60-year resident; Mrs. Dorothy Laing, who said purchase of the building would be for "the general good of the whole community."

Others were Joseph Brophy, Mrs. John Kidlen, director of recreation William Ryan, whose department is working with the present center; Arnold Beresen, pharmacist, who called purchase of a new center "preventive medicine" for youth; and Councillor Arthur H. Tobin, who agreed with Pavan that use of Serposs Fund income was doubtful and who suggested operation of a North Quincy bowling alley to raise funds for the center.

Harold Davis, son of Dr. Albert Davis who is in charge of the Serposs Medical Clinic, suggested that instead of using the Serposs income for a center, other related means be "explored", such as nursing scholarships.

Figures released by City Treasurer David Houston, also a member of the Serposs board of trustees, show that the total balance of funds available for clinic use is $87,795.14. In 1969, income came to $11,053.75, while expenses were $11,839.97, so that net cost of maintaining the clinics in 1969 came to $786.22.

Income to Nov. 16, 1970 was $13,253.36, with expenses $11,059.01, so that net receipts over expenses were $2,194.22.

This, according to Leo Kelly, indicates that some $4,000 will probably be added to the income available by the end of the year.

"We intend to continue our campaign for signatures to our petition," he said. "Individual letters are being written to the Serposs trustees, and I am accepting invitations to speak to Houghs Neck groups interested in the youth center-clinic proposal."

Robert F. Denvir, Jr., moderator for the open meeting and president of the Houghs Neck Community Council pledged continued support for the proposal.

DeMatteo $4,937,243 MBTA Contract

The MBTA Board of Directors has approved the award of a $4,937,243.50 contract to M. DeMatteo Construction Company of Quincy, low bidder, for the construction of another segment of the six-mile long Haymarket-North rapid transit extension.

The work to be performed under the contract includes a 1,450-foot three-track underpass to carry the rapid transit line under the Boston & Maine Railroad's Medford Branch between Revere Beach Parkway in Medford to the Medford Street Bridge in Malden.

Also to be performed is grading, drainage and installation of subsurface utilities in Boston, Somerville and Medford.

The DeMatteo contract is the fourth major construction contract to be awarded for the $166.5 million Haymarket-North Extension, scheduled to be completed in 1973 to the Malden-Melrose boundary line.

Reader Takes Issue With 'Call Me Square' Article

Editor, Quincy Sun:

This letter is written in response to an article that appeared in your November 25th edition. The article was entitled "Call Me Square" and was written by Mary Coolidge.

In her opening remarks Mrs. Coolidge states that she is the "kind of an American who loves her country, flag, and home." She continues by saying that she literally breaks down when she hears the Star Spangled Banner or "Taps". She feels that because of this emotional show of patriotism people will label her "square". I do not think that many Americans would deem her "square" but on the contrary, would admire such involvement with one's heritage. Yet, the amount of tears poured forth at a flag raising ceremony does not necessarily constitute the degree of love one has for his or her country.

Mrs. Coolidge continues her article with the comment, "I have total and complete respect for Jesus, the Internal Revenue, and the police". Her next profound statement is that she becomes sick when she sees the long haired, unwashed, barefooted, slovenly youth mouth their tirade against honesty, morality and integrity. Jesus, whom she completely respects, had long hair, dirty feet, and was put to death because he mouthed his tirades against the injustices of the time. People hate to hear the truth. Associating long hair and bare feet with the evils of America in some cause and effect method is totally ridiculous, illogical and unfair.

Mrs. Coolidge is also ill from listening to the youth of today talk about what is wrong with this country. Yet, in her article she seems to do quite an appropriate job of spouting what she thinks is wrong with the country. Maybe her article will cause others to be sick. For a person who considers herself such a patriotic American she seems to forget that free speech applies also to the youth of America and not just to "proud to be an American" journalists.

Her illness becomes more severe when she hears the language of the youth which is saturated with "four letter words". The four letter words which are not contained in the vocabulary of today's youth are "work" and "wash" as she so carefully explains. Maybe the youth of today has substituted the synonymns "clean" and "employment" for the missing "wash" and "work". But there is no excuse for such sickening words as care, hope, help and love.

She then goes on to say that she is mad when she thinks of the American lives sacrificed in foreign countries that are not even appreciative of our aid. Her next paragraph states that she is sick when she hears the "flimsy excuses" of young men who refuse to fight. These flimsy excuses may well be the same statement that she made about unappreciative foreign countries. She implies that one who refuses to go to Viet Nam is a coward. To refuse to kill another human being is not cowardice. Mrs. Coolidge, what happened to your total respect of Jesus, who taught us to love our neighbor as ourselves? Granted, war is sometimes the last alternative, but many young men can perform much more positive and humanely beneficial services for their country instead of killing. I wish you had expounded upon what you meant by "flimsy excuses".

Her next object of attack is the colleges of America, especially their admittance program. According to Mrs. Coolidge all that is needed to gain entrance into a college is a big mouth and the tuition. Speaking from my own personal experience, I did not converse once with the Dean of Admissions. As far as the tuition is concerned, I am still working my way through school and at the time I entered I had only enough money to buy my books.

Her next gripe concerns those who advocate the lowering of the voting age to eighteen. She logically states, "You can give a five year old a pistol and he can shoot to kill." She continues by saying, "They already have the most lethal weapon in the world...the automobile drivers license". True, you can give a five year old a gun and he is capable of killing. The probability though, being much less than if you order someone to take a gun, teach him how to use it most effectively, and then tell him to kill the enemy in order that the people of his country will retain their freedoms and rights. Freedoms and rights that he does not even share. In the same respect drivers licenses are not forced on the people of a country.

She continues by saying that she gets sick when she thinks of what could be voted into the whitehouse by the ten million eighteen year old votes. It doesn't make her sick when the caskets containing the mutilated bodies of eighteen year olds are sent back from the hell these kids are experiencing in order that Mrs. Coolidge can have the freedom of speech to complain and criticize them.

Mrs. Coolidge states that she is sick, and tired, and mad. Judging by her article, two of these descriptive terms are quite accurate.

All-Day Parkers Weeded Out

'Lots More' Parking Spaces In Downtown Quincy

Shoppers coming into Quincy are finding more parking spaces due to a crackdown on all-day parkers which began this week.

Christmas gift buyers are being urged by the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce to use the 1,800 municipal metered parking spaces available when doing their shopping.

A drive began Monday to make available many of the estimated 1,000-1,200 areas regularly used by merchants, professional people, office workers and other downtown employees.

"It's working fairly satisfactorily," Capt. Roy Cavicchi of the Quincy Police Department's Traffic Bureau says.

"We haven't encountered many problems. People have been cooperative, and we have been able to find spaces and to show employees where they can park.

"This is only the first of it, but it is working fairly well. It builds up gradually. From now on we will get a steady flow until the last couple of weeks," Capt. Cavicci says.

He expects the peak of Christmas traffic about Dec. 10 – "about two weeks before Christmas."

To provide greater opportunities for shoppers to use municipal parking space for holiday shopping, the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce and Police Department are cooperating to:

- Close off municipal parking areas [or sections] between 7:30 and 9 a.m. to keep out all day parking.
- Crack down on chronic parking violators by stepped up police enforcement and processing of parking tags through the courts.
- Provide more free all-day parking areas within Quincy Center through cooperation of the city and MBTA.
- Provide shuttle busses for employees and all-day parkers from fringe parking areas to employment centers.
- Educate employees and downtown workers on the value of parking spaces for customers and urge them to use all-day areas.

For evening shoppers, there will be an additional 250 spaces at the rear of the Star-Turnstyle-Grossman area. During the day, these are being used for all-day parking by business employees.

Arrangements with owners of private areas have been made to provide additional all-day parking space for business.

Teen Age GOP Assn. Launches 'Tell It To Hanoi' Drive

James Gosselin, chairman of the Quincy Teen Age Republican Association announces that his club is starting a state-wide "TELL IT TO HANOI" drive.

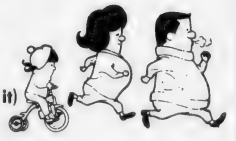
It will consist of circulated petitions concerning the inhumane treatment of our captured G.I.'s by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong. The petitions, to be sent to the North Vietnamese embassy in Paris, will contain these five demands:

- An immediate, impartial inspection of all prison camps, supervised by the International Red Cross.
- All accounting for all prisoners.
- An end to brutality and torture of prisoners.
- An end to reprisal executions.
- A demand that all prisoners be allowed to write letters and receive correspondence from their relatives.

"We consider this an important step in seeing to it that all prisoners held by the enemy are treated fairly, and that all torture cease", Gosselin said, "We further urge all people who care about our boys to get involved. We can't do it alone!"

"This project must be a success, not only in this state, but through-out the whole nation in order to insure decent treatment of our boys. I believe that the North Vietnamese will sit up and take notice if they see that there truly is a silent majority in America."

Anyone who is interested are asked to contact Mr. Gosselin at Republican State Committee, 73 Tremont St., Boston, Rm. 735, or call 479-6583.



State Street South Progress Taxpayers Assn. Topic

"Progress To Date" will be the topic of John N. Dwyer, vice president of State Street Bank and Trust Company, at the Dec. 8, 6:15 p.m. meeting of Quincy Taxpayers Association directors at Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy.

Mr. Dwyer, a South Weymouth resident, will discuss State Street South, a $100 million unified operation center, housing residential, commercial, retail stores and office park to be located south of the Neponset River, off Squantum St.

Fathers Club Goal: $15,000

Kick Off Quincy Team Orange Bowl Trip Fund

A fund-raising drive is underway to send Quincy High's undefeated football champs to the Orange Bowl--as spectators--Jan. 1.

Goal of the campaign, launched by the Quincy Fathers Club: $15,000, [or about].

Already in: $2,668.

Still needed: $12,332.

The $2,668 was collected by members of the team and cheerleaders while marching in Sunday's South Shore Christmas Festival Parade.

"Coach Hank Conroy and members of the Quincy Fathers Club think a trip to the Orange Bowl game would be an appropriate reward for the team," says Harold McCarthy, chairman of the drive and father of scatback star Steve McCarthy.

If sufficient money is not raised--or arrangements cannot be made--to send the team to the Orange Bowl, plans will be shifted.

In this event, another trip will be the goal for the school Easter vacation next April 17. Possible destinations: Florida, Bermuda, The Bahamas.

Maurice Hughes of the Quincy Savings Bank has volunteered to serve as treasurer for the drive.

The Quincy Savings Bank and the Quincy Sun will be drop-off points for contributions.

Checks should be made out to: "Quincy High School Football Fund."

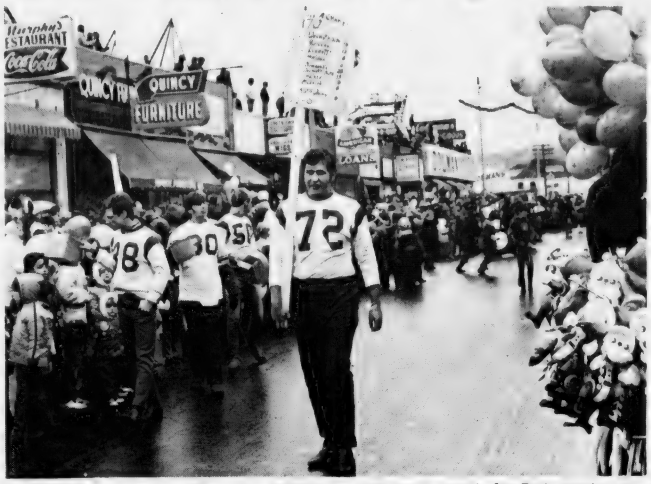
They should be sent to: Quincy Savings Bank, 1374 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169 or to the Quincy Sun, 1601 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169

The trip is being planned for the Easter school vacation next April 17.

"The destination is not known yet," says McCarthy. "It will depend on how much money we raise. Possible places include Florida, Bermuda and The Bahamas. There are other possibilities also."

McCarthy notes the planned trip and fund-raising project have the complete support of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, the school committee and other city officials.

"We feel," says McCarthy, "that these kids are really deserving of a trip like this. Not just because they are good football players or because they accomplished the first perfect season--undefeated and untied--in the school's history.



"Scholastically, they have done well, too. And they are good kids--both on and off the field.

"With all the headlines today about kids getting into trouble, it's refreshing to know there are others who want to achieve something in life.

"Most youngsters today are decent but you don't hear much about them. And this Quincy High team represents that group.

"We just want to show them that we are proud of them. Proud of them as football players but more important--proud of them as being good kids."

It is hoped the business community will help in the fund-raising. Canisters may be placed in stores. A benefit show may be staged at the Strand Theater.

PROUDLY carrying sign with team's undefeated, untied season record, Joe Davis marches up Hancock St., as Quincy High football teammates receive contributions along Christmas Festival parade route for funds to send team on a vacation trip. Parade watchers donated $2,268.

Uncle Sam Has Money For 23 Quincy Residents

Again the Department of the Treasury is having difficulty returning Federal Tax Refunds to 23 Quincy residents, whose checks have been returned marked "Undeliverable."

They are among approximately 2,250 persons in Massachusetts who are entitled to claim some $208,667.34.

The Quincy residents are Lola S. Blumenstein, Benjamin and Barbara Ciazlone, Stephen J. Dean, Henry J. Delgado, Alfred Morin, Angeline F. Silverio, Edward Smith, Vincent and Jeanette Solimini, Gerald Winston Spaur, II, John Allen Sullivan, John M. Sullivan, Harold R. and Charlene M. Taylor.

Listed from Wollaston are Harry H. and Roberta M. MacLellan and Carolann Viccione.

From North Quincy, Beldon R. and Carolyn D. Blevins, Kathleen A. Kelly and Francis H. Mulkerron.

Elmer H. Klinsman, Acting District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Boston District, said he "is concerned over the fact that the people on this list have a rightful claim to this money and apparently have never contacted the Internal Revenue Service as to non receipt of their refund check."

Publication of last year's list brought results from roughly 50% of the people concerned. Those listed may go to their nearest IRS office and by showing proper identification, will have the refund check reissued.

HN Council Turns On Christmas Lights Sunday

Annual Christmas lighting ceremonies of the Houghs Neck Community Council are set for Sunday at 5:30 p.m. on the lawn of the Houghs Neck Fire Station at Sea St. and Manet Ave.

Devotions will be led by clergy of the Houghs Neck Congregational and Most Blessed Sacrament Churches.

Girl Scout and Brownie troops will take part in the singing of Christmas Carols, and Mrs. Abbie Sines will be soloist.

Santa Claus will make his usual pre-holiday appearance, and Quincy officials have been invited.

David Finlay is chairman of the event, with Samuel Tuttle, Jr., co-chairman; and George Allison, lighting chairman.

Robert F. Denvir, Jr., council president, will speak briefly.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Money Gifts

Q. We are close friends of the groom but have not met the bride since she is from out of state. Naturally we do not know her tastes, therefore, have decided to give them a check. Should the check be made out to the bride or groom?

A. Financial gifts are usually given on the wedding day and made out to both the bride and groom using her new name. If you feel you must give it before the wedding then the check would be made payable to the bride.

Q. Is it proper to announce our engagement if I don't have an engagement ring?

A. An engagement ring is only a symbol and is not a necessity to announce your engagement. If people should ask to see your ring merely tell them you don't have one and let it drop there. No matter what your reason is for not having one it is only your's and your fiance's business.

Q. We don't want any gifts from our wedding guests only money. How can we let them know this?

A. You can't really specify what type gifts you want but with this attitude I'm sure the word has spread around. Do count on a small acceptance list and don't count on a large "haul".

Q. I have a junior bridesmaid and a flower girl in my wedding party. Where is their position in line. Also, must I have a junior usher and ring bearer to pair them off?

A. Neither the junior bridesmaid nor the flower girl need an escort. The junior bridesmaid walks behind the ushers and in front of the bridesmaids. Although she walks alone the bridesmaids may follow in pairs or singly. Which ever you prefer. In the recessional the flower girl would follow the bride and groom. If the bridesmaids and ushers are evenly paired off then the junior bridesmaid would be at the end. If there are more ushers then she would follow the paired off attendants and the ushers without partners would follow her in pairs.

Emblem Club Planning Christmas Party Dec. 16

The Quincy Emblem Club will hold its members' Christmas party Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Elks Building, with Mrs. Irene Whelan, president, as hostess.

Gifts are to be exchanged.

While the Christmas Bazaar has been cancelled, there will be a sale of handmade articles, aprons, white elephants and other items.

Officers will provide the evening's refreshments.

Wollaston Glee Club Opens New Season Monday

The Wollaston Glee Club will open its 1970-71 season Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. in Atlantic Junior High School Auditorium, North Quincy, with its program built around songs of the sea.

The male singing club, now in its 71st season, is believed to be the oldest of its type in the country.

Mary Helen Thompson, mezzo soprano of Montclair, N.J., will be guest artist. Miss Thompson, who has studied at The New England Conservatory of Music, has performed at many Boston area events including a youth concert series with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. In 1971 she will join the company of "Porgy and Bess" in performances at LaScala.

Miss Thompson's performance with the Wollaston Glee Club will include music by Handel, Brahms, Saint-Saens and several spirituals. Henry Millicone will be her accompanist.

Maurice Carbonneau, director of music at North Quincy High School, will direct the glee club. The club's permanent conductor, Richard Reed of Melrose, is on a year's sabbatical from his position as teacher of English at Malden High School, studying at Trinity College in Ireland.

Included in the full evening of song will be Protherone's "The Pilot" and Billwright's "A Window Toward the Sea."

Proceeds from Wollaston Glee Club concerts support their scholarship program to deserving music students.

Tickets will be available at the door.

St. John's Juniors Christmas Party On Monday

St. John's Junior League of Quincy will hold its annual Christmas party and bazaar Dec. 7 at 8:30 p.m. at St. John's parish hall, 21 Gay St.

Mrs. Leo Andronico, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Domenic Lomanno, Mrs. James Mastrantonio and Mrs. Thomas Kenney, in charge of the food table.

Mrs. John Jolley and Mrs. Lawrence Forte will be chairmen for sales of handmade articles: Mrs. Ralph Fasano and Mrs. Theodore Rouillard, the "Pot of Gold"; Mrs. Guido Buglio, special awards.

The general committee includes Mrs. Kenneth Southwick, Mrs. John Clodi, Mrs. Albert Colletta, Mrs. Anthony Aimola, Mrs. Carl Bersani, Mrs. James Triglia, Mrs. Edward Walsh, Mrs. John Jolley and Becky Plant.

Santa Claus will be present to distribute gifts. Refreshments will be provided by the board.

Proceeds from the bazaar will benefit the scholarship fund.

The executive board will meet Dec. 15 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Forte of 42 Stewart St., with Mrs. Ferdinand DeNicola as co-hostess.

'King Neptune' Theme Of Jewish Sisterhood

"King Neptune Presents" was the theme of the recent 24th annual Harvest Dinner of the Sisterhood of Quincy Jewish Community Center.

Decorations by Mrs. Daniel McCall and her committee created an "under water" effect for those attending.

Entertainment was "Four on the Aisle" starring Guy Rotunda.

Mrs. Herbert Cooper was chairman for the evening. Mrs. Bernard Warshauer and Mrs. Bernard Swalnick, were chairmen of hostesses; Mrs. Morris Portman and Mrs. Fred Merlis, reservations; Mrs. Morris Portman, treasurer; Mrs. Melvin Berenson, credit secretary; Mrs. Myer Pinto, publicity.

Mrs. McCall, decorations chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Abraham Cohen and Mrs. Erwin Adelberg.

Also heading up arrangements were:

Mrs. Elliot Rosen, life membership; Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, program; Mrs. Abraham Belofsky, program book; Mrs. Joseph Orenstein, ad book; Mrs. Jack Tyll, secretary; Mrs. Joseph Wine and Mrs. Bernard Zecker, sherry hour; Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Warshauer, jewels and wellwishes; Mrs. Wine and Mrs. Rosen, advisors.

A Simple Thought

[Mrs. Marie Hood of 3 Rowley St., Quincy, sends along the following poem which she received from her son, Sp/4 Peter J. Hood serving in Vietnam. She writes:

"I received this poem from Vietnam from my son, after my letter telling him of his cousin Staff Sgt. James C. Daigle, being killed in Cambodia. I thought you might like to share it with your readers."]

A SIMPLE THOUGHT

Sometimes when you feel it's all wasted
When it seems not worth the pain
When the answer's far in the future
But the men die today just the same
Is it worth the blood of an army?
Is it worth the blood of one man?
To be spilled on a spot so foreign
From his own beloved land?
There must be very few times recorded
When a man ever went to war
To fight for a people so different,
From those he left on his shore.
For a people so different in culture
In appearance, in values, in law
That we naturally pause and give thought
To just what we are fighting for
The important thing to remember
Is that we were asked to come.
To aid a people in trouble
And we didn't say no, like some
We didn't say - none of our business
We didn't say - too far away
We remembered the past and its lessons
That it might be our turn one day
Some say we are leaving too early
And perhaps we arrived too late
And some say we should never have come here
And let's leave at a faster rate
The answer is not in the present
Men have died in vain often before
Perhaps here too, it has happened
We will tell better after the war!
But we leave a freer country
Than was here before we came
And we helped to make it stronger
With God's will, they will maintain
And what finer words be spoken
Over those of us who died
The United States was needed
She came, she saw, she tried.

This Christmas—

Wrap Her In Terry

A sure-to-please gift for any woman on your shopping list—whether she's liberated or still enchained—is a robe.

This year wrap her to the ankles in a luxurious cotton terry robe elegant enough to double as a hostess gown.

Once limited to bath or beachwear, terry robes have now entered the realm of high fashion to play dual roles as hostess gowns, loungewear, and dramatic patio outfits.

One reason for terry's ascension up the fashion ladder, reports the National Cotton Council, is that improved dyeing and printing methods have been developed to suit the fabric's loopy pile.

As a result, terry is turning up in brilliant colorings and exotic prints that make it a natural for its more luxurious role.

In addition, terry can be sculptured into rich jacquard designs or knitted into plush velours that are smooth and velvety to the touch.

Aside from its new-found elegance and high styling, terry has its practical side, too. It's washable, requires no ironing, and gets softer and more luxurious feeling the longer it's worn.

SOFT TOUCH—Cotton terry with loops sheared for a velvety touch shapes an elegant wrap in a vivid butterfly print. The reverse side of the Robes of California design is in uncut terry.

REGAL—Plush cotton terry in a sculptured jacquard weave creates a dramatic Empire-style robe. Elegant enough to double as a hostess gown, it's by Robes of California.

LUXURIOUS — Patchwork and border prints are combined for a colorful effect in this cotton terry hostess dress. Styled with a zipper-front and wide collar, the belted design is by Robes of California.

"I've named it 'Merger'."

"Next time I take out a group policy I'm looking at the small print!"

Sun Signs

Week of Dec. 4 -11

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Your mind is troubled an unsettled as things are not turning out as expected. Take care if another is acting for you.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - You are being more diplomatic this week and adapting well to new undertakings. Agents working in your behalf are successful.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - People with original or advanced views attract your attention. New romantic interest intrigues you but be selective with companions.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Many of the fears and anxieties that plague you now are imagined. Undue tension could cause mistakes in correspondence.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - There is much activity and conflict within the family circle. Try to curb spending, stay within budget and hold temper down.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Short trips and correspondence to do with new enterprises keeps you busy this week. Your restless energy makes this productive period.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - You may be feeling a need for a change but don't expect too much from any new ideas at this time. Collect all money due you now.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Arguments now could be serious, so cool it. You have many good things going for you so use them to good advantage this winter.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Activities are restrained so use this period to catch up on writings or formulating plans you can use in future.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - New friends can awaken a desire for activity. It is a good time to travel or to broaden your mental outlook.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Don't let yourself be drawn into a quarrel, you come out second best. Changes made now are not to your advantage.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - If possible, take that trip that was postponed. Domestic affairs are going along nicely and this is a peaceful time.

Has anyone told you what lovely eyes you have lately!

This may actually be a signal for alarm! Although your baby blues may be lovely, there may be a decided reason for overlooking your spanking new midi pant suit. That reason may be that you're maxi, where you should be mini.

You can determine this figure for yourself, if you really want to. If you can reconcile yourself to the fact that manufacturers are not, in fact, making Size Twelves smaller this year, if you can face up to the fact that the cleaners are not in the clothes-shrinking business, then there is hope for you.

Hope comes in all size packages. Open the one that is the most sensible -- open the one which promises long range success. It may not seem as attractive to begin with, but it wears well and long.

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'The Blaming Game'

We were driving in the right lane Saturday evening en route to the theatre in Boston. A car one length ahead in the middle lane began swerving to the right in front of my car. I cut into a parking lot to avoid being hit...thinking as I did, how fortunate that the parking lot was right there. After I stopped, the fellow in the other car came along side and began to berate me. "Are you trying to kill me?" he screamed. He wouldn't listen to anything I had to say...he simply blamed and accused me.

This "blaming game" is being played daily...on highways...in businesses...in homes...rather than taking the responsibility for their human frailties both men and women project their faults to someone else. We had a lot of this blaming in the recent political campaign...remember? Husbands and wives play the "blaming game" and wonder why their relationship isn't a happy one.

Why do people play the "blaming game"? One reason is to turn the focus from one's own weakness. "You were talking to me...that's why I went through the red light"..."I drink because I can't stand her nagging"..."I gamble to get more money because she wants things"...[usually she loses things by his gambling...but when you're playing the blaming game reason doesn't count.] "I have to do everything...he never helps with the baby...he never helps in the kitchen...he never uses the vacuum cleaner...he just works his two jobs." When you play the "blaming game" you have to be unreasonable. You have to make it look as though the partner is to blame that the dishes aren't done...that you drink too much...that there isn't enough money...that your inadequacy is his/her fault.

What all this says is that you haven't learned to take the responsibility for your own actions...your own weakness. Take for example...you never learned to be affectionate as a child because you grew up in an emotionally cold home. Now your marriage partner is warm...attentive, and has need to be close to you. Your coldness is probably due to your early environment...not because your partner "smothers" you. Don't blame him/her, millions of people want just what you have. The problem is you...your earlier conditioning in not learning human warmth.

I feel strongly that one of the chief reasons why people fall into this pattern of "blaming" others for their weaknesses is a permissive and indulgent childhood. Parents too often give children whatever they want whenever they want it...literally training them to be irresponsible with relationships...yet to expect much from others. Such children learn to be takers...not givers. A boy who learns to be a taker from his mother may likely be a taker from his wife when he's a man. A girl who has been indulged by her father may likely not know how to relate to a husband when she marries. These are the people who play the "blaming game".

But don't start playing the "blaming game" on your mother and father...they had their problems and their backgrounds. You must start where you are...regardless of what your mother and father did or did not do to you. Face up to yourself. Say..."I don't like this/that in myself...but I'm not going to blame someone else...I can and I will do something about changing this/that I don't like." That's maturity...the "blaming game" is played by immature...insecure people.

When people play the "blaming game" no one can meet the demands of the "blamer"...because as soon as one demand is satisfied there will be another...and another...and another...and another. There'll always be an excuse for blaming. The "blamer" will sooner or later destroy you...if you let him/her.

About all you can handle will be your own human frailties. Don't become a shipping boy/girl for anyone. You do yourself harm...you do your partner no favor.

ENC Novice Debate Team Wins Three Trophies

The novice debate team of Eastern Nazarene College won three throphies at Boston University in its first tournament of the year last week.

Competing with 17 colleges and universities, ENC finished second with a record of seven wins and three losses.

Two freshmen who debated together for three years at North Quincy High, Paul Day and James A. Cameron, defeated teams from New York University, the University of Rhode Island, Boston University and Norwich University while losing only to the University of Maine.

Day and Cameron were opposed to the resolution: "That the Federal Government should adopt a program of compulsory wage and price controls."

Defending the resolution were Harry Horner, a freshman from Braintree, and James Tabor, a sophomore from Roanoke, Virginia. They defeated Colby College, Pace College, and the University of Massachusetts while losing to the Universities of New Hampshire and Connecticut.

In addition to receiving a Revere bowl as a team award, two of the debaters won individual speaker awards. Cameron received a trophy for scoring third among the 68 debaters and Tabor received an Outstanding Debater Award for finishing eighth.

The team is coached by Professor James R. Cameron, head of the history department and chairman of the division of social sciences at ENC. Dr. Cameron served as one of the 17 judges for the tournament.

Sweeny To Speak Sunday At Elks Memorial Services

Charles T. Sweeny, Quincy School committeeman, will give the memorial address at public memorial services conducted by Quincy Lodge of Elks Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Lodge Hall, 1220 Hancock St.

The Elks Ritual will be by Lodge officers assisted by Emblem Club members, under direction of Exalted Ruler William J. Whalen.

Sweeny, a school committee member for 12 years and Chief of the Contact Division of the Veterans Division Administration in Boston, is president of the Quincy Junior College board of directors and the Massachusetts Council for Teacher Education. He has served as president or chairman of other groups with educational interests.

Selections will be by the Brockton Harmoneers with Louis P. Borghesani, director. Paul Zara of Canton will be soloist.

T. Russell Hally is chairman of the services, with Theodore C. Collagan and Anthony Cardarelli as co-chairmen. Paul Bartloni is refreshment chairman; Michael Papile, reception.

Thomas Garrity and Paul O'Shea will be ushers.

Mrs. William Whalen, Quincy Emblem Club president, has charge of decorations, assisted by Mrs. Jean Garrity, marshall.

The services are open to the public, and refreshments will be served.

Quincy Woman To Receive MFNH Community Service Award

A Quincy mother of three, who served 18 years at the Quincy City Hospital and the past three years as Medical Social Worker at the Elihu White Nursing Home in East Braintree, will be awarded the "Community Service Award" presented annually by the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes.

Mrs. Marguerite [Rita] Dolan of 22 Haviland St., was recommended for the distinguished citation by the South Shore Chapter of the Massachusetts Federation and by Mrs. Florence E. Logan, Administrator of the White Nursing Home and Chairman of the Education Department of the Federation.

The award will be presented at the 22nd annual all-day program of the Federation Dec. 8, at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Lexington, by Morris Sibulkin, Jr., President of the Federation.

Mrs. Dolan became secretary of the Social Service Department at the Quincy City Hospital in 1950, and was appointed a social worker after completing the civil service examinations.

Mrs. Dolan retired after 18 years service and following a one week "vacation", joined the staff of the Elihu White Nursing Home as Medical Social Worker.

Mrs. Logan, Administrator, observed: "She continues to serve patients of the Elihu White Home with the same warm understanding and unselfish manner to bring comfort to patients and families alike. Her day usually starts about 8 a.m. and when all the day's social service problems are comfortably put to bed, her work is concluded.

"She has never refused a plea for help, has never been too tired or too busy to help. She has been blessed with good health and rarely misses a day of work. Her radiant smile and method of assisting nursing personnel to better understand their patients and the reasons for their behavior is a source of inspiration to all.

"The patients, one and all, truly feel that she is their true friend and confidante," said Mrs. Logan. "Surely, this quality of service cannot go unrecognized."

Mrs. Dolan was born in New York City, of Irish parents, termed "hard-working people who instilled in their children ability to love and give love to other people." She has a brother a priest, and a sister a nun.

She worked for the Late Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes for a brief time and was urged by him to accept a scholarship and study law and become a member of his firm. However, she chose marriage and gave up her career. Her husband died in 1950, leaving her with three children.

Women's Christmas Meeting At First Baptist

The Women's annual Christmas meeting at First Baptist Church of Wollaston will be held Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. in the Sanctuary.

Dr. Lionel H. Whiston will be the speaker. A social hour will follow.

Women and girls of the Church are invited, as well as women from neighboring churches.

250,000 Brave Cold, Rain To Watch Santa Parade

Despite rain and cold, a crowd estimated at 250,000–"biggest yet"– turned out for the South Shore Christmas Festival parade here Sunday.

Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, said he and other observers agreed the turnout was 250,000– perhaps more.

"It was the biggest crowd in the 19 years we have held the parade," Moore said. "If it had been a sunny day, we would have had even a larger crowd."

Top prize of $1,000 for best float entry by a non-profit organization went to Woodward School for Girls for their, "101 Dalmations". This entry also received the Fr. Thomas J. Tierney Trophy.

The $1,000 prize was donated by South Shore National Bank.

"It's A Small World", entry of South Shore Council Camp Fire Girls, won the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce Trophy for best theme.

The "Swiss Family Robinson" float of the Weymouth Jaycees will receive the Festival Committee's Trophy for originality.

Curtain Call Theatre's "Cinderella" float was picked to receive a trophy for best use of color and materials.

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club with its float, "Pinocchio" and the whale, won the Mayor's cup for outstanding performance by a Quincy organization.

A new Fr. Tierney trophy for the best musical unit went to St. William's Band of Dorchester.

Trophies and other awards will be presented in January at a Festival Awards program at Sherry's Restaurant.

CHILDREN of all ages–like those shown here–were on hand to watch the 19th annual South Shore Christmas parade. Crowd, estimated at 250,000, was the largest ever.

USS Savannah Joins Fleet Saturday

The Quincy-built new-class Navy supply ship USS Savannah [AOR-4] will be commissioned Saturday at 11 a.m., ceremonies at Pier 7, of the Boston Naval Shipyard in Charlestown.

Principal speaker will be Congressman G. Elliott Hagan [D-Ga.]

Rear Admiral Joseph C. Wylie, USN, Commandant of the First Naval District will place the ship in commission and Captain Bernard P. Williams, Jr., a native of Culpeper, Va., will take command of the Savannah and her crew of 24 officers and 345 men.

The Savannah is named for the river and city in Georgia. She is the fifth ship of the fleet to bear the name. Two ships of the name served the Confederate States Navy. The name is especially famous in American maritime history, one being the first steamship to cross the Atlantic, another the first nuclear-powered merchant ship.

The fourth of six planned fleet replenishment oilers – all representing an entirely new class of Navy vessel – the Savannah was built by the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics. Savannah's sister ship, the Kalamazoo is currently under construction here.

Savannah, a sophisticated multi-purpose ship is 659 feet long and will displace 37,360 tons when fully loaded.

Equipped with advanced transfer-at-sea equipment, the huge ship is designed to replenish combatant ships underway with a variety of supplies from missiles to fuel.

After commissioning and outfitting at the Boston Naval Shipyard, the Savannah will then go through a period of underway training exercises in the Caribbean Sea. She will be homeported at Norfolk, Va., as a unit of Service Squadron Four of the Atlantic Fleet.

Quincy Red Cross In Pakistan Appeal

The Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter is taking part in the nation-wide appeal for funds to aid people of Pakistan, announces Irving J. Boyes, Chapter chairman.

The American National Red Cross has launched an appeal for funds to provide life-saving help for some three million Pakistan victims of what may be the worst disaster in world history, Boyes states.

"The ultimate death toll is beyond calculation," says Boyes, "The vast devastation and untold suffering is one of the worst natural caused catastrophies that the Red Cross has ever encountered."

The American people are being asked to make generous contributions for the people of Pakistan. Fund gifts marked for Pakistan Relief are now being accepted by Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter at 57 Revere Rd., Quincy. Such contributions are tax deductible.

Disneyland Display On Crane Library Lawn

The classic architecture of the Thomas Crane Public Library on Washington St. provides an unusual background for the colorful Disneyland display on its front lawn.

Here are exhibited six creations designed by Frank Leporini, Supervisor at Quincy Vocational-Technical School, and constructed by the Quincy Public Schools maintenance staff and Voc-Tech students for the South Shore Christmas Festival parade.

Included are Peter Pan, Adventureland, Tomorrow Land, Fantasy Land, New Orleans Square and Main Street, U.S.A.

Santa Claus Workshop, also the accomplishment of the Quincy School Department, is now established in the Ross Parkingway.

"The only mishap we had happened when the driver took a street loaded with trees and Santa Claus' house hit a tree and was damaged a little bit," Leporini said. "This delayed Santa's appearance at the parade, and later he completed his ride on a fire truck."

The North Pole home was made under the direction of Warren Paglari, carpentry instructor, by nine eleventh and twelfth graders at Voc-Tech. These included John Molineoux, James Crozier, Michael Galgana, Richard Adams, Thomas Psota, Gary Bliznik, William Pickut, John McMahon and Steve Baker.

Peter Pan, supervised by Eugene A. Silverior, air conditioning and refrigeration instructor, combined the talents of woodworking, electrical, metal fabrication and plumbing students. These were Thomas Holmes, John Molineoux, Paul Hemphill, Greg Aufiero, Robert Landers, and David Inman from the woodworking department; Arthur Purchase, electrical; Roger Jones, Joe Lombodo and Charles Johnson, metal fabrication; Bob Noonan, George Wallace, Richard Lotterhand and Richard Haley, plumbing.

Maintenance personnel involved in the construction project were Florentino Campitelli, Alfred Nesti, Alfred Peruzzi, Donald Robinson, Rudolph Schneider and William Sullivan.

The display will remain on the Library lawn for probably the next week, Mr. Leporini says, before going into storage.

"We hope to use them for other parades, possibly for a Quincy bazaar in the summer, and for other public school ventures," Mr. Leporini says.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING GUIDE

Visit Quincy Early To Shop And See Lights

"Shop Early" and "Visit Quincy to See the Lights".

So urges the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce through Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary.

Santa Claus and Snowmen, 15-foot holiday figures of tinsel and light bulbs, appear on traffic islands and in the parkingways.

An 80-foot, 2,000 bulbed tree covers the front facade of South Shore National Bank.

City Hall, Thomas Crane Library lawn, Quincy District Courthouse and the Public Works Department administration building are already decorated with holiday lights.

Hanock St. has a Candy Cane skyline; Cottage Ave., is "Lolli-Pop Lane", and Ross Parkingway is now a "Sugar Plum Forest".

The lighting was financed by more than 150 businesses in Quincy Center, and put up by the Festival Display Company of Hingham, under a contract with the Chamber of Commerce. Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry is lighting chairman.

Accent On Variety At Broad Meadows

Variety adds to the spice of life for Broad Meadows Junior High School students during a special period each day.

Building an aquarium, a stamp collection, cosmetology, elementary plumbing, painting, a film festival, basic cooking for boys, photography, use of slide rule and calculators as math tools, hospital service, power mechanics and crocheting are included in the wide selection from which students may choose an activity.

Teacher ingenuity, help from businessmen, from lay persons and from discipline coordinators lay the groundwork for the special period, says David P. Tenney, principal.

Marsh environment, new this year, uses the natural setting of the school. Groups choosing this subject are developing a detailed map of adjacent marsh land so that other groups of students will have a ready reference to this type of environmental setting.

Sports available are tennis instruction, girls' gymnastics, badminton, soccer and street hockey during the first quarter of the school year.

Beginning this week, there will be a dance record club, basketball and/or volleyball, and table tennis.

In addition, boys may join one club that will provide an opportunity to build their own high-quality fishing rods from the raw materials.

Plans call for students to select a new subject for their special period each quarter, and to offer new activities wherever possible.

Purpose of the program is to promote active participation and involvement in tasks or activities which will help student growth.

Father-Son Banquet At Salem Lutheran

Salem Lutheran Churchmen's Father-Son Banquet will take place Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St.

There will be a speaker from the Boston Boy Scout Council.

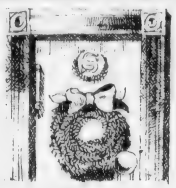
Jewish Community Center To Start Seniors Program Monday

A community-wide Open House will be held Dec. 7 at 1 p.m. at Quincy Jewish Community Center, 10 Merrymount Rd., to inaugurate a new program for retired and older adults.

Mrs. Arnold Sprince of Quincy has been added to the center staff to head this non-sectarian program designed to help older people remain in the main stream of community life. Her appointment is announced by Dr. Abraham Cohen, President of the Quincy Jewish Community Center.

The Open House will offer a "smorgasbord" of activities by adults and for adults, including community service, book review and discussion, political action, crafts and sewing, along with socializing and fun.

It is hoped that a permanent series of program activities will develop from the open house demonstrations.



A sherry hour will open at 1 p.m. with refreshments served later to close the afternoon.

Frick, Brake Art Exhibits At Libraries

December art exhibits at the Thomas Crane Public Library's main hall and North Quincy Branch are announced by Mrs. Carmen Ungar, art librarian.

Robert Oliver Frick of Woodstock, Vt. will exhibit his paintings in the library's main hall in Quincy Square. He is a member of several art associations, and an art teacher at several art centers.

Ronald T. Brake, a graduate of New England School of Art and the Art Institute of Boston, will display his work at the North Quincy Branch. An art teacher, he has had a number of one-man shows in Boston, Milton and Brockton, and has exhibited his New England sea and landscapes throughout the South Shore area. While in the U.S. Navy, he worked on animated training films and murals still in use by the Navy.

Plaudits For Players On Both Teams

Quincy Takes All, North Gains Stature

Quincy High's football team achieved its three goals on Thanksgiving Day.

The Presidents finished with the first perfect season [9-0-0] in the school's history.

They gained sole possession of the Greater Boston League championship for the first time. [They tied Malden for the title a year ago].

They collected a share of the Eastern Mass. Class A championship with Lowell.

Yet, though Hank Conroy's classy team completed the school's greatest season, Ralph Frazier's North Quincy Raiders gained stature and left Veterans Memorial Stadium with heads high, knowing they had given the favored Presidents all they could handle.

Quincy won the game, 16-6, before a record crowd as North gave up the ball seven times, four on fumbles and three on pass interceptions. These mistakes ruined the Raiders.

A sparkling 87-yard punt return by Steve McCarthy, playing for the first time since he broke a bone in his leg against Malden on Oct. 17, and a 29-yard field goal by Bill Maver which surprised everyone but the Quincy players and coaches, salted away the win for Quincy.

"This was a very happy windup for us and we are all proud of our record," Conroy said. "We all wanted the perfect record, the league championship and at least a share of the Class A title and we got them all. These kids did a wonderful job all year, overcame numerous injuries and never let down for one second. They deserve everything they got.

"North Quincy gave us as hard a game as we had all year and no team hit harder. They really wanted this one but the fumbles and interceptions hurt them. Our defense was superlative and I thought we moved the ball well. It was a good, hard game and a great one for us to win."

Frazier, though naturally disappointed, praised the Presidents as being a "good, sound ball team which deserves the fanfare and accolades of an undefeated team. They hit real hard and brought the football to us and forced our mistakes. By the time we got over it, it was too late."

Ralph felt, as everyone did, that Maver's field goal was the turning point in the game.

"Even after McCarthy's run we had a chance but when Maver kicked that field goal it put them 10 points ahead and it was too much for us to overcome. We were really surprised by that field goal and expected a fake."

The elated Conroy praised the continued fine running of John Provost in the first half and McCarthy, especially in the second half.

"Provost bruised his hip and ribs and couldn't play in the second half but McCarthy came through with some excellent running in the second half," Hank said. "He is quite a kid. Luckily the bone break wasn't bad enough to require a cast, although he wore a stocking support and used crutches for two weeks.

Quincy's Final Scoring

	TD	PAT	FG	Pts.
Provost	12	2	0	74
Maver	7	4	1	49
Richards	6	6	0	42
McCarthy	5	6	0	36
Menchi	4	8	0	32
Walker	3	2	0	20
Sullivan	3	2	0	20
Waters	2	2	0	14
Malvesti	1	2	0	8
Hanlon	1	2	0	8
McDermott	1	0	0	6
Goguen	1	0	0	6
Pellegrino	1	0	0	6
Sylva	0	3	0	3

"He lifted weights while he was out of action to strengthen the upper portion of his body and complemented his reconditioning by jogging lightly and doing calisthenics once the crutches were off. He had his first real contact exactly a week before the game and we were delighted with his performance."

North Quincy's Final Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Kelly	6	0	36
Mahoney	5	0	30
Lippens	3	2	20
Zink	3	0	18
King	2	0	12
Davis	2	0	12
DeVarennes	2	0	12
McCleery	0	9	9
Panarelli	1	2	8
Linnehan	1	0	6

Also hailed by their coach were quarterback Steve Sullivan, whose passing was pretty well bottled up by the alert North secondary after three early completions but who gained a lot of yardage rushing; Wayne Richards, a surprise starter after being given a last minute go-ahead by a team of doctors and whose punting was brilliant [averaged more than 33 yards with seven punts], and little Frankie Pellegrino, who filled in well in the backfield.

Quincy recovered a North fumble on the first play from scrimmage but Sarruda intercepted a pass in the end zone to end that early threat.

A few minutes later the teams traded fumbles near midfield and following a Panarelli punt, the Presidents drove 80 yards for their first touchdown. Sullivan hit Provost for 15 yards and Menchi for 15, each making a fine catch, then passed to Provost again for 10. Provost went 18 yards through tackle to the three and Sullivan scored on a sneak. McCarthy kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Early in the second period deVarennes halted another Quincy drive with an interception on his three but was hit hard on the spot by Menchi.

Quincy's Joe Goguen intercepted a Lippens pass deep in his own territory but following a fine Richards punt, the Raiders drove 63 yards for their touchdown.

Lippens ran for 14 yards, thanks to a fine block by Mahoney, then hit Zink for 16 yards. Kelly made eight, Lippens added three and, with fourth and one, Lippens made a real Johnny Unitas-type call by passing to Zink for 24 yards and the score. The hoped-for tying kick by Brian McCleery never came off as the pass from center was fumbled.

Midway in the third period McCarthy took Panarelli's punt on the bounce on his 13, was apparently stopped several times but broke several tackles, picked up blockers and steamed the 87 yards for a touchdown as Maver blocked out the last defender.

Maver's field goal clinched the decision early in the fourth period with Provost holding.

"Although this was the first time we had tried a field goal, Bill has practiced them and was doing well, so we weren't surprised with his fine kick," Conroy admitted.

Billy couldn't hide his elation as he jumped up and down in glee as the ball split the uprights.

Rich Menchi again turned in a superlative two-way performance at end and his tackling and blocking were outstanding. Maver, the other end was little short of sensational and it was his block which cut down the last man on McCarthy's dazzling run.

Conroy went on to laud Bob Sylva, back after missing two games with an injury; sophomore Ron Smith, who appears to have a tremendous future; Dave Omar who didn't miss a minute this year on offense, Jim Bucchinari and Bob Gallo in the offensive line.

He also had high praise for the entire defensive unit of Menchi, Maver, Bob Conti, Joe Russo, Dennis Waters, John Milkowski, Sylva, Bobby McDermott, Jim Walker and Provost.

"The defense did a great job of containing [Tony] Kelly, who had been averaging 100 yards a game [48 yards in 17 carries] and that's possibly why we gave up the short pass," Conroy went on. "You have to give up something to keep something else down." North's Paul Lippens hit on nine of 17 passes for 135 yards and the touchdown, but had three grabbed off by the alert Presidents.

Frazier thought his Raiders moved the ball well but the fumbles hurt them considerably. He praised Lippens, who did some outstanding running in addition to his passing and felt the blitz paid off well. He also hailed the secondary but admitted it was so good covering the pass receivers that it enabled Sullivan to pickup good yardage rushing.

"Our linebackers, Steve Murray and John Panarelli, were great and Jimmy Sarruda was superlative," Ralph continued. "Greg King was great running back punts and kickoffs and nearly ran one all the way back [Maver stopped him after a 48-yard return]. Jim deVarennes, Kelly, Dan Zink, Dave Mahoney and Lee Davis also performed exceedingly well."

Lippens' touchdown pass was his 11th of the season. Sullivan threw 15 scoring passes for the Presidents and also passed for eight conversions. He threw for 1063 yards with 71 completions in 123 attempts.

Total Crowd 20,000?

15,336 Pay $17,222.22 To See 38th Classic

How big was the crowd at THE GAME?

Apparently somewhere between 15,336 and 20,000.

The official paid attendance at last week's 38th Thanksgiving Day grid classic was 15,336 reports Athletics Coordinator Carl Leone.

They paid $17,222.22 to watch one of the best games in the long series.

But observers estimate the actual number of persons who saw the game may have been as high as 20,000.

The "extra" non-paying fans would include members of the two high school bands, cheerleaders, guests and those who perched on the walls in trees or lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

Anyway, this would still leave the 1946 game as the biggest crowd attraction in the history of the series. Back then some 18,003 paid their way in.

And, recalls Jack Donahue, who coached North Quincy for 37 years:

"Although the official paid attendance in 1946 was 18,003, I bet there were 25,000 people watching that game."

One police officer said he thought last week's crowd was over 18,000 and also credited the erection of snow fences in front of the stands on both sides of the field for avoiding any trouble with the fans.

"There were only 20 of us on duty and if the crowd had ever surged on to the field, we couldn't have stopped them," he said. "These snow fences really did the job and thank goodness we had no trouble at all."

Leone said that 10,000 tickets were sold in advance of the holiday, a record number.

Every seat in the stadium was filled by 9 a.m., an hour before game time.

Maver Kicks First Goal

Thanksgiving was a day of "firsts" at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

In addition to Quincy finishing its first perfect season in history, grabbing its first undisputed Greater Boston League title and a share of the Eastern Mass. Class A Crown, Bill Maver kicked the first field goal in the 38-year old Quincy-North series.

"I was surprised we got the call for a field goal and was surprised he [Coach Hank Conroy] picked me," Maver admitted. "I had never tried one before in a game, but had practiced kicking them. John Provost did a good job of holding for me."

In the second game of the series in 1934, Vic DiGravio kicked one for Quincy but it was nullified by a penalty and the game wound up in a scoreless tie, one of three in the series.

DAN ZINK bounds into end zone for North's lone TD on 24-yard pass play from Paul Lippens in second period which left Raiders only one point behind [7-6] at half-time. Escorting Zink to pay dirt is Lee Davis [No. 30] while Quincy's Wayne Richards [No. 40] loses pursuit.

JOHN PROVOST finds hole for Quincy yardage in first half before being sidelined with bruised hip and ribs. No. 55 is North's Steve Murray and No. 40 is Quincy's Wayne Richards.

THROUGH the hoop goes North Co-Capt. Jim Sarruda as team trots onto turf of Veterans Memorial Stadium for game. Holding hoop are Loretta Ardini and Judy Santacross.

NORTH ROOTERS whoop it up as Raiders move toward second period touchdown.

HI-JINKS are as traditional as the Quincy-North game itself. Gravestone inscribed "Here Lies North" was a big hit with the Quincy fans but Raider rooters didn't quite appreciate the sense of humor.

Swan Song For Many Seniors

The Thanksgiving Day classic was the final football game for many players on both teams.

Seeing their last schoolboy action for Quincy were:

North players in their final game were:

Steve McCarthy's Dad A Quincy 'Convert'

Until Steve McCarthy, who broke the Quincy-North game open with a beautiful 87-yard punt return for the second Quincy touchdown, entered Quincy High, his father, Harold, was an avid North Quincy rooter.

And this was natural, as Harold went to North Quincy High.

"We moved to Adams Shore in 1948," said the elder McCarthy, "but I rooted for North until Steve entered Quincy High. I'm a loyal Quincy fan, now, however."

When Steve, playing his first game since he broke a bone in his leg on Oct. 17, made the stunning run, one of the North Quincy faculty wives in the press box was heard to comment, "And, to think his father went to North Quincy."

Red Sox Well Represented At THE GAME

The Red So were well-represented at the Quincy-North Quincy game last week.

As usual, Quincy's Sam Mele, a special scout for the Sox, was present as he has been nearly every year since becoming a Quincy resident.

And watching the game from the press box was Art Keefe, statistician and assistant director of public relations for the Sox.

Art was brought up in Quincy, attending elementary and junior high school here before moving to Westwood. He is a Westwood High graduate.

Art may have been leaning just a bit toward Quincy. His sister went to Quincy High and if he had remained in Quincy, Art would also have been a Quincy student.

Leone, Rickson Kept Busy

Quincy's Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone and Coordinator of Physical Education Ken Rickson were busier than the proverbial one-armed paper hanger at the Thanksgiving football classic.

In addition to performing varied duties before and during the game, Carl and Ken served coffee and doughnuts at halftime to many alumni, school and city officials and other guests.

Instructional Ski Program Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department's instructional ski program for Quincy residents is underway.

Recreation Director William F. Ryan said the program is designed for all age groups. The four divisions will meet separately for a series of three indoor sessions at the Wollaston School gymnasium, Beale and Taylor Sts.

The first session will include a briefing and demonstration on purchasing ski clothing and equipment.

Mats will be used on the gym floor to check equipment for safety. Participants will then start to learn to walk on skis. A simulated ski slope running from the stage to the floor will enable them to get the feeling of skiing downhill. Other indoor sessions will include instructions in basic ski fundamentals. Movies and other visual aids will be used by veteran instructors Bill Ellis, Don Holton, Bob Mitchell, Mike Benedict and Nancy Jennings.

The indoor sessions schedule: High School group Wednesday [started last night] 7:30 p.m.

Elementary [at least 6 years of age] through the fifth grade, Saturday 2 p.m., starting Dec. 5.

Junior High group: Saturdays, 3:30 p.m., starting Dec. 5.

Adult group Thursdays 7:30 p.m. starting tonight.

Outdoor sessions will again be held on Heavenly Hill at the Furnace Brook Golf Course, South Central Ave. Those interested may register for this free course during the indoor sessions.

A second series of three indoor sessions will be scheduled after Christmas.

Salvucci Fired As AIC Grid Coach

Gayton Salvucci, an all-time backfield great at Quincy High, has been fired as American International College football coach after 15 years on the job.

Gay was informed by President Harry J. Courniotes that his contract will not be renewed.

Salvucci, a brilliant halfback at Quincy, held AIC's scoring and rushing records until they were broken last year by Glenn Dumont.

He has had many Quincy players with him at AIC and many Scituate boys who were sent there by Scituate Coach John [Butch] Mahoney, a former North Quincy great who starred at AIC.

Mahoney played for Salvucci, held the school's punting records and was named to the AIC all-time football squad.

One of Mahoney's Scituate stars, Bruce Laird, was a standout the past two years for Salvucci, being one of the country's top defensive backs, excelling as a runner and this year led the New England small college punters. Laird will be a co-captain for AIC next year.

Seven Houghs Neck Manets Receive All-Star Trophies

Seven Houghs Neck Manet football players received All Star trophies at their annual awards banquet recently at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall. The team tied for first place in the Quincy Youth Football League.

Trophies went to Steve Burke, Mike Donovan and Shaun McGunigle for their outstanding offensive efforts, while Brian Mitchell, Mike Floridia and Richie McCann received the trophies for defensive ability.

Rick Maher received the coveted "Coaches" award.

Jackets were given to all players who because of age limitations will not be returning to play with the Manets next year. They are: Rick Maher, Shaun McGunigle, Steve Burke, Mike Donovan, Bob Boyle, Rocco Vecchione, Bob Vecchione, Mike Floridia, Tom Laughlin, Rich McCann, Brian Mitchell, Bond Doucette and Rich Pacetti.

Sweatshirts were given to all other players: Steve Hobbs, Jim Forrester, Chuck McCarthy, Jeff Little, Jack Powers, Chuck Reynolds, Dave Anastasia, Kevin Murphy, Brian Picard, Skip Lamphere, Bill Brennan, Bruce Hodges, David Dean, John Riley.

Waterboys returning next year are David Burke, Tommy Brennan and Bill O'Neill.

The team this year had Bob Boyle and Tom Laughlin of Merrymount who made fine contributions, says head coach Joe Amyouny.

Jack Bogan of the Quincy High School coaching staff was guest speaker.

Assistants to Amyouny this season were Tony Ianello, Vin Vecchione, Mike McNally and Jim McNally.

COMMON COLD QUIZ

The common cold is probably one of the first diseases to beset man. While you blow your nose, test yourself on these expounded theories.

1. Sex and age have no bearing on susceptibility to colds. FALSE: Women have less resistance to colds than men. Children have colds more than adults.

2. Feed a cold and starve a fever....FALSE: A common sense, normal diet is recommended for patients with a cold or a fever.

3. Colds are spread through direct personal contact. TRUE: One sneeze can spray thousands of infectious droplets which may float in the air for more than an hour.

4. Cold pills will cure your cold. FALSE: A cold cure hasn't been discovered yet, but some drugs can ease your discomfort. You can help ward off colds by keeping resistance high with a balanced diet, sufficient sleep and staying away from persons with colds.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

N. Quincy Man Named Administrator For Neponset Health Center

The Board of Directors of the Port Norfolk Health Committee announces the appointment of Spencer T. Maidlow of North Quincy, as Administrator for the Neponset Health Center in Dorchester.

The Neponset Health Center, working cooperatively with the Carney Hospital, was established by a group of concerned residents from the Neponset area of Dorchester to meet the primary health care needs of the residents.

These 14,000 residents are without the services of a physician in their neighborhood, and transportation to the nearest hospital requires three changes on a public conveyance. The Health Center is located at 383 Neponset Ave., Dorchester.

December 17 marks the official opening of the center, which will be staffed by two physicians and one registered nurse on a full-time basis, in addition to administrative and secretarial personnel.

Maidlow received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from the University of Michigan in 1968, and continued his studies at the University's Graduate School of Public Health, where he received his Master's Degree in Hospital Administration in 1970.

His experience in the health care field includes senior laboratory and pathologist's assistant at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, Mich., and assistant to the director of University Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan. During the summer of 1969, he completed an administrative externship at University Hospital.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Maidlow comes to New England from Michigan. He currently resides at 211 West Squantum St., with his wife, Kathy, an elementary school teacher in the Boston school system.

Recruit Enlistments Open For Quincy Sea Cadets

The Quincy Division of the U. S. Naval Sea Cadet Corps is now accepting recruit enlistment of boys between the ages of 14-17.

The Naval Sea Cadet Corps is an all volunteer, youth training organization of more than 7,000 boys aged 14-17 years. Federally chartered in September 1962, the Corps is jointly sponsored by the Navy League of the United States and the Department of the Navy.

Sea Cadets are afforded the opportunity to study in the various disciplines including oceanography, naval officer's preparatory courses, medicine and construction.

The sponsoring Naval activity provides curriculum, classroom facilities, training aids, textbooks, and authenticates the Cadet's progress in his modified Navy enlisted training record.

Cadet Classroom Training is authorized aboard non-classified Navy shore establishments, ships and planes of the Navy.

In addition to the classroom instruction, extensive instruction is provided in water safety, military bearing, personal hygiene, moral guidance, Navy history, customs and traditions. Cadets are given presentations explaining civilian and military career opportunities during counseling periods.

In addition to the academic disciplines, Sea Cadets are authorized to attend two week training at one of the Navy's Boot Camps.

Qualified Cadets who have previously attended Bootcamp enjoy the privilege of training aboard fleet and reserve ships. Special Training periods for cadets are scheduled during holidays and summer vacations.

Another excellent source of training that the Navy affords the Sea Cadets is the Navy correspondence course program. Cadets who wish to obtain additional training in specialized fields for petty officer ratings or study in areas which will benefit them in preparing for Navy officer programs are authorized to enroll in non-classified correspondence courses.

The program offers Cadets the opportunities to train in Naval disciplines at Naval activities, complete the advancement requirements aboard ship and, when qualified, to enlist in the Navy or Navy Reserve at the advanced E-3 rate. Additional Cadet training is beneficial for these Cadets applying for Naval Officer Programs.

Volunteers from the Navy and civilian communities are needed as instructors or Sea Cadet Officers to strengthen the quality of leadership and training for these young men who have registered a strong interest in our Navy.

Boys who wish to enlist in the U.S. Naval Sea Cadet Corps are requested to report to the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center, 85 Sea St., Quincy, between 7 and 9:30 p.m. any Friday night.

New 'This Is Your Life' Planned

Will the "monkey business" never end?... Twentieth Century-Fox's 1971 release of "ESCAPE FROM THE PLANET OF THE APES" is a sequel to "BENEATH THE PLANET OF THE APES", which as some of you may recall was a sequel to the "PLANET OF THE APES"... The Simian stars of APES I and II, RODDY McDOWALL and KIM HUNTER, recreate again in APES III their roles of Cornelius and Zira respectively... The purpose of the sequel to the sequel was due to the supposed overwhelming viewer demand for these "intellectual" Ape yarns... Such is the condition of the motion picture industry as we enter the bright new year of 1971! What the public "demands" THEY more than get dished out... And no, CHARLTON HESTON will not be involved in any way with the histrionics of APE III... After a three year hiatus PATRICIA NEAL goes before the cameras in MGM's "THE ROAD BUILDER"... Her husband, writer ROALD DAHL, is scripting the scenario for Miss NEAL's first made-in-Britain film...

Underground superstarlet VIVA surfaces to the top in her first Hollywood fling, "DEALER"... The former ANDY WARHOHL "discovery" plays the role of a well-to-do Hollywood marijuana pusher in the upcoming GERALD AYRES production... GENE HACKMAN and KAREN BLACK have supporting roles in VIVA's first "legitimate" motion picture... JOHN GAVIN was re-elected first vice president of the prestigious Screen Actors Guild... The Wyatt Earp syndrome continues to flourish on and on. CURTIS KENYON is producing the tentatively-titled "WYATT EARP, WHERE ARE YOU?" for Cinema Center Films... This makes the 14th Earp oater filmed in the past four decades... HELMUT BERGER, who rocketed to fame in "THE DAMNED", stars next in AIP's "DORIAN GRAY"... YUL BRYNNER goes all out in the heroics department in the World War II action-drama, "BATTLE OF NERETVA"...

JACK CASSIDY has a featured role in the BETTE DAVIS-ERNEST BORGNINE starred, "BUNNY O'HARE"... The motorbike-bank robbery, comedy will be released in the early part of next year... Master villain CHRISTOPHER LEE notches his 111th flic with the Amicus production of "I, MONSTER"... BONANZA is now aired in 83 countries, which makes it the most widely distributed television show in show biz history... An updated version of RALPH EDWARDS "THIS IS YOUR LIFE" is on the agenda of ABC-TV's new 71 second season... Newcomer BEN MURPHY is a PAUL NEWMAN look-a-like. You'll see what I mean when you catch him on the new western series "ALIAS SMITH AND JONES" that begins in January... English funny girl WENDY CRAIG is considered the BBC-TV's "most popular woman comedy star"... The "STOREFRONT LAWYERS" and "THE BOLD ONES" are holding their own on the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. top ten tele-shows... And while on the subject of top rated programs, did you know that "THE HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS" "SCOOBY DOO, WHERE ARE YOU?", and "JOSIE AND THE PUSSYCATS" are the top three Saturday morning kiddie shows... The three tot shows are put out by HANNA-BARBERA of "FLINTSTONE" fame...

CARL FOREMAN will soon tackle the WINSTON CHURCHILL biopic, "YOUNG WINSTON"... Thus far over 10 years of research have gone into the screenplay of "WINSTON"... GEORGE LAZANY discards the James Bond image none too quickly in the "UNIVERSAL SOLDIER"... Shades of nationality pay prejudice in movies: FERNANDO REY, of "TRISTANA" excel'ence, was "paid" a paltry $7 grand for his efforts in that international blockbuster... DAVID LEAN's film of "RYAN's DAUGHTER" set a new house record at its world premiere engagement at the Ziegfeld Theater in N.Y.C... Still haven't seen "JOE" yet?... If nominated, will GEORGE C. SCOTT refuse an Oscar nod like he did several years back?... Playwright EDWARD ALBEE nixed an idea by RICHARD BURTON and HENRY FONDA to revive the stage success "WHO's AFRAID OF VIRGINIA WOOLF?"... The reason?... ALBEE didn't go along with the BURTON-FONDA thinking of staging a "homosexual" version of this classic... SIDNEY POITIER is a member of the board of trustees of Virginia Union University. As a trustee, the personable Mr. POITIER has pledged 5% of the net proceeds from his next two films to the school... BOB HOPE and FRANK SINATRA have been named co-chairman of TOOTS SHOR's swank new, New York City health spa... For those thinking of joining this newest of celebrity clubs, the initiation fee is a "mere" $1,000... Well, maybe next year...

Memo to MRS. COLLINS of WEYMOUTH who was miffed at this columnist's suggestion that singer GLEN CAMPBELL "comes across as too goody, goody". As fine an entertainer as Mr. CAMPBELL is, he happens to strike this reviewer with far in excess of "fruit of the earth phoniness"... I will agree with you that the boob tube is polluted with far too much "trash", and that GLEN CAMPBELL is a refreshing wiff of clean air amidst the present decadence of 1970 tele-viewing... However, TWO extremes do not make a right!...

McCormick Calls For 'Full Explanation' On Rink

Quincy School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., a member of Mayor James R. McIntyre's special skating rink committee, says release of information on the proposed $600,000 municipal rink came as a surprise to the committee.

"The committee was somewhat surprised to read of the City's decision in as much as they had not been informed," McCormick said.

"Since this statement has been made," McCormick continues, "I believe a full explanation is owed the people of Quincy who, I am sure, will question where the money will come from."

The statement McCormick refers to was issued by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, a member of the ice skating rink committee, while serving as Acting Mayor.

Mayor McIntyre appointed a committee to look into the feasibility of a municipal, enclosed ice skating rink.

The committe included:

Quincy Athletics Coordinator Carl Leone, chairman; Robert Silvia, Quincy High School hockey coach; Robert Laing, former North Quincy High School hockey coach; City Auditor Alexander Smith; Recreation Director William Ryan.

Robert F. Hayes, a hockey enthusiast; John Lynch of Wollaston; Richard J. Koch, executive secretary Quincy Park-Recreation Board; Tobin and McCormick.

"This committee spent many hours plus numerous trips out of the state and within the state to look at other skating facilities to help in forming a recommendation to be presented to the Mayor," McCormick explained.

"The site recommended was at Merrymount Park located between the Collins' "Rest-a-While" and Adams Field.

"The reason for the selection was its central location, with no abutters, and easy accessibility.

"The committee is aware that legislation by the House of Representatives will be necessary for this site to be made available.

"The figure of $600,000 was an architect's educated guess as to cost. It isn't a flat figure. Nobody knows exactly what it will cost.

"The committee had in mind a rink open 11 months a year, possibly 24 hours a day," McCormick said. And the income would pay for the bond issue, which was intended to be for a period of 10 years. Rentals would be handled by a professional manager. Use of the rink would be open to all ages, including senior citizens.

"It would include all our own hockey programs in Quincy Public Schools," McCormick added. "At present getting ice time for the schools to practice is very expensive, and at ungodly hours."

Germantown Youth Council Needs Your Help . . .

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The Germantown Youth Council needs help.

The teenage group needs any kind of recreational equipment, furniture, or any item that could possibly be used in a Youth Center.

Using limited funds available to the non-profit Council from sale of tonic, etc., the council, working in groups, has worked hard redecorating their center on the second floor at 9 Bicknell St.

The building was from 1852-1949 the old Sailors' Snug Harbor, and from 1949 to the present, headquarters of the Quincy Housing Authority which permitted teenagers use of the second floor. On Dec. 7, when the Housing Authority moves to new quarters on Martinson St., the building will be taken over by the Harborview Residents Club.

The Germantown Youth Council has been supervised by Barry Welch of the Quincy recreation department, and is open Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

"There are hundreds of teenagers in Germantown who need a place to spend their free hours in the evening," a spokesman says, and any donations will be greatly appreciated.

Persons interested in contributing articles may call the Germantown Service Center weekdays between 9 and 5 p.m., or Monday, Wednesday and Thursdays between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. at 471-1189.

Council members working on the project are Janet Crowe, Carol Beliveau, Terry O'Day, Steve O'Day, John Duyette, Robert Goldie and Donald O'Connors.

Dr. Creedon Commends Students For Behavior At Quincy-North Game

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has commended the students of North Quincy, Quincy and Quincy Vocational-Technical High Schools, for their conduct at the Quincy-North Thanksgiving Day game.

In letters to principals John W. Walsh, North, Lloyd M. Creighton, Quincy, and Laurence Babin, Voc-Tech, Dr. Creedon commended students "for the exemplary manner in which they conducted themselves in connection with the tension-provoking, emotion-filled, traditional football game between Quincy and North Quincy High Schools."

Dr. Creedon commended the atheletes who conducted themselves "in the highest tradition of competitive schoolboy sports," the bands and cheerleaders, and "the individual conduct of each one of the thousands of our fine students who follow football and come out to support, until they are hoarse, their high school team."

Copies of Dr. Creedon's letter were sent to Henry Conroy and Ralph Frazier, coaches for the two schools, and to the presidents of the senior class and student council at each school.

Mayor Appeals For Money

Delinquents Owe City $4 Million

Mayor James R. McIntyre today appealed to delinquents who owe the city more than $4 million in taxes and hospital bills to pay them now to help ease "a serious" tax situation next year.

The $4.1 million, representing $20 on the tax rate includes:

- $2,683,368 in Quincy City Hospital bills through 1970 thus far.
- $1,050,258 in 1970 real estate taxes.
- $254,483 in 1970 auto excise taxes.
- $105,496 in auto excise taxes for the years from 1964 to 1969.
- $70,643,000 in 1970 personal property taxes.

"We are facing a real serious situation taxwise in 1971 as revaluation, in all probability, will become effective then," McIntyre declared.

"These are very, very critical times.

"I appeal to the people of Quincy to pay their taxes and hospital bills before Dec. 31 so that the money can be used for a favorable effect on the 1971 tax rate.

"Every dollar that comes in will help offset the tax increase.

Preset tax rate is $132.20.

McIntyre said it is impossible at this time to predict the 1971 tax rate because department budget needs are not yet known.

Department heads are now preparing their requests.

"Until I receive them, prune them and submit the total budget to the City Council by mid-February, I cannot estimate what next year's tax rate will be," he said.

But the ominous wording of his appeal for tax and hospital bill revenue indicates he anticipates a substantial tax increase for next year.

Houston said the $4.1 million still owed represents $20 on the tax rate. This is based, he said, on the formula that each $200,000 equals $1 on the rate.

Houston noted that the vast majority of Quincy property owners have paid their 1971 real and personal property taxes.

As of this week some $25,333,133 had come into the city till, he said.

"But the money that is still owed, is needed," he emphasized.

Graham To Be Named?

Callahan Planning To Retire As City Assessors Chairman

William J. Callahan, chairman of the Quincy Board of Assessors, reportedly plans to retire early next month.

Speculation around City Hall is that Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham will be offered one of the board posts resulting from Callahan's retirement.

Callahan, who is 68 and lives at 85 Sea Ave., Houghs Neck, has been chairman of the three-man Board of Assessors since 1960.

His service as an assessor, however, dates back to Feb. 2, 1953 and the Plan E administration of City Manager William J. Deegan, Jr.

Callahan's salary as chairman is now $12,359. The other two assessors, John P. Comer and Elmer K. Fagerlund draw $10,360 salaries.

City Hall observers believe Comer is the strong contender for chairmanship of the board.

Smyth Proposes Quincy, Milton Take Golf Course

City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth proposes that Quincy and Milton jointly acquire the Wollaston Golf Course if other steps to preserve the area as an "open space" site fail.

"I am against, and will fight proposed plans to construct a $40 million apartment complex on the Quincy side of the Wollaston Golf Course," Smyth said.

Smyth said he supports Rep. Joseph E. Brett's legislation which would make $3,000,000 available to the MDC to purchase the 92-acre facility and retain it as a recreational facility.

"However, if this couldn't be accomplished," Smyth said, "then I am in favor of Milton and Quincy floating a municipal bond to acquire the area."

The golf course comprises a combined land space of 56 acres in the town of Milton and 36 in Quincy. The Quincy acreage would be affected by any proposed development.

"The State Street Bank and Trust Co. has the proposed option to purchase the land

Jessel Goes On In Darkness At Police Benefit

True to tradition, the show went on at Quincy High School auditorium at the Quincy Police Betterment Association's benefit program despite a power failure.

George Jessel, star of the show, performed in darkness last Friday night for three-quarters of an hour, singing Al Jolson sons and telling jokes, before an audience of some 700 to 800 persons.

The Betterment Association donated $2,100 in Scholarships and other charitable contributions from the proceeds with $500. each to North Quincy High School and Quincy High School for scholarships; $500 to the Quincy Police Boys Club; $500 to the South Shore Mental Health Association, and $100 to St. Coletta's in Braintree.

Carmen DiRamio is president of the Association. Robert Edgar was chairman of Committee which included William O'Keefe and Richard Mendal on his committee.

Christmas Should Be Noted In Schools, Says Creedon

[See full text on Page 9]

Christmas should be noted in the schools, says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"It is my opinion that the public schools have an important role to play during significant religious holiday seasons," Dr. Creedon said in a publication of the Massachusetts Teacher in 1968.

". . . If the state performs its role sensibly and with good judgment, then religious symbols, carols and the like can be an integral part of its program."

Dr. Creedon, with a note to all administrators on "Observance of Christmas Within the Schools," again this year is enclosing a copy of the article, suggesting it as a guide that might be helpful.

You'll Soon Be Able To Keep Smut From Being Mailed To Your Home

The Postal Service is preparing for participation by millions of Americans in a new anti-smut program designed to provide mail customers blanket protection against mailers of sexually oriented advertisements.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said the program, to begin Feb. 1, will be an important weapon in the Nixon Administration's battle against pornography.

"This program probably will be the most novel means in use in the world for controlling the flow of sexually oriented materials through the mail," Blount said.

Participating citizens will need only give their names and addresses to the Postal Service to guard against being sent sexually oriented ads, even if they have never received such materials.

The new law will allow an individual to ask the Postal Service, for himself and on behalf of his minor children under 19, that he not receive such material from any source.

Once a person's name has been on the list more than 30 days, the prohibition becomes effective, and a mailer must not send sexually oriented ads to him.

If a mailer sends sex ads to a person named on the Postal Service list for 30 days or more, the mailer is subject to civil action or criminal prosecution.

A sexually oriented ad is defined in the Postal Reorganization Act as "any advertisement that depicts, in actual or simulated form, or explicitly describes, in a predominantly sexual context, human genitalia, any act of natural or unnatural sexual intercourse, any act of sadism or masochism, or any other erotic subject directly related to the foregoing."

The anti-smut provision, contained in the recent postal reform law, is commonly called the Goldwater amendment after its sponsor, Senator Barry Goldwater.

Blount said the Goldwater provision will complement the existing 1968 Pandering Advertisements Law, which allows citizens a means to shut off mailings from a particular smut peddler.

The two laws differ in major respects.

The older provision left it up to a customer to decide whether the material advertised was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

Under the Goldwater provision, the advertisement must come within the legal definition of a sexually oriented advertisement. And the statute requires that the mailer's envelope alert addressees that it contains sexually oriented ads.

The Postal Service has proposed a legend which would state on the outside of the envelope, "Sexually Oriented Ad."

The Postal Service is preparing millions of forms for distribution to post offices throughout the nation which customers may sign to have their names placed on the checklist. The names will be kept current in a computer.

General Counsel David A. Nelson said the list will be sold by the Government for the purpose of enabling mailers of sexually oriented advertisements to comply with the law.

"The statute prohibits anyone from selling, leasing or otherwise using the Postal Service list for any other purpose," Nelson said.

Urges Serposs Fund Stand As It Is

Editor, Quincy Sun:

In 1943 Ervant Serposs signed a will. It stipulated where certain portions of monies shall be placed. But mainly it so stated that a service to the inhabitants of Houghs Neck shall be available in the form of a clinic, and it shall be in memory of his late wife, Elizabeth.

Throughout the will it mentions Quincy Visiting Nurse Association. Nowhere does it mention money being spent for a youth center, or combining medical aid and youth center.

We raise the question of the legality of the taking of $22,000 to $26,000 from the fund.

We question whether or not medical aid will be available for 21 years as it is set up now.

We question the need of the transfer from the Atherton Hough school to a proposed site on a main street, heavily trafficked, and in the opinion of some, not wise to have those in need of medical care thrown in with the young. Both may be restricted to their endeavors.

We question the feasability of children being transported to a new location during school hours. Who would have the responsibility of the child's safety? As it is set up now the child received the medical or dental care without leaving the school premises.

We raise these questions because it has been suggested in The Houghs Neck Community Council Bulletin to combine two services, namely a health center and a youth center at no cost to the city, but will involve taking of funds from the Serposs Clinic.

We have seen proposals and amendments tacked on to other bills, and they have not worked. We feel the Fund should be left as it is. It has been successful, workable, and to our knowledge nobody has complained until this plan has been devised.

It has taken from 1943 to 1970 for this fund to be built up and the interest accrue to its present rate. We ask you to look to the records of other wills that have been broken, and the money dissipated. It was not the intention of the maker of the will to combine these two.

We question the cost of maintenance, heat, light, etc., custodian in a new location. We question the cost of renovation of suggested site.

We plead with those who have used the services, and those who will use it in the future to let the will stand, as it was intended .... "to be used only as a clinic under the terms and provisions in paragraph 'SIXTH' hereof"...

Two City Employees Praised For Service

Two veteran city employees retiring this year were praised at Monday's Council meeting by Councillor John J. Quinn when an order for their pensions was introduced.

John D. Reid, 70, general foreman with the Quincy Park Department for more than 36 years, and William C. Walden, 65, a superintendent in the Forestry Department for more than 37 years, were commended for an "outstanding job" for the City.

Reid was praised for the "excellent way in which he has worked for the Park Department", and Walden for his work "especially with Dutch elm trees and planting trees throughout the city."

The sum of $649.26 was voted for Reid's pension from Nov. 30 through Dec. 31, 1970, and $346.20 for Walden from Dec. 15 through December 31, 1970.

He received the award for his assistance in helping the Vietnamese to develop an excellent civilian hospital in South Vietnam.

Fish Of Greater Value Than A Human Life?

Editor, Quincy Sun

The Events of the past week illustrate the ambivalence of the commitment of the Federal Bureaucracy toward those imprisoned by Communist regimes.

On the one hand, the Nixon Administration has made an attempt, albeit unsuccessful, to free American POW's in North Vietnam. This is commendable, for it marks the first sign of official action indicating concern for these men by an Administration. America owes a debt to these men, a debt whose payment is overdue.

Of course, any act of initiative by the President brings on a flood of complaints from the Fulbrights, McGoverns, and Muskies. It should not be forgotten that this crew of malcontents was running the government through the 1960's. Their fiscal irresponsibility and military indecisiveness have brought our country to the present state. Now they should shut up and let Nixon follow his own policies to correct matters.

The second event was a sad one - for it needlessly cost a man his freedom and perhaps his life. The return of the Soviet sailor to his ship after his plea for asylum was inconsistent with American human values. What justification Admiral Ellis had for ordering the return is not clear - it seems as if fish are of greater value than human lives.

As you think of the many American POW's who languish in primitive Communist prisons, think also of the millions of men, women and children of Estonia, Latvia, and other European nations, who have existed for decades under Soviet repression, and think also of the sailor who attained freedom on Monday, November 23, 1970, and had that freedom given away a few short hours later.

Clock Running Out On Quincy Champs

It's $5,000 In, $10,000 To Go For Orange Bowl

The fund-raising drive to send the Quincy High's undefeated football champs to the Orange Bowl Jan. 1 is on the $5,000 line with $10,000 to go.

Goal of the campaign, urged by the Quincy Fathers Club, is $15,000. And, the clock is running.

If sufficient money is not raised within the week, plans will have to be shifted to send the squad on a vacation trip [illegible] Expert observers [illegible] Bermuda, The Bahamas or Florida.

Pledges of $700 from the South Shore National Bank, $200 from the Hancock Bank and $100 from Remick's yesterday put the campaign just over the $5,000 mark.

Earlier in the week, team members collected another $320 at the gates at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

David Reinstein, owner of Howdy Beef 'N Burger on Southern Artery, got donations rolling in the business community with a $200 contribution this week.

Harold McCarthy, father of backfield star Steve McCarthy, is chairman of the fund-raising campaign.

Quincy Fathers Club officers working with McCarthy in the fund-raising campaign are James (Buddy) Pape, president; Victor Craig, vice-president and Frank Osborne, secretary-treasurer.

Working with them is the Board of Directors: C. Herbert Listman, Americo Speranzo, George Bucavalas, Dante Lauretto, Francis Hand, Arthur Richards and George Molla.

Contributions so far include:

South Shore National Bank, $700.

Hancock Bank, $200.

Howdy Beef 'N Burger, $200.

Remick's, $100.

Quincy City Wa[illegible] Department employees [illegible] Ernest J. Mor[illegible]

Liberty Club, $20.

Quincy High [illegible] Maintenance [illegible]

Miscellaneous donations [illegible]

Fathers Club members and other volunteers continued the campaign with a collection at the General Dynamics shipyard gates. Amount realized there was not immediately determined.

McCarthy reports that canisters have been placed in many business firms and stores in the city and others are yet to be distributed.

Some $2,668 was collected by team members and cheerleaders along the South Shore Christmas Festival Parade to launch the fund-raising campaign.

The fund-raising campaign which started Nov. 29, got some big boosts the past few days.

But the [illegible] team could beat during the first perfect season in the school's history and its record slightly "blemished".

The champs, believe [illegible] not, dropped an 21-7 game to the faculty-coaches and teachers from both Quincy and Vocational-Technical Schools.

BUT, it was two-hand touch football and the Presidents had to perform under a slight handicap. Each member played an opposite position-backfield men [illegible] line and linemen in the backfield.

[illegible] spectators turned out for the game and donated $648 when the hat [illegible]

Buy A Christmas Tree, Help Needy Youngsters

An 11-day sale of Christmas trees by the Quincy Jaycees again this year will help make the holiday a happier one for at least 50 underprivileged Quincy children – maybe more.

The Jaycees' sale begins Saturday and will continue through Dec. 23 at the A-Mart parking lot on Southern Artery. Members will be on duty weekends from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and on weekdays from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale of 650 freshly cut Scotch pine and mixed trees will provide a Christmas shopping spree in a Quincy store for the youngsters, whose names are selected by the Visiting Nurse Association.

"Ninety-nine percent of the shopping is for other members of the family," Jaycees President William recalled of last year's youngsters. "That is the way they usually wind up -- they never seem to want to buy anything for themselves!"

David Mercier and Robert Calnan, chairmen for the sale, are recruiting members as salesmen.

On their success depends the number of children who will do their "Christmas Shopping" on Dec. 19.

Building Proposed For HN Youth Center Is Sold

The building at 1095 Sea Street proposed for a Houghs Neck Youth Center has been sold.

Papers were passed this week transferring the building from Frank and Myrtle Ermoian, proprietors of Sunnyside Market, to Charles Rowbotham, Rowbotham, owner of Sea St. Garage and Sea St. Marine at 1093a Sea St., will use the building to consolidate marine equipment displayed in a store directly across the street, and from his warehouse on Allerton St.

Edwin Boyce of North Weymouth, his son-in-law, will continue the business with him.

Proposed Family Planning Clinic To Be Discussed On Dec. 15

The Rover

I'm gonna go west as soon as I can,
Get out of the city, that's what I plan.
Away from the smog, far from the crowds,
To acres of peace and celestial clouds.

This is the goal of many a man's heart,
Many are bound, yet few get to start.
Ties to a job, and the girl down the hill,
Are reasons why some never will.

I once had a job, and a love so true,
Life was just great, problems so few.
I lost my job but our love was still strong,
And then she met another, things turned out wrong.

Yet life goes on, as one must cope,
With the collapse of a dream, and realize there's hope.
And now with nothing I set new sites,
Hoping to make it, to attain greater heights.

So now it's time to leave my home,
To search for myself as the country I roam.
Because now I'm a nomad, known as a rover,
For me there is time, time to start over.

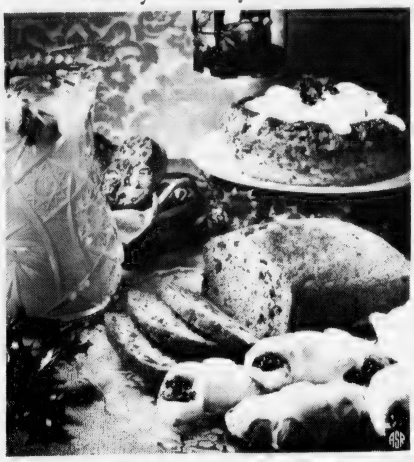
Santa Claus

By Margaret DeAngelo

Dear little grandson, so puzzled because,
Somebody said there's no Santa Claus.
Someone had added discord to your song,
Listen little fellow, these sceptics are wrong.
Sure, there's a Santa-there is no doubt
Throughout every Christmas he's ever about-
Spreading the spirit of comfort and cheer,
Giving out presents, drying a tear.
You may not have seen him-there is no proof,
But perhaps he is right now, eyeing your roof.
A dreary old world, my child, it would be
If we only could have the things that we see.



You

By Jeanie DiBona

The world revolves around you
My life depends upon you
You and you alone
Gave me a reason to live
You and you alone
Gave me all the love you had to give.

My love is so big and wide
That it could fill the sky above.

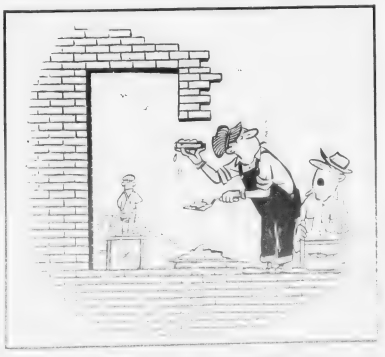
Hearty Holiday Brunch

Here's a brunch that's worth a little extra fuss to do your own thing for big appetites. For a unique "starter" serve:

Hearty Holiday Brunch

Combine 4 cups (32 oz.) unsweetened pineapple juice with 4 cups (32 oz.) apple juice and 1 can (6 oz.) frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed. Slowly add The Uncola, chilled. Pour into large pitcher. Add ice cubes. Makes 40 (4 oz.) servings.

Upside-Down Caramel Puffs



⅓ cup brown sugar, firmly packed	¼ cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons butter or margarine	1½ cups biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon cinnamon	1 tablespoon sugar
	½ cup The Uncola
	1 egg, slightly beaten

Heat oven to 400°F. Mix first 4 ingredients to form a smooth paste. Press about 1 teaspoon of mixture into bottom of 12 greased muffin cups; sprinkle with pecans. Combine biscuit mix and sugar; add The Uncola and eggs; mix well. Fill muffin cups ⅔ full. Bake 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven. Invert pan onto waxed paper. Serve warm. Makes 12 puffs.

Complete brunch with Creamed Eggs in Sausage Ring, Date-Nut Loaf, Prune Rolls.

I see you

Sun Signs
By Regina Russell

Week of Dec. 11 - 18

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Changing your mind now will necessitate a lot of explaining on your part to avoid an upset in career or domestic matters.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - You may find yourself "pushing" in the wrong direction and it may be better to use energy for research or for study.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Any mistakes you make now can cause you a lot of headaches so keep your mind off yourself and use care in all undertakings.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Tend to all your affairs with special care to avoid mistakes or accidents. Even then, some things will need repeating later.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - If you make mistakes now you will get a chance later to correct the errors. There is still no peace on the home front.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Get your projects off the ground right now, expecially if you want repeat action. Tempers may be short so use discretion.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Unless special care is taken, accidents could be serious. Look for errors in all contracts and understand fully what you sign.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Social affairs will bring many benefits and repeat invitations. Short trips should be enjoyable especially if a group is involved.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Purchases made now may tax the budget for some time to come. Be sure you read the fine print in the contract.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - If you are buying a major item, be sure it's what you really want. A friends aggressive action can involve you - talk to them.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - The action going on now is not to your benefit but there is little you can do except sit tight for now. Make your move next month.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - If your creative endeavors depend on social contact, you should be right in the thick of things with all those invitations.

It's In To Be Thin

Nativity Pageant Service Sunday At United First Parish Church

The annual nativity pageant service of United First Parish Church [Unitarian] will be presented by children of the church school Sunday at 7 p.m.

Directing the pageant service, always a part of the traditional decorating of the church, are Mrs. Meredith Anderson, director of the parish school; Gretchen McKay, chairman of the education committee; Gale Harrison, director of music, and Dr. Bradford E. Gale, minister.

William T. Flavin will be soloist, and Mrs. William C. Edwards, Jr. will accompany folk music to be sung by the children's choir. The Youth Choir of the church will sing traditional anthems and carols.

Assisting Mrs. Harrison, organist, as instrumental accompanists will be Michael Kingsbury, guitar; Eve Edwards, guitar; and Kerry Berger, recorder.

Members of the youth choir are Amy Hahn, Grace Guppy, Neil Flavin, Janme Mudge, Denise Zipp, Carol Kirshmit, Doreen McKay, Jeanne Park, Kathleen Park, Laurel Wainwright, Stephen Wainwright and David Harrison.

Greeters and assistants include Ruth Lawson, Janice Hall, Kenneth Kingsbury, Charles Park, Joseph McDermott and Clifford Edwards.

Others participating are Steven Donovan, Bryan Donovan, Ellen Hannaford, Christine Weed, Michelle Cutler, Debbie Lawson, Kristin Berger, Sandy Edwards, Nancy Edwards, Lilleen Berger, Judy Lawson, Scott Flavin, Donna Keto, Debora Weed, Wendy Anderson, Crissy Anderson, Anthony Damigella, Allen Kingsbury, Russell Horton, Ricky Smith, Christine Weed, James Weed and Robert Mudge.

Director assistants are Marge Berger, Lee Edwards, Natalie Donovan, William T. Flavin, Carol Weed and Rev. Gale.

The traditional opening of the Christmas season began Nov. 29 with the lighting of the first Advent Candle by the parish school children, and will come to a climax at the Family Festival Service of Celebration on Dec. 20.

Curtain Call Theatre To Present Christmas Pageant On Sunday

Curtain Call Theatre will present its second annual Community Christmas Pageant Sunday at 4 p.m. at First Parish Church, Unitarian, Quincy Square.

The dramatic and musical recreation of the first Christmas will have a cast of 80 players and singers directed by Bud Berlenbach, assisted by Priscilla Brayton. Costumes are by Edith Burke.

Purpose of the program is to emphasize the original meanings of Christmas: Love, Peace, Brotherhood and Good Will to all men, and to perpetuate the culture and spirit of Christmas with an ecumenical type program for people of all ages and religions.

After the pageant, there will be a procession from the church across the street to the Hancock Cemetery where a statue of the infant Jesus will be placed in a manger in a creche set up by City workers.

The program is open to the general public, and is a part of the Quincy-South Shore Christmas Festival.

'Night Of Miracles' Cantata Dec. 13 At Salem Lutheran

"Night of Miracles", a Christmas cantata, will be presented at Salem Lutheran Church Dec. 13 at 9 a.m. by the church choir, directed by Ethel Berg, minister of music.

Taking part will be Judy Carr, Barbara Berg, Jean McKenney, Susan McKenney, Margareta Rundquist, Charisse Collins, Dorothy Johnson, Betty Franceschini, Bern Turnquist, Herbert Berg, Robert McAfee, Stanley Butman and Carl Lofholm.

The Youth Choir will sing "Rejoice, Rejoice, Ye Christians" by Mozart.

At 11 a.m. there will be an Advent Service with sermon by Rev. Bertil E. Hult, pastor.

Carolling for shut-ins is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. by choir members, Luther Youth Fellowship, Sunday School teachers and pupils.

Rev. Stuart Haskins To Speak Sunday At St. Chrysostom's

Rev. Stuart Haskins of Union Congregational Church, Wollaston, will speak Sunday at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, at the 11 a.m. worship.

This will be a pulpit exchange with Rev. William Underhill, who will speak at Union Congregational Church in the last of a series in which all ministers of the Inter-Church Council preach in all of the member churches.

Rev. Douglas MacIntosh of Memorial Congregational Church will speak at Atlantic United Methodist Church, in an exchange with Rev. Robert Bossdorf at 11 a.m.

Latin America Topic Tonight For UN Council

James Goodsell, since 1964 Latin-American correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, will speak at tonight's [Thursday] 7:30 p.m. meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore at First United Parish Church hall, Quincy Square.

Goodsell will discuss "Latin America in the Toils", discussing the Chilean election and other recent events. Goodsell is acquainted with President Allende's political background and has interviewed members of his cabinet.

His reports on Cuba, on the revolution in the Dominican Republic and on Latin-American news in general have won for him three newspaper awards.

A question period will follow the talk. The program is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Leslie Parrott To Speak At Advent Service Dec. 16

Dr. Leslie Parrott, president of Eastern Nazarene College, will speak Wed. Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. at the second Advent Service of Atlantic United Methodist Church.

Music will be by The Happy Faith Singers under leadership of Jan Handy, of Eastern Nazarene College. The singers provided music also for the first service at which Rev. Peter Marshall of East Dennis Community Church was speaker.

Rev. Robert Bossdorf, pastor, will lead devotions.

Carol Service Sunday At First Baptist

A carol service will be held at First Baptist Church of Wollaston Sunday Dec. 13 at 7 p.m.

Robert L. Brown will be organist, and all choirs of the church will participate.

Refreshments will follow in Fellowship Hall.

'Schools Have Important Role'

Should Christmas Be Observed In Public Schools?

[The following article was written by School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon for Massachusetts Teacher in 1968. He is recommending that school administrators use it as a guide for noting Christmas in the schools this year.]

By DR. LAWRENCE P. CREEDON
Superintendent of Quincy Schools

Christmas pageantry in the public schools --
- Is it unconstitutional?
- Is it legally permissible?
- Is it advisable in a pluralistic society?

Before attempting to treat these and related questions we might pause for a moment and ask a few questions that are frequently considered to be prerequisites to the main issue. [1] Is the topic worthy of further discussion? [2] Has not the question of religion in the public schools been settled once and for all[[3] Isn't it true that people are so emotionally involved over the subject that continued discussion is fruitless?

The fact this article is appearing in the Massachusetts Teacher is evidence that in the judgment of some people educators can benefit from further exploration of the issue.

A cursory glance at the historical record indicates that the view of the American people has changed several times relative to the recognition and celebration of Christmas. In 1639 our Puritan ancestors legislated against the celebration of Christmas. During the next two hundred years it was pretty much a case of business as usual - including school - on Christmas Day.

It was not until the middle of the 19th Century when Irish and Italian immigrants came in large numbers to these shores that the negative attitude began to change. In Boston Christmas was not recognized as anything but a regular workday until 1856, and the public schools of the city did not dismiss classes on that day until 1870.

At the turn of the present century Unitarian leader Edward Everett Hale was able to comment, "In my boyhood days every court, every shop, and all markets and banks went on during Christmas Day, as on other days."

Obviously the public attitude toward Christmas has changed since Dr. Hale's time. Across the land Christmas is observed not only as a Christian religious holiday but as a civic one as well.

In 1961, a national survey on religious practices in public schools was taken among 2,183 school superintendents. The results indicated that Christmas was being observed in 88 percent of the school systems sampled. Thanksgiving came in second with observances in 77 percent of the school districts. Hannukah was listed by 6 percent and Passover by 2 percent.

The survey reported that Bible reading was conducted in only 42 percent of the school districts sampled.

In 1963 the United States Supreme Court ruled that Bible reading as part of the regular opening exercises in the public schools was unconstitutional under the First Amendment as it applies to the several States under the Fourteenth Amendment. But, the question of Christmas observances was not before the high court; therefore, it did not rule on the issue. Consequently, the constitutionality and the appropriateness of Christmas pageantry in the schools is still in the arena of public dialogue.

The extent to which the 1963 Supreme Court decision has had an effect on Christmas observances is a moot question in that it is not perfectly clear that the high court ruling has changed the Bible reading practices in all the public schools of the nation. A survey of 16,000 principals conducted this year showed that approximately 25 percent of the nation's high schools are continuing to hold religious observances the court found unconstitutional.

The same report indicated that some school districts have gone far beyond what the court decided and have banned every reference to religion, including removing copies of the Bible from library shelves.

In that the courts, and particularly the Supreme Court, have never acted on the specific question of Christmas observances there is no precedent or decision that can be alluded to as finding such practices unconstitutional. The question that remains for educators and school committees to wrestle with is: In what way can Christmas, a civic holiday as well as a religious feast day, be observed in the public schools of a pluralistic society?

Some educators would have every reference to Christmas eliminated from the public schools. Several years ago an article appeared in School and Society wherein the author took strong exception to existing practices. The author suggested that Christmas could not be observed in the public schools in that it cannot be validly stripped of its religious significance and treated as a national holiday. To attempt such a thing, he concluded, was a mockery of a Christian holiday.

The same author went on to remark that it was folly to try and connect Hannukah and Christmas together in that they have little in common.

By no means is that author alone in his view. In the next few weeks educators and clergymen as well as civil rights and religious freedom groups will add their voices to the existing chorus. In many instances that which will be said will be nothing more than the restatement of a view long held.

The position of the American Civil Liberties Union has been clear for some time. A 1960 policy statement of the Illinois division of the ACLU adequately expresses the organization's view on Christmas observances in public schools.

The ACLU advocated:

1. That there be no display in public schools of religious symbols such as the Nativity scene, crucifixes, the Star of Bethlehem or angels.

2. That Christmas songs like 'Frosty the Snowman', 'Here We Come A-Wassailing', or 'We Wish You a Merry Christmas' be substituted for traditional carols with religious content like 'Silent Night' or 'Hark the Herald Angels Sing'.

3. That 'non-sectarian' aspects of Christmas be allowed in public schools. These can include Santa Claus, the stocking on the fireplace, holly wreaths and candies."

The ACLU group further advised that broadening the observance to include Hannukah did nothing to make it more permissible.

Traditionally Jewish groups such as the American Jewish Congress have supported the ACLU position and have opposed Christmas-Hannukah pageantry in the schools.

Proponents for some recognition of Christmas in the public schools have by no means been silent. The Pilot. Catholic weekly of the Boston archdiocese, anticipated the ACLU statement by Commenting in an editorial:

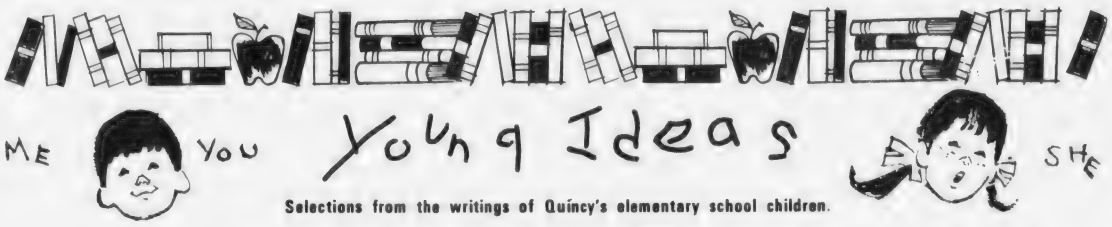
"Concerning the Christmas celebrations in the schools, we feel there is an item about which our non-catholic neighbors should be reminded. Christmas in the United States is a civil holiday and every civil holiday has a right to be celebrated in the public schools in some manner. As long as Christmas continues to be a civil holiday, it will be impossible to rule out Christmas pageants which can be interpreted to explain the meaning of the civil holiday to the children. The place to begin, for those who want action, is to remove Christmas from the civil list and make it only a religious feast: at that point its celebration in the school loses its right to exist."

In analyzing the two positions note that the ACLU has conceded that "non-sectarian" aspects of the holiday can be recognized in the schools, while The Pilot has pointed out that Christmas is a "Civil holiday" and as such should be observed in school. The question is: With reference to Christmas can "non-sectarian" on one hand and "civil holiday" on the other, be brought together in any meaningful and generally acceptable way? Can Christmas be observed without reference to the nativity?

In 1964 the American Association of School Administrators attempted to wrestle with the problem. The AASA stated that, "a public school, whatever the feelings of its constituents, may not observe Christmas as though it were a church or combination of churches." [For clarification it should be pointed out that to the knowledge of the author no church or combination of churches is making such a request].

The AASA advised that schools cannot ignore Christmas because the holiday is "encrusted with tradition and reinforced by widespread government examples.. "The organization went on to point out that schools have a duty to "support and protect the religious development" of children in the public schools.

The recommendation of the AASA was that the schools observe Christmas "In the spirit of exposition of the differing rites and customs of families, cultures and creeds - each with deep meaning for its adherents and in sum revealing the many different religious, philosophical and cultural practices and beliefs held by Americans."



As indicated earlier there is no court decision that can be pointed to as a simple authoritative guide relative to Christmas pageantry in the schools. However, in Massachusetts we are not without a legal opinion on the matter. As a result of the 1963 Supreme Court decision on Bible reading Commissioner Owen B. Kiernan requested from Attorney General Edward W. Brooke an opinion relative to a multitude of real and hypothetical practices involving religion in the public schools. Among them was the question of Christmas observances. Attorney General Brooke's response to Commissioner Kiernan has been regarded by many as one of the best legal opinions to date on the subject. Consequently, it seems appropriate to conclude this article by quoting in its entirety the Attorney General's position. Attorney General Brooke has advised:

"Sensible programs to illustrate the religious history, and universal significance, of these holidays can be significant to the education of American youth. The Christmas and Easter holidays constitute a fact of American life, simply because the population is overwhelmingly Christian. To overlook this fact because of its religious orientation would leave the child in a vacuum.

Plays depicting the origins of Christmas and Easter are of importance in promoting understanding among Christian and non-Christian children; and many schools, according to my understanding, also produce plays of Hannukah and Passover, to complement this purpose. The healthy pluralism of America is likely to stand or fall on the degree of knowledge and understanding which exists among the various groups of society. The public schools are appropriate places in which to develop such understanding.

Being religious in nature, the symbolism cannot entirely be avoided. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that the state cannot participate to such an extent as to amount to an endorsement of the religious dogma of the holidays. Such participation would be unconstitutional. Accordingly, I again can only say that the whole program must be evaluated, with reference to the following, among other factors: The extent to which symbols, such as a Christmas tree or Nativity scene, were utilized as a part of the overall educational process; the extent of which the universal concepts such as peace on earth and good will toward men were stressed; whether or not ceremonies peculiar to any form of orthodoxy were emphasized; the extent to which the teacher used the seasons to promote understanding and tolerance, as opposed to any particular form of orthodoxy; the extent to which other religions and religious holidays were discussed; the character of religious sons, such as Christmas Carols or more traditional religious hymns and the extent to which they were sung in connection with the seasonal holidays and as an integral part of the school program relative thereto.

In short, it is my opinion that the public schools have an important role to play during significant religious holiday seasons. Notwithstanding the high religious content of the holidays and of any program relative thereto, the primary purpose of the schools in this matter must be to provide essential and general background and promote understanding. It can not be to endorse any particular form of orthodoxy or otherwise to materially enter the area which might properly be considered, as Jefferson said, between 'man and his Maker'. Where the line between the proper and improper is to be drawn, as I have indicated, cannot be stated categorically. Many varying factors must be considered in each questioned case. But if the state performs its role sensibly and with good judgement, then religious symbols, carols and the like can be an integral part of its program."

Fashions

By Valerie Collins &
Patty Fontaine
John Hancock School

We have interviewed some people from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades about fashions. We have found that all the answers are about the same.

Fourth Grade

Carol Toshes thinks the mini length looks best. She likes little heel, also. Her parents like the mini, too. She likes high boots because they keep her legs dry and warm. She likes dresses that go straight down. She likes plaids and plain clothes.

Patrick Delcourt likes maxi because he thinks it looks good on girls. He likes straight dresses on girls. For himself, he likes bellbottoms. He'd like to have a leather coat. He prefers regular shoes. Patrick prefers not to wear suitcoats and ties because they're uncomfortable.

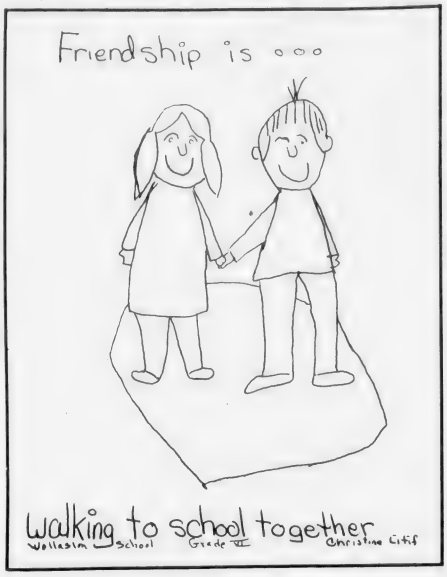
Fifth Grade

Susan Gaides prefers the mini length. She likes it because it looks pretty. She likes her heels to be a regular small heel. She likes knee boots. She prefers her dresses to be flaired. She likes to wear plain-colored clothes.

Roberta Roche likes the mini length as most girls do. She has no particular reason for liking it. She prefers low heels. She likes knee boots. She prefers straight, dresses and psychedelic clothes.

Sixth Grade

Donna Blake likes the mini length. She likes it best because she thinks maxi looks like a dress that's too big for you and a midi is too fancy. She say's that her parent's like mini.



She likes her shoes to have a medium heel. She likes knee boots. She likes both flaired and straight dresses. She likes plaids and plain clothes.

Brian Sciarini likes the mini length on girls. He likes it because it shows girls legs. He likes bellbottoms on boys. He likes the cloth coats. He prefers regular shoes, not wearing a suitcoat, and not wearing a tie because it is uncomfortable.

Sleeping Out

One day in the middle of July my friends and I decided we would sleep in my friend's backyard for a night. We got lounge chairs to sleep on. We got pillows and blankets too. In my friend's yard she had a shed. A few feet from that she has a big pile of rocks. We had all sorts of candy, potato chips and tonics with us. Everyone talked until midnight and then went to sleep. The next morning before it was completely light out, we had our breakfast. Everyone was picking up wrappers when from the corner of my eye I saw something move from the shed to the rocks. I looked again and saw a rat run from the rocks to the shed! And ever since then I've hesitated to go in her yard again.

The Night We Slept Out

One night last summer we slept out in our shed in our back yard. We fixed it up in the evening. Then we brought our sleeping bags out and lay them down.

We went into the house for some popcorn and tonic. We got a radio and went to stay.

We were out for about 15 minutes when it started! Everything was quiet. Soon we heard foot steps. Someone was knocking on the side of the shed. We wanted to go into the house. We looked outside. There stood a skunk! We did not care so we got our things and run right by. We spent the rest of the night in the house.

One Night At The Beach

One night my girl friend Kim and I were on the sea wall. She said, "Hey, watch those dark clouds way over!" So I did. They must have been far a way. We saw lighting. It is in Massachuttes." I said. She said it is in New Hampshire. We sat along the wall from 8:00 to 9:00 at night, just watching lighting. I thought this would be interesting for people to hear. It lit up the clouds, but all the stars were out. Way over was the lighting and lit up one of the clouds purple and red. There was one beautiful dark orange color.

My Trip To California

We got up on June eighth to start our journey to California. We had gotten out of school the Friday before. We were going to travel across the country by car. We had planned to reach Buffalo the first day and see the falls. There was nothing really interesting on the way to Buffalo. When we got there we went over the border into Canada and saw the American Falls and the Canadian Falls.

The next day we got up at five thirty in the morning and drove all day. We passed Lake Erie and I thought it looked awful dirty. We ended up the day in a town called South Bend, Indiana.

On the third day we passed over the Mississippi River into Missouri. We saw the Golden Arch when we crossed into St. Louis.

On the fourth day we crossed the Texas Panhandle into New Mexico. There we spent the night in Gallop, the capital.

On the fifth day we reached the Grand Canyon. It looked like a wonder and that it was man made instead of natural.

The next day we reached our destination which was Fountain Valley. We spent the next ten days sight seeing. We saw Disneyland, Sea World, Knotts Berry Farm, Mexico, Universal Studios, Bush Gardens and Safari Land.

We started home and reached Nevada the second day. We passed through the top part of the desert and believe me it was hot. My sister had desert fever. There wasn't any doctor for at least eighty miles. We stopped at a motel with a swimming pool but we couldn't go in because we'd get a bad sun burn. That night was 122 degrees which was kind of hot.

The next day we went into Salt Lake City and then into Wyoming. It was hot but not as hot as it was in Nevada. We took a sidetrip up into the mountains and the snow drifts were ten feet high. It didn't feel cold because we were hot. On the way down the mountain [which was 10,000 feet high] we saw rapids and lakes. Down in the valley it was hot again.

The next day however we got caught in a twister which was right outside Oklahoma City. The twister blew over two old sheds and a couple of houses. We couldn't see more than five feet ahead of us.

The rest of the trip was more or less the same as if we were going across.

Fall Leaves

Fall is the time of the year when the leaves turn different colors.

They start with green and end with Brown.

The shape is like a beautiful queen's Crown.

People wonder what is here, by of course, fall is here.

A Day At George's Island

One day I went in my friend's boat. We went around the islands and then went on George's Island. We went to a big house. My friend and I crept through a window to get in. When we got in my friend showed me the Lady in Blacks coffin. When I was going ahead I heard a banging noise. I ran back and my friend was not there. Next I heard a noise that said "Get out of here or I shall kill you". It sounded like it came from the coffin. I was so scared I forgot my way out. Then I looked in the coffin and my friend was laying there and looked like he was dead. I ran and yelled for help. I heard the coffin door shut again. I went back to look in and he was gone. I was yelling for help again and heard my friend laughing. I said if he did that again I would kill him so he would need the coffin! Then we went back to the boat and went home.

Plymouth On The Drag Pix

I am a racing driver and I am in the Indianappolis 500. I have six other dragsters. I have Fords - Plymouth - and Dodges. My hobby is racing my Dragster.

If you are going to race dragsters, for the first time, be very careful, because when I was driving a dragster for the first time, I got in a car accident. I broke my back, my legs and my wrist. I was under the car, crashed. I almost died. I am happy to be well again.

Be very careful will you? From my experience I would caution you to be careful driving dragsters.

83 Pollard Kindergarten Pupils Learn True Thanksgiving Meaning

Thomas B. Pollard School's 83 kindergarten children learned the meaning of "Thanksgiving" by helping others to have a better holiday through contributions of canned goods for two Thanksgiving Day baskets given to needy families.

The project was under the direction of Miss Linda Palumbo, student teacher from Bridgewater State College, with the assistance of Mrs. Dorothy Flate and Miss Diane Bryan, kindergarten teachers, and John's Fruit Company, who provided the baskets.

Taking part in the project were: John Balzano, Denise Belivue, Joseph Borden, Thomas Corliss, Sharon Cronin, William Cullen, Denise Downey, Joseph Godfrey, Dawn Higgins, Janine LaFleur, Stephanie Lagos, Joseph Maloney, Daniel Pitts, James Ricciarelli, Thomas Scott, Mary Thibodeau, Patricia Travers, Linda Whyte, Mathew Ryan, Audrey Burgess.

Richard Brandi, Glen Capucci, Scott Casman, Charles Cochrane, Robert Cormack, William Curran, Joseph Donovan, Peter Dubois, Sidney Hajjar, Jeanette Henck, Melinda Joseph, Margaret Joyce, Nancy Latham, William Mayo, James McDonough, Robert Olsson, Kenneth Pica, Susan Pratt, William Schumacher, Margo Usery.

Celeste Costello, Karen Burns, Debra Allegrini, Patricia Briggette, Gerard Britt, William Canney, James DelGreco, Kathleen Doherty, Beth Ann Fitzgerald, William Foley, Karen Fragose, Joseph Harte, Kenneth Johnson, Deidra LaBelle, Rebecca Marcus, Helen Murphy, Adam Pizzi, Patrick Ryan, Heather Slicis, Timothy Trythall, James Smith, Denise Blanchette.

A 1966 graduate of Quincy High School, Seaman Bernstein will report for Radar Class [A] School at the Great Lakes Training Center.

Five Quincy Officials To Attend School Cost Study In Brockton

Five Quincy officials will be among representatives of 13 Southeastern Massachusetts cities and towns to meet in Brockton Saturday as part of a state-wide study of school planning and construction costs.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and Asst. Supt. Rudolph A. Lofgren, Public Works Commissioner John M. Browne; and School Committee Vice Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., will represent Quincy.

The meeting at Brockton High School auditorium is one of several slated in a year-long study designed to assist Bay State municipalities now facing a critical shortage of school building space.

The study was commissioned by the Massachusetts Advisory Council on Education, which has commissioned the Boston architectural firm of Campbell, Aldrich and Nulty to carry out the study through a team of architects, cost consultants, educational consultants, lawyers and security analysts. Nelson W. Aldrich of the firm is project chairman.

The shortage of schools, it was pointed out by Aldrich, is due to the great length of time required to plan and construct them, and the rapidly increasing cost in school construction.

"Building costs are rising at a rate which far exceeds the national growth rate or a community's ability to pay," Aldrich said, adding that inflated interest charges aggravate the problem.

The study was commissioned to examine every phase of the school building process with a view to introducing 'system building' into Massachusetts schools.

System building, according to Aldrich, employs standardization of details, prefabrication of components, tighter scheduling and better organization of its operations.

"A key feature of the system built schools is increased flexibility of room arrangement to insure that future changes may be carried out with a minimum of time and money. Such flexibility is a built-in insurance policy against premature obsolescence that has afflicted so many of our schools, Aldrich explained.

A second series of meetings is planned after preliminary information has been gathered so that regional information may be exchanged.

HEROIN AND METHADONE

One approach for treating heroin addiction is the methadone maintenance program. This program involves switching an addict from heroin, which can cost $50 a day, to methadone, a synthetic substitute that can be made legally available for about 15 cents for a day's dosage. Administered as part of a total rehabilitation program involving counseling and therapy, methadone eases heroin withdrawal and block's heroin's euphoric effects. This enables an addict to function normally and hold a job - something few heroin users can do. But methadone itself is addictive. Those who use it must either be helped to taper off from the synthetic, or continue their habit for the rest of their lives.

Many authorities object to substituting one form of addiction for another. However, those addicts enrolled in the program see it as their only hope for leading a relatively normal life.

City Council Resolve Makes Quincy 'No. 1 Team' In State

Quincy High School's first undefeated football team since 1905 has now received official status as the "Number One Team" in the state, by vote of the Quincy City Council Monday.

A resolve introduced by Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall and unanimously passed by the nine City Councillors, reads:

WHEREAS, the City of Quincy has been blessed with two [2] fine football teams, North Quincy High, led by Head Coach Ralph Frazier and his staff, a team that was 3 points away from an undefeated season until Thanksgiving's Traditional game, and Quincy High School, a team that fought for the first undefeated team since the year 1905.

WHEREAS, the Blue and White of Quincy High exemplified by their Spirit and Courage met and defeated 9 straight Class "A" football teams,

WHEREAS, The Coaching Staff led by Head Coach Henry Conroy and his fine coaching, conditioned and taught their squad to be gentlemen, leaders and outstanding athletes and students,

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the permanent records of the City of Quincy show that Quincy High Football Team be listed in all the official records as the "Number One Team" in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1970.

Kiwanis Club To Hear Annual Reports Dec. 14

Kiwanis Club of Quincy will hear annual reports at its Dec. 14 business meeting at 12:15 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA. Alexander E. Warmington will preside.

There will be a general discussion of club business, and a vote on a change in the bylaws adding the office of President-Elect.

Survival, Inc. Thanks City Council For Support

Gratitude for the "endorsement and support" of the goals, programs and results of Survival, Inc. are contained in a letter read to the City Council Monday from Ronal G. Rosso, M.D., coordinator, and Charles Djerf, M.D., president of Survival, Inc.

The letter said:

"Particularly appreciated was your sponsorship for our fund raising at the Thanksgiving Day football game.

"The waste of people and property, which is brought about by drug abuse and youth alienation, is a problem for the whole Quincy community. The singular efforts of any one institution or profession, whether it be medical, law enforcement, educational, legislative or even a comprehensive program as Survival itself, will not solve this problem. Experience from across your nation teaches us that the solution to this problem is found in the cooperative efforts of the whole community.

"That you have recognized this need for involvement and cooperation and are thereby giving your support to Survival should give hope to the citizenry of Quincy who anticipate the promise of Survival. We decry those who, for sensationalism or other questionable motives, have exaggerated or perpetuated any public misunderstanding. Your efforts in establishing comfortable lines of communication between City Government and Survival, Incorporated should be appreciated."

"Since the goals, programs and results of Survival are now "speaking for themselves", you may be assured that your endorsement and support will be appreciated not only by the people of Quincy but throughout the Norfolk County area."

The letter was read at the Council meeting by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

City Council Passes $4.9 Million Loan Order For New S-W School

A new South Quincy school to replace the John Hancock and Lincoln schools progressed a step nearer to reality at Monday's City Council meeting when a loan order for $4,900,000 was passed.

The action came just the night before a scheduled tour of John Hancock School, built in 1886 and Quincy's oldest, by invited officials and news media.

It followed public announcement by a group of mothers from the Lincoln-Hancock Schools and the South-West Quincy Community Council that the tour would take place.

They listed 14 "deplorable" conditions at the 84-year old school.

Motions to remove the order from the Finance Committee and to pass it were made by Councillor John Koegler and Councillor Albert R. Barilaro, who represent the South-West area.

The construction of the school was proposed three years ago. Land requirements of the state necessary to receive State aid have delayed its start.

Some 20 to 22 homes are affected by land taking necessary to secure the area needed.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has again asked the School Board to reconsider its requirements, but has had no reply yet.

Also passed was an additional bill for $45,989.75 for the Squantum School addition, found necessary when a vein of peat was unexpectedly uncovered.

USS Orr (Bobby) To Be Built In Quincy

Production is scheduled to begin shortly by LeClair Model Shipbuilding Company of North Quincy on the DD 681, to be named the USS Orr in honor of hockey player Bobby Orr, announces Charles LeClair, president.

The new ship will be a sister to the recently completed USS Melvin.

The World War II model of the Fletcher class will be three feet long, with a beam 5½ inches wide, will weigh 13 lbs. and have a speed of two knots when motorized.

Mayor James R. McIntyre is company secretary.

A keel laying ceremony is scheduled for April 25, 1971, after the hockey season is over, in the hope that Orr will attend and initial the keel to bring the ship luck.

55 New Firefighters Complete Rigid Training

Fifty-five new Quincy firefighters are "ready for the alarm" after completing an intensive two-week training program.

The men, hired to implement the new 42-hour work week granted the department by Mayor James R. McIntyre and the City Council, were put through their paces by Capt. James Craig, Department Training Officer.

The courses covered all phases of fire fighting and rescue operations including:

- Climbing and descending the five-story 70-foot high drill tower at Central Headquarters working with a pompier ladder, slide life-line, and jumping into a net.
- Ladder work, including aerials.
- Pumping operations.
- Hose layouts.
- Use of breathing apparatus.
- Use of fire extinguishers on various types of fires.
- Use of foam equipment on gasoline and oil blazes.
- Use of various rescue equipment.

The men, who took and passed the vigorous course, are:

John Cummings, Anthony Innello, Ronald Mattes, Stephen Bonfiglioi, Stephen Ericson, Anthony Rinella, Jr., Donald Morey, Joseph Graham, Joseph Farley, Eugene Griffin, William LaRaia, Thomas O'Connor, William Campitelli, William Center.

'Class Will Tell'

Champs Finally Lose One - - To Faculty

"Class will always tell," said Quincy assistant football coach Gene Macomber, following the faculty's 21-7 win over the Presidents' undefeated Greater Boston League champions in a touch game at [illegible] last week.

Nothing Unusual About Shoff Until . . .

In jacket, slacks and loafers he looks like any other stocky, 5-8, red-headed college student.

Put him into cleats and a red and white ENC soccer uniform, however, and he steps out of the ordinary.

"He's as good a soccer player as there is in New England," said ENC Coach Bob Jack, a former British Army player and a local amateur coach and professional soccer referee for many years.

"Stevie's greatest asset is the fact he has a booming shot with either foot and he has the ability to keep his shot low and on the net.

"He also has a terrific head. He's not very big, but he's quick and he has the ability to get up off the ground and get his head on the ball."

This ability has helped Steve, whose father Rev. Robert Shoff is director of development at the Wollaston school, to break every scoring record in the six-year history of ENC soccer.

In 12 games this fall Shoff scored 26 goals and had 15 assists. He finished second in the Colonial Intercollegiate Soccer Conference scoring race with 11 goals and five assists. His biggest day of the season came against Roger Williams College when he scored six goals and had four assists as ENC won 12-1. His scoring, in fact, was the big reason the Crusaders finished with an 8-3-1 record. The best soccer record in the school's history.

"If Steve gets free in front of the net he's especially hard to stop," said Coach Jack. "He can control the ball with his foot the way a basketball player can control the ball with his hand. He can dribble, step around a defender, and bang.

"Steve also is the team leader. He scores a lot himself, but he also has the front line working together, passing off and hitting the open man, so that the other players are scoring more than they ever did before as well."

Because of his outstanding play this year Shoff was named as the center-forward on the Colonial Intercollegiate Soccer Conference All-Star team, along with teammate Doug Sorenson, a halfback from Russell, Pa.

What makes Shoff's accomplishments even more outstanding is that he played the entire season with an injury.

"He's been hobbled by a swollen thigh muscle ever since the Merrimac game, the first game of the season," said Jack.

What would Shoff have done if he had been healthy?

"I don't know," said Coach Jack. "What he's done with the injury is outstanding enough for me."

North Quincy Hoopsters Eye Three Objectives

North Quincy Coach Bob Nolan has led four of his five basketball teams into the Tech Tourney.

This year Bob and his Raiders have three objectives: win the Greater Boston League championship, make the Tech for the fifth time and to survive the first record for the first time.

A year ago North, finished the season with a 10-4 league record and 12-5 overall mark. The Raiders made an outstanding showing in the Tech but dropped a hard-fought decision to Durfee, one of the top-rated clubs as the Tech jinx continued to haunt North.

This year Nolan has four lettermen and several other experienced players and feels his club can give everyone a battle in the league title chase.

The lettermen are seniors Ken Baker and Dan Zink, 6-3 co-captains; and Brian Donahue, [6-1] and 6-8 junior Tom Cairns, who could be one of the Raiders' key performers.

Other seniors are Bob Flaherty [5-10], Tony Kelly [6-0], Leo Papile [6-3], John Walker [5-9], and Jeff Sheehan [6-2].

Other varsity players are Dave Nelson [6-2], Bob McKay [6-0], Dave Mahoney [6-0], Jim Driscoll [6-5], and Charlie Santoro [6-2].

"We have two excellent leaders in Baker and Zink and both should have a fine season," Nolan said. "Donahue should score well, Kelly will see service both at forward and in the backcourt, Papile is a good rebounder as is Sheehan, and Flaherty and Walker are excellent playmakers."

Cairns played basketball for the first time last year as a sophomore and came along slowly but was looking good by the end of the season.

"He still has only a year of experience and I don't want to put him on the spot, but he should help us considerably this season," Bob explained.

"We have good height and experience and I hope the seniors will take the lead and the juniors will give them good support. I look for Somerville, Quincy and Revere to be among the top teams in the league this year."

Joe Amorosino, who has led the junior varsity to several outstanding seasons, continues as jayvee coach with Ron LaQuaglia as freshman coach, Bill Willoughby and Mario Casale as junior high coaches.

The Raiders, who open their season on Dec. 18, will meet Revere Friday night at 8:30 at Somerville in the league's first jamboree. The clubs will play two seven-minute periods.

Nolan is proud so many of his players through his five years have gone on to prep school and college. Last year's graduates include Craig Bogosian, attending Cushing Academy; Bob DeRosa, Northeastern U.; Dan McKay, Kimbal Union Academy; Joe Orlando, Providence College; Rich Sanderson, Mount Hermon, and Jim Small, North Adams State College.

NEAAU, Navy Indoor Track Meet Dec. 29

The 25th annual indoor track meet sponsored by the NEAAU, First Naval District and Boston Naval Base, will be held Dec. 29, at 1 p.m. at Murray Hall, Navy Recreation [Fargo] Building, 495 Summer St., Boston.

Capt. A. H. Galvin, USN, Commanding Officer, Boston Naval Base, will host about 3000 athletes.

In the past 25 years, 68,000 youngsters have competed in the Navy-NEAAU Meet, sanctioned by the Mass. High School Principals Association, according to Capt. Ralph H. Colson, USNR, NEAAU chairman.

Many of them have been from Quincy and North Quincy High schools and junior high schools of the city.

Athletes participating in NEAAU open events must be registered with Frank Hull, Secretary, NEAAU Office, 69 Canal St., Boston.

Entries close at midnight, Dec. 19, with Colson, Mass. Senior Supervisor of Physical Education, Health and Safety, 24 Holmfield Ave., Mattapan, 02126.

Schoolboy entries must be signed by school principal, track coach or faculty manager.

Elks Lead Little Loop

Quincy Bowling Little Loop is led by Quincy Lodge of Elks with a 23-5 record as a result of last Saturday's competition.

The Dist. Atty. George G. Burke team is second with 21 wins, 7 losses; and Montclair Men's Club follows with 19-9.

Bryan Post VFW, in 12th place, rolled the weekly high team three of 1,311, and the high team single of 462.

Mike Martinelli of the Rep. Joseph F. Brett team had high individual three of 315, while Kevin Gildea of Montclair Men's Club [illegible] high individual [illegible]

Other top 10 averages are held by:

Bruce Perry, Hutchinson, 94.11; Mike Martinelli, Brett, 94.5; Mike Durkin, Hennessy, 93.19; Dick Hirtle, Bryan Post, 93.9; Charles McCarthy, alternate, 93.0; W. J. Connoly, Morrissey Club, 90.12; Richard Magnarelli, Wollaston Lobster, 90.0; Kevin Gildea, Montclair Men's Club, 89.3 and Andy Wilkinson, Elks, 89.1.

Greg Craig Wins Letter At Norwich

Greg Craig, a 1967 graduate of Quincy High, has been awarded a varsity letter in football at Norwich University, the second ranking small-college team in New England this fall.

The 6 foot, 210-lb linebacker helped the Cadets compile a 7-1 record, their most successful season since 1940.

A senior English major at the Vermont military college, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Craig, 29 Broady Ave.

Condos Hockey Candidate At Bowdoin

Chuck Condos, one of the standouts on last year's Quincy High hockey team, is a leading wing candidate for the Bowdoin College freshman team.

Condos is playing on one of the two top lines which Coach Mort LaPointe has been alternating.

Smyth Proposes Quincy, Milton Acquire Wollaston Golf Course

provided the City Council rezones the property from Zone A to either Zone B, C, or D," said Smyth.

"By rezoning the 36 acre site, the land would be available to high rise apartment development. However, as a Councillor I have no intention of voting for a rezoning of this site," Smyth said.

Proposed plans for the complex call for:

* Eight medium to high rise buildings.
* More than 1,800 apartment units.
* Certain sections of the buildings reserved for Condominiums.
* Rents scaled from $200-$500 per month.

The Quincy Citizens Association, Quincy Park-Recreation Board, Montclair Men's Club, Montclair School PTA have all expressed opposition to the proposed land development. Petitions are in circulation opposing it.

"Last month Vincent Cook, a member of the Montclair Citizens Committee, wrote me asking my opinion as to where I stood regarding changing the zoning code of the Course," said Smyth.

"I wrote him, and explained that I am opposed to the Planned Unit Development, and will vote in favor of retaining this property classified under its present Zone A code."

The Planning Board has yet to set a date at which time a hearing will be held to determine the possible rezoning of the area. The Board is scheduled to consider the zoning change today at a 3:30 p.m. meeting.

"Whatever decision the Planning Board arrives at, has to be voted on and approved by the City Council before it can go into affect," Smyth said.

"I want to keep the golf course in Quincy," Smyth said, "because of its value as a recreational site and the avid enthusiasm of the sport of golf."

"Probably the best solution to the problem would be for the MDC to purchase the site. They presently operate the Ponkapoag Golf Course in Canton, and are doing so at a profit."

Latest opposition to the proposed complex comes from the Executive Board and the Special Activity Committee of the Montclair School PTA.

The Board said it discussed the effect on the community the Wollaston Golf Course would have as an open space area, and the effect it would have if this area was developed for apartments.

The Board said it concluded that in "the best interest of the children to vote unanimously to endorse Mayor McIntyre's desire to keep the Wollaston Golf Course an open space area."

The Executive Board also advised the Special Activities Committee to take the widest avenue to let their views be known.

Members of the Executive Board are: John Oliver, president; Frank Costa, vice president; Joyce Kozitgan, secretary; and Janice Crowley, treasurer.

Members of the Special Activities Committee are: Peter Cappola, chairman; David Jackson and Howard Crowley.

City Council To Study QEA Request For 'Service' Deductions

The City Council sitting as the Finance Committee Monday night took under advisement the Quincy Education Association's petition that 'service' charges be subject to payroll deduction from salaries of city employees.

Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, finance committee chairman, conducted the hearing.

Robert W. Garner, QEA president, said the City Council was being requested for permission to have the payroll deductions from salaries of employees for a fee which would be "commensurate for the cost of collective bargaining."

This fee would be deducted from salaries of all teachers, whether or not they were QEA members, to pay for the cost of bargaining which benefits all teachers.

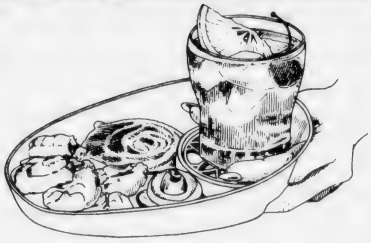
Garner set the membership of QEA at 762, with 164 teachers not members. Non-members would have the service fee deduction, but not the deduction for union dues.

Councillor Albert R. Barilaro questioned what would happen to a teacher who refused to sign a card authorizing the salary deduction.

Barilaro said Garner had told him previously that suspension would be recommended for such a teacher, and questioned a change in attitude regarding suspension of teachers.

City Solicitor Harry Pavan, asked for an opinion, said, "If he doesn't sign, he doesn't have deductions. Nothing in the statute provides a penalty if he doesn't sign."

Among those speaking in favor of the petition were Mrs. Ruth Pavan, representing the Massachusetts Nurses Association at Quincy City Hospital, who cited benefits received by the nurses as the result of collective bargaining; Thomas Sullivan, attorney for the QEA; Bertha Magnus, R.N., Mrs. Irene Shannon, nurses aide at Quincy City Hospital; Atty. James A. Shannon; Charles Djerf of the QEA, Mrs. Margaret King, former QEA president; Richard Cook of the Firefighters Union, and a representative from the City's maintenance department union.



A letter from Joseph A. Sullivan of the Norfolk County Massachusetts Labor Council AFL-CIO was read favoring the petition.

Opposing the petition were Henry L. Kramer, employed by the Quincy School Department and not a QEA member, and Frank Anselmo of the Quincy School Committee, who said he was speaking for the benefit of the taxpayer.

'Scrooge', 'Norway' Good Family Type Movies

Yup, they're still making JAMES BOND chase [illegible]. The next one, "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER" [illegible] so the production sometime next March in Las Vegas [illegible] SAMANTHA EGGAR, younger sister of MIA, film delights in "HOMER [illegible]" a clean loving, free-spirit [illegible] which conflict [illegible] arise on the subject of freedom-loving, free spirited types. As AL DAYAN, son of Israeli General MOSHE [illegible] this time ROMAIN GARY'S "PROMISE AT DAWN" [illegible] HELENA MERCOURI, who is quite a free-spirited individual herself... It is one thing to showcase a film, but for an owner of a theater to "beg" the public to see a particular flicks not only childish, but a "third class" gimmick as well... For all of BEN SACK'S efforts, the ELLIOTT GOULD starrer is fast fading into box office oblivion, and shows promise of "MOVING" very quickly from the MUSIC HALL THEATER... DEBBIE REYNOLDS goes the platinum blonde route in the 1930-set film, "BEST OF FRIENDS"... At least the "TAMMY" star of a decade ago isn't shedding her brassiere...

Talk about poor taste: The Protestant Film Guild of Germany selected "ZABRISKE POINT" as the best film shown in that country for the month of October... Whewww!... Evidently they never saw a decent motion picture before... With his virtuoso "THE GREAT WHITE HOPE" performance, JAMES EARL JONES has made himself a serious Academy Award nominee contender... YVES MONTAND and SIMONE SIGNORET join director COATA-GARVAS in "THE CONFESSION", a story based on the recent political disturbances in Prague... If it sounds like "Z" all over again, it should... MONTAND and GARVAS are holdovers from that film... GEORGE SEGAL is maturing into the fine actor that he was being billed as eight years ago. SEGAL doesn't take a back seat to anyone, including BARBRA STREISAND, as those who viewed "THE OWL AND THE PUSSYCAT" will tell you... RITA HAYWORTH enjoys herself in "THE ROAD TO SALINA" as ROBERT WALKER, JR's long lost mother and or lover... Hmmmm?... Have to think about that one!... Do impressive cast and multi-credited directors make for good film viewing?... The KIRK DOUGLAS-HENRY FONDA starred, JOSEPH MANKIEWICZ directed "THERE WAS A CROOKED MAN", should more than answer the question...

Signs of the theater times: Actor ROBERT JUNDELIN walked out of the ROBERT M. LANE off-Broadway opening "FOREPLAY" because of a nude, homosexual love scene he was asked to perform... JANE isn't the only FONDA in hot water... Younger brother PETER is being sued by CREATIVE MANAGEMENT ASSOC. for 10% of the "EASY RIDER" take... The latter claims FONDA had a three year pact with them which covered the profit intake due from "EASY RIDER"... Veteran charactor actor CHILL WILLS is the latest addition to Hollywood's Walk of Fame at GRAUMAN'S CHINESE THEATRE... URSULA ANDRESS is a pleasure to eye in the suspense thriller "PERFECT FRIDAY"... Now if she could only act... "MYRA BRECKINRIDGE" eased Twentieth-Century-Fox a million deeper in debt. As if this wasn't enough, the family affair "HELLO DOLLY" red inked the studio an additonal $3.4 million... Those screaming their lungs dry for "good, clean wholesome movies" should appreciate "THE SONG OF NORWAY". The question is, will these family types go and see this excellent production... It has been this column's contention for some time that the Big Studios only make those films the public will support... Now is the time to put up or forever shut up... You have an excellent film in not only "NORWAY" but I may add "SCROOGE" as well. If they are not box office successes you can rest assured the studios will continue to "shy away" from such efforts... Just remember, Y-O-U the Public determines what the FILM MAKERS will produce... Get the picture?...

ABC-TV is throwing "THE ODD COUPLE" to the wolves as NBC-TV competition to "THE NAME OF THE GAME"... It would have been much wiser for ABC to place this expertise comedy-affair in a more appropriate, and I may add, saner time slot... Watch for the Charge Card companies to fill the void soon to be left with the demise of the cigarette commercials... And while on the topic of TV commercial, aren't they over-killing us with the "ALKA-SELTZER" heart shaped meat loaf bit?... Like how much "acid" can the audience take in one night's sitting! FRANK SINATRA doesn't quite pack the same appeal in his latest, "DIRTY DINGUS MAGEE".

Orange Bowl

The $15,000 fund-raising drive to send Quincy High's undefeated football champs to the Orange Bowl neared the two-third mark today with more than $9,000 in receipts and pledges received.

Sponsored by the Quincy Fathers Club, the campaign gained considerable momentum this week with many hands reaching out to help.

There were two anonymous donations of $150 and $100; $100 from Miller Studio and another $100 from friends of Mayor James R. McIntyre, and the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

The North Quincy Boosters Club, in a typical gesture of good sportsmanship, pledged $50 and is asking merchants in that part of the city to cooperate. Another $50 was received from Larry Antonelli and from Peter Gacicia.

The Quincy High School Class of 1937 reunion committee sent in $25 via Aldo Saluti.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett and School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly each contributed a $10 check.

And $5 and under contributions--just as important and as much appreciated--were rolling in.

Typical was retired Quincy Fire Lt. John C. Ganzel who walked into the Quincy Sun office, pulled out five crisp $1 bills and said:

"This is for the Quincy team fund. I hope they make it to the Orange Bowl. They really deserve it."

Harold McCarthy is chairman of the fund-raising drive assisted by Quincy

'Write Hanoi' Humane Treatment Campaign Accelerated

Step Up Mail For Quincy POW's

ANCHORS AWEIGHING -- While U.S. Navy amphibious assault ship Pensacola undergoes final outfitting at Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics, her anchors and chain wait at pierside for loading. The ship uses 1,980 feet of chain for two anchors [background] which weigh 22,500 pounds each. The chain, weighing 70 pounds per link, is color-coded so crewmen can quickly see how much has been deployed. The Pensacola, second of four ships of her class to be built here, is scheduled for delivery early next year.

A "Write Hanoi" campaign is being stepped up here in special behalf of two prisoners of war from North Quincy.

Object is to seek humane treatment for Lt. Comdr. Richard Stratton and Capt. Alan Brudno and other prisoners of war held by North Vietnam.

The two-prong drive is underway at North Quincy High School which the two captured pilots attended and at the Boston Gear Division of North American Rockwell.

Commander Stratton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stratton and Captain Brudno is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James C. Brudno.

Stratton has been a prisoner approximately four years and Brudno almost as long.

The campaign at North Quincy, aimed at "the total school community" is headed by new Assistant Principal Peter J. Chrisom, who served in the Marine Corps with Stratton's brother.

The drive at Boston Gear Works is being directed by G. S. Bennett, manager of Industrial Relations, as part of an accelerated "Write Hanoi" project in 100 North American Rockwell plants.

Both Chrisom and Bennett urge that letters should be brief, should express concern for the well-being of American prisoners and specifically, should urge North Vietnam to:

- Publish all names of POW's.
- Grant prisoners the right to exchange mail with their families.
- Allow impartial inspection of POW facilities.

Blacksmith To Mayor

Services Today For David S. McIntosh

Funeral services will be held today for David S. McIntosh, a political Horatio Alger, who rose fromblacksmith's helper to mayor of his native city and state senator.

The services will be held at 2 p.m. at United First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., South Quincy.

Rev. Stephan W. Brown, pastor, and Rev. John D. Banks, minister of Bethany Congregational Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

McIntosh, one of the most colorful political figures in Quincy's history and a gifted orator, died early Tuesday at Quincy City Hospital where he had been a patient for the past month. He was 85.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, who served with McIntosh in the City Council, called his death "a passing of an era" in Quincy. He ordered flags on all public buildings lowered to half-staff.

McIntosh's political career, spanning a near half-century from 1917 to 1965 included service in the City Council, House of Representatives, State Senate and as Quincy's second Plan E mayor from 1952 to 1953. He retired from public office in 1965 after being

Graham 'Not Interested'

Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham said today there is "absolutely nothing" to reports he will be offered a city assessors post.

"I have heard the reports myself," Graham told the Quincy Sun, "but there is absolutely nothing to them. I have not been offered the job of assessor and if it were offered to me, I would not accept it."

Graham said he plans to seek re-election to a third term as Ward 1 Councillor in 1971.

"I have some programs I have started as Ward 1 councillor and I want to finish them," he said.

"I could not be an assessor and a councillor at the same time. There would be a conflict there."

Graham said he is also happy

City Now Has Only Two Living Former Mayors

The death of David S. McIntosh leaves Quincy with only two living former mayors.

They are Thomas S. Burgin and Amelio Della Chiesa, both of whom are now in their 60's.

Burgin served from 1935-1942 as Plan A mayor and from 1950-1951 as first Plan E mayor.

Della Chiesa, now a resident of Pembroke, was Plan E mayor from 1954-1957 and Plan A mayor from 1958-1965.

'Write Hanoi'

[Cont'd from Page 1]

* Insure that prisoners receive proper diet and medical care.

* Release all injured prisoners as quickly as possible.

North Quincy High School is sending its letters to: North Vietnamese Embassy, Paris, France.

Boston Gear letters are going to: President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

"Volumns of mail have already gone out of here," said North Quincy High Principal John J. Walsh.

One of the letters was from him. He remembers fondly both Stratton and Brudno as young students of his. Brudno graduated in 1958, the first year Walsh was principal at North.

Stratton was a student there until the 11th grade in 1948 when he left to go to Oblate Preparatory School in Newburg, N.H. Walsh was then assistant principal.

North American Rockwell, in urging its 81,300 employees at Boston Gear and the other 99 plants to write, is mailing the letters at company expense.

The company notes that the "accelerated campaign to secure fair treatment of U.S. prisoners was prompted by a request from the Department of Defense, which revealed it has documented evidence that North Vietnam is 'treating U.S. prisoners it holds inhumanely' ".

Chrisom in a letter addressed to "The Total School Community of North Quincy High School", put his thoughts thusly:

"This project is especially meaningful to me as I have known one of the prisoners, Lt. Commander Richard Stratton. Dick attended school at North, and was the President of the Junior Class. His brother Charlie served in the Marine Corps with me; hence, the issue of "prisoners" has become, for me, a personal one.

"Dick Stratton has been a P.O.W. for four years; moreover, his wife, four children and parents have not been able to communicate with him for that length of time. The anguish experienced by his entire family must indeed be insurmountable. Hence, any endeavor, such as letter writing, could bring some measure of comfort and hope to the family of the prisoner.

"Also interned as a P.O.W., is Lt. Alan Brudno, a North graduate and the son of Dr. Brudno from Wollaston. The situation is almost parallel to that of the Stratton case. Alan graduated in the first class under the principalship of John Walsh."

Letters written at North may be given to Chrisom for mailing.

with his position as a sales consumer specialist with the Revere Sugar Co., where he has been employed more than 10 years.

Speculation Graham was to be offered the assessor's post began when it was learned that William J. Callahan, veteran chairman of the Board of Assessors, had submitted a request for retirement Jan. 7.

Open Letter To Mayor On Representation

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Re- Tenant Representation On the Housing Authority Board Open letter in the Editor's column

Mayor James McIntyre,
82 Kemper St.
Quincy, Mass. 02169

Dear Mayor:

The Harborview Residents Committee is a democratically elected tenant group representing 985 families residing in public housing in the Germantown area of Quincy.

We the Harborview Residents Committee would appreciate your deepest consideration regarding the merit of tenant representation on the housing authority board upon the creation of the next vacancy to be filled by mayor's appointment. We respectfully submit Mr. J. Edward Grindle of 80 Taffrail Rd. and Mrs. Thelma Rogers of 41 Taffrail Rd.

Trusting in your continuous concern for an effective, representative and democratic government, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

J. Edward Grindle
Chairman
Harborview Residents
Committee Inc.

Week of Dec. 18 - 25

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Don't get caught napping this week if a fast change of mind or opinion is required either at home or in your everyday work.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Plans for the holidays are going well and friends and relatives are pleased with your efforts. Artistic ability much praised.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Your nervous energy could cause tension. Watch speech and don't revert to sarcastic remarks, this is not the time to press forward.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - You want to entertain your way but your mate has own ideas so try to strike a happy medium and cooperate to avoid tension.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - There is much activity on the home scene and feelings run high as you try to put all your ideas to work, creating enjoyable holidays.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Any projects you want repeat action on should be put into effect now - otherwise, wait. Efforts well received by friends.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Try to improve your financial standing even if it involves as "about face". There may be an unforseen change of affairs.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Feelings run high and a rash action could prod you into making sarcastic remarks - better to do the shopping you hadn't counted on.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Events of a strange nature could upset you. Dealing with groups of people taxes patience but try to control temper.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Now is the time to put forth your best ideas because relatives and neighbors can make you feel important as they listen to you.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] There is a lot to do and it is not all to your liking. Keep your thoughts under wrap for a while longer - there is still opposition.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Contact with people at a distance is beneficial now. Friends will listen to your unusual ideas and approve your actions.

Police Thanked For $500 Scholarship At N. Quincy

The Quincy Police Department has been commended by John W. Walsh, principal at North Quincy High School, for their interest in the education of the young people of the community.

The commendation was made in a letter to Carmen DiRamio, president of the Quincy Police Betterment Association, thanking the group for a $500 scholarship to be awarded a deserving student.

The money is part of $2,100 being presented by the association in scholarships and other donations.

Funds were raised at 2 recent variety shows.

LEGAL NOTICE ORDERING FLUORIDATION AS SUGGESTED

The Commissioner of the Department of Public Health, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has determined the fluoride content of the public water supply for domestic use in the City of Quincy is not at optimum level for sound dental health and has so notified this Board of Health of his findings.

The public water supply system for domestic use in the City of Quincy is provided whole or in part through the Metropolitan Water District operated by the Metropolitan District Commission.

The Board of Health of the City of Quincy after making sufficient inquiry of this matter, considers an upward adjustment of the fluoride content of this water supply available for domestic use in the City of Quincy to be in the best interests of the inhabitants of the City.

Therefore, in accordance with the provision of the General Laws, Chapter 111, Section 8C, it is hereby ordered that the upward adjustment to the optimum level for sound dental health be made in fluoride content of the water supply available for domestic use in the City of Quincy.

Alfred Montesey
Commissioner of Public Health

Have A 'Whopper', Help Trip Fund

Now you can help send the Quincy High School football team to the Orange Bowl by treating yourself or family to a "Whopper" at Burger King.

The Quincy Fathers Club is distributing 30,000 special coupons to help reach the $15,000 goal to send the team to Florida Jan. 1.

Her is how it works:

For each coupon turned in with the purchase of a "Whopper" at Burger King, 25 cents will be turned over to the Orange Bowl trip fund, by Vini St. Pierre and Bill Means owners of the Burger King Chain.

The coupons are being distributed by members of the Quincy Fathers Club to Quincy senior and junior high schools.

Stores will also be asked to place them in shopping bags at check-out counters.

The coupons are also available at the Quincy Sun Office, 1601 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The coupons may be redeemed at Burger Kings on Adams St., Quincy; Washington St., Weymouth; Bridge St., North Weymouth and Belmont and Crescent Sts. in Brockton.

$100 GAIN -- Quincy Police Betterment Association donates $100 to fund to help send Quincy High team to Orange Bowl. Association President Carmine DiRamio presents check to Maurice Hughes of Quincy Savings Bank, treasurer for fund, as Lawrence Kelly, association vice-president, and Paul Tiordan, treasurer, look on.

Miss Mary Lou Glaman Thinks

'Teachers Should Stay At The Same School'

The need for more special teachers is vital and very important, says Miss Mary Lou Glaman, kindergarten teacher at Snug Harbor School for the past 16 years.

Miss Glaman, a member of the Quincy Education Association, feels that teachers should stay at the same school.

"You get to know the children, understand them and I just love them," she says. "There is a great sense of responsibility with the teacher and the student, you make more contacts with the parents which is vital for the child in his or her early years."

In addition to teaching at Snug Harbor School, Miss Glaman who has her Master's degree in elementary education, is a part-time instructor at Eastern Nazarene College. She teaches "Early Childhood Education" once a week to juniors and seniors, many of whom become student teachers in Quincy.

Miss Glaman was a member of the QEA's first negotiating team, has been a building representative and house chairman of the by-laws committee, and is now chairman of the parliamentarian committee. She is also a member of the Massachusetts Teachers Association, New England Association, and the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

She served two years as president of the Quincy Women's Club Juniors, and is active in religious endeavors at Bethany Congregational Church.

Mrs. Margarita Stearns At White House Conference

Mrs. Margarita Stearns of 104 Brook St., Quincy, is a member of the Massachusetts delegation to the White House Conference on Children being held this week in Washington.

The conference is concerned with problems of today's youth in areas of government, education and health, and is being attended by parents as well as young people.

Mrs. Kenneth B. Hammerle Mothers March Chairman

Mrs. Kenneth B. Hammerle has been appointed Mothers March Chairman in Quincy.

Announcement was made by Mayor James R. McIntyre, chairman for the 1971 March of Dimes campaign.

The annual doorbell-ringing campaign by women volunteers to raise money for the March of Dimes will take place this year Sunday, Jan. 31.

"We urgently need more volunteers," Mrs. Hammerle said. "The quickest way of seeing every child born in health is to have a total commitment on the part of as many people as possible. This total commitment was, after all, what helped the March of Dimes conquer the dread disease Polio only a short time ago.

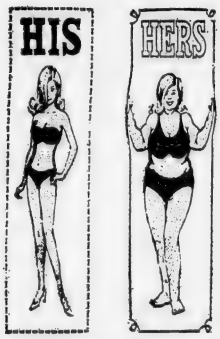
"Since 1958, the March of Dimes has led the way in overcoming an age-old fear of every mother, she said. "During those years, it has established more than 100 Birth Defects Centers that offer help to present victims of birth defects and hope, through research to unborn generations.

"Through its nation-wide public health education programs, the March of Dimes carries on year-round activities designed to inform the nation of the severity of the birth defects problem," Mrs. Hammerle added.

All of this needs grass-roots support, however, and that can only come if enough women realize that the fight against birth defects is their fight, too. "Surely, as mothers," Mrs. Hammerle said, "each of us can afford the effort of giving up time on one day of the year to ring doorbells in our neighborhoods."

Christmas Party Sunday For HN Children

The annual Christmas party for all Houghs Neck children through 12 years of age, sponsored by five community organizations, will take place Sunday at 2 p.m. at Atherton Hough School Hall.



Films, live entertainment, carols, a visit from Santa Claus, gifts and candy are scheduled.

As in the past, the party is sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post with the cooperation of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck Community Council and Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary.

Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon, Stanley Bovill and D. Paul Shaw of the Legion Post are in charge of arrangements.

Tomorrow [Friday] at 8 p.m. the Houghs Neck Legion Post will hold its final Christmas Turkeyrama, proceeds for the community children's Christmas party.

Christmas Concert At Quincy High Monday

A holiday gift to Quincy from the Music Department of Quincy High School will be a public program of Christmas music Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Quincy High School auditorium.

For the first time, some 250 students of glee clubs, orchestra and band will combine their talents to share the music of the season in a concert given in the spirit of the season, without charge.

Selections by the Mixed and Girls' Glee Clubs include "Pat-a-Pan" and "Holly Jolly Christmas". The Male Glee Club will sing Schubert's "Sanctus" and "Winter Wonderland".

"Cherubim Song" by Tchaikovsky will be sung by the Concert Choir, with Stevan Driscoll featured as tenor soloist in "I Wonder as I Wander". Gale Harrison is choral director, with Serena Nelson, Harry Bonish and Gordon McConarty as accompanists.

The Orchestra, directed by Catherine Bishop, will play a Bach fugue and "Beneath the Holly", a selection of Christmas songs.

Donald Silverstein, clarinetist, will perform a portion of Saint Saen's Sonata in E Flat, accompanied by Donna Bachaman.

Anderson's "Christmas Festival", played by the Quincy High School Band directed by Anthony Ferrante, will conclude the program.

Ivar O. Nelson is Director of Music Education.

"All members and friends of the community are welcome and indeed urged to share the music of the season with these young people," says Mrs. Harrison.

Action Taken To Improve Hancock School Conditions

Definite action is being taken by Quincy school officials to improve conditions at John Hancock School until a new school can be constructed, according to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Biggest problem is the heating plant. The furnaces, only coal-burning systems still in operation in the city, were installed in 1886 when the school was built.

"We have our own people plus two independent heating consultants looking at the heating plants," Dr. Creedon said. "They will indicate what they think is the problem and what they think is necessary in the way of repairs."

Early this week, Dr. Creedon listed a number of recommendations made by Rudolph A. Lofgren, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business and plant, in response to Dr. Creedon's request for an investigation of the Hancock School's heating problems.

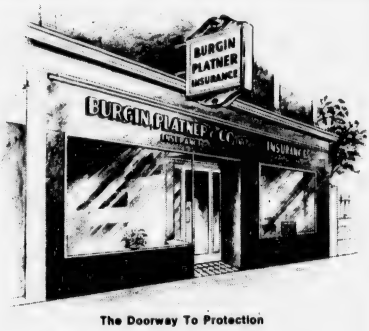
The custodian's hours are being changed so that in September, October, April, May and June, he will come in from 5 a.m. to 2 p.m.

In November, December, January, February and March, the hours will be from 4 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"We have arranged for an in-service training session this afternoon [Tuesday] for the entire staff of the school faculty with our boys to give them an understanding of the heating plant, air chambers, and how they have to be regulated," Dr. Creedon said.

Several defective parts in two of the control chambers, and other minor defects have been discovered and are being replaced.

"There is temperature taking there [at the school] each day," Dr. Creedon stated. "And we have checked the attendance records to see if there is an appreciable drop in attendance due to colds.



"What it shows is that John Hancock School is .2 percent below the normal for the City as a whole, but that is true all year long. The school has a 95% level throughout the entire year. The City as a whole has about 96% at the elementary level."

Construction of the proposed new school to take the place of the John Hancock and Lincoln Schools was brought a bit closer when the Quincy City Council last week passed a loan order for $4.9 million.

The new school has been under consideration for three years. Land requirements necessary for state aid have delayed its start since some 22 homes may need to be acquired by eminent domain and the City Council hesitates to displace residents.

"As principal of the school concerned," Morrie Hibbard, principal, said, "we wish to rectify any problems we have to the best of our ability in as short a time."

Mothers of students termed conditions at the school "deplorable", and last week invited city officials and members of the press to tour the school.

Hancock--Quincy's Oldest School--Looks Her Age

ANTIQUES -- Grover Cleveland was President in 1886 when these twin coal furnaces were installed at then new John Hancock School -- and they are still in use today. Miss Gayle MacDonald, teacher, and Mrs. Charlene Campbell, of 69 Parker St., mother of a first grade student, inspect the antiques.

REMEMBER COAL? Eight-year old Brian Boidi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Boidi of 351 Water St., helps Lauri Pekkanen, school custodian, load a wheelbarrow from the only school coal bin in Quincy.

THIS WIDE -- Mrs. Inez Shamer of 15 Kidder St., with a son in second grade, spans the width of a science workroom in John Hancock School.

NEW LOOK -- Mrs. Harry Johnson of 36 Garfield St. and Mrs. Tom Doncanson of 384 Water St., each with two children at the school, with Miss Kathy Norris, assistant principal and teacher, are shown in the Hancock media room, Most Modern in the school, which parents and teachers helped furnish.

CORRIDOR LIGHT -- City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Ward 4 Councillor Albert R. Barilaro inspect 100-watt bulb in a corridor. Fluorescent lights, however, are used in the classrooms.

Stoves and coffee-makers in the school basement at John Hancock School are used for pupil breakfast program and luncheons.

Reduced Price, Free Lunches Available At Quincy Schools

Reduced price or free lunches are provided by the Quincy public schools to students at the eight junior and senior high schools unable to pay the full cost.

To determine which students are eligible to receive free or reduced price lunches, Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator of secondary schools, issues the following "Minimum Income Scale".

Size of Family	Annual Income
1	$ 1,920.
2	2,832.
3	3,507.
4	4,182.
5	4,857.
6	5,534.
7	6,209.
8	6,885.
9	7,559.
10	8,235.

For each person over 10 in family add $675.

Criteria for determining eligibility of children for free or reduced price lunches will be:

* Children in families receiving public assistance, and from families with comparable income levels.
* Children in families with special circumstances warranting such assistance.
* Other children who in the judgment of school or health officials have unmet nutritional needs.
* Unusual circumstances, such as illness or death in the family, temporary disability and seasonal unemployment are also considered when determining eligibility.

Parents who feel their children are eligible may obtain application forms from the school office of the participating school. If the application is denied, an appeal can be made to the principal of the school serving the student involved.

Applications should be made as soon as possible.

Schools participating are North Quincy High, Quincy High and Quincy Vocational Technical Schools; Atlantic, Broad Meadows, Central, Quincy Point and Sterling Junior High Schools.

John A. Evans Honored At Dinner

John A. Evans, principal of Atlantic Junior High School, was honored at a recent testimonial dinner at the Neighborhood Club.

He retires Dec. 31 after 40 years in the Quincy Schools as a teacher and administrator.

Miss Louise B. Forsyth, of the Quincy Schools guidance staff, was mistress of ceremonies.

Speakers included Mayor James R. McIntyre, who presented Mr. Evans with a certificate of honorary citizenship in the City of Quincy. Mr. Evans is now a Plymouth resident.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Rev. Stephen W. Brown, minister of First Presbyterian Church; Arnold Rubin, principal of Reay E. Sterling Junior High School, who presented a plaque from the Massachusetts Junior High Schools Principals Association; Charles Forester, assistant principal of Atlantic Junior High School, and Miss Forsyth, also spoke.

Gifts from former school staff members and from friends included a money tree to be used for landscaping the Evans' new home; a memory book; a portrait of Mr. Evans to be hung at Atlantic Junior High School where he was its first principal; and a second portrait given to Mrs. Evans.

A tape recording of the program was made through arrangements of the Quincy Kiwanis Club with H. Winslow Bettinson and Radio Station WJDA. The tape was to be presented at Monday's Kiwanis meeting.

Stephen J. DelRosso, head counselor at Atlantic Junior High School, was dinner committee chairman; Miss Laura Asci, counselor at Atlantic, was chairman of the gifts committee.

defeated in a re-election bid to the City Council.

McIntosh, was born in Quincy Aug. 1, 1885, one of 10 children of Angus McIntosh, a granite worker who emigrated from Scotland.

His colorful political career, during which he became known as a gifted orator, spanned near'y 50 years, from 1917 to 1965.

He was first elected to public office in 1917 as state representative, and led a fight to establish a state law prohibiting women and children from working more than 48 hours a week. In 1919 and 1920, he was senator from the Quincy district, which then included 13 towns.

In 1920, at the age of 35, Mr. McIntosh lost the election for mayor, but in 1934 was elected to the City Council and became council president in 1937.

Retiring from public life for 15 years, he was again elected to the council in 1952 and chosen by fellow councillors as the city's second Plan E mayor, in 1952-1953. He served on the council until 1965 when he was defeated at the polls.

The new Public Works Building on Sea St. was dedicated in honor of former Mayor McIntosh in May, 1969.

McIntosh was at one time president of the Granite Cutters Union and president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association.

He was a traveling representative for the Massachusetts Highway Ushers Conference, which played a significant role in stopping diversion of highway funds for non-highway purposes.

He was known by many as "Tuck", a nickname he carried from age six.

Relating its origin a number of years ago, he recalled that when living on Quincy St., a group of local granite cutters had a band and practiced in a barn near his home. One of the songs had a catchy chorus, "Kentucket, Kentucket, a hunting we will go."

Young McIntosh started singing it and soon his older brother Andrew was calling him "Kentucket", soon shortened to "Tucket" and then to "Tuck", which stuck.

Surviving Mayor McIntosh is his wife, Ella, with whom he noted a 58th wedding anniversary in June. Also, a son, David B. MacIntosh, Sr. of Quincy; two sisters, Mrs. Chester [Jessie] Hollis and Mrs. Ernest H. [Isabel] Bishop, both of Quincy; and three grandchildren, David B. MacIntosh, Jr. and Robert B. MacIntosh, both of Quincy, and Mrs. Richard [Nancy] Paul of Shrewsbury.

'Passing Of An Era' Says McIntyre In Tribute

Mayor James R. McIntyre who served with former Mayor David S. McIntosh in the City Council in the late 1950's said the latter's death is the "passing of an era" in Quincy.

McIntyre had this tribute for his former colleague:

"We have declared a period of mourning in the City for 30 days," said Mayor McIntyre in referring to the death of former Mayor David McIntosh.

"Flags will be at half-mast for 30 days, and the entrance to City Hall will be draped in black during this period.

"I am deeply shocked at the death of Mayor McIntosh. He served the City long and well with extreme distinction as City Councillor, Mayor, State Representative and State Senator.

"His death is the passing of an era in the City of Quincy, and I will sorely miss his wisdom, his counsel, and his very fine sense of humor.

"He was an orator of the old school and one of the finest that we have ever had in the City of Quincy.

"He was a true son of the City, as strong as the granite hills of our community in which he worked for many years.

"I wish to extend my deepest sympathy to his lovely wife, Ella, and the fine MacIntosh family."

Harold S. Crowley Receives 'Sir Knight Of Year' Award

Harold S. Crowley, Sr., of 3 Flagg St., Wollaston, is recipient of the Richard Cardinal Cushing General Assembly Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus 1970 award of "Sir Knight of the Year".

Crowley, a member of North Quincy Knights of Columbus since 1960, a year later joined the Bishop Cheverus Assembly Fourth Degree. On formation of the Cardinal Cushing Assembly, he transferred as a charter member.

Crowley has served as North Quincy Council lecturer, and is chairman of the Cardinal Cushing Fourth Degree sick committee. He has served as Scoutmaster, commissioner and executive board member of the Boy Scout Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary in February, 1971. They have three sons, all of whom have received the Eagle Scout award and are members of North Quincy K of C; a daughter, and six grandchildren.

Dr. Gould To Publish Fifth Book

Dr. J. Glenn Gould of 63 Elm Ave., Wollaston, professor emeritus of religion at Eastern Nazarene College, has been notified that his fifth book, "Healing the Hurt of Man: A Study of John Wesley's 'Cure of Souls'," will be published early in 1971 by Beacon Hill Press, Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Gould was full-time professor and head of the department of religion at ENC from 1958 to 1968. Prior to that he was pastor of Wollaston Church of the Nazarene for 13 years while also serving as head of the department of theology.

He received the first honorary doctorate ever conferred by the college, the Doctor of Divinity, in 1941.

Dr. Gould has served as pastor in Nazarene Churches in Massachusetts, Maine, Maryland and Ohio. From 1940 to 1945 he was editor in chief of the Church School publications for the Church of the Nazarene in Kansas City, and also was executive secretary of the Department of Church Schools.

The Gould Library in E. E. Angell Hall, newly-completed religion building at the college, has been named in his honor.

The special Christmas offering will be for Pakistan Relief necessary due to the November cyclone and tidal wave.

At 8 p.m., A "Festival of Lessons and Carols" will be presented by the church choir, directed by Stephen Ten Eyck.

Christmas Sunday Service At First Baptist Church

Christmas Sunday will be observed at First Baptist Church of Wollaston with special choir music, and sermonette by Rev. Charles L. McEachern, pastor, at the 11 a.m. worship.

At 4 p.m. there will be the annual Christmas Birthday Party for Church School and others, with a "White Gift Service" for boys and girls at Lakeville Sanatorium.

School Christmas Program At Salem Lutheran Church

A Church School Christmas program will take place Sunday at 9 a.m. at Salem Lutheran Church.

At 11 a.m. a Christmas Communion service will be led by Rev. Bertil E. Hult, pastor.

The Lutheran Youth group will hold a Tree-decorating party at 7:30 p.m.

QCA Asks Golf Course Hearing After Jan. 1

The Quincy Citizens Association has requested Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Quincy Planning Board, to hold a proposed public hearing on rezoning of Wollaston Golf Course after Jan. 1, so that residents may give full attention to it.

The public hearing is to hear arguments on the rezoning of the golf course to planned unit development.

The Citizens Association favors retention of the Wollaston Golf Course for open space and recreational purposes.

In part, the letter written to Rev. Baharian said:

"In view of the greater-than-ever need for recreational activities in the future with increased population and shorter working hours, the Quincy Citizens Association feels that it would be short-sighted to ignore the future recreational needs of our citizens and permit this natural recreation area to be built upon -- depriving golfers from 9 to 90 the opportunity to play this centuries-old game, and kids of all ages to enjoy the same area for winter and summer sports."

The letter is signed by Laurence J. Curtin, president; and Miss Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary. Copies went to Mayor James R. McIntyre and the Quincy City Council.

If Only

IF ONLY you had a spark of love for me.

IF ONLY, I could show you, If only you could see, all the love I have for you, way down deep inside of me.

IF ONLY my love for you would shine above all my doubts, fears, and lack of confidence. You would see that I love and need you.

IF ONLY you would look at me the way I look at you.

IF ONLY we, together, could break down the ice there is between us. If you only knew what you'd find.

IF ONLY you understood what I'm trying to make you see, when I just look at you.

IF ONLY we wouldn't just walk away.

Still Praying

What Is Happiness?

Happiness is many things
Baseball games, diamond rings
Chocolate cones, and the ring of phones
That is happiness.

You can take your wealth, give me the stealth
Of the moon coming over the hill
No coat of mink - rather let me think
I have soul and strength of will.

Give me a true love - one that is true
As we walk through the grass still wet with dew
The rainbow glistening in the sky
Is worth to me, more than money can buy.

Happiness is where its found
On Earth, In Heaven or underground.

School Youngsters Making Visits To Nursing Homes

Quincy public school children this week are making their annual Christmas visits to sing at the city's nursing homes, announces Donald H. Strong, executive director of Quincy Council on Aging.

Today at 10:30 a.m. the Adams Shore students are singing at John Adams Nursing Home, and at 1:30 p.m., pupils from Massachusetts Fields School will be at Friel Nursing Home.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. Pollard School children will sing at Merrymount Manor.

Other programs this week were by Wollaston School students at the new housing development for the elderly on Martinson St; Furnace Brook School at Rice Eventide Home; Wollaston School at Will Nursing Home.

Snug Harbor School at Snug Harbor Nursing Home, Lincoln School at Quincy Nursing home; Beechwood Knoll School at Oceanside Nursing Home; Great Hill School at Elmwood Nursing Home; Willard School at Presidential Convalescent Home; Gridley Bryant School at Crestview Nursing Home and Cranch School at Robbin House.

Frances McDonald, Eda Antonellis and Gay Carbonneau, music instructors, are supervising the students.

The schedule and arrangements for transportation have been made by the Council on Aging.

McIntyre, Villone Honored

William Villone, director of veterans services, and Mayor James R. McIntyre were honored Monday by the State.

Citations for their "unselfish efforts in remembering the local servicemen fighting in Vietnam, by sending them Christmas gifts on behalf of local citizens", were presented by Massachusetts Veterans' Commissioner Charles N. Collatos at the State House.

Commissioner Collatos said, "Their unselfish efforts in remembering our servicemen in Vietnam at this Christmas time is exemplary of the highest traditions of Americanism because they recognize that our servicemen are fighting for the preservation of democracy and to contain communism in the jungles of Vietnam."

Paul Shea Among Those Donating To Baskets

Paul Shea of 10 Cherry St., was among the Thomas B. Pollard School's kindergarten children who contributed canned foods for two Thanksgiving Day baskets given to needy families.

His name was inadvertently omitted in the list printed in the Quincy Sun last week.

"I recommend Savings Bank Life Insurance because no one else offers so much for so little. If you appreciate a rare opportunity for a sensible solution to a major financial problem all for pennies a day, please call me. I can show you why Savings Bank Life Insurance will save you thousands of dollars over your lifetime while you enjoy superior protection. Donald K. Stevens, Licensed Insurance Advisor, 479-6481."

Elks Pace Little Loop, Perry Hot

Quincy Lodge of Elks continues in top place in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop with a 27-5 record after Saturday's games at Wollaston Bowladrome.

In second place is Dist. Atty. George G. Burke's team with 25-7; and Montclair Men's Club, 22-10.

Burke's team placed high in the weekly team three with 1,336, and also rolled the high team single of 472.

Bruce Perry, 13-year old captain of the Hutchinson Oil team, fired the weekly high individual three strings with 305 and shared the high individual single of 110, tying with Bob Kelty of Bowladrome and Paul Peckham of Atlantic Fuel Oil Co.

Perry, most consistent bowler in his age bracket, is leading the race for a spot on the junior team which will roll in the State championships. Last season he wound up with a 92.20 average, a high three string total of 316 and a high single of 116.

Paul Peckham leads the loop with a 99.5 average, followed by Perry, 95.10; Mike Durkin, 93.22; Mike Martinelli, 93.10; Dick Hirtle, 93.9; Charles McCarthy, 92.7; William J. Connolly, 89.14; Dick Magnarelli, 88.17; Andy Wilkinson, 88.16 and Kevin Gildea, 88.9.

NAIL BITING

Nail biting is a rather common problem among children and, unfortunately, not unusual among adults. Persons with this habit usually are high-strung. They may indulge in the habit for various reasons, including tenseness, exitement, or lack of something to do with their hands.

Sometimes, of course, there may be an underlying emotional problem of which nail-biting is only a symptom. Scolding, nagging, threatening, or shaming the person may aggravate rather than help the problem.

Using bitter-tasting ointments or other products to discourage nail-biting has not proved effective. Greater success has been obtained by appealing to the maturity or vanity of the individual. When an emotional problem is involved, the source of the anxiety must be found through professional help if the habit is to be overcome.

Money is meaningless without good health. ENC Debate Team Wins At N.Y.

The Eastern Nazarene College debate team won the first place four man Team Award at the 1970 Iona College Novice Debate Tournament held recently at Iona College, N.Y.

This was the same team which took second place at the Boston University Debate Tournament last month, losing only to University of Vermont, which took third place in this tournament.

The team was undefeated in 10 rounds of debate on the topic, Resolves: That the Federal Government should adopt a program of compulsory wage and price controls.

James Tabor, sophomore from Roanoke, Va., and Harry Horner, freshman from Braintree, debated in favor of the resolution, taking first place. James Tabor also won an individual award for best affirmative speaker at the tournament.

James Cameron of 64 Davis St., Wollaston and Paul Day of 191 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, freshmen who debated together for three years at North Quincy High, debated against the resolution and won second place negative team award. They were also undefeated.

ENC Downs Portland, Loses To Bentley

Eastern Nazarene snapped a two-game losing streak with a big 111-96 win last week over the Portland branch of the U. of Maine.

In running its record to 5-2, ENC took a 50-43 halftime lead.

Don Eads scored 25 points, Ron Bradley 20, Clark Adams and Don Constantine 13 each, Paul Beston 12 and Ray Shannon 10.

Despite the win, Coach Jim Smith was unimpressed and admitted if the Crusaders didn't improve considerably, they would be run off the court by Bentley last Saturday.

His fears were borne out as Bentley raced to a 116-92 decision at its Waltham gym.

Eastern Nazarene now rests up until after the holidays when it will go out to im on its 5-3 record.

Following an 88-83 loss to Barrington, ENC put on a fine offensive show against Western New England, rated one of the best small college teams in New England, but lost, 120-104, staying with the winners until the final six minutes of the game.

All six ENC players hit double figures with Don Eads scoring 25, North Quincy's Ron Bradley 24, Clark Adams 17, Quincy's Paul Beston and North's Don Constantine 14 each and Bob Shannon 10.

In winning its first four games, the Wollaston school quintet won the Nyack [N.Y.] College tourney, coming home with the first place trophy, the Most Valuable Player award and four all-star selections.

ENC romped over Northeastern College, 101-43; Baptist Bible College, 101-70, and Nyack, 82-49, for the title.

Bradley was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player and was named to the first all-star team.

Also named to the first star team was Adams while Eads and Constantine made the second team.

Eads led all ENC scorers in the tourney with 56 points. Adams had 51 points and Bradley 48.

ENC hopes to snap its two-game losing streak Friday when it hosts U. of Maine at Portland and Saturday will travel to Waltham to meet Bentley.

Conroy Looks Ahead To '71

Although Coach Hank Conroy lost many outstanding players from his undefeated Quincy football squad which had the school's first perfect season, won sole possession of the Greater Boston League title and shared the Eastern Mass. Class A crown for the first time, he will have some excellent players returning next fall.

Conroy doesn't appear to have any worries in the backfield with Steve McCarthy, brilliant runner, leading several returnees who also will include Bob Malvesti, Bob Bosader, Joe Nicastro, Steve Laneau, George Sisti, Joe Coner and Connie Driscoll.

Jimmy Walker, who played behind Steve Sullivan, will have the inside track on the quarterback spot but will be pushed by Kevin Shea, who saw some varsity action, and Paul Creedon, who did a fine job for the strong sophomore team.

Returning linemen will be led by Ron Smith, the regular center this fall as a sophomore, Dennis Satterthwaite, Frank Catrambone, Frank DeCristofaro, Bob Volpini, Dan Spencer, Joe Davis, Al Aimola and Mike Gaudiano.

The ends will be Jim Hanlon, Bobby McDermott, Dave Coull and Dick Walter.

Most of those returning played for the powerful junior varsity squad which rolled to a 7-0-0 record this fall.

Dave Burke will send up a number of fine prospects from his sophomore club which finished with a 7-3 record. They include quarterbacks Creedon, Dave Sullivan and Arthur Kearns, and backs John Whitney, Dave Ferris, John Dahlquist, Rich Lawyer, Dave Ciani, Mike Daley, Dave Steen, Dave Magiani, Mike Kelley, Bob Magnia, Bob Bouchard and Rich Silva.

Linemen include Randy Califano, Bob Shea, Ronado Tranca, Steve Goulet, Mike Picardi, Ed Sylva, Frank Guido, John Hefner, Ed Kelley, Jerry Fanning, Rodger Boddie, Rick Sheedy, Ron Abromowicz and Dennis Sullivan.

Ends coming up from the sophs will be Gordon Kinn, Tom Beatrice, Bob Spillane, Mike Russo, Jim Ryan, Bob Della Barba and Mike Ryan.

Quincy, North Launch Hoop Season Friday

The Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams, following impressive wins in the first annual Greater Boston League Jamboree at Somerville last week, open their season Friday night against Weymouth teams.

Bob Nolan's North team, hoping to make the Tech Tourney for the fifth time in his six years as coach, opens at home against new Weymouth South.

Marty Finnegan's Quincy quintet goes against Weymouth North at Weymouth.

Tuesday night each team opens its GBL season, Quincy hosting perennial powerhouse Somerville and North going to Revere, whose veteran team is rated a top contender.

In the jamboree North edged Revere, 33-30, with Tom Cairns, 6-8 junior sparking the victory. The rangy center, who rates as a key in this year's plans, came up with some clutch baskets and defensive plays.

Quincy came from behind to tip strong Malden, 32-29, as Bob Pike scored 12 points and Billy Maver six.

Quincy trailed by six after the first period but its fast breaking in the second quarter provided the margin of victory.

Finnegan received a severe blow earlier in the week when Bill Burke, 6-5 center who was coming along well, broke his ankle in practice and will miss most of the season.

Raiders' Grid Prospects Bright

Ralph Frazier's second North Quincy football team had a fine 6-2-1 record this year following a disappointing 2-7 mark in his head coaching debut. And, with several fine players coming back from this year's varsity and junior varsity teams, next year's prospects are bright.

Bob McKay, who spelled Paul Lippens at quarterback this year and looked good, will have the inside track on that slot next season.

Among the backfield returnees will be John Linnehan, Mike Polvere, Kevin Egan, Bob Guerriero, Paul Chambers and Billy Fong.

Linemen coming back will be Ed Hill, Will Mathews, Bill O'Hare, Jim McEachern, Dave Hemingway, John Gill, Joe Morrissey, Kevin Crowley, Doug Morrill, Tony Kovalski, Walter Collins, Jim Ziniti, John Harrington, John Meyer and Bob Murray.

The returning ends will be Jim Driscoll, Dick Paulson, Dave Mahoney and Bob Graham.

Frazier will be hoping for big things from several graduates of Ted Sadowski's strong sophomore team which defeated Quincy for the first time in several years.

They include backs Burton Bray, Chuck deVarennes, Bernie Doherty, George Dunerdale, Bob McCormick, Bob Morton, Ken Perrin, Jack Pomarole, Charlie Smith and Ken Stevens.

Linemen include Wayne Bell, Dick Bertoni, Paul Cadigan, Gene Griffin, Chris Lea, Tom Monahan, Mark Mulvaney, Jim Neal, Peter Quinn, Bill Schaetzel and Bill Welch.

End hopefuls will be Ed Ahern, Bill Carroll, Doug Connors, Jim Fatseas, Steve Fransoso and Bernie Holleran.

Both Teams Question Marks

Quincy, North In Ice Opener Friday

•Quincy

A year ago Coach Bob Sylvia had a veteran hockey team at Quincy and the Presidents finished with a fine 12-4-1 record, qualified for the state tourney and again then shocked Arlington in one of the biggest upsets in state hockey history.

However, they then ran out of gas and lost in the second round to Boston Tech.

This year Sylvia is starting off with much less experience, having lost 13 players from last year's team but the Presidents have been coming along well in practice and Bob feels they will be ready for Friday night's 6:15 p.m. Greater Boston League opener against North Quincy at Weymouth Skating Club.

"It is like starting off with a new team," Sylvia said. "We don't have anyone back from last year who scored more than five goals but we do have an excellent goalie in Artie Boyle, who started most games as a sophomore last year. And Pat Dempsey, another junior, is pressing Artie for the job and we will be strong in goal."

Sylvia sees his team as being strong on defense and doesn't expect to give up too many goals.

"It appears our big problem this year is going to be scoring," he added. "I'm keeping my fingers crossed about this because I don't really know what most of the kids can do under varsity game conditions.

"They haven't been under the gun yet and I hope our depth and good conditioning can carry us through the first few games until such time as we gain the necessary experience."

The Presidents appeared in a jamboree at Hockeytown in Melrose last week and played to a pair of ties against strong opponents. They tied Melrose, 2-2, and Wakefield, 1-1.

The veteran coach feels he has three balanced lines and five solid defensemen he can rotate.

Sylvia designates his lines by colors instead of the customery numerical designations.

One line has Steve Kleimola and Ed Wiedeman wings and either Steve Lewis or Jim Cattaneo center. Another has Al Colby and Bomber Burke at wing and Steve Cedrene at center with sophomore John Black, a standout on the junior team a year ago, fighting for a wing spot.

A third line has Jim Starkey and Paul Campbell wings and Ken Kearney center.

Among the top defensemen are Rick Patten, Bob Cattaneo, Steve Bergonzi and John Prescott, the latter two promising sophomores.

Saturday the Presidents travel to Hyannis to meet Barnstable and Dennis-Yarmouth in another annual jamboree. Monday night they will meet Everett in the third of four league games at Boston Arena. The opener is set for 5:30. Wednesday night Quincy meets Chelsea at 8:20 at Weymouth. North Quincy plays Everett in the 8 o'clock opener.

Sylvia has Jack Scanlan back as assistant and junior varsity coach [his. jayvees were unbeaten last winter], and also has Bill Hanson, a student trainer from Boston University, and Bob's younger brother, Jim, a sophomore physical education major at Boston State, helping him out. Ken Hayes, a former North star who coached the North junior high team a year ago, is coaching the Quincy junior high this season.

•North Quincy

North Quincy has a new hockey coach after 18 years and the only way he can go is up.

Ron Erikson, who starred for retired coach Bob Laing at North and later at Merrimack College, has taken over for Laing and he feels his big job is to make the players forget about last year's 0-18 record.

"I know I am stepping into a difficult situation but I am pleased with the way these kids are hustling and I feel a lot of them have good potential," Erikson said. "We are probably one or two players away from being a really good team. I don't feel the squad is weak in any one position but a couple of extra talented players would certainly help out depth problems.

"I think our strong point might be the North Quincy spirit. It may seem hard to understand for someone not familiar with the North Quincy High mystique about spirit. I hope this attitude will get us a few wins."

With the season's opener against Quincy coming up Friday night at 6:15 at Weymouth Skating Club, the new coach is not certain about any positions.

Erikson listed seven players whom he feels will form a solid nucleus for the Raiders.

They are Tom O'Malley, Bob Golden and Steve MacKay, defensemen, and forwards Bob Frizzell, Nick Struzik, Neil Cronin and Steve Leofanti.

O'Malley, Golden, Frizzell, Struzik and Cronin all played regularly last year and turned in some excellent performances.

"If these boys catch on the way I hope they can, we'll be a good team," Ron pointed out. "If they don't come around, we could be only mediocre. It should be just a matter of time until we get set up, but it could be a slow beginning for us."

Bobby Guerriero and Jeff Sheehan have the inside track on the goalie spot vacated by Bob Colleran, a standout despite the team's record a year ago.

Other defense candidates are Al Stracuzzi, Keith Losardo, Pete Williams, Danny Connors and Marty Flaherty.

Other forwards are Vin Cameron, Bob Palmer, Joe Lannen, Dan Gilfeather, Ken Graham, Steve Barry, Jack Messina and Steve Mellor.

Erikson lists two big handicaps. His club must adapt to his style and he has had only 11 hours to practice for the Greater Boston League opener with Quincy.

"When I was in high school we were able to start practicing a couple of weeks earlier and had plenty of time," he said. "Now I've had just 11 hours to get the kids into shape and get them used to each other. It just isn't enough time.

"Another factor is the lack of a youth hockey program until recently. Other towns have had such programs for years and the high school teams have benefitted.

"We have yet to get any benefit from the Quincy Youth League but we had a great turnout last week of 80 boys for our junior high team and many of them played in the youth league. We should begin to receive the fruits of the fine program in the next two or three years."

Ralph Younie is again the Raiders' assistant and junior varsity coach and Ed Grogan, a former Quincy High star, has taken over the junior high reins. Ken Hayes. who coached the junior high a year ago, is now coaching the Quincy junior high.

Monday night North will face Chelsea in the last of four league games at Boston Arena. The opener is set for 5:30. Next Wednesday ,night the Raiders will meet Everett at 8 o'clock at Weymouth.

Lack Of Height Hurts QJC

Quincy Junior College's basketball team is having its problems and the big reason is the same which hurt the Collejuns the past three years--lack of height.

"We just don't have any height", said Coach Earl Vermillion. "We have more players with high school experience than we had a year ago but we still don't have a big man to play that pivot and it has been hurtin us."

Although QJC's overall record is only 2-4 following an impressive 53-50 win last week over Newton Junior College at Newton, its Massachusetts Junior College League mark is 2-1.

The team was hurt considerably when 6-5 Ralph Jackson of North Quincy dropped off the squad for personal reasons. "We are hoping he will be back later in the season," Vermillion said.

With Jackson gone, the "big man" mantle has fallen on freshman Rich Ross, a three-year star at Holbrook, who stands 6-2 and weighs 220.

"Rich is a good strong kid and he plays a physical type of game but he is a little small for the position," the QJC coach added. "He is having his problems battling bigger kids but is doing a fine job for us."

Leading the squad is Luigi Eleuteri, 5-11 sophomore from Quincy High who is a fine playmaker and scored 21 points in the win over Newton. He averaged 10 points a game last year, is an excellent ball handler and dribbler.

Eleuteri is co-captain along with Bob Uhlar, 6-1 forward who starred for Quincy High last winter.

"He would be a guard if I had a bigger team," Vermillion explained. "But we feel he can help us more as a forward this year. He is very coachable and shoots and rebounds well."

The other starters are Jim Machado of North Quincy and Bob Hennessey of Quincy. Machado did not play much varsity ball at North and Hennessey played only jayvee ball at Quincy. However, Vermillion feels Hennessey at 6-3 has the height to help and he has been playing good ball.

Paul Hurley of Dorchester and Mike Locuzzo of Everett are only 5-9 but are excellent defensive specialists.

Rounding out the squad are Anthony Polese and Paul Conte of Quincy, Fred Kleinerman of Boston and Walt Instroni of Braintree.

Tonight [Thursday] QJC meets league-leading Newbury at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

Quincy, North Trackmen Open Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy winter track teams will open their Met League season Saturday at 10 a.m. at the MIT Cage.

Bob Gentry's North squad, which had a winning record in the league last year, takes on one of the division favorites in Needham.

Gene Macomber's Quincy team, handicapped by a lack of candidates a year ago, opens against Milton, always a strong entry.

Macomber is being assisted by Tom Hall, spring track and cross country coach, and Joe Wessling, spring assistant.

Thanks to several of Hall's cross country runners turning out, the turnout was much bigger and Macomber hopes for a good season. In one meet last year he had only eight boys report for a league meet.

Quincy Quacks Lose, 4-2

The Quincy Quacks street hockey team lost to Jamaica Plain 4-2 in the first away game this season.

The Quacks are now in fourth place with a 2-3-0 record.

Jamaica Plain scored just 30 seconds into the game. Dave London, on an unassisted breakaway tied the game for the Quacks as he found the upper right corner of the Bomber net.

Later that period, Steve Golden hit on a rising wrist shot from Dave Stern. The second period was all Quacks. However, with about three minutes remaining, the Bombers scored on a screen shot, and with 18 seconds left, the ball hit off a Bomber glove and shot by Pete Skoler.

John Wayne No. 1 In Russia

CBS-TV's daytime soap opera, "LOVE OF LIFE", reached the 5,000th broadcast mark Dec. 7, making it the second longest running daytime serial on television... "LOVE OF LIFE" started as a 15 minute program in 1951, and was switched to 30 minutes in 1958... The longest running daytime tear jerker is "SEARCH FOR TOMORROW", also of CBS-TV... KIRK DOUGLAS is both the star and the producer of his upcoming, "THE LIGHT AT THE EDGE OF THE WORLD"... Based on the JULES VERNE classic the film also features YUL BRYNNER and England's SAMANTHA EGGAR in starring roles... Entertainer JOEY HEATHERTON is getting the MARILY MONROE comparison build-up as the sex-star of the seventies... Well, at least she has talent, which is more than can be said for EDY WILLIAMS and RAQUEL WELCH... NBC-TV's BARBARA WALTERS has just finished her first book entitled appropriately enough, "HOW TO TALK TO PRACTICALLY ANYBODY ABOUT PRACTICALLY ANYTHING"... PEARL BAILEY has been ABC-TV signed for a Jan. 23rd special...

Newcomer BRIAN COBURN snared the role of Berl the blacksmith for the filming of "FIDDLER ON THE ROOF"... The NORMAN JEWISON production is being shot on location in the high country of YUGOSLAVIA... VITTORIO DE SICA's "THE GARDEN OF THE FINZI CONTINIS" world premiered this past Dec. 2nd at the Chen Cinema in Jerusalem Israel... The flic is due for a 1971 American release... MARGARET HERRICK, executive director of the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences since 1943, leaves her 27 year post effective Jan. 1 because of serious health problems... LON CHANEY' silent screen hit "PHANTOM OF THE OPERA", was re-released at the Fox Theatre in St. Louis to standing ovations and capacity box-office business... RUDY VALLEE has been nominated by SAM YORTY for a position on the Los Angeles Board of Traffic Commissioners... My, but those Californian's do have a hang-up on mixing show biz with politico biz... And while on the subject of politics, outgoing Governor LESTER MADDOX plans to pursue a new career as, of all things, a recording artist... LESTER MADDOX's goal is "to become the first ex-governor to sell a million records"... What, with axe handles?...

WILLIE DAVIS, hot shot outfielder for the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been signed by producer MIKE FRANKOVICH for a featured role in "THE LOVE MACHINE"... ROBERT DUVALL signed for the part of Jesse James in the CLIFF ROBERTSON starrer, "THE GREAT NORTHFIELD, MINNESOTA RAID"... The Universal picture is scheduled for a late 71 release... Italian actor-singer TONY DALLI is the latest in a series of actors to have been screen tested for the "GODFATHER" lead... What's FRANK SINATRA, JR. doing these days?... No recordings, no films, no talk show dates... How do you figure it?... Believe it or not, All-American super patriot JOHN WAYNE is pretty big in, of all places, Russia... That's right... The number one foreign movie actor to be exact... Thirty day wonder MARK SLADE hasn't had a screen engagement since his "HIGH CHAPARRAL" walkout last spring... "TORA, TORA, TORA" is box-office zeroing into "bomb, bomb, bomb"...

JOHN CASSAVETTES' "HUSBANDS" finally world premiered in New York City a few weeks back... Certainly was about time... The flic was completed over a year and a half ago to reams of publicity, including a feature spread in a national magazine... "HUSBANDS" also stars BEN GAZARRA and PETER FALK... Paramounts upcoming "LOVE STORY" could start a whole new trend in film... The picture is a provocatively sensitive "love story" dealing with todays youth, minus drugs, demonstrations and the over sell of sex... If the motion picture is as jolting as ERICH SEGAL's best seller, the movie goer will be in for an evening long remembered... "SEXUAL FREEDOM IN DENMARK" and "SEXUAL PRACTICES IN SWEDEN" are just what their titles indicate them to be--"trash unlimited"... Motion pictures made and released during the 1970 season will gross close to $1 billion by the end of the year... Which isn't bad for an industry, that according to all "reliable reports", is mired in the red... Are films in FLIP WILSON's futura plans?... Old pro WALTER WINCHELL is back in harness after a two year retirement... WINCHELL is now a columnist for the "revved up" New York Mirror... For those too young to remember, WALTER WINCHELL was one of America's first big time entertainment columnist starting away back in the twenties... Nice to have him back on the scene again...

JAY ROBINSON, who rocketed to thespian fame in "THE ROBE", is on the comeback trail... ROBINSON recently completed a "MANNIX" stint a few months ago, and has a picture lined up for 71... RON MOODY is a stickout in the hilarious comedy, "THE TWELVE CHAIRS"... Seen it yet?... When is JIMMY DURANTE going to make another screen or television appearance? It would be a nice gesture if some television personality were to have this lovable gentleman on as a "guest star"...

QCA Favors Zoning Report, Re-Elects Curtin President

Laurence J. Curtin of 56 Dale Ave., South Quincy, was re-elected president of the Quincy Citizens Association at its recent annual meeting at Montclair Men's Club.

Also re-elected were Joseph N. Gildea, 45 Division St., vice president; William W. Lyons of 368 Beal St., treasurer; and Miss Dorothy C. Kelly of 108 Davis St., secretary.

The three-year old organization formed to fight revaluation and present residents' view of current civic matters, is open to all Quincy voters. The only requirement is payment of annual dues of $1. and that the member be a registered voter of Quincy.

At the meeting, the membership reaffirmed the executive committee's action favoring the retention of Wollaston Golf Course for open space and recreational uses and urging the Planning Board to turn down apartment development there.

Members voted also to press for enactment of the Report of the Advisory Committee on the New Zoning Ordinance when the Council makes its final determination. The Report, presented to the City Council on Sept. 10, was signed by representatives of 17 civic groups.

Central Junior Students Take 'Our Town' On Road

"Our Town", Thornton Wilder's classic drama, starts its road tour this week in Quincy.

Twenty students of Frank Moffatt's eighth and ninth grade English classes at Central Junior High School originally presented the 90-minute play to raise funds for Drama Club activities.

For their efforts, Moffatt and the cast received the equivalent of an "Oscar" in the form of a letter of commendation from Carl R. Deyeso, coordinator of language arts and social studies for the Quincy Public Schools.

A decision was made to take the show on tour, and after a second performance at Central on Tuesday for students only, the cast performs today [Dec. 17] at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Monday [Dec. 21] the performance will be repeated at Quincy Point Junior High School, and after the first of the year, will be scheduled at Atlantic and Sterling Junior High Schools.

Leo McKillop, "stage manager", Debbie Newcomb and Sam Salomaa have the principal roles.

The cast includes Robert Gordon, Theresa Folger, Rene LeBlanc, Craig Chamberlain, David Ray, Peter Krasinski, Paula Choquette, Ben Vennesland, Meredith Stone, John Pagnano, Annette Madden, Earl Rudkin, Emily Gables, Brian Murphy, Mark Cincotta, Janet Schow and Steve Maloney.

Costumes and background for the production are the work of students, with Jerry Mullen in charge of lighting.

A Reader Replies To Dr. Creedon On 'Christmas In Public Schools'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Dr. Creedon in the Quincy Sun, December 10, 1970, raised the question: "Should Christmas Be Observed in Public Schools?" and came to the conclusion that "Schools have an important role to play during significant religious holiday seasons". However, he never did state the reason WHY!

We learned that in 1968, four thousand, or one quarter of the surveyed principals of the nation's schools hold the 1963 Supreme Court Decision in contempt - an interesting reflection on the example set by educators for respect of laws they happen to dislike! But, it does not answer the question: Why observe Christmas in the public schools?

We learned that Edward Everett Hale, that remarkably warm and kind friend to many newcomers to America - including immigrant Mary Antin, author of The Promised Land - thought things had changed greatly since his boyhood. Dr. Hale's writings in addition to A New England Boyhood include the poignant novel dealing with respect for the U. S. flag, The Man Without A Country [worth rereading today]. But dragging in the fact that Dr. Hale had observed change, and was a Unitarian clergyman does not answer Dr. Creedon's own query with the reason WHY!

If a purpose of public school education is To Develop: good taste, a sense of values; esthetic skills of expression [music, art, drama]; compassionate understanding of people and their society; then, observing religious festivals would seem to be valid.

The manner of observation, tho', should be of basic concern. If it is to be by command from the top of the echelon, it simply will not be meaningful. Thirty years ago, as a public school music supervisor, my colleagues and I found that children of all ages instinctively know how to celebrate great occasions. For instance, a first grade Jewish child requested that we sing "Saturday Night, Holy Night".

If observances are matters of group planning and participation, with each child or youth encouraged to bring his particular gift of joy [in the spirit of The Juggler of Notre Dame] to this festival of winter solstice, then the celebration of Christmas can be meaningful.

Let there be a Catholic: Adeste Fidelis, Laeti Triumphantes following a Jewish longing cry of: O Come, O Come, Emmanual and Ransom Captive Israel as we express the Episcopalian: Hopes and Fears of All the Years Are Met in Thee Tonight with the unfulfilled Unitarian expectation: And the Whole World Give Back the Song, which now the Angels Sing [Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men].

Jesus was a Jew, and Chanukah a part of His tradition. The Moslems accept Jesus as a Prophet. Gautama Buddha and Confucius taught the same great ethical principles of love, long before the symbolic birth we celebrate at this season. The spirit of Christmas is non-denominational, indivisible and universal.

Excesses, however, tend to beget drastic reform in the manner of Newtonian Law. Protestant reformation came from Catholic excesses. Puritans escaped from Episcopalian excesses to become excessively repressive themselves. As we become more and more commercial, Tom Lehrer's Christmas Carol is popularly sung by cynical youths: "...On Christmas Day you can't be sore, Your fellow man you must adore; There's time to cheat him all the more - the other three hundred and sixty-four...".

Dr. Creedon and any public school administrator would do well to avoid Christmas observance by decree, and instead heed John Greenleaf Whittier's admonition:

"Keep while ye need it, brothers mine
With honest zeal, your Christmas sign,
But judge not him who every morn
Feels in his heart the Lord Christ born."

Blue Ribbon Committee Recommends:

$20,000 Salary For Mayor, $3,000 For City Council

The salaries of Quincy's mayor and nine city councillors should be $20,000 and $3,000 respectively--double what they are now--a special Salary Survey Committee recommends.

The so-called "Blue Ribbon Committee" recommends that the new salaries be reached in two steps by Jan. 1, 1972.

Appointed by former City Council President J. Vincent Smyth, the committee is headed by John J. Sullivan, Jr., of Wollaston, Commissioner, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

It would be the first change in the mayor's salary since 1958. Present Mayor James R. McIntyre now draws $10,000.

The new $3,000 City Council salary actually would bring the council's pay back to the same mark it was during Plan E.

The committee's recommendations:

- A raise to $18,500 per year, for the mayor, plus $1,000 for Mayor's Office Expenses, effective 60 days after approval by the City Council. An annual salary of $20,000 effective Jan. 1, 1972.
- City councillor's salaries raised to $2,750, effective 60 days after City Council approval, and to $3,000 effective Jan. 1, 1972.

The committee in addition to Sullivan includes Quentin E. Bloomer, personnel manager of A & P Tea Company Fish Division; Joseph F. McConville, Jr., assistant personnel manager of Boston Gear Works; Clifton A. Sommers, field representative of United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO; and Joseph A. Sullivan, president Local 2, Amalgamated Meateutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, AFL-CIO, and president of the Norfolk County Labor Council.

Kenneth Gardner, Quincy City personnel director, acted as consultant to the committee.

The committee praised McIntyre as a "working mayor", discharging his duties daily, "7 days and 7 nights a week ... in his dual capacity as State Senator he keeps foremost in his mind and action concern for the City of Quincy."

They referred to new construction underway in the city as a mark of "foresightedness" by both the Mayor and City Council.

They noted that since adoption of Plan A Modified form of government, there have been seven or eight general wage increases granted to all city employees, exclusive of union-negotiated increases.

But "no action to adjust the mayor's and city councillor's salaries has ever gotten off the ground".

In addition to the report on executive and legislative salaries, confidential recommendations have been given McIntyre for salary adjustments where inequities exist in city positions and for department heads carrying an "abnormally high workload" in recent years.

The committee adds in passing that in Quincy, every department head receives a greater annual salary than that paid to the mayor, and that many of the supervisory personnel in a secondary level are in the same category.

They point out also that an 18 or 19-year old Quincy Voc Tech graduate, passing an apprentice test for steamfitter or pipefitter, can earn more money in his first year of apprenticeship than the mayor is paid.

Christmas As It Used To Be

By Margaret DeAngelo

Christmas as it used to be!
Oh, how it would gladden me!
Relatives from far and near Rejoicing in the Christmas cheer.
And the happy girls and boys
With all the feasting and the joys,
Wouldn't it be grand to see,
Our Christmas as it used to be?

Christmas as it used to be!
With snow a-bending bush and tree;
And sleighbells ringing down the lane,
Bringing cousins Jack and Jane.
Aunty Mame and all the rest-
Dressed up in their Sunday best.
Oh, how nice if we could see-
Our Christmas as it used to be.

Christmas as it used to be!
It has been a long time that we.
Asked [when Santa Claus would come]
To bring a doll, a sled, a drum.
For Christmas as it used to be
Would still be pure and fancy-free.
When life was fair and full of truth,
Shining through the eyes of youth,
Maybe we could glimpse it through
The eyes our children's children do.
If we do this then we can see-
Our Christmas as it used to be.

Salvation Army, Elks, Koch Club, Jaycees Send Food Gifts

Quincy Opens Hearts To 440 Needy Families

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Christmas giving to needy of the Quincy area is being stepped up this year to meet increasing requests for aid during the season.

An estimated 440 families will have a happier holiday, thanks to four Quincy organizations.

The Salvation Army, instead of the traditional Christmas baskets of food, this year has made plans to aid some 250 families through use of vouchers which may be used to purchase food of their own choosing at local stores.

Approximately 1,500 gifts have been distributed by Salvation Army workers to patients at Quincy City Hospital and nursing homes throughout the area, says Mrs. William Bessant whose husband heads the Quincy organization.

In addition, the Salvation Army is buying gifts for the families of men in prison at their request, and is gift wrapping and delivering them, marked "From Dad."

Quincy Lodge of Elks is having 150 baskets delivered to needy families from donations by members. These baskets contain turkeys, running about 20 pounds each, and other food items. Vincent Murphy and Mike Papile are chairmen for this project.

The Koch Club, headed by Richard J. Koch, will provide a Christmas dinner and sufficient food for a week in the 20 baskets they will distribute. These baskets each will contain a 20-pound or larger turkey.

Koch has also made arrangments with Santa Claus to visit shut-in children and to present them with gifts.

Instead of a gift shopping spree for children, the Quincy Jaycees this year have revised their plans to benefit the entire family. Through the Welfare Department, 20 certificates for $20, each will be given to 20 families who may purchase food of their choice. A $400.00 bill will be paid for by the Quincy Jaycees.

Because of the "fantastic success" of this year's sales of Christmas trees which were far above last year's figures, according to William Griffin, president, the Quincy Jaycees were able to close their stand at A-Mart on Southern Artery on Tuesday instead of continuing until Christmas Eve. David Mercier and Robert Calnan were project chairmen.

EARLY VISIT -- The Koch Club asked Santa Claus again this year to make a special early visit to Quincy shut-in children. Brett Loud, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Loud of 15 Gannett Rd, Adams Shore, happily greets his good friend, Santa here.

ARMFUL -- Kelly McCormack, one-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCormack of 115 Turner St., and Cindy Morrell, four-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrell of 64 Parkhurst St., are an armful for Santa Claus, are among some 600 youngsters at the annual children's Christmas party sponsored by five community groups. Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon of the Houghs Neck Legion Post, looking on, was coordinator for the party given by the Legion and Auxiliary, Houghs Neck Congregational and Most Blessed Sacrament Churches, and Houghs Neck Community Council.

My Christmas

By Margaret DeAngelo

I hear the Christmas Carols
Ringing, triumphant, clear.
They bring me close to Jesus
And the best time of the year.

A little babe, devine, adored;
His mother, Virgin white
Bring tranquil peace upon that day,
Fulfillment with the night.

Make room for him at your table,
Throw open wide your door.
Keep the peace within your hearts:
At Christmas and evermore.

Mountain Christmas

Hill dwellers prepare for a season of chills,
As white flakes of snow fall down on the hills.
The boys seek wood for warmth they'll need,
While men hunt deer, on which they'll feed.

It's a burdensome life a mountain man lives,
What he obtains, his family, he gives.
His desolate old shack now covered with snow,
Is falling apart, but still there's a glow.

For Christmas is near, not too far away,
While all await for the big day.
Families and feuders will travel the roads,
All meeting together to distribute their loads.

It's the season to share, these people believe,
Their idea is giving, not just to receive.
And so with this thought they'll travel to meet,
For a rendevous on Christmas, man's greatest treat.

Rich Kenney
22 Trainor Dr., Braintree

Season's Greetings

Season Greetings I bring to you
With thoughts of kindness through and through.
Christ our savior was born on this day
And people rejoice and say;
Be Happy and put on a friendly grin,
Open your heart and let love in,
Nativity scenes are everywhere,
And love for others fill the air.
Be good to others and they'll be kind,
Be good to them in thought, word and mind.

I have one more thing to say;
Have a very Merry Christmas
And a Happy New Year.

Merry Mini Tarts Trim Calories

The Yuletide season can even be fun for dieters. True, sweets tempt us at every turn and the general merriment in the air makes diet discipline even harder to maintain. But there is an answer.

Make delicious treats that are easy on the waistline. Fruits—especially the new low sugar fruits on the market—can be turned into delectable desserts that catch the Christmas spirit without gathering in extra calories.

These Merry Mini Tarts, for instance, can be enjoyed by everyone. Calories reduced applesauce and fruits for salad form the filling and artistic topping, with melted low sugar apple jelly spooned over as a glaze. The best bonus of all: each tiny tart is only 83 calories of healthful eating.

Merry Mini Tarts

1 cup sifted all purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chilled shortening
2 to 3 tablespoons ice water
¼ cup low sugar imitation Diet Delight apple jelly
½ cup calories reduced Diet Delight applesauce
1 can (16 oz.) calories reduced Diet Delight fruits for salad, drained

Mix flour with salt. With pastry blender or 2 knives, cut in shortening until mixture is consistency of coarse meal. Sprinkle on water and stir with fork into a ball. Chill pastry. Roll between 2 sheets of waxed paper until about ⅛ inch thin; cut out 12 3-inch circles of pastry. Cut 12 3-inch circles of double-thickness or heavy duty aluminum foil.

Place each pastry circle on a foil circle and turn up edges slightly. Prick with a fork. Place on baking sheet and bake in 450°F. oven about 12 minutes, until pastry is lightly browned. Cool.

Fill each tart shell with 2 teaspoons applesauce. Slice peaches and pears thinly. Arrange slices, apricot halves, and pineapple on tarts. Decorate with cherry halves. Melt apple jelly and brush over fruits to glaze. Makes 12 miniature tarts: Approximately 83 calories each.

"Congratulations from Grimble's department store. You're the first customer this season to wear out one of their metal charge plates."

"What I'd really like is a charge a plate!"

Week of Dec. 25 - Jan. 1

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Sound judgement is needed this week to help offset a feeling of daring that could very easily get you into trouble.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - The actions of others could cause a very strenuous week for you. Your method of handling situation reflects on your reputation.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - An act of bravery could turn into an act of foolhardiness if you give way to impulse. Some physical distress can bother you now.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Even though you are having a good time now, bear in mind that you will have to pay the piper come next month.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - The holiday mood seems to have somehow passed you by and you are concerned more with the difficulties that have arisen at home.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - This can be an enjoyable week of visiting relatives and old friends. The planets are with you now so make the most of it.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - The strain of the holidays on the budget is felt even now - but things will right themselves by next month and bills are paid.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Any difficulties caused now can be blamed on yourself. Your actions can be too aggressive and sound judgement lacking.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Your plans for expansion are causing stress and antagonisms even now. You must deal with opposing forces for some time to come.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Your practical advice is much needed by friends at this time to help solve problems caused by their use of unsound judgement.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - You can be too concerned with conditions at home to really enjoy the holidays. Keep in mind some things are better left unsaid.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - You are using good judgement and managing very well to stay out of the aggressive action that is going on around you.

Director, The Diet Workshop

'Tis the season to be jolly. . .

It may be the season to be jolly, but you just may not feel like pasting that smile back on your face as you find it difficult fitting into last year's holiday lounging pajamas. It is hard to feel merry when you know you have lost the ability to determine your own weight destiny, that the mastery over yourself is possessed by forces beyond your control. This insight is at least as saddening as the sight of yourself in a full length mirror.

Have you tried a good diet lately? I know of one--it enables you to lose weight, never be hungry and to feel great. Be sure when you choose your diet route, that you go the road which features well-balanced meals with many choices of snacks for in-betweens and which doesn't short-change your body on any of the many nutrients which it requires. You'll be amazed at how much better you'll feel by doing something for yourself. Maybe even jolly.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrinus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also went from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem-- because he was of the house and family of David--to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Christmas: ... A time for gay decorations: for ivy, mistletoe, candles, flowers, simulated snow, lights both dim and bright. A time for presents, pretties, games and goodies. A time when Salvation Army people ring bells and humbly appeal for gifts for the needy. A time for giving gifts. A time when not only neighborhood merchants, but whole communities engage in competitive maneuvers to clang cash registers. A time for parties: a time to celebrate; a time for family reunion. A time for cheerful faces and kind hearts. A time for antagonistic minds and moods to mellow. A time to gladden the eyes and hearts, especially children's.

Depending on one's view, these are only a few of the pleasant or unpleasant Christmas customs. With it all, let us be thankful for the pleasant custom of the many people who celebrate the Silent Night - reverently. Let us be thankful the crystal Star of Bethlehem speaks to us as it still glows in the sky; as it still outshines the romance of the moon and a host of other silent stars. Above all, let us be thankful we have the choice and the privileged right to join with those who are thankful - and reverent...

Dear Santa Claus

Dear, Santa Claus.
I am waiting for christmas and it is my First Christmas in America and I have just came from England. When you bring me something I will do something for either you or other people. I have been a good girl and I have bought something each for my mother and father for christmas. They have bought something for me and I will be gratefull for them. I have been doing a lot of work around the house like washing the dishes and dusting the wood work and a few other things. I hope you have a merry christmas as well as I. I will have to go now so untill next year. Lots of love

A Poem Of Peace

The war's still going,
The wind's still blowing.
The flowers are dying in pain,
The rocks are mumbling,
The clouds are trembling,
And soon they'll have no home.
The winter's near,
And all is fear,
For summer might not come, for some.
We'll never know,
Who's going to go,
And who will see the morn.

To All The World's Children

To all the world's children,
regardless of place
Regardless of face, regardless of race.
Why do people have fights and wars?
Regardless of rights and regardless of wrongs.
A wise little girl had once said,
"Someday they'll give a war and no one will come."
This I read
Is she right: is she wrong? To each new generation
Someday this will happen, regardless of tradition.

Donald Strong Chairman New Council On Aging

Councils on Aging in Quincy, Weymouth and 11 other South Shore communities have voted to establish a Southeast Regional Council on Aging [SERCA].

Donald H. Strong of Quincy was elected chairman. Mrs. Ruth Spencer of Hingham, vice-chairman and Mrs. Rose McGee of Marshfield, secretary.

Organization was carried out at a meeting of 30 delegates at St. John's Episcopal Church in Holbrook.

The group will provide a coalition of resources and programs for the elderly in the South Shore Area.

The group agreed on the following goals:

* To make available all possible information about programs for the elderly.
* To engage in legislative action.
* To exchange ideas, problems and suggestions.
* To plan seminars for training.

The next meeting will be held in Marshfield in February when it is hoped that members of additional Councils will attend.

Marshall Submits Skating Safety Recommendations

Recommendations for skating safety at Shea Rink in Quincy have been sent by State Rep. Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, to William Kenney, MDC Commissioner.

Marshall recommends:

- A police officer at the rink.
- Installation of flood lights around the building, especially in the front and back side areas.
- Installation of a five-minute speed skating time for all speed skates and hockey skate wearers so they "may get it out of their system."
- Possible couples' skating for five minutes per hour.
- Maintain at least one skate guard on ice at all times, and properly identified, as many as three when the crowd increases.

Hancock Bank Votes Dividend Increase

The directors of Hancock Bank have voted a 20% increase in the bank's regular quarterly dividend plus a year-end extra of 20 cents per share.

The regular quarterly dividend was increased from 25 cents to 30 cents which, together with the year-end extra brings to $1.25 per share the total dividend payment for 1970.

In another action, the Board voted to increase the bank's surplus account by $500,000 for the second year by transferring that sum from its undivided profits account. This action permits the bank to increase its loan limit to an individual borrower to $900,000.

The Quincy based bank has 14 offices throughout Norfolk County.

Be Kind To Your Letter Carrier By Clearing Snow And Ice

Postmaster George K. Walker today appealed to customers of the Boston Postal District, including Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy, to be aware of hazards of sidewalks, approach walks, steps and porches that have not been cleared of snow and ice.

Walker issued the appeal in consideration of the time of the year when snowfalls and freezing rain conditions make it most difficult for the letter carrier to safely deliver the mail.

Last year, 316 letter carriers were disabled by slips and falls while making deliveries in the Boston Postal District. This represented an estimated loss of over $50,000 dollars to the Postal Service.

The Postal Service and the letter carriers would appreciate it if customers would clean and sand their sidewalks and clean their steps as soon as possible after a storm to reduce the hazards associated with inclement weather.

"Please be kind to your letter carrier and your own family and friends," Walker said.

A Tribute To David S. McIntosh

'He Was A Man's Man . . .'

"He was a man's man..."

"I think he actually considered the people of Quincy one huge family in which he was simply an elder brother."

The words are those of Rev. John D. Banks, minister of Bethany Congregational Church.

And, they are a tailor-made tribute to the late Mayor David S. McIntosh.

Rev. Banks gave the eulogy during funeral services last Thursday for the former mayor, state representative and senator at United First Presbyterian Church, South Quincy. Mr. McIntosh died last Tuesday [Dec. 15] at 85.

For those who knew Tuck McIntosh, for those who did not, and for posterity, we record here the full text of Rev. Bank's eulogy of this "man's man", as he takes his esteemed place in Quincy's history.

By REV. JOHN D. BANKS
Minister, Bethany
Congregational Church

DAVID S. McINTOSH

"About 15 years ago Mrs. Banks and I were guests at the annual Robbie Burns Anniversary Dinner, held in the old Walter Scott Hall on Franklin Street.

"The guest-speaker was "Tuck" McIntosh; and for 15 minutes or more he extolled the virtues of Burns in an emotional and enthusiastic style, ending with those lines that so well sum up the democratic ideals of the Scottish poet – words written around the time of the American Revolution:

"Is there for honest poverty that hangs his head, and a' that?

The coward slave, we pass him by, and daur be poor, for a' that...

Then let us pray that come it may, as come it will, for a' that,

That sense and worth O'er a' the earth may bear the gree, and a' that.

For a' that, and a' that, it's coming yet for a' that,

That man to man the wide world o'er shall brothers be, for a' that."

"Friends, the death of David McIntosh touches all of us because he was, at heart, precisely that kind of brotherly man. He was warmly interested in people -- tiny infants, burdened mothers, struggling fathers, aging folk like himself in these latter years.

"He was given to little expressions that at once revealed his wit and his affection. We clergymen were used to his greeting which one time would be "Brother", then "Parson" next time "Father", and so on.

"I think he actually considered the people of Quincy one huge family in which he was simply an elder brother.

"He was a man's man -- athletic and vigorous in his younger years. He liked the man who was honest enough to level with him, as he would be frank on his part. That old Scots' song about "A Wee Deoch an' Dorris" has a verse that puts his preferences well:

"I like a man that is a man–a man that's straight and fair...

The sort of man who will and can always do his share.

I like a man, a jolly man..."

"And his fellowmen liked him. However much politics set them in opposition, they admired his courage in standing by his convictions. He had been brought up in the home of immigrant parents who imbued him with that puritan ethic, so unpopular today, but which so largely accounts for this nation's leadership in the world today. Through these last years of physical limitation, he continued to "fight the good fight" against illness and weakness. In earlier years he had applied the same drive to running a business or championing legislation.

"Close as he was to the granite industry, he was always backing efforts to cut down on the dreadful results of silicosis, or to provide greater safety at the quarries. Quincy, with its strong thrust in public health services, owes much to the far-sightedness of many men like David McIntosh who believed not that they were their brother's keeper, but rather their brother's brother. Mr. McIntosh fought for shorter working hours in a time when such legislation was regarded by industry as a radical interference and a threat to profits.

"Of such men, willing to lay themselves and their ideals on the line in public office, Josiah Holland said long ago:

"God give us men! A time like this demands

Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands:

Men whom the lust of office does not kill:

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men who possess opinions and a will:

Men who have honor; men who will not lie...

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog

In public duty, and in private thinking..."

"How tragically the very word "politics" repels good men today! Yet, "that's where it's at"...that's where this nation's destiny is being hammered out. And we need more than anything more heroes of democracy like this good man whose voice is now forever stilled.

"Our thoughts are with his family now, for we know what a warmth he brought to the house on Whitwell Street. True it is that time will soften the hard reality of his passing. Yet much of the hurt remains.

"An era has ended with the death of this elder statesman of the South Shore. We shall not see the likes of him again -- nor shall we hear the ideals of patriotism, home and brotherhood declared with such fervor and conviction.

"While we acknowledge our loss, however, for Tuck McIntosh there is the victorious completion of a long pilgrimage. Strongly he cherished the faith of his fathers -- faith that made full allowance for the cross, but anticipated the crown.

"At the close of his mortal days, this Christian gentleman was ready to say with Paul:

"I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith." And we believe there has been laid up for him "the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge," has awarded him.

"Let us pray:

"God of the nations -- and of the men and women who are the real substance of any land -- we are grateful for the life of Your son David which was to us a testimony to Your ways of loving kindness.

"Although we must accept the fact of his passing from us, we do this not so much in hopelessness as in joy -- for we believe it is well with him in Your sight; and we have the lasting gifts of his words and his ways.

"We thank You for his faithfulness to the trust committed to him by You and by his fellow-citizens; for his humility in victory and his courage in defeat; for his equanimity in dealing with detractors as well as friends.

"We thank You for the thousands of kindly concerns he showed for his neighbors in this community, and for his untiring effort to secure justice for the weak and deprived.

"For his commitment to You we praise You, O God, for deep were the roots of his faith which sustained him in a long and often arduous journey.

"Comfort his family, we pray, in fulfillment of Your own audacious promises in Christ. Confirm in them the conviction that "Life is ever Lord of Death, and Love can never lose its own."

"Help us to take heart as we build upon the foundation of faith our own mansions of the soul–as well as our homes and all the institutions of our common life. Save us from any tendency to coast on the accomplishments of our forerunners.

"As we commit this man to Your eternal keeping, call to our remembrance the assuring words of Christ: "Fear not, little flock, for it is Your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom...Peace I leave with you."

"Hear us as we pray in the name and spirit of Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen.

81 Quincy Youngsters Have Pen Pals In Other Countries

In Quincy, 81 youngsters from age 9 to 17 and a 22-year old adult have pen pals in foreign countries.

They were brought together by mail through the International Friendship League at Boston. This group has on file names and addresses of thousands of people from all over the free world who want to make friends by mail with Americans of the same age, and with the same interests.

English is the international language, and by writing regularly, the International Friendship League says, "you make a friend for yourself and a friend for America." Exchange of first hand information often clears up misconceptions about both countries, it points out.

More information may be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to International Friendship League, 40 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.

Quincy young people already enrolled are:

National Teacher Examination At Boston State College Jan. 30

The National Teacher Examinations will be held at Boston State College Saturday, Jan. 30, Dr. Edward J. FitzPatrick, testing administrator announces.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions on school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the examinations along with their other credentials are eligible to take the tests.

The designation of Boston State as a test center will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the exams with candidates throughout the country who take the tests.

At the one-day session a person may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Education and General Education, and one of the 24 Area Examinations.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing registrations forms may be obtained in person from Rooms 101A or 109A at Boston State or by writing to National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Prospective teachers planning to take the tests should obtain their material promptly.

In Hockey Action

Quincy Wins Two, North Takes Big No. 1

A year ago North Quincy's hockey team was 0-18 but the Raiders, under new coach Ron Erikson, a former Raider star himself, have proven in their first two games they will be no Greater Boston League doormat this year.

After just missing a big win over Quincy in its opener, North won its first game in two years, 3-0, over Chelsea Monday night at Boston Arena.

Meanwhile, Bob Sylvia's Quincy team won its second straight squeaker, 2-1, over defending champion Everett.

Monday North will face Revere and Quincy will meet Somerville at the Arena in the third and fourth games of a program which gets underway at 12:30.

Next Wednesday the Presidents meet Malden and North takes on Medford at the Arena. The first game starts at 5:30.

Steve Teofanti scored the winning goal for North on a pass from Vin Cameron. Nick Struzik scored with Neil Cronin having an assist and Bob Frizzell scored the final goal unassisted. Jeff Sheehan was outstanding in the Raider nets.

Steve Cedrone scored Quincy's winning goal for the second straight game as he took a pass from Rick Patten and beat the Everett goalie. The first goal was scored by Jim Cattaneo with Ed Wiedeman and Steve Khemola having assists.

North just missed opening the season with a big upset win over Quincy last week when it jumped away to a 2-0 lead but the Presidents came back to win a 3-2 squeaker.

Everyone agreed it was a much different looking North team than a year ago and one of the more surprised persons was Sylvia.

"I have to praise North Quincy and its new coach for doing such a fine job," he said. "I knew from the start that this was a team that was going to fight us and skate hard all the way.

"They surprised me and they beat us to the puck and had us playing their kind of game for the first two periods. I was worried and was beginning to wonder if it might be North's night.

"Also, during those first two periods we had to kill an awful lot of penalties and those penalties prevent a team from keeping any kind of momentum. This is a good league with a lot of aggressive play and I think the team that can stay away from penalties has a chance to win it."

Erikson was naturally disappointed after such a fine showing in his debut but he was far from discouraged.

"The boys are disappointed about the loss," he said, "but I know they will be right back up for Monday's game against Chelsea. We played well tonight, especially when you consider that we had only 10 practice hours and had no jamboree action [Quincy had played three jamboree games prior to the game]. I can't single out any one player because it was a real team effort."

After a scoreless first period, North took a 2-0 lead in the middle period. After only 33 seconds of the period Cronin scored on a fine solo dash and at 4:29 North made it 2-0 when Struzik scored on passes from Frizzell and Cronin.

Quincy defenseman Jim Cattaneo broke the ice for the Presidents at 5:19 on a sizzling slap shot.

In the final period Patten finished off a rush by bouncing the puck in off a North player from the side of the cage at 1:08 to tie it and at 2:36 Cedrone put in a 40-foot wrist shot for the winner.

Quincy's starting goalie, Artie Boyle, had to leave the game with 4:36 remaining when he aggravated an injury to a fingernail, making it impossible for him to hold his hand steady. Pat Dempsey finished the game and did a fine job.

Quincy had 21 shots on goalie Bobby Guerriero while North had 14 on Boyle and Dempsey.

Quincy Seeks Second Track Win Against Rindge Tech

Quincy's winter track team has had only one meet this year and is already assured of a better record than it had a year ago.

Last winter's team failed to win a Met League meet due to a lack of depth and an abundance of sophomores, although some of the Presidents turned in fine individual performances.

Last week Quincy opened its league season and, thanks to a win by the relay team in the final event, it nipped Milton, 43½-42½, at Rockwell Cage at MIT, in a tremendous comeback.

Saturday Coach Gene Macomber's Presidents will face Rindge Tech, a 49-36 loser to defending champion Somerville last week, in a noon meet at Northeastern University.

"Actually we don't have too many more boys out this year than last but we are more experienced," Macomber said. "Last year we had 14 sophomores and this year Tom Hall is assisting me and several of his spring trackmen and cross country runners are with us, giving us more depth".

The Quincy coach sees the dash, 600-yard run, mile and hurdles as the team's strong events.

The top dashmen are Ray Lawyer, Ed Burke and Steve McCarthy, with Jim Tocchio, Ken Fernald, Fred Hibbette and Dave Ferris also running in this event.

Joe Goguen looks like the best of the 300-yarders with Fred Antoon, Bob Spillane, Phil Gill, Sam Venturelli and Mike Ryan behind him.

In the 600 Pete Daley tops the pack, followed by Mike Gilcoine, Frank Hickey and Paul Volpe.

The 1000-yard runners include Jim Dubois, Brian Feeney, Bill Kiggen, Jim Cyr and Jim Tucker.

Quincy has one of the top milers in the league in Bobby Ciano and others in this event are Mike Foley, Chris Toy, Ted Wan and Mark Higgins.

Ciano's sophomore brother, Peter, and Paul Wahlberg carry the Presidents' hopes in the two-mile.

Macomber rates Bobby McDermott and Dave Coull as excellent hurdlers and Kevin Eggersheim also looks good in this event.

McDermott, Goguen, Tucker and Johnson are the high jumpers.

Rich Menchi, Bob Volpini and Jim Bucchianeri are excellent shot putters with John Whitney, Kevin LaPointe and Ron Smith also in this event.

The relay runners include Antoon, Spillane, Daley, Gilcoine and Goguen.

Other squad members are Frank Aldopolis, Gerry McCall, Paul Kilduf, Mike Orlando and Rich Coletti.

"Last year we had a very young team and usually averaged only about 20 boys for a meet," Macomber said. "In one meet we had just eight boys show up because of a snowstorm and they did a great job and enabled us to make a creditable showing."

In the opening day meet the Quincy winners were Bobby Ciano in the mile, Lawyer in the dash, McDermott in the hurdles and Johnson, who tied in the high jump. Ciano's time was the best in all the divisions.

Taking second places were Feeney, 1000; Daley, 600; Goguen, 300; Coull, hurdles; Menchi, shot put, and Burke, dash. Third place finishers were McDermott, tied in high jump; and Pete Ciano, two-mile.

"We were down by 18 points, 40½-22½, with only the hurdles, dash and relay left," said Hall, who is in charge of the runners. "We needed 21 of a possible 23 points to win and the boys did it."

Goguen led off for the winning relay team, followed by Daley, Antoon and Bobby Ciano.

"The best part of it all is that the boys taking one-two for us in the hurdles are both juniors and those taking one-two in the dash are only sophomores," Hall concluded. "This great comeback should give the kids a tremendous boost."

Rickson Commended For St. Ann's Program

Kenneth B. Rickson, coordinator of physical education and health for Quincy Public Schools, has received a letter of commendation for the children's swimming program at St. Ann's School swimming pool.

William F. Ryan, chairman of the water safety committee for the Greater Quincy Chapter of American Red Cross, and director of recreation for Quincy, wrote:

"This program certainly is a fine example of cooperation and coordination between a public school system and a parochial school in sharing a facility with a much needed program which could not be conducted individually by either group."

Ryan commended also Miss Mary Lydon, physical educator, who works with youngsters at the pool. He suggested also a swimming program for handicapped children, approved also by Eugene Creedon, principal at St. Ann's with Miss Lydon as instructor.

Life jackets, kick boards, torpedo buoy and a paddle board for use in the swimming and life saving program have been loaned by the Recreation Department.

20 Recreation Dept. Girls Attend Workshop

The Quincy Park-Recreation board announces that the Recreation Department recently sponsored 20 girl staff members to attend a holiday arts and crafts workshop at Bouve College at Northeastern University.

Group work was provided in the making of wire Christmas Tree, Tin Can craft, Cone and Nut decorations, Bell Cards with Swedish Finger weaving, decorative boxes, and crepe paper roses.

Among those attending were Deborah Issac, Beth Hanratty, Margaret O'Brien, Mrs. Stephen Carll, Sheree Tripp, Milan Nestor, Mary Ellen Grazioso, Marilyn Mele, Jean Ricciuti, Mrs. Frank Molloy, Deborah Larkin, Marie Leonard, Janet Veasey, Mrs. Barbara Kenney, Regina Kelly, Katherine Coletta, Madeline Cashman, Barbara Sullivan, Linda DePaulo and Rosemary Damon.

Assistant director, Charles L. Alongi, Jr., made arrangements for all to attend the workshop and accompanied the group.

Quacks Lose To Newton, 5-1

The Quincy Quacks dropped another street hockey game Sunday, this time to Newton by a score of 5-1.

Newton scored on a roller that got by Ron Smith, only a short time into the game and then scored twice more in the next nine minutes. But the winners were shut out for the next 40 minutes of play by Jeff Bonish, new goal-tender for the Quacks.

Quincy went scoreless until Steve Golden passed to Dave London, alone in front of Newton's net.

After this second period score the Quacks began applying pressure but could not make a comeback as they were burnt by two Newton shots late in the game. They were handicapped also by absence of leading scorer Dave Stein, who has eight points for the year.

The Quacks hope for a win next week in Newton as they make up a rained-out game.

North A Contender, Quincy Needs Help

Their opening games last week proved that North Quincy's basketball team has to be rated a top contender in the Greater Boston League and that Quincy will be hurting badly off the boards until 6-5 Bill Burke, who suffered a broken bone in his foot in a practice, returns to the lineup.

Both local squads opened against Weymouth teams in non-league games. North had a breeze against newcomer Weymouth South, 75-31, while Quincy was beaten badly off the boards and bowed to veteran Weymouth North, rated one of the top teams in the Suburban League, 87-72.

Each opened its league season this week against league powers, Quincy hosting Somerville and North going to Revere. Next Tuesday night the Presidents are home to Everett and North travels to Medford.

"We just had too much experience and height for them," North coach Bob Nolan said. "Ken Baker, Brian Donahue, Dan Zink and 6-8 Tom Cairns are all experienced lettermen and the other eight players were on the varsity or were members of our championship jayvees of a year ago."

In contrast, Weymouth South is completely inexperienced. The veterans from last year's strong Weymouth High team are playing with Weymouth North.

Nolan had a chance to use his entire squad and liked the performances of his reserves. South Coach John Fleming, with the decision quickly out the window, also took the opportunity to give his reserves plenty of chance.

Nolan praised the efforts of Tony Kelly, who led the scorers with 13 points; Dave Mahoney, who had 12, and Cairns, who sparkled off the boards and scored 11 points.

"Our defense was outstanding, holding Weymouth to nine baskets," Bob said. "The defense was our strong point last year and it looks as though it will be again this year. And, of course, our height and experience caused a great number of Weymouth turnovers."

Quincy stayed with Bill Kearns' strong Weymouth team for a period but the Maroons began to pull away in the second period and outclassed the Presidents in the third period.

"We had 39 fouls called on us," Coach Marty Finnegan lamented. "Bill Maver had four in the second period so he had to sit out much of the game. We were hoping we could stay close until the half but they began to pull away in the second period as they controlled the boards. We just couldn't get the rebounds and we will be hurting here until Burke returns."

Bob Pike, rated one of the best in the league, was outstanding for Quincy as he scored 29 points and played a fine all-around game.

"Bob played a great game and he is going to be a great one," Marty said. "He had to do most of the inside rebounding himself and took down a good number of rebounds."

Finnegan also praised the play of John Reggiannini and Jim Dubois, who came off the bench. "Dubois earned himself a starting job off tonight's performance," Finnegan announced.

Finnegan and Kearns, who have been coaching for many years, agreed the rule prohibiting basketball practice until after the football season should be changed. Each feels it doesn't give the basketball players enough time to prepare for the season."

SCHOOL CUSTODIANS HELP -- Henry Conroy, head football coach for Quincy High School's championship team, accepts a $100 check toward the team's trip to the Orange Bowl from George Smith, president of Local R1-206, National Association of Government Employees. QJC Eyes New Start Jan. 6

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, hampered by a lack of size, a major obstacle for several years, hopes to regroup and start a winning streak when it resumes action Jan. 6 in a home game against Wentworth Institute.

The Collejuns were victims of a terrific press in their final pre-holiday game and were whacked by Newbury Junior College, 91-58, dropping its record to 2-5.

Newbury employed an extremely effective press for the first 10 minutes, rolled to a huge 52-27 halftime lead and never looked back.

Luigi Heuteri, former Quincy High star, continued to sparkle and was the only QJC player in double figures with 19 points.

Quincy finally solved the puzzle in the second half and played Newbury on nearly even terms but it was far too little and too late.

Squirts Bomb Somerville

Quincy Youth All Star Squirts, took their second game of the hockey season from Somerville All Star Squirts Saturday at Shea Skating Rink, rolling up a 12-2 score.

Brian Bertoni had four goals and two assists while Dave Lewis scored three goals to lead Coach Bob Hayes' team. John Yaxter recorded a goal and had two assists, while Jimmy Triglia had three assists for the night.

Other scores for Quincy were by John Kelley, John Norton and Mike Furey, while assists were by Leo Doyle, Mark Assad and Mike Furey. Jim McHughe and Dean Prescott were goalies.

Chuck Allen and Tom Tierney were responsible for Somerville's two goals.

North Trackmen Hope To Rebound Against Arlington

A year ago North Quincy's winter track team had a 4-3 record in the strong Met League and, despite a 69-17 thumping last week at the hands of powerful Needham, Coach Bob Gentry has hopes of another winning record.

"We won't face a stronger team than Needham this year," Gentry said. "They were undefeated last winter and have most of that team back. They are very strong in every event and look like top contenders in Division Two. We have good potential and I feel we will bounce back and have a good year."

The Raiders hope to rebound Saturday when they face Arlington, held to a 43-43 tie by Randolph last week, at Northeastern U. in a noon meet.

Gentry has several returnees from last winter's team as well as several boys from his spring track team and cross country team.

In the 50-yard dash are Greg King, a spring star; Joe Marini a three-year veteran, and George Snook.

Ken Baker, another spring star, is the best of the 300-yarders while sophomores John Reynolds and John Pomarole show promise.

In the 600 Tim Flynn has run the fastest time and should have a good year, while Dan Coughlin is a veteran and Jay Griffin and Jim Hurley are coming along.

Jeff Strungis is a fine 1000-yarder as is Paul Bonoli. Barry Morris, Walter Shea and Jerry Moran also look good.

In the mile Matt Clancy and sophomore Bob McCormack are strong while Moran and sophs Gary Cunniff, Dave Ashmanskos and Chris Cordeiro are good prospects.

Kevin Henry, who had a spectacular cross country season, and soph Dick Malloy are the two-mile hopes.

In the hurdles George McCall, whose brother Bill starred in this event a year ago, and Steve Little are the pacesetters.

John Panarelli is one of the best shot putters in the league, while Steve Leet and John Graceffa are also strong.

Dave Mahoney and Reynolds are the best bets in the high jump and the top relay unit includes King, Baker, Strungis and Flynn. The second unit has Marini, Coughlin, Reynolds and Pomarole.

Two prospective scorers, Lee Davis and Mike Jacques, missed the Needham meet but are expected for the remaining meets and should help the Raiders. Davis, a versatile performer, can try just about any event asked of him while Jacques is a fine high jumper.

Others on the squad are John Meyer, Joe Powers and John Murphy.

North's only winner last week was Panarelli in the shot put. Leet was second in the shot put, Marini second in the dash, McCormack third in the mile, Bonoli third in the 1000, Reynolds third in the 300, Henry third in the two-mile and King third in the dash.

DRUG CURE DILEMMA

No one treatment for heroin addiction works in all cases and there are as many approaches as there are experts. "The British System" allows doctors to prescribe maintenance doses of the drug which eliminates dependence on the black market. But this system has been profusely abused.

Methadone maintenance substitutes a legally-available addicting drug for heroin. It doesn't cure addiction as much as it allows the user to function normally in society.

The most accepted means of dealing with drug addiction is through small therapeutic communities run by ex-addicts such as Synanon or Marathon House. The name of the game here is kicking the habit completely.

Federal narcotics hospitals [such as Lexington, Ky.] receive most of their patients from the courts but more than 90% return to heroin. While the experts argue, people are becoming addicted and dying.

Have a Merry--And Safe--Christmas!

The Quincy Fire Department wishes you a Merry--and safe--Christmas.

But you'll have to do your part to make it so.

Capt. Francis Daly, head of the department's Fire Prevention Bureau, cautions residents against the "extra hazards" of the Christmas-New Year holiday season.

The hazards include the traditional Christmas tree, unsafe toys, over-loaded electric circuits and the "relaxing" cigarette after a party.

Capt. Daly offers the following advice:

CHRISTMAS TREES: Select a fresh one. Keep stump in water until the tree is taken into house for use. Then make a fresh cut and set tree up on a stand which firmly holds stump in water. Keep water level constant.

Set the tree in a safe place--not near radiator, not in path of exit or doorway, not near electric appliances that may arc or spark.

Remove tree as soon as possible after Christmas--sooner if the needles brown up or show any signs of drying out.

"The Quincy Fire Department," notes Captain Daly, "does not recognize so-called flame proofing of live Christmas trees as being effective in all cases. And the department does not wish to promote a false sense of security by encouraging this procedure in place of the proven precautions.

DECORATIONS: State regulation prohibits all flammable decorations in places of public assembly. This includes Christmas trees and other evergreens.

ELECTRICAL: Make certain all appliances have been approved by a recognized agency such as U.L., Electrical Testing Laboratory. Check string of lights to be sure there are no bare wires, loose connections, short circuits, etc.

Use only "outdoor" lights outside.

Don't overload electric circuits, extension cords, outlets. If fuses blow out, reduce the load on that circuit. Never increase the capacity of the fuse.

Be very careful about placing fancy plastic collars, rosettes and similar articles around light bulbs. Some of these may melt and ignite from the heat of the bulb.

TOYS: Give your children only safe toys. Beware of electrical toys for children too immature to understand and avoid the possible fatal hazards connected with electricity.

CHEMISTRY SETS: Some experiments require heating by a flame--bunsen burner or candle. Some experiments can form flammable or explosive compounds, etc. Be sure the child is mature enough to understand and avoid these hazards. In any event, supervise all experiments.

"Give your child," says Captain Daly, "the chance to grow up with all his vision, fingers and hands."

GOOD CHEER: Don't let it spoil the rest of your life. Beware of that last "relaxing" smoke after the party and after the crowd has gone when you are alone at last.

"The smoke," says Capt. Daly, "might be your very last."

CIGARETTE: The Fire Department this year has a special warning about cigarette lighters which have been on the market for several weeks. These lighters are of a throw-away type filled with liquid butane with a button which may be adjusted to throw a flame from one to three feet. They are a serious hazard to youngsters, the department warned.

Whatever Happened To Don Ameche?

LORD SNOWDEN, husband of England's PRINCESS MARGARET, is branching out into the video commercial scene... SNOWDEN has plans to make commercials for American television... Last month's Greece premiere engagement of "WOODSTOCK" at Athens' Palace Theatre, caused a major riot amongst the youthful Greek filmgoers... Earlier in the month "THE STRAWBERRY STATEMENT" was exiled by that country's' dictatorship as having "a detrimental influence on the young"... Could it be that Greece's military junta is running scared?... OSSIE DAVIS is rapping up production of his "KONGI'S HARVEST" in London... The versatile Mr. DAVIS both acts in and scenarios the flic, which is due for an early 1971 release... "FLAP" is flip-flopping at the box-office... The re-release of "IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD" is jingling to the merry holiday tune of $1.5 million... Mexican actor JORGE RADO is in Hollywood filming an "IRONSIDES" segment... With all the talented young actresses around, how does EDY WILLIAMS rate a role in "THE SEVEN MINUTES"?...

Newscasters come and go, but WALTER CRONKITE goes on and on... MARTHA RAYE is in Vietnam on her eighth entertainment tour since 1965... CHRIS GEORGE and wife LYNDA DAY have more in common than acting... Their two TV series, "THE IMMORTAL" and "THE SILENT FORCE", were cancelled the earlier part of the month... RIP TORN's wry comment on a Dec. 6th sniper attempt on his life: "This is clearly a warning, is it not"... NEIL SIMON's "THE GINGERBREAD LADY" is not a transvestite sequel to the 1905-06 Broadway edition of "THE GINGERBREAD MAN"... TUESDAY WELD hands in a near flawless performance in "I WALK THE LINE"... She more than uplifts the film and gives much needed support to RALPH MEEKER, ESTELLE PARSONS and GREGORY PECK, whom saddle "LINE" with heavy handed, and at times, dull performances... PECK, by the way is notoriously miscast as the Tennessee hillbilly sheriff... ISABEL SARLI continues to do her thing, but definitely not acting, in "TROPICAL ECSTASY"... Ouch!... CHRISTOPHER JONES and ROBERT MITCHUM are standouts in "RYAN'S DAUGHTER", a love story as contemporary as today, and ageless as yesterday...

Sometimes being a former wife of a big name star helps in climbing the stellar ladder to success... Case in point: DYAN CANNON, ex of CARY GRANT... That's show biz... ANGELA LANSBURY is being sought after for an upcoming GOWER CHAMPION Broadway musical... The role they have picked out for Miss LANSBURY is that of a southern sheriff who gets raped... Yikes!... EUROPEAN directors and screenwriters are circulating a petition to free ANGELA DAVIS and BOBBY SEALE... CHARLES BRONSON and TONY CURTIS completed the made-in-Turkey, "YOU CAN'T WIN 'EM ALL"... Hopefully the title is not indicative of how this adventure yarn is going to fare at the turnstiles... Isn't PAT PAULSEN'S "Mobil Commercial" edging towards the absurd?... TOM LIGON, who scored so impressively in "PAINT YOUR WAGON", has been signed for the lead role in "JUMP"... Swedish filmmaker VILGOT SJOMAN, of "I AM CURIOUS YELLOW" fame, makes the switch to comedy with "BLUSHING CHARLIE"... With SJOMAN at the helm "BLUSHING CHARLIE" will more than likely be provocative than "funny"... Even the title sounds sensurous... DALE WASSERMAN's "MAN OF LA MANCHA" is now playing in its' sixth record year to capacity houses around the world...

JILL IRELAND stares in "98", with actor-husband CHARLES BRONSON directing... Watch for MANUELA, a Berlin-born pop songstress, to make it big in her first film, "TWENTY GIRLS AND A TEACHER", now being shot in Germany... The new JERRY LEWIS comedy "ONE MORE TIME", was press-showed in London to luke warm reviews... PETER STRAUSS was signed to star in "SERGEANT KLEM" due to his "SOLDIER BLUE" success... QUOTE, UNQUOTE: GORDON HESSLER speaking on the present condition of the motion picture horror trend said, "As with sexploitation items, horror films are reaching the saturation point on the market"... ANTHONY NEWLEY's Jan. 10th, NBC-TV special guest stars LIZA MINNELLI and DIAHANN CARROLL... "LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE" and "MAKE ROOM FOR GRANDDADDY" are holding their own among the top 40 tele-shows... Both are ABC-TV outings.: What's DON AMECHE doing these days?... Away back in the 30's and 40's, AMECHE was dynamite at the box office... And, no, VICTOR MATURE is not contemplating a film comeback... Some actors seem to get luckier, and more in demand as they get older... DAVID NIVEN is mulling a French motion picture offer that would guarantee him $10 million over an eight film period... While on the other side of the coin, LEE MARVIN is sweating out his next script offer... MARVIN hasn't had a script tossed his way since his latest, "MONTE WALSH"... Such is life!...

CPO Richard Lemon Back From Mediterranean

Navy Chief Petty Officer Richard J. Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Lemon of 41 Palmer St., Germantown, has returned to Norfolk, Va., after a deployment to the Mediterranean aboard the guided missile frigate USS Belknap.

The Belknap was participating in an advanced fleet missile exercise in the Caribbean when, along with the guided missile frigate USS Leahy, she was called upon to escort the attack carrier USS John F. Kennedy in a high speed transit to the Mediterranean to provide additional support of the Sixth Fleet forces.

Edward Finn Cites Medicare Problems

Edward Finn of Quincy, President of the South Shore Chapter of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, spoke Tuesday at an all-day program of the Federation at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Lexington.

Finn, administrator of the Oceanside Nursing Home at 445 Quincy Shore Blvd., said dedicated nursing home leaders have found that the care of long term patients has not been improved through Medicare, and if the present course is followed, problems of long term care will get worse.

Quincy High Fund Drive At $13,000 Mark

Just $2,000 To Go For Orange Bowl Touchdown

The Quincy High football team Orange Bowl trip fund was at the $13,000 line today with just $2,000 to go for a Florida touchdown.

The fund was swelled this week by donations ranging from $1 to $320 to help reach the necessary $15,000 to send the undefeated 63-member championship squad to Miami for a four-day vacation reward.

If the $2,000 still needed is raised by early next week, the team will leave Logan Airport next Thursday [Dec. 31] at 10 a.m.

They will see the Orange Bowl game Jan. 1 and visit the Miami area, returning late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

"It looks good right now," said Harold J. McCarthy, chairman of the fund-raising drive sponsored by the Quincy Fathers Club.

"We are grateful to the many Quincy residents, business and professional men who have donated to the fund. It's a wonderful tribute to a nice group of kids."

The fund got a big boost this week from Quincy Firefighters Local 792 and other members of the department who contributed $320.

Other large contributions included $225 each from Colman's Sporting Goods and the Bargain Center, $200 from Quincy Cooperative Bank, and $100 each from Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank, President Chevrolet, Joseph P. Keenan, Quincy School Custodians, Quincy Rotary Club, Morrisette Legion Post, W. H. Brine Company, and $75 from Quincy Senior Citizens.

A Tag Days and house-to-house solicitation conducted by Quincy High students last weekend raised approximately $1,800.

Special blue coupons are being distributed by the Fathers Club and students in cooperation with Burger King.

For each turned in with the purchase of a "Whopper", 25 cents is being returned to the trip fund by Vini St. Pierre and Bill Means, owners of the Burger King string.

Contributions so far, some previously noted and including many new ones include:

South Shore National Bank, $700.

Quincy, Milton Boy Scouts Need Local Commissioners

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We would like to present your readers with an opportunity to be of service in assisting the Boy Scout program in our community.

The past year has been one of rapid growth both in the number of boys enrolled in the program and in the number of packs, troops and posts operating in our area. Although each of these units is staffed by a team of dedicated volunteer leaders, we have a serious lack of support personnel – called in scouting "Neighborhood Commissioners" – who provide an ongoing liaison between the individual pack, troop or post and the central district organization.

The commissioner is a volunteer extension of the professional staff serving our community. Since two professionals are responsible for the 80 packs, troops and posts in Quincy and Milton, it is obviously impossible for them to maintain a close personal relationship with each unit.

Thus, the role of the commissioner is to serve as the liaison man for about three units, visiting with them about once a month and reporting on their problems and progress at a monthly meeting of the full commissioner staff.

What kind of men are we looking for? We don't necessarily need a man with a Ph.D in Scouting–we will give him what little technical training he has to have. What we do need are men who work well with other adults, who are good listeners, who are able to look at their units objectively and report factually. What are the rewards? An assurance that every boy in the cub pack, scout troop or explorer post will have a better experience because of his contribution of time.

We feel certain that there are men among your readers who would want to help. Those who want to affiliate, should contact Sumner Morse or Dan O'Shea at Scout Headquarters at 522-4000.

Many Come To Aid

Fire Family Of 13 Face New Year With Buoyed Hope

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The family of Quincy Firefighter John Murphy, left homeless by a pre-Christmas fire, face the New Year buoyed by hope and the generosity of friends and businessmen.

The family with 11 children were forced to find new living quarters when a fire of unknown origin gutted their 10 room house at 75 Prospect St., East Braintree, and destroyed most of their personal belongings.

They are now staying temporarily in the home of Mrs. Henry T. Downes at 58 Nelson St., East Braintree, their holiday brightened by the outpouring of gifts and financial aid given them in the true spirit of Christmas.

"Honestly, we are just ever so grateful," Mrs. Murphy says. "We think it is simply marvelous! You wouldn't believe it! Quincy firemen have been just great, and policemen, and the Braintree firemen have been marvelous also."

Mrs. Murphy had a special "thank you" for Quincy Firefighter James Donovan and for Braintree Town Clerk Robert N. Bruynell who coordinated the Quincy and Braintree efforts to salvage a real holiday for the family.

Quincy Firefighters donated $1,369.00 in cash – including $135 from Quincy Police.

"Would you believe it? There were eight bicycles – for the children from 12 years on down!" Mrs. Murphy exclaimed.

Quincy merchants donated more than $500. in merchandise to the Murphy children – including a Christmas tree with ornaments – and gifts that included not only bicycles, but two sleds, clock radios, a toaster, games, Tonka toys, records, etc.

Among the businesses contributing money or merchandise were South Shore Television, the Bargain Center, Sears Roebuck and Co., Colman's Sporting Goods, Child World, King's Department Store, Donaher's Men's Store, Standard Television, Woolworth's, Remick's, Jason's, Bell Shops, Kresge's Department Store, Rogers Jewelry, Capitol Market, Charles Bean, Tag's Sleep Shop, Cummings, Kincaide's, Granite City Electric, Hancock Tire, Goodyear Tire, Turnstyle, Star Market, Montillio's.

Prayer For Prisoners

The prayer following originated at the national convention of the American Legion and has been sent to the Quincy Sun by Mrs. Mary Timcoe, president of the Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary.

She writes:

"Unit 380 Houghs Neck Auxiliary American Legion feel that with the start of a New Year, our prisoners of war need our support. We ask you to offer this prayer in hope that their release will be realized. We also extend our best wishes for a good year ahead."

"Lord, shelter the prisoners of war in Indochina. Open the hearts and minds of their captors that they may be restored to their homes and loved ones.

Each assumed the burdens of war according to his beliefs and those of his nation.

These tasks brought him hazard, pain and prison–too often the lot of the warrior.

But Lord, these burdens so heavy are carried by so few.

Save for your command, these few might be forgotten.

They must not be forgotten.

O God, in whom we trust, humbly we ask you to lift their burdens; give them sustenance and strike the shackles that deny them freedom."

Friends Score Fund Touchdown For Quincy High Champs

They're Off For Florida And Orange Bowl!

They're off for Florida and the Orange Bowl!

The undefeated, untied Quincy High School football champs were scheduled to leave Logan Airport, Boston at 7:25 a.m. today to see the Orange Bowl game [Nebraska vs LSU] and enjoy four days of Miami sun and sightseeing.

And quite appropriately for champs, they'll arrive in Miami at 12:30 p.m. aboard a champ plane--National Airlines' Boeing 747--newest and largest airliner in existence.

In Miami, they will stay at the Carib Motel.

The trip for the 61-member squad and five coaches was made possible by a Quincy Fathers Club fund-raising drive, to which residents, business and professional men and women contributed.

Goal was $15,061.

The fund was over the top today, reaching the $15,332 in cash and pledges.

Actual cash totalled $13,632. Pledges amounted to $1,700.

Donations this week included $225 from Mayor and Mrs. James R. McIntyre, $225 from the Norman Pemberton Roofing Co., $200 from the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, an anonymous $200 contribution and $100 each from Scott Prescott Associates and the Quincy Motor Company.

Many others ranged from $5 to $50 including $10 from Tom Kiley, former North Quincy football star and Vietnam hero.

Head Coach Hank Conroy and Assistants Gene Macomber, Dave Burke, John Bogan and Arthur Mosher were to make the trip with the team.

Going along as chaperones are High School Principal Lloyd Creighton and seven members of the Fathers Club: President James [Buddy] Page, Secretary Frank Osborne, Treasurer Harold McCarthy, Anthony Malvesti, Arthur Richards, Americo Speranzo and James Warren.

'Whopper' Help To Continue

The Burger King Special to help send the Quincy High football team to the Orange Bowl will continue through Jan. 31.

Blue coupons now in circulation may be redeemed until the end of January at the Burger King chain.

For each coupon turned in at Burger Kings in Quincy, Weymouth and Brockton toward the purchase of a "Whopper", 25 cents will be returned to the trip fund by Vini St. Pierre and Bill Means, co-owners of Burger King.

At last count, some 271 coupons had been turned in representing $67.65.

Although the team was enroute today to Florida, the actual total cash received so far was $13,632--some $1,700 short of the $15,000 goal. There is $1,700 in pledges still to be received.

The Burger King offer will serve as an "insurance policy" to help bring the actual cash to $15,000.

It will also help defray any unexpected costs for the trip.

And, the Quincy Fathers Club who sponsored the fund-raiser hopes to "do something" for the 14 high school cheerleaders if sufficient money comes in by the end of January.

So, have a "Whopper".

Poet's Corner

In '71

I'm gonna make time in "71",
To win a few races in the life that I've run,
I'm tired of losing and finishing last,
World, watch out, I'm through with the past.

I'm going to restore the years that have gone,
With time made up, in the course that I've drawn.
Right from the start, with a sudden burst,
I'll come out on top, and finally be first.

I won't sit back and be pushed around,
I'll get out in front in this new life I've found.
No more hassles, there have been enough,
For people will learn I'm gonna be tough.

I'll do what I want and live to be free,
Travelin' about, around the country.
My mind's made up, as this, my demand,
To find myself, that's how I stand.

No more worries and pressures to take,
Just a new life that I'll finally make.
No matter what, I'll be glad I tried,
Traveling the road, I won't be denied.

This is my thought for "71",
Unchained from the world, chasing the sun.
It may sound mad, maybe unique,
But just the same, it's something I'll seek.

Rich Kenney

Snow

A naked tree stands alone, frozen from the cold,
When, suddenly, out of nowhere, come's a wind that's quite bold!
It frolics and whistles and hoots out a tune,
As clouds cover over the silvery moon.
The branches shake as the wind still races,
Like a fox running wild in one of his chases!!
The treetops rattle very very loud
As the greyness grows in the hovering cloud.
Then, the clouds open up and from them flow
A white, lacy, downy-soft snow!
As it falls to the earth, it dances and twirls,
While the powerful wind continues its swirls.
The whiteness, the brightness, the earth seems to smile.
It makes the storm's torments almost worthwhile!

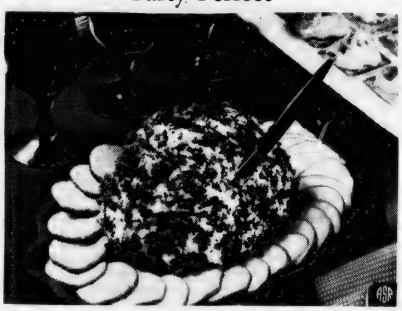
BBQ Glaze Ends 'Ho Hum' Ham

If your family gives you that "ho hum" look when you put ham on the table, your ham needs help. Two things can do the trick and brighten those tired ham appetites around the table. First is barbecuing in a covered barbecue kettle to give the ham the rich, smoke-oven flavor that only outdoor cooking can achieve. A covered kettle helps seal in the natural juices and give the outside of the ham a crisp, brown texture. Second is to add one of a variety of glazes to encrust the ham with a distinct sweet or tangy taste. Try one or more of the following on your future hams.

Cranberry Glaze
1 cup mashed jellied cranberries
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup packed dark brown sugar



Honey-Orange Glaze
½ cup packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup honey
¼ cup orange juice

Peach Glaze
1 cup peach preserves
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon ginger

Baked Ham Glaze
½ cup packed brown sugar
1½ teaspoons salad mustard
2 teaspoons water

To prepare the ham score the fat diagonally and insert a whole clove at the center of each diamond that is formed by scoring. Cook over indirect medium heat for 9 minutes per pound. After 30 minutes baste with glaze. Baste again every 20 minutes if thick glaze is desired. With all but peach glaze garnish with pineapple rings and cherries 15 minutes before ham is done.

Party Perfect

The holidays are imminent, and the entertainment season is getting into full swing. Holiday hostesses begin the search for unusual recipe ideas. Look no further—you will find a perfect welcome for your guests with this Party Cheese Ball. It's a savory blend of delicate cream cheese and sharp Cheddar . . . the perfect spread on crunchy crackers. Pimiento and green pepper add delightfully festive colors Best of all it's easy on the hostess. You can whip it up well in advance of the party, allowing time to relax and visit with your guests. If any is left over, simply reshape it, wrap in foil and store in the refrigerator. It will keep several days until the next company occasion. Served in combination with hot crabmeat canapes and holiday beverages, this handsome appetizer will bring bouquets of compliments to your holiday hostessing.

Party Cheese-Ball

2 8-oz. pkgs. Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese
1 8-oz. wedge Cracker Barrel Brand Sharp Natural Cheddar Cheese, shredded
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash of cayenne
Dash of salt
Finely chopped pecans

Combine softened cream cheese and cheddar cheese, mixing until well blended. Add pimiento, green pepper, onion, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and seasonings; mix well. Chill. Shape into a ball and roll in chopped pecans or parsley.

Week of Jan. 1 - 7

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - If you give some serious though to your Union, Government, or Association negotiations, you can add to your reputation and prestige.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - You can Heighten your reputation by assuming more responsibilities now. The work load may be extra heavy but some good comes of it.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - If you are trying to negotiate a peaceful settlement, this is a difficult time to put your ideas across. Be careful with correspondence.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Social success and some financial gain can be expected but keep your ideas about work to yourself for another couple of weeks.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - All the action is at home base right now and may be keeping you tied down. You may feel harassed and anxious - patience is the key right now.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - You can be really up tight during this period but try not to confuse things in your own mind as you re-hash problems you thought solved.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Look around for new project or opportunities that will help improve budget. This week can bring an unexpected disappointment or set-back.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Too many things going on and friends may be interfering in some way - concentrate on one project and reap a few of the benefits later.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You may be trying to solve your problems in the wrong manner - perhaps it would be better to explore a new hobby interest.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Recently made social contacts bring added activity into your life. Changes made at work can cause you concern and disappointment

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Career matters begin improving shortly, but don't push too hard yet, you may have to repeat or reverse your way of thinking.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - The struggle within you is felt strongly this week but try not to take it out on others. Patience and tolerance is needed now.

It's In To Be Thin
By Lois L. Lindauer
Director, The Diet Workshop

Happy New You!

That is my wish for you this year and yet it is only you who can make it come true.

I could paper my house with the New Year's Resolutions I have made in years past–and maybe I could decorate yours as well–for it is many times that I have resolved that this is the year I am going to make it–that I am going to achieve my goal–that I was going to be THIN.

And now I'll share my secret with you–the secret which has ended resolution making forever. No more resolutions, no more secret promises made in the middle of the night. The problem is solved. The solution is simple.

Do it!

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of my free folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Quincy Catholic Churches To Hold New Year's 'Mass For Peace'

Quincy's Catholic Churches will join other parishes throughout the Archdiocese in scheduling a Special Mass for Peace at New Year's.

In some churches, one mass is being designated as a Special Mass for Peace, and in others, more than one will be celebrated. Masses will be celebrated both New Year's Eve and New Year's Day.

Archbishop Humberto Medeiros in a letter to pastors directed that the Special Mass for Peace be scheduled in all parishes of the Archdiocese on New Year's Day, the Feast of the Solemnity of the Holy Mother of God.

The letter was read in churches last Sunday, announcing the Mass for Peace is being offered in accordance with Pope Paul VI's request for Catholics throughout the world to join in observing "World Peace Day", sponsored by the Church.

New Year's Adult Discussions Start Jan. 5 At First Parish Church

A New Year's series of adult discussions on contemporary religious concerns will begin [Jan. 5] at 8 p.m. in the parish house of United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The series, sponsored by the Adult Discussion Group with Robert Offenbach, chairman, will continue monthly on the first Tuesday through April, 1971.

As in the past, the informal meetings will be held around the open fire in the Memorial Room, with opportunity for audience participation.

Rev. Richard Leger of Braintree will discuss "Updating the Church to meet the Needs of the Seventies" at the first session.

Future meetings will present a Jewish Rabbi and Protestant ministers who will give their views on the same subject.

Miss Mildred Cosimini will be hostess, with coffee and refreshments served each evening. The public is invited.

Salem Lutheran Church Adopts $48,336 Budget, Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of Salem Lutheran Congregation, a budget of $48,336 was adopted for the 1970-71 financial year which began Nov. 1.

Officers elected were Victor Anderson, Robert Blake, Howard Gunnison, Jr., Melvin Monson, Robert Olsson, Leo Verrochi and Harry Johnson, deacons.

Robert Olsson, vice president; Roger Cook, secretary; Bertel Sjolin, church treasurer; Margareta Rundquist, financial secretary; and Tyra Peterson, clerk.

Anna B. Carlson was elected to another term as auditor; Donald Halgren, Roger Wallin, Harry Johnson and Bertel Sjolin, nominating committee; Welden Williamson, district delegate, with Alex Erikson, alternate; Walter Jacobson, Synod delegate with Bert Eckblom, alternate.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martinson were elected to represent the church at the South Shore Federation of Church Councils; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mullaney will be representatives to the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Pastor Bertil Hult reported a stable membership of 773 members with loss of only one member. The Sunday School enrollment remained stable, while Daily Vacation Bible School enrollment doubled from 80 to 164 pupils. This school was held jointly with three other churches in the area.

Braintree St. Coletta School Will Not Change Its Name

The Braintree St. Coletta Day School, for learning problem children, will not change its name.

Sister M. Johnice, superintendent, explains that many had asked if the school would change its name as the residential school in Hanover had to Cardinal Cushing.

"Our day school has been functioning as an independent facility for 13 years," Sister Johnice said. "We have no connection with the Hanover School either financially or academically."

She pointed out that last spring the corporate name had been changed to Braintree St. Coletta Day School, Inc. to try to lessen confusion between the two. Different names were considered, but they did not wish to give up "St. Coletta".

The campaign to raise funds for a new school building is progressing well, she said, and she anticipates construction to begin in early spring.

Holy Communion Service Friday At Christ Church

Christ Church will have its traditional New Year's Day service of Holy Communion Friday at 10 a.m., with sermon by Rev. Chester A. Porteus, rector.

Sunday's services will be at 8 a.m. Holy Communion; 9:15 a.m., Family Service; and 11 a.m. Holy Communion with sermon.

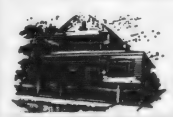
Furniture Sale Starts Jan. 4 At Goodwill

The Morgan Memorial Goodwill Thrift Store at 1627 Hancock St., in downtown Quincy, will begin Jan. 4 to offer all furniture at 50 per cent off the marked price.

Thousands of regular customers find special values in merchandise at Goodwill Stores for the family, for men, women and children, and the home. All proceeds from sales in Goodwill Thrift Stores goes into wages for handicapped people at Goodwill Industries.

The special sale on furniture will not include desks, or brand new furniture.

The Furniture Department at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is one of the busiest areas in Goodwill Industries. Here, all kinds of chairs tables, beds, bureaus, lamps, chests of drawers, rocking chairs and other items are refurbished, repainted and made to look like new.



A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Did you make a New Year resolution? Sad but true, even the best intentioned resolution is often broken within a few days or few weeks, causing jeers to replace cheers. Why is this?

Can it be due to an attitude of, "Oh, what's the use?" Most resolutions recognize an existing personal fault with an intention for improvement. Self improvement is elusive when one frets over failures or frustrations. If there was a use or purpose in trying in the first place, then surely there is equal use and purpose in trying again.

Any or all New Year resolutions are unnecessary if we forget the calendar date and view every day as a New Year's Day. The slogan, "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again" is the best day by day resolution any one can make. As we meet the challenge of every new day, a circumstance may tend to knock us down in disappointment or despair. To keep the "Try, try again" resolution requires our getting up once oftener than we fall down. It is really quite simple. But it requires pluck, not luck...

Tobin To Be Re-Elected City Council President

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin is expected to be re-elected to Quincy's second most influential political post at next Monday's mid-term ceremonies.

City Hall sources report there had been some behind-the-scene maneuvering by at least one challenger to take the gavel away from Tobin but the move fizzled.

According to the sources, Tobin has at least five solid votes–enough to assure his re-election. They think the vote will actually be unanimous.

Tobin, however, declined to predict the outcome.

"I have no comment," he said. "I will leave the decision to my colleagues. I will leave it to their judgment as to whether I have done a good job of providing leadership".

Some political observers think 1971 may be "the year to be council president."

There has been speculation Mayor James R. McIntyre may not seek re-election next fall, stepping down after three terms.

The City Council presidency has long been considered the springboard to the mayor's office.

It is the second most powerful political post under the Plan A form of government. The council president appoints council committees and is in a position to steer or block council legislation. He also serves as acting mayor in the absence of the mayor.

But other sources are convinced Mayor McIntyre will run for a fourth term. If he does, he could very well go un-opposed.

As for being a springboard to the mayor's office, the City Council presidency has been–but for only six of Quincy's 23 mayors. And not all of them went directly from the council chamber to the chief executives desk.

The six former council presidents who became mayor are present Mayor James R. McIntyre and Charles M. Bryant, Joseph L. Whiton, Thomas S. Burgin, Charles A. Ross and Amelio Della Chiesa.

Burgin, Della Chiesa Invited To Ceremonies

Quincy's only two living former mayors have been invited to attend Monday's mid-term ceremonies for Mayor James R. McIntyre and the City Council.

Thomas S. Burgin and Amelio Della Chiesa were invited by McIntyre who will deliver his third mid-term address.

The recent death of David S. McIntosh at age 85 leaves Burgin and Della Chiesa, both in their 60's, as the city's only two living former mayors.

The mid-term ceremonies to be held in the City Council chamber Monday, will begin at 10 a.m.

Councillor Arthur H. Tobin is expected to be re-elected City Council president and Mrs. Josephine Carnali acting clerk of council committees.

The council will act on several routine matters.

Clergymen participating in the ceremonies will be Rev. Edward Flaherty, pastor St. Ann's Church, Rabbi Jacob Mann, Beth Israel Synagogue and Rev. Bedros Baharian, Quincy Point Congregational Church.

McCormick To Continue As School Committee Vice-Chairman

James F. McCormick, Sr. will continue through 1971 as vice-chairman of the Quincy School Committee.

McCormick was elected by colleagues last January to serve a two-year term as vice-chairman.

It is his second term. He served in the post 1966 and 1967.

Unlike the City Council president who is elected annually, the school committee vice-chairman is elected to a two-year term but cannot succeed himself.

HEROIN AND THE MIGHTY DOLLAR

Despite increasingly severe penalties, heroin-pushing still continues to mushroom. Why? The answer is simple - astronomical profits.

One kilogram [2.2 pounds] of morphine base is worth $350 in Turkey; after it is refined into heroin in France, the price jumps to $3,500; unloaded in New York, it is worth $18,000 before dilution. By the time the heroin gets to the street pusher, it is in one-ounce lots of 25% heroin and 75% filler. This is further diluted by the pusher and often again by the first user for additional resale profits.

Because there are so many manipulations with the purity and quantity of the heroin from the start until it hits the vein, the final user never knows how strong the stuff is an can easily give himself an overdose that makes him unconscious or even kills him.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. Six South Vietnamese Surprise Quincy's Own 'Santa Crombie'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Six South Vietnamese studying in the United States turned the tables on a former Houghs Neck serviceman during the holiday weekend.

Last year Army Spec. 4 Raymond D. Crombie during his third Christmas away from home visited six Vietnamese orphanages as "Santa Claus".

This year six students, five attending the University of Miami, overwhelmed Ray by driving from Florida to visit him at his home in Quincy. Now a civilian employee in South Vietnam, Ray was spending Christmas at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Crombie of 1276 Sea St.

Nguyen Ban Hien, 22 years, a third year student, and his brother Do Khoi Nguyen, 21 years, a freshman, are both majoring in electrical engineering.

"I know the family of the two brothers in Saigon," Ray explained. Their father, Nguyen Bu Dich, was my sponsor for two years. He is head of Thamyco Industries, electric cable and wiring industry. I had invited them for Christmas, planning on perhaps three boys coming from Miami. On the way they picked up the others at Washington, D.C. and New York."

These were Nguyen Thang Danh, 20, studying international relations in a course sponsored by Miami University; Nguyen Tien Thinh, also 20, majoring in mechanical engineering.

Pham Kim Thu, 35, is married and with five children in Vietnam. He plans to return next month after three years as an education major. And Nguyen Sy Anh, 31, ["and single," he adds], a captain with the South Vietnamese Army who is taking a course in military propaganda at Fort Benning, Ga.

Saturday they were joined at the Crombie home by Mrs. Quentin Hanson of Acton, cousin to the brothers, who is married to an American serviceman stationed at Fort Devens.

That night the boys joined in preparing for the Crombie family their first home cooked meal, Vietnamese style. They came up with a five-course holiday dinner consisting of two kinds of native soup, a hamburger and egg mixture similar to pancakes, curry, salad, sauteed beef.

"They did all the cooking themselves, served the family – and then did all the dishes afterward," Ray Crombie laughed.

The Crombie family included some 35 members: Mr. and Mrs. Crombie, their 11 sons and daughters with husbands or wives, and 12 grandchildren. Among them was the current family serviceman, Pvt. Ronald Crombie, a younger brother of Raymond, who returned Sunday to Fort Sill, Okla.

There were a few "first" experiences for the Vietnamese visitors also:

*The students went roller skating and "did very well," according to their host. "One of them would like to open his own roller rink for the Vietnamese kids when he goes back," Ray Crombie commented. "There is only one small rink in all of Vietnam."

*There was a first Christmas celebration with presents from all the Crombies to all the students -- and their first stockings hung by the chimney and filled by "Ong Gio Noel," -- Santa Crombie.

*Sunday the Vietnamese had their first typical New England holiday dinner of turkey with all the trimmings.

Monday was a day for sightseeing in Boston and Acton, and on Tuesday the gang left for Niagara Falls, before returning to Miami for their studies.

Ray Crombie himself will not be around Quincy very long. He plans to return to South Vietnam in late January or February to his "second home," where the welcome mat is always out for the Vietnamese-speaking American.

After his discharge from the Army last February, Ray remained in South Vietnam working for the New York Times for five months. After that he was employed in the personnel department of a Vietnamese firm at Cam Ranh Bay. He is now between jobs but anticipates no problems in securing a new position when he returns.

New Year, New Name

Wollaston Federal Becomes Colonial Federal Saturday

The Wollaston Federal Savings and Loan Association will begin the New Year with a new name – Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association of Quincy.

The new name - effective Saturday - is the second major change in name for the former "Wollaston Cooperative", organized as a lending institution in 1889 with offices at 80 Beale St.

"Wollaston Federal" was adopted in 1937 when it was incorporated as a Federal Bank. A further major change was the move to their own new building at 15 Beach St. in 1948.

"We are doing this because we have planned quite an expansion program to more effectively serve the public," noted President Philip J. Lawrence. New savings programs and services have been initiated, more are being designed."

The bank expects to open its first branch in the spring of 1971.

Wollaston Federal, with assets of close to $30 million, now numbers some 15,000 member associates extending from the South Shore, throughout the United States to Europe and South America.

PHILIP J. LAWRENCE

Officers, in addition to Mr. Lawrence, are:

Frank A. Marston, president emeritus; Stanley H. Richards, vice-president; Mary L. Reilly, treasurer and assistant secretary; John H. Fredrickson, mortgage officer and assistant vice-president; Warren L. Eldridge, assistant vice-president; Roy L. Sidelinger, secretary; John M. McIver, assistant secretary; William I. Bowen, comptroller.

Directors are Milton B. Wiggin, chairman of the board; James D. Asher, Robert L. Blair, Dr. George Davidson, Guy W. Hart, Myron N. Lane, Philip J. Lawrence, Ivar W. Lofgren, Dr. John M. McIver, Frank A. Marston, Stanley H. Richards, Roy L. Sidelinger, Carlton W. Spencer and Chester J. Weeden.

Within the past year business hours were extended so that the bank is now open daily from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

"We know we can serve even better without losing the friendly, personal touch, which we are confident is as essential as integrity," said Lawrence. "The name is new, but the welcome will never change."

Hancock School Heat Averages 77 Degrees

Average temperature for the 86-year old John Hancock School has been recorded at 77 degrees, according to readings taken each day since Dec. 14, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon reports.

"The temperature in any room has not fallen below 68 degrees," he said in a letter to parents Wednesday.

Dr. Creedon identified the heating problem as foremost among those listed by the school's Mothers' Club early in December.

Other steps taken to correct heating problems included action on corrective recommendations made by two independent heating firms; a briefing section for custodians and teachers on operation of the heating system, and changes in hours of the custodian during winter months to assure adequate heat before students arrive at school.

All requests for electrical outlets, also a source of complaint, have been approved, Dr. Creedon said. Requests for 1971 will be met within the next few months, he said.

The basement area was to be painted during the Christmas vacation period.

"While I appreciate that the concerns expressed by the Mothers' Club on December 8 had to do with conditions in the existing 86-year old building," Dr. Creedon added, "I would like to reassure each of you that it is now only a matter of time before all young people who attend school in the Lincoln-Hancock area will be in a brand new building.

As you know, the City Council has acted on the $4.9 million bond issue and we can now move ahead on the construction of the new building."

Five Take Part In HN Blood Bank Program

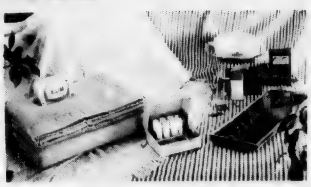
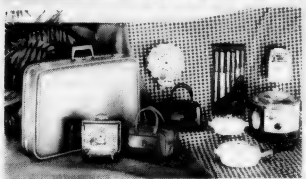
Past Commander Paul McKeon is chairman of the program which provides blood when needed for any resident of Houghs Neck.



Participating were Willard Timcoe, Sr., Willard Timcoe, Jr., William Morrill, Vincent Barrett and Richard Wainwright.



Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon has appointed William Clark chairman of the Post's Un-American Activities Committee.

McIntyre Would Limit TV, Radio Campaign Spending By Candidates

A financial limitation on campaign broadcasting expenses has been proposed by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre in legislation he has filed.

This limitation which would include both radio and television would affect the offices of senator, congressman, governor and other State offices down through sheriff.

Each candidate would be restricted to an amount totaling seven cents per vote cast in the last election for that office, and half that total in the primary, or up to $10,000 and $5,000.

"This would mean, for example, that our last candidates for governor would have been restricted to about $145,000 for use on broadcasting stations, rather than two or three times that amount which was spent," McIntyre says.

McIntyre feels this would result in the public receiving a serious discussion of the issues which affect every citizen.

He asks the support of voters to effect this limitation on campaign broadcasting expenditures.

Basketball In Full Swing Next Week

Quincy At Malden, North Hosts Chelsea

With the end of vacation, the winter sports teams return to action and get underway in full swing next week.

The Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams will be in action next Tuesday when the Presidents playing at Malden and North hosting Chelsea in Greater Boston League games. On Jan. 8 it will be Quincy at Medford and Everett at North.

Bob Nolan's North team showed in its first two games it will have to be reckoned with in the GBL while Marty Finnegan's Quincy team, hurting with 6-5 Bill Burke sidelined for several more games, will have to battle for all it is worth against taller opponents. But the Presidents show signs of improving on the records of the past two years.

North, following a breeze over newcomer Weymouth South in a non-league game, met one of the GBL powers in its league opener and pulled out a 78-76 thriller at Revere.

The aggressive Raiders literally stole the game away from the Patriots as they went into a press in the final quarter, grabbed the ball numerous times and turned the steals into points.

North trailed the veteran Revere team, 64-55, going into the final period but Nolan put in a five-player press of Tony Kelly, Tom Cairnes, Dave Mahoney, Dave Nelson and Bob McKay who did a sparkling job.

Revere still led, 70-64, with 2:19 remaining but Mahoney stole the ball and scored on a layup, McKay did the same and Kelly added two foul shots to tie the score. Revere's Paul D'Olimpio put his team ahead again, 72-70, but the 6-8 Cairnes stole the ball and scored on a turn-around jumper.

Dennis Lamalfa made a foul shot for Revere and Cairnes again tied it with 58 seconds to play. Nolan then substituted Brian Donahue, Dan Zink and Ken Baker, still using the press.

Donahue hit on two free throws and soon added two more for a 77-73 edge. D'Olimpio made good on a three-pointer to cut the gap to a point and Donahue then sank another foul shot for the final point.

Cairnes, a junior who has come along very fast and could make the big difference for the Raiders this year, scored 22 points, followed by Baker with 13 and Donahue with 12.

"I was elated," Nolan said. "This is a real good Revere team and can really shoot. I was especially delighted with the number of fans who followed us, this gave the boys a big lift. The substitutes came off the bench stone cold, their determination shook up Revere and the subs turned a lot of Revere mistakes into points for us."

Joe Amorosino's North junior varsity won, 70-59, as Jamie Doherty scored 27 points and John Stevens 10.

Quincy, after bowing to a powerful Weymouth North team, dropped a 74-57 decision to perennial GBL powerhouse Somerville, in its league opener, thanks to a brilliant performance by Mike Fahey, who scored 37 points, with 14 of his 15 field goals coming from 15 to 18 feet out.

"I've never seen anything like it, it was the greatest exhibition of outside shooting I've ever seen," Finnegan said. "After a while I just stopped looking. What is hard to believe is that the defense played by John Reggiannini on Fahey was good despite the 37 points. He kept him outside and forced him several times to shoot off balance, but they still went in."

Despite the loss, Finnegan's hopes were boosted by the Presidents' performance, especially off the boards. They were badly beaten on the boards by Weymouth but held their own against Somerville.

"We actually had an edge in rebounding with Billy Maver and Bob Pike doing a fine job," Marty said. "Pike gave us his usual great exhibition with 27 points and a lot of rebounds. But I was disappointed in our foul shooting and our floor shooting in the first half. We are a better shooting club than that."

Quincy missed eight of 11 foul shots in the first half while Somerville hit on 12 of 14. Quincy was 25 for 59 from the floor while Somerville was a hot 28 for 40.

Somerville had only three more goals from the floor but hit on 18 foul shots to only seven for the Presidents.

Who's Playing Who?

Met Track Schedule Sounds Like Abbott & Costello

"Where do we run and who do we run against?"

This is getting to be the question asked by the Met League trackmen and coaches.

The original league schedule, which has been turned topsy-turvy, listed the dates and sites for only three meets. Dates and sites of the other four were left blank.

The teams were due to run yesterday at Tufts and are listed to run again Saturday at Northeastern, but the opponents are pretty much of a question mark.

"Truthfully, I don't know who we are going to meet either day," North Quincy Coach Bob Gentry admitted. "This schedule is really up in the air and I certainly hope, as the other school track coaches do, that the new track facility will soon be a reality."

It was reported that the much-needed facility will be located at Andrew Square in South Boston. Ground breaking was scheduled for last Monday.

Gene Macomber's Quincy team, 0-7 a year ago, won its first two meets before bowing to Somerville last week, 48-38. The Presidents had defeated Milton and Rindge Tech in their first two meets.

Gentry's North team, which had a 4-3 record last year, is 0-2 following a 49-37 loss to Randolph last week. The Raiders had been swamped by powerful Needham in their opener. A scheduled meet with Milton was postponed.

Against Somerville, Quincy's Bobby Ciano again won the mile and the other winners for the Presidents were Brian Feeney in the 1000, Fred Antoon, 300; Jim Bucchianari, shot put, and Bobby McDermott, hurdles. Second places were taken by Rich Menchi, shot put; McDermott, tied in the high jump, and Ray Lawyer, dash. Thirds went to Mike Orlando, mile; Jim Dubois, 1000; Mike Gilcoine, 300; Paul Wahlberg, two-mile.

North Quincy's winners against Randolph were Jeff Strungis in the 600, John Panarelli, shot put; Kevin Henry, two-mile; Tim Flynn and John Reynolds, tied in the high jump, and the relay team. Taking a second was Matt Clancy, mile; and third places went to Bob McCormack, mile; Joe Powers, 1000; Flynn, 300; Dick Malloy, two-mile; Steve Little, hurdles and Lee Davis, dash.

"Despite our two straight losses, I'm pleased," Gentry said. "The boys from whom I was expecting a lot haven't done too well and those from whom I expected little have been doing a good job.

"Many of our boys are on the spring team and never ran indoors. It is much different and they are having a hard time getting used to it. I feel this is going to help next spring's team a lot. It is very hard to win indoors but I think this will enable us to have another fine spring season."

North was unbeaten last spring in the Greater Boston League.

Hank Conroy, Ken Coleman Sons '71 Norwich Keys

Quincy Football Coach Hank Conroy and Ken Coleman, WHDH sports director and a former North Quincy resident, will have considerable interest in next fall's Norwich University football squad.

Ken's son, Casey, who had a great freshman season this fall, right now ranks as the number one contender for the varsity quarterback job in 1971.

Conroy, who a year ago had a fine freshman season, did an outstanding job for this year's varsity, which had a 7-1 record, the best in 30 years, losing only a last minute 7-3 decision to King's Point in its opener, then breezing to seven wins in a row.

Mark kicked 17 extra points in 21 tries, tied a school record of nine in a row at the start of the season and kicked three field goals, including a 43-yarder against Bates that set a Norwich record.

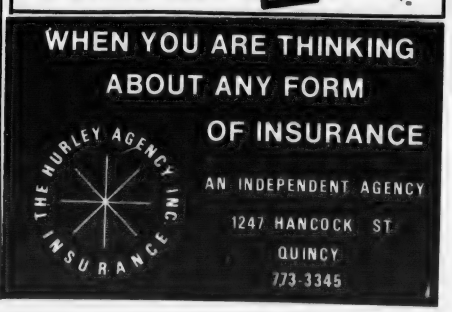
Conroy scored the team's first and last points of the season. He kicked a field goal in the opener which gave it a 3-0 lead which it held until the late minutes.

He then scored his only touchdown on a beautiful 35-yard run and kicked the final point in a 40-7 romp over Worcester Polytech in the finale.

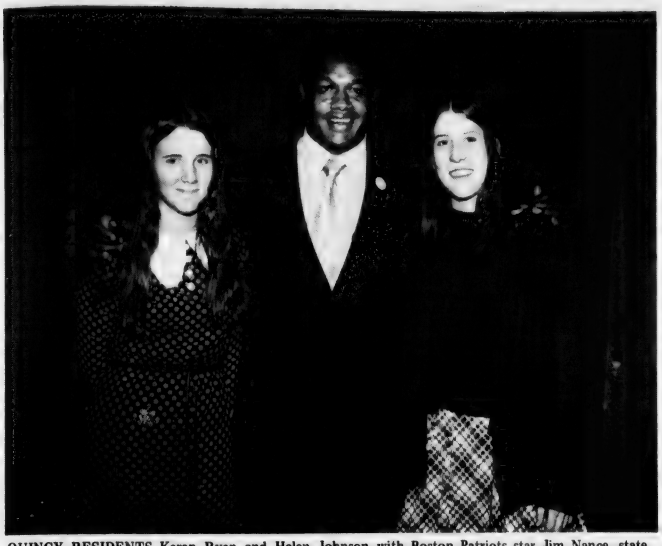
Used as a substitute halfback in four games, he averaged 6.6 yards a carry with 66 yards in 10 tries, culminated by the touchdown.

Coleman did a terrific job as the freshman quarterback. The frosh played only three games. In the first they were bombed by St. Lawrence, 51-7, with Casey throwing a 12-yard pass for the touchdown.

In a 28-18 win over Vermont, he threw two touchdown passes and scored himself from the three.



In a 13-0 win over Dartmouth, Casey fired a touchdown pass and scored the other himself from the four.



Neither boy is big. Conroy is 5-8 and 165 pounds, while Coleman is also only 5-8, which could hurt him a bit as a college quarterback.

"If Casey were six feet tall instead of only 5-8, he would really be something special," said George Turner, Norwich's sports information director. "He is very cool and can throw well. He is definitely the top candidate for varsity quarterback next year."

QUINCY RESIDENTS Karen Ryan and Helen Johnson with Boston Patriots star Jim Nance, state chairman, at kickoff party to launch "Save Your Gum Wrappers" campaign for UNICEF, sponsored in conjunction with Clark Gum Co., which will contribute two and a half cents to UNICEF for every one of its outer gum pack wrappers returned to the company by Dec. 31.

North Bows To Revere

Quincy Icemen Hot

Quincy's hockey team continued to roll along at the top of the Greater Boston League with a 3-0 record [tied with Revere] but faced a tough test yesterday against Malden.

Monday at the Weymouth Skating Club the Presidents face Revere in the big one.

Meanwhile, North Quincy hoped to rebound from its first bad beating of the year when it played Medford yesterday and Monday night at 7:30 meets Somerville in the opener at Weymouth.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy sextet presented a brilliant defense Monday in blanking Somerville, 3-0. Goalie Artie Boyle didn't have a save until the final period.

Quincy scored twice in the opening period and again in the third period to remain unbeaten.

The Presidents' goals were scored by Dom Burke and Bob Cattaneo in the opening period and Al Colby in the finale. Assists went to Colby, Steve Bergonzi, Cattaneo and Burke.

North, following a heartbreaking 3-2 loss to Quincy [after taking a 2-0 lead] and a 3-0 win over Chelsea, couldn't keep up with the fast-skating Revere team which scored twice in every period to wallop the Raiders, 6-0.

The games scheduled for De c. 23 at Weymouth [Quincy vs Chelsea and North vs Everett] were postponed by the snow and will be rescheduled.

North Gym Team Looks Strong

North Quincy has another strong gymnastics team this year and Coach George Golding feels his Raiders will have a good season in the Suburban League.

North will go to Norwood Monday for a non-league meet and will open its league season on Jan. 19 against Arlington at North Quincy.

The Raiders' co-captains are George Bourikas and Lee Davis. Other seniors are Gary Calhoun, Mike Jacques, Steve Lane, Bill Morgan, Paul O'Connell and Gerard Veronneau.

Juniors are Mark Chartier, Bob Doherty, John McGilvary, Jack Monti, Kent LaFleur, Domenic Strazzula, Gary Veronneau, George Winters and Walter Collins.

Promising sophomores are Peter Barbadoro, Rick Bertoni, Paul Bimmler, Bill Chaggaris, Bob Meehan, Dave Merrill, Bob Sheridan, Paul Wilson and Rick Golden.

Golding has some fine looking freshmen, John Faherty, Neil McGilvary, Bob Palmer and John Sweeney.

"We have a fine looking group and I think we should do all right in our league," the veteran coach said. "North has always been represented by fine teams and the interest is very high here."

ENC To Welcome Needed Height

Eastern Nazarene College's basketball team broke up for the holiday vacation with a 5-3 record and a definite height disadvantage worked against the Crusaders.

When the schedule resumes Jan. 8 against Husson, Coach Jim Smith may have a good deal of extra height in the lineup.

"We plan to have a lot more height during the second semester," Smith said. Jeff Davidson, a 6-5, 220-pound transfer student from Olivet Nazarene College, could not play during the first semester due to NAIA transfer rules but he will be ready for Husson. He should help our rebounding.

"Another who might be playing for us is Rick Reyenger, a former Quincy High standout."

Reyenger graduated from Quincy in 1966 after sparking the Presidents to the Tech Tourney with an 18-4 record. At the time he was a teammate of ENC guard Paul Beston. Rick, who has spent the past four years in the Army, is scheduled to be discharged in March.

"We have given him a letter of acceptance which could result in an early release," Smith said. "If that goes through he could be ready to play against Husson." Rick has been working out with the Quincy High squad.

Reyenger stands 6-7 and weighs 220 and has been playing against top-flight Army competition for the past two years.

"If we get these two boys, we may have to change our style of play, especially on defense," the ENC coach said. "We have been using a man-to-man defense because we feel a small team has an advantage in a man-to-man. If we can play with some big men, we'd gladly put in a zone."

Smith, incidentally, would like to add a minor in physical education next year, a move which would help the school's athletic program.

"We are submitting a proposal to the Curriculum Committee for a minor concentration for the training of physical education teachers and coaches," he said.

Recreation Department Continues Christmas Vacation Schedule

A new program for elementary school girls eight years and older, and two additional schools for elementary boys' activities have been added to the Quincy Recreation Department's Christmas vacation schedule.

Today and Jan. 2 the recreation program for boys will be from 8 to 10 a.m., elementary; 10-12 a.m., junior high; 12-2 p.m. senior high.

Schools following this schedule are Atherton Hough, Atlantic Junior High, Beechwood Knoll, Broad Meadows Junior High, Central Junior High, Montclair, Quincy Point Junior High, Snug Harbor, Sterling Junior High and Wollaston School.

Today the new program for elementary school girls will continue from 2-4 p.m. at Atherton Hough, Beechwood Knoll, Snug Harbor and Wollaston; from 12 to 2 p.m. at Gridley Bryant, and from 3 to 5 p.m. at Quincy School.

The Fore River Club House will be open for girls today from 12 to 2 p.m.

The boy's elementary recreation program continues today at Adams School from 2 to 4 p.m., and Fore River Club House, 9 to 12 a.m.

A ceramics program will continue today and Jan. 2; at Quincy and Gridley Bryant Schools on Jan. 2. Girls participate from 8 to 10 a.m. and boys from 10 to 12 a.m.

Squirts Blast Hull, 14-2

The All Star Squirts of the Quincy Youth Hockey League rolled up a 14-2 score against the Hull Youth All Stars in Saturday's game at the Neponset MDC Rink.

Jim Triglia started the lopsided score for Quincy. Mark Assad had three goals on the third line, with Brian Bertoni getting three on the first line. Bobby Hayes and Mike Furey scored two goals each, while Doug Lewis, John Kelley, John Norton and John Yaxter had one each to their credit. John Pascarelli, unassisted, scored Hull's two goals.

Goal tenders were Jim McHugh and Dean Prescott. Jerry Cooney and Frank Furey were coaches.

Quincy now sports a 3-1 record, beaten only by Weymouth, 4-1.

On Jan. 3 the Quincy Squirts face the Braintree Youth Hockey Squirts at 5:15 p.m. at the MDC Olin Rink in Milton.

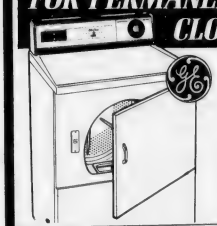
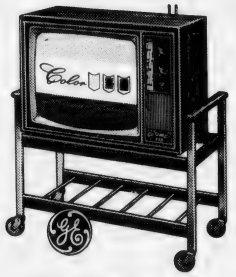
Pro Football Scouts Still Like Mike Jordan



Pro football scouts are still interested in Quincy's Mike Jordan, even though he was forced to play out of position this fall for Holy Cross.

As a sophomore two years ago Jordan, former Quincy High standout, was named the Crusaders' outstanding defensive back. He was off to a good start in 1970 in this position when the Crusaders' schedule was wiped out after two games due to a hepititis outbreak.

This year Jordan, the Holy Cross co-captain, was switched to a linebacker because of injuries and inexperience.



Among the pro teams interested in the 6-2, 200-pounder are San Francisco 49'ers, Pittsburg Steelers and Dallas Cowboys.

Voc-Tech May Help Develop Evaluation Center

Quincy Vocational-Technical School department heads met recently with Dr. William Conroy, director of the Research Coordinating unit for the Occupational Division to consider participation in the development of an Evaluation Service Center.

A number of New York and Massachusetts schools have agreed to take part in a series of studies to determine specific educational objectives and the success achieved in reaching these goals.

An Evaluation Service Center would offer an information service to all participating.

Spend Holiday With Family, 'Not Us',

Funeral Home Free Coffee Goal

The Keohane Funeral Home is offering free coffee to motorists and pedestrians New Year's Eve in hope "that everybody can spend New Year's Day with their family instead of with us."

Edward J. Keohane announces that the funeral home will furnish free coffee to all from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Mug 'N Muffin, 31 Beale St., Wollaston. All you have to do is drop in.

Keohane explained:

"New Year's Eve has been one of the more dangerous holidays with highway accidents. We are hoping to minimize this problem by offering free coffee to everyone that needs it.

"This program will be quite effective because of the nature of our service. By doing this, we hope that everybody can spend New Year's Day with their family and not with us."

David Nankin Elected

Larry Frank A.Z.A. President

David Nankin has been elected president of Larry Frank A.Z.A., a Jewish boys' youth group which meets at the Jewish Community Center.

He succeeds Barry Levine, who was elected vice-president. Other officers are Steven Levine, secretary; Stephen Winerip, treasurer; Jan Rich, newspaper editor; Dean Solomon, sergeant-at-arms; David Rosen, pledgemaster; Joel Greenwald, assistant secretary; Richard Grossman, assistant newpaper editor; Scott Bacherman, assistant sergeant-at-arms; and Ralph Rudner, chaplain.

Installation ceremonies will be held at the next chapter meeting.

COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF QUINCY

A new name for an old established Association

COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF QUINCY

To our friends – present and future:

As of the 2nd of January, 1971, the Association known for so many years as "Wollaston Federal" has a new name. We're not leaving our old friends nor our old location, but we are spreading our wings. We've planned quite an expansion program so that we can do more effectively what we've been trying to do in the past – that is – to serve you.

In the last few months many new savings programs and services have been initiated. More are being designed.

To help us help you, we are now establishing branches, with our first branch expected to open in the spring of 1971.

We're excited because we believe in the future. We know we can serve you even better without losing the friendly, personal touch, which we are confident is as essential as integrity.

Come in and see us. The name is new, but the welcome will never change.

Cordially,

PHILIP J. LAWRENCE
President
